If your child is born today — The little ball of fire born today will soon feel that every effort should bring an immediate reward. Teach your progeny early that recompense is commensurate with service rendered and that to achieve big things, one must start in a small way, and that time must be given it to reach fruition. Once this is understood, there will be a fine and successful citizen in this chart.

NEW DISCOVERY REVEALED

It isn't a new discovery that everybody needs cash at Christmas but you may have discovered there are many months after the winter lines, tonics and larger Christmas Gifts that you want, and cannot pay for now.

Canadian Tire's new discovery is the deferred budget plan — Buy Now — Pay Later — NO MONTHLY PAYMENT UNTIL JAN. 15th, 1957. That's right you buy now and pay after Christmas. Even if you don't have an account with us, you can take advantage of the early Christmas planning and save money to spend at Christmas time. And there are no extra carrying charges.

Canada Will Remember Dead Of 2 World Wars on Tuesday

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Canada will remember her dead of two world wars Tuesday with ceremonies across the nation.

Almost every community—city, town or village—will hold wreath-placing ceremonies, religious services or memorial parades. In many places Remembrance Day will be observed as a holiday.

In Newfoundland, Nova Scotia and Prince Edward Island stores and offices will be closed and services held in many communities.

VETERANS TO PARADE

Lieutenant - Governor E. C. Plow will review a parade of 500 veterans at Halifax. It will be attended by Premier Stanfield and the mayor of the city, Charles Vaughan.

Hog Producers Concede Packers Minor Points

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario Hog Producers' Marketing Board has made minor concessions to meat packers in closed meetings with Agriculture Minister Goodfellow but the proposal for auction sales is meeting stiff resistance, it was reported officially Friday.

The hog board is understood to be opposed to auctions because they would lead to a reduction in the number of buyers.

BULLETINS FROM BIRDLAND

By WINIFRED WILSON

REASON OR INSTINCT

Birds are as much of a puzzle to scientists as they are to the ordinary birdwatcher. They tell us that nest building, feeding t h e young, and migrating are all acts of instinct. Before a year old the oriole knows how to construct a hanging basket, the robin carries worms to stuff down the nestlings' throats, and the swallow finds its way to Argentina. Ducklings need not be taught how to swim nor chimney swifts how to fly, and no lessons in how to get over the ground are required by any land bird. A young cowbird which has never seen its parents walks like its ancestors even when brought up by foster parents that hop.

All this comes under the heading "inherited behavior"; but what about behavior in unexpected situations? Our feeding t r a y supplies ample proof that birds can learn, and that individuals differ greatly in their ability.

A song sparrow was the disturbing element on our feeding tray last summer; he was never happy until he had chased off every other bird, flying at them with open bill, and if he caught them biting so that they squealed. But some used their brains. A female Baltimo oriole managed to evade him, and when chased off one end flew around and popped on at the other end long enough to grab a crumb before she was discovered.

White-throated sparrows very fond of rolled oats, and so the scrapings of our porridge pot are always put on little slabs of rough bark, from which the birds can easily get at the most kinds of food. But in h o sun the porridge hardens to the bark and they have great trouble picking it up, though they seem to greatly enjoy tackling it. Violets take from one direction push the porridge plate along until it eventually goes right over the rim of the tray.

Bird brains are able to learn that if they feed from the other side of the plate for a while it will get pushed back in place once more, and no fatality will occur. A few said the plate down with a foot while feeding. One young white-throat used this method when he had been able to feed himself only a few days, though neither of his parents had b e e n smart enough to keep the plate from travelling around the tray.

Biologists insist that birds be have by instinct, and assure us that their brains are extremely small. However small though, they are wonderful, and some of these brains are able to think things out. Yes, scientists are puzzled.

THE GOLDEN YEARS

Retiree Says Retirement Simply Matter of Breaking Out of Trap

By THOMAS COLLIS

"Retirement," says William G. Whitmore, "is simply a matter of breaking out of a trap. . . ."

Mr. Whitmore was retired from a retail merchandising job in 1956, and spent the next six months trying to write poetry and sell it. He made exactly $2.50, and decided that was enough of that.

"The trap," he explains, "is a trap of three parts.

"The first part, of course, is financial. For 40-odd years as you climb up in the world y o u steadily have more income to satisfy your appetites. Thicker steaks, finer clothes, better autos come almost as the years do.

"Finally, at age 65, the income is at its peak. And all your tastes and habits are sitting snugly on the sofa beside it. Retirement snatches the salary away, leaves you with the expensive habits, and gives you a pension. Which is about the same as taking you on a snipe hunt. . . .

"Mr. Whitmore says a crash program is the best way to break this part of the trap. He figured his total retirement income would be $222 a month, so he and his wife before retirement he and his wife abruptly cut their living costs to $200 a month (saving $25 for emergencies). They had $7,100 equity in their house and owed $11,000 on the mortgage. They sold it, putting the $7,100 in a savings and loan corporation for 3½ per cent, and rented a $70-a-month apartment.

CUT DOW SLOWLY

You cut down to pension living like you stop smoking, Mr. Whitmore thinks. You do it. But you do it six months early in case you develop the hands and have to change signals.

"The second part of the trap," Mr. Whitmore continues, "is psychical. A body that's been in the groove of a workday for 40 years won't stop without stripping gears. Somewhere, it's that simple."

He says you squirm out of this part of the trap. You tell your savvy about the company to make deals with the boss. Mr. Whitmore couldn't and thus took leaves of absence to condition himself to idleness. So he made a deal. His off-days were Sunday and Monday. He agrees to work five hours extra every Wednesday (when the store remained open until 10 P. M., and nobody wanted to work) in exchange for Tuesday off. This gave him three days off in a row, and the third day, he says, is when you really start getting the impact of freedom.

He began taking coffee breaks, and on these and on his lunch hour always went out of the store for a walk. He began volunteering for any special job that came up, so long as it would take him out of the routine of his eight-hour day.

"Now for the third part of the trap, which is strictly psychological," he says.

MENTAL CAGE

"Men, particularly, get themselves into an awful mental cage on their jobs. They are supposed to make money, supposed to be important, supposed to succeed. And indeed they are supposed to. That's all they've been taught since they were 12 years old. Retirement takes away the ways, the means, but doesn't take away the urge.

"So you get your pension, and you still try to look well, do well, be well. But you can't. That's wherewithal is gone.

"It would be all right to remain in that rut of the trap, Mr. Whitmore thinks, provided it was worth staying in. He doubts that it is. "I never saw a man in business who was trying to maintain a position, and was happy with his results. Or a man who was trying to make money and was happy with his results. You never did either!

"I never knew a man who was successful retiree best in for, like painting, fishing and golf, who was very happy either. . . ."

So Mr. Whitmore tried poetry, which he thinks the Rotary would have found pretty funny. It did not think of that trap. He also tried investing $400 in a friend's chicken farm in a real estate deal he (Whitmore) would peddle eggs to his former colleagues at 1 p. m. store. He got $250 of the $600 back and called that off.

He's now managing a bowling alley — a job he thought would be fun and which he got before he applied for it at nine different places. He makes $50 a week and salary plus a commission that he thinks will average over $100 a week this winter. And if old friends think "Old Whit" has slipped, Mr. Whitmore thinks he will just let them think it.

Hussein Forced Back To Jordan By Nasser's Jets

Private Plane Attacked As He Refuses to Land

TEL AVIV (Reuters) — King Hussein of Jordan today accused two Syrian MiG jet fighters of trying to shoot him down as he flew his private plane over Syria on his way to a vacation in Europe.

The 33-year-old monarch fled back to Jordan without suffering injury "through a miracle of God," he said in a broadcast from Amman that was monitored here.

Hussein returned to Amman 2½ hours after leaving for his planned three - week "convalescent leave" in Switzerland.

He said the two MiGs dived six times at his plane with their guns firing. He also claimed they pursued him over the border deep into Jordanian territory.

Hussein told his people he has cancelled his visit to Europe. He said his government would take the necessary steps to reply to the attack on his aircraft.

All details of the attack were given to United Nations Envoy Pierre Spinelli, the broadcast-day morning for "an important announcement affecting the fu-ture" Jordan.

TRIED FORCE LANDING

The Associated Press reported from London that the radio announcement said attacking jets attempted to force the king's plane to land in Damascus.

(The pilot then turned the plane back toward certain death. It "was treacherously attacked six times" before it crossed the border, the Jordanian announcer said.)

The radio also reported the Jordanian cabinet was meeting today in connection with the proclamation of a national holiday on Tuesday. Schools and stores will be closed for the day.

Hussein was travelling in his private twin-engined plane. The Arab News Agency, (in a report received in Beirut, Lebanon, said Hussein was at the controls when Syrian jet fighters "ordered his plane to land at Damascus airport." The agency said Hussein ignored the order to land and flew straight back to Amman.

Hussein said in his broadcast that he was escorted part of the way by Arab Republic jet fighters fired

Cigaret Causes Bear to Sneeze, It Proves Fatal

Under ordinary circumstances watching on a deer runway can be rather unexciting job but it can have its exciting moments as vouched for by one Belleville district hunter.

The hunter, whose name was not learned, had settled down on the deer runway for what he expected might be a long wait.

He had lighted his cigaret and was taking a few preliminary puffs when suddenly he was startled by a sneeze directly behind him.

He turned around and nearly fell over with surprise as a big black bear lowered over him, startled on his hind legs. Apparently the cigaret smoke had irritated the bear's sensitive and made him sneeze.

A couple of shots from the hunter's high powered rifle turned the bear into bear steaks.

Mrs. Evelyn Dick Freed on Parole From Prison

KINGSTON (CP) — Mrs. Evelyn Dick, sentenced to life imprisonment 13 years ago in the death of an infant child, was free today on a ticket of leave from the Prison for Women here.

Mrs. Dick was granted the ticket last Thursday.

Warden Walter F. Johnstone revealed today that the remission service in Ottawa granted the 38 - year - old former Hamilton beauty the ticket of leave but declined to say where Mrs. Dick was going. It was learned unofficially that her destination was London, Ont.

Mrs. Dick was the central figure in one of the most sensational double murder trials in Canadian crime annals. She was accused along with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Donald MacLean, and William Bebonis, Hamilton athlete, with the slaying of her husband John Dick, and the killing of her baby Peter David White MacLean.

Mrs. Dick was tried separately and found guilty of murder in the death of her husband and sentenced to be hanged on Feb. 7, 1947. She successfully appealed the sentence but failed in an appeal against the life sentence for the manslaughter of her child, one of three illegitimate children she gave birth to. The other three persons were never convicted in either killing.

Mrs. Dick arrived at the Prison for Women early in 1947 and began her life term which ended after 11 years and four months. During the time she was in prison no official news was received of her conduct but it was apparent that she was a model prisoner.

Wife: "Well, it sure cured you."

Calgary Couple Held for Murder Of Gambler

CALGARY (CP) — A Calgary youth and his 24-year-old woman companion have been charged with murder in the bludgeon-slaying of Clyde (Jack) Baxter, 65, described by police as a professional gambler.

Scheduled to appear in court today were Ronald Barry Dixon, 19, and Winnifred Paula Devlin of Calgary. They were arrested shortly after Baxter's body was found Saturday night in a luxury-type apartment block.

Police were called to the apartment and discovered Baxter's body in his suite. The address of several of the had here. He also owned a house in the fashionable Rosedale district on Crescent Road. Baxter had a wife and son living in the city.

Tenants told police Miss Devlin apparently had been beaten by someone before they saw her Saturday night in the apartment block where Baxter's body was found. They said she was subsequently beaten with blood.

The apartment house owner told police he rented the suite about three weeks ago. Born in Brooklyn, N.S., Baxter came to Calgary in 1925 after flitting lived for a few years at Medicine Hat, Alta. He later, moved to the United States where he spent 15 years. He returned here in 1951.

Warn Sickness, Death May Follow Indulgence in Bridie Murphy Game

LONDON (Reuters)—A "Bridie Murphy" craze beginning to sweep Britain, the tabloid London Daily Sketch says.

The Sketch, which estimated there are 4,000 hypnotists in Britain today, is indulging in the craze, warns that unless it is "stopped now . . . sickness and possibly death" will follow.

The "game," in which subjects under hypnosis reveal exciting lives in "previous incarnations," could spawn a dangerous number of split personalities, a psychiatrist queried by The Sketch claims.

The writer of the article describes a recent London Bridie Murphy party he attended at which:

1. A matronly mother described her exciting life as the beautiful mistress of a pre-revolutionary French aristocrat;

2. A typist vividly graphically described her experiences as a Roman belle at the mercy of Yankee troops during the American Civil War;

3. A middle-aged man spoke of his experiences as a Roman centurion.

The craze got its name from a best-seller about an American woman who told under hypnosis of a previous life as Bridie Murphy...

Railway Unions Will Likely Call Strike Around Dec. 8-10

OTTAWA (CP)—The non-operating railway unions likely will call a strike on major railways for between Dec. 8-10, but there is a strong probability that the biggest of Canadian labor disputes will be settled before the deadline date.

Much depends on whether the federal cabinet will intervene with a freight rate increase which the railways are expected to get from the board of transport commissioners before the strike is due to start.

The union have agreed to settle on the basis of a federal conciliation board's majority report averaging out to about 14 cents an hour. The railways put off a decision on whether to accept the report while they press for higher freight rates.

Government informants say the cabinet almost certainly will not kill this request for a 19-per-cent

Faint Distress Call Heard As Flying Boat Down at Sea

LISBON (AP)—A U.S. navy search plane today reported picking up a distress signal off Cape St. Vincent where a transport-type flying boat is missing with 36 persons on board.

Lieut. George Beaver, pilot of a Neptune rescue plane reported the signal but said it was too faint and garbled that he could not make it out. He could hear only six letters.

He sighted oil in the area but long low waves over the ocean disclosed nothing more—no sign of wreckage of life rafts.

The Portuguese liner Vera Cruz, with American officials aboard reported the sea was rough in the area this morning with a 22-knot northeast wind blowing.

The Portuguese director of civil aviation, Wilco Vieira, said in a statement early today that "although the most confidential information is being spread . . . all that is known is that . . . (the plane) announced it was going to make an emergency landing."

The plane is believed to have gone down about 180 miles west of Cape St. Vincent, at the southern end of Portugal. It was on a flight from Lisbon to Funchal, a fashionable international resort in the Madeira Islands of the north west shoulder of Africa.

The head of Airtop, Condr. Cecil Ferreira, said the position given in the distress call had been merely a calculated one.

Six of the passengers were Americans. The others were listed as seven Germans, five Britons, three Belgians, two Frenchmen and seven Portuguese. The pilot and co-pilot were British and the other crew members were Portuguese.

A report from a KLM pilot that was in the area said at least six feet high cast doubt on a report that the Portuguese flying boat was trying to taxi to shore on one engine.

The U.S. Embassy said an American search plane reported sighting the downed aircraft and was trying to guide it back by radio. There was no confirming report from other search planes or vessels.

The pilot, Capt. Jim Broadbent, set a solo flight record of five days four hours 21 minutes from Australia to England in 1938 that still stands.

RUSSIA OUTLINES ITS PRICE FOR WARNING SYSTEM

Nuclear Disarming Among Its Demands

GENEVA (AP) — Russia today demanded sweeping nuclear disarmament and elimination of foreign military bases as its price for accepting an international warning system against surprise attacks.

Vassili Kuznetsov, Russian deputy foreign minister, opened an East-West conference on the prevention of surprise attacks with a blood curdling description of American foreign policy.

He said the forces of "positions of strength and the brink of war" was mainly responsible for the growing fear of surprise attacks.

This year, he declared, could be eliminated only by complete nuclear disarmament, reduction of conventional arms stockpiles and military forces and abandonment of military bases on foreign territory.

EVENLY DIVIDED

The Western countries taking part are the United States, British Canada, France and Italy. The Soviet bloc group comprises Russia, Poland, Czechoslovakia, Romania and Albania.

The talks are expected to end in mid-December. They will report to the United Nations General Assembly. The two sides will use the three-nation negotiations on a nuclear test ban which began here Oct. 31, as the same interpreters and conference facilities. Delegation heads or experts will meet in the morning and the nuclear test negotiators in the afternoon.

The nuclear test ban talks have been deadlocked for a week as a result of Russia's insistence on a Western promise to stop nuclear weapon tests forever before setting up a control system to prevent violations.

An earlier conference of East-West experts here agreed it was possible to create a system that would detect most nuclear test blasts.

The five-week secret meeting was to study what is technically and whether an international warning system can be set up to prevent a Pearl Harbor-like assault by one great power on another.

The Western experts are not empowered to conduct disarmament negotiations or even discuss a possible future treaty for the prevention of surprise attacks. In the West's view, such a treaty may be negotiated later if the experts agree that a warning system is technically feasible.

Hold Farmhand For Murder

PORT BURWELL (CP) — Norman Smith, a 32-year-old farm laborer, has been charged with murder following the shooting of his 65-year-old father Robert John Smith early Sunday.

The charge was laid in St. Thomas where the accused is in Elgin County jail. He was remanded until Thursday.

Provincial Police Const. Peter Gloin said police were called soon after midnight to the Smith farm where they found the victim dead on the kitchen floor of the two-storey frame house.

Need Spaceship Like Club Sandwich To Solve Double Radiation Trouble

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP)—Space travellers face double trouble from radiation, a leading U.S. scientist said today. They must survive two different bands of radiation, one of which recently discovered by U.S. explorer satellites.

But a spaceship designed like a club sandwich could take them safely through the dangerous Van Allen belts, Dr. Singer of University of Maryland said. The skin would be built up in layers, like a club sandwich, of various materials to block out the radiation.

Dr. Singer spoke at the opening of the second International symposium on the physics and medicine of the atmosphere and space. The three-day conference is sponsored by the Air Force School of Aviation Medicine here.

SPACE

Looking ahead to man's exploration of space, the conference will touch upon proposals for rescuing astronauts from marooned spaceships and planets.

Dr. Singer said there are probably two bands of radiation around the earth. Both are a hazard to humans aboard earth satellites or rockets to the moon or Mars.

One is a band of intense or hard radiation discovered by the Explorer satellites and also detected by Russian satellites. The band seems to be formed from protons and cosmic rays from outer space with storms of the earth's air, Dr. Singer said.

The other band is less intense, or soft radiation, streaming from the sun.

Both bands are trapped in the earth's magnetic field and constitute a human hazard. The radiation could be lethal over long periods of exposure. It could damage germ cells or the genes determining heredity.

At Least 20 Die As Apartments Swept By Flames

Stove With Valves Open Provides Clue to Cause

MONTREAL (CP)—Night club dancers Nina Page and Patsy Martin returned to their midtown apartment building after the late show, about two hours after midnight.

In the distance they saw the ominous orange light flickering above the city's murky skyline.

"If we had returned a half hour earlier, we probably would have been in bed when the fire broke out," said Miss Page.

They considered themselves lucky. They watched the flames sear through the Oldfield Apartments destroying everything they owned. At least 20 persons were believed to have died in the fire.

CONFUSION, TEARS

Confusion and tears prevailed in the pre-dawn Sunday darkness as people sought news of the victims. Many stood dazed in the cold drizzle watching the fire rip through the 47 small apartments that furnished rooms occupied by about 100 persons.

The flames swept through the building so fast that one fireman described it: "like herding on a lot of switches."

The blaze broke out about 1:45 a.m., and most residents were awakened by screams.

Many jumped from under second about two hours later, but it wasn't until eight hours later that firemen could go into the smouldering structure to begin the grim search for charred bodies.

THOUGHT IT WAS FIGHT

Mr. and Mrs. John Veard, occupants of a basement apartment, were in bed listening to the radio.

"All of a sudden, they said there was a fight outside. People running and screaming. We thought it was a fight until we smelled the fire.

"When we got outside the building was completely in flames," said Mrs. Veard, a former New Canadienne.

Marcelline Brzymowski said she heard "incredibly screaming" and saw her husband and Amber Kraljevich—all of whom arrived in Canada a year ago—escape.

Claude Guimond, 30, who lived next to the apartment block, said he hadn't located his room mate Gil Herbert.

Hussein Forced Back To Jordan By Nasser's Jets

Private Plane Attacked As He Refuses to Land

TEL AVIV (Reuters) — King Hussein of Jordan today accused two Syrian MiG jet fighters of trying to shoot him down as he flew his private plane over Syria on his way to a vacation in Europe.

The 33-year-old monarch fled back to Jordan without suffering injury "through a miracle of God," he said in a broadcast from Amman that was monitored here.

Hussein returned to Amman 2½ hours after leaving for his planned three - week "convalescent leave" in Switzerland.

He said the two MiGs dived six times at his plane with their guns firing. He also claimed they pursued him over the border deep into Jordanian territory.

Hussein told his people he has cancelled his visit to Europe. He said his government would take the necessary steps to reply to the attack on his aircraft.

All details of the attack were given to United Nations Envoy Pierre Spinelli, the broadcast-day morning for "an important announcement affecting the fu-ture" Jordan.

TRIED FORCE LANDING

The Associated Press reported from London that the radio announcement said attacking jets attempted to force the king's plane to land in Damascus.

(The pilot then turned the plane back toward certain death. It "was treacherously attacked six times" before it crossed the border, the Jordanian announcer said.)

The radio also reported the Jordanian cabinet was meeting today in connection with the proclamation of a national holiday on Tuesday. Schools and stores will be closed for the day.

Hussein was travelling in his private twin-engined plane. The Arab News Agency, (in a report received in Beirut, Lebanon, said Hussein was at the controls when Syrian jet fighters "ordered his plane to land at Damascus airport." The agency said Hussein ignored the order to land and flew straight back to Amman.

Hussein said in his broadcast that he was escorted part of the way by Arab Republic jet fighters fired

Cigaret Causes Bear to Sneeze, It Proves Fatal

Under ordinary circumstances watching on a deer runway can be rather unexciting job but it can have its exciting moments as vouched for by one Belleville district hunter.

The hunter, whose name was not learned, had settled down on the deer runway for what he expected might be a long wait.

He had lighted his cigaret and was taking a few preliminary puffs when suddenly he was startled by a sneeze directly behind him.

He turned around and nearly fell over with surprise as a big black bear lowered over him, startled on his hind legs. Apparently the cigaret smoke had irritated the bear's sensitive and made him sneeze.

A couple of shots from the hunter's high powered rifle turned the bear into bear steaks.

Mrs. Evelyn Dick Freed on Parole From Prison

KINGSTON (CP) — Mrs. Evelyn Dick, sentenced to life imprisonment 13 years ago in the death of an infant child, was free today on a ticket of leave from the Prison for Women here.

Mrs. Dick was granted the ticket last Thursday.

Warden Walter F. Johnstone revealed today that the remission service in Ottawa granted the 38 - year - old former Hamilton beauty the ticket of leave but declined to say where Mrs. Dick was going. It was learned unofficially that her destination was London, Ont.

Mrs. Dick was the central figure in one of the most sensational double murder trials in Canadian crime annals. She was accused along with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Donald MacLean, and William Bebonis, Hamilton athlete, with the slaying of her husband John Dick, and the killing of her baby Peter David White MacLean.

Mrs. Dick was tried separately and found guilty of murder in the death of her husband and sentenced to be hanged on Feb. 7, 1947. She successfully appealed the sentence but failed in an appeal against the life sentence for the manslaughter of her child, one of three illegitimate children she gave birth to. The other three persons were never convicted in either killing.

Mrs. Dick arrived at the Prison for Women early in 1947 and began her life term which ended after 11 years and four months. During the time she was in prison no official news was received of her conduct but it was apparent that she was a model prisoner.

Calgary Couple Held for Murder Of Gambler

CALGARY (CP) — A Calgary youth and his 24-year-old woman companion have been charged with murder in the bludgeon-slaying of Clyde (Jack) Baxter, 65, described by police as a professional gambler.

Scheduled to appear in court today were Ronald Barry Dixon, 19, and Winnifred Paula Devlin of Calgary. They were arrested shortly after Baxter's body was found Saturday night in a luxury-type apartment block.

Police were called to the apartment and discovered Baxter's body in his suite. The address of several of the had here. He also owned a house in the fashionable Rosedale district on Crescent Road. Baxter had a wife and son living in the city.

SEVERAL INJURIES

Police said Baxter suffered several injuries, including a possible skull fracture. They did not indicate what incident led to his death. Baxter was known to carry large amounts of money.

Tenants told police Miss Devlin apparently had been beaten by someone before they saw her Saturday night in the apartment block where Baxter's body was found. They said she was subsequently beaten with blood.

The apartment house owner told police he rented the suite about three weeks ago. Born in Brooklyn, N.S., Baxter came to Calgary in 1925 after flitting lived for a few years at Medicine Hat, Alta. He later, moved to the United States where he spent 15 years. He returned here in 1951.

Warn Sickness, Death May Follow Indulgence in Bridie Murphy Game

LONDON (Reuters)—A "Bridie Murphy" craze beginning to sweep Britain, the tabloid London Daily Sketch says.

The Sketch, which estimated there are 4,000 hypnotists in Britain today, is indulging in the craze, warns that unless it is "stopped now . . . sickness and possibly death" will follow.

The "game," in which subjects under hypnosis reveal exciting lives in "previous incarnations," could spawn a dangerous number of split personalities, a psychiatrist queried by The Sketch claims.

The writer of the article describes a recent London Bridie Murphy party he attended at which:

1. A matronly mother described her exciting life as the beautiful mistress of a pre-revolutionary French aristocrat;

2. A typist vividly graphically described her experiences as a Roman belle at the mercy of Yankee troops during the American Civil War;

3. A middle-aged man spoke of his experiences as a Roman centurion.

The craze got its name from a best-seller about an American woman who told under hypnosis of a previous life as Bridie Murphy...

Railway Unions Will Likely Call Strike Around Dec. 8-10

OTTAWA (CP)—The non-operating railway unions likely will call a strike on major railways for between Dec. 8-10, but there is a strong probability that the biggest of Canadian labor disputes will be settled before the deadline date.

Much depends on whether the federal cabinet will intervene with a freight rate increase which the railways are expected to get from the board of transport commissioners before the strike is due to start.

The union have agreed to settle on the basis of a federal conciliation board's majority report averaging out to about 14 cents an hour. The railways put off a decision on whether to accept the report while they press for higher freight rates.

Government informants say the cabinet almost certainly will not kill this request for a 19-per-cent

Faint Distress Call Heard As Flying Boat Down at Sea

LISBON (AP)—A U.S. navy search plane today reported picking up a distress signal off Cape St. Vincent where a transport-type flying boat is missing with 36 persons on board.

Lieut. George Beaver, pilot of a Neptune rescue plane reported the signal but said it was too faint and garbled that he could not make it out. He could hear only six letters.

He sighted oil in the area but long low waves over the ocean disclosed nothing more—no sign of wreckage of life rafts.

The Portuguese director of civil aviation, Wilco Vieira, said in a statement early today that "although the most confidential information is being spread . . . all that is known is that . . . (the plane) announced it was going to make an emergency landing."

The plane is believed to have gone down about 180 miles west of Cape St. Vincent, at the southern end of Portugal. It was on a flight from Lisbon to Funchal, a fashionable international resort in the Madeira Islands of the north west shoulder of Africa.

The head of Airtop, Condr. Cecil Ferreira, said the position given in the distress call had been merely a calculated one.

Six of the passengers were Americans. The others were listed as seven Germans, five Britons, three Belgians, two Frenchmen and seven Portuguese. The pilot and co-pilot were British and the other crew members were Portuguese.

A report from a KLM pilot that was in the area said at least six feet high cast doubt on a report that the Portuguese flying boat was trying to taxi to shore on one engine.

The U.S. Embassy said an American search plane reported sighting the downed aircraft and was trying to guide it back by radio. There was no confirming report from other search planes or vessels.

The pilot, Capt. Jim Broadbent, set a solo flight record of five days four hours 21 minutes from Australia to England in 1938 that still stands.

RUSSIA OUTLINES ITS PRICE FOR WARNING SYSTEM

Nuclear Disarming Among Its Demands

GENEVA (AP) — Russia today demanded sweeping nuclear disarmament and elimination of foreign military bases as its price for accepting an international warning system against surprise attacks.

Vassili Kuznetsov, Russian deputy foreign minister, opened an East-West conference on the prevention of surprise attacks with a blood curdling description of American foreign policy.

He said the forces of "positions of strength and the brink of war" was mainly responsible for the growing fear of surprise attacks.

This year, he declared, could be eliminated only by complete nuclear disarmament, reduction of conventional arms stockpiles and military forces and abandonment of military bases on foreign territory.

EVENLY DIVIDED

The Western countries taking part are the United States, British Canada, France and Italy. The Soviet bloc group comprises Russia, Poland, Czechoslovakia, Romania and Albania.

The talks are expected to end in mid-December. They will report to the United Nations General Assembly. The two sides will use the three-nation negotiations on a nuclear test ban which began here Oct. 31, as the same interpreters and conference facilities. Delegation heads or experts will meet in the morning and the nuclear test negotiators in the afternoon.

The nuclear test ban talks have been deadlocked for a week as a result of Russia's insistence on a Western promise to stop nuclear weapon tests forever before setting up a control system to prevent violations.

An earlier conference of East-West experts here agreed it was possible to create a system that would detect most nuclear test blasts.

The five-week secret meeting was to study what is technically and whether an international warning system can be set up to prevent a Pearl Harbor-like assault by one great power on another.

The Western experts are not empowered to conduct disarmament negotiations or even discuss a possible future treaty for the prevention of surprise attacks. In the West's view, such a treaty may be negotiated later if the experts agree that a warning system is technically feasible.

The charge was laid in St. Thomas where the accused is in Elgin County jail. He was remanded until Thursday.

Provincial Police Const. Peter Gloin said police were called soon after midnight to the Smith farm where they found the victim dead on the kitchen floor of the two-storey frame house.

Need Spaceship Like Club Sandwich To Solve Double Radiation Trouble

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP)—Space travellers face double trouble from radiation, a leading U.S. scientist said today. They must survive two different bands of radiation, one of which recently discovered by U.S. explorer satellites.

But a spaceship designed like a club sandwich could take them safely through the dangerous Van Allen belts, Dr. Singer of University of Maryland said. The skin would be built up in layers, like a club sandwich, of various materials to block out the radiation.

Dr. Singer spoke at the opening of the second International symposium on the physics and medicine of the atmosphere and space. The three-day conference is sponsored by the Air Force School of Aviation Medicine here.

SPACE

Looking ahead to man's exploration of space, the conference will touch upon proposals for rescuing astronauts from marooned spaceships and planets.

Dr. Singer said there are probably two bands of radiation around the earth. Both are a hazard to humans aboard earth satellites or rockets to the moon or Mars.

One is a band of intense or hard radiation discovered by the Explorer satellites and also detected by Russian satellites. The band seems to be formed from protons and cosmic rays from outer space with storms of the earth's air, Dr. Singer said.

The other band is less intense, or soft radiation, streaming from the sun.

Both bands are trapped in the earth's magnetic field and constitute a human hazard. The radiation could be lethal over long periods of exposure. It could damage germ cells or the genes determining heredity.

At Least 20 Die As Apartments Swept By Flames

Stove With Valves Open Provides Clue to Cause

MONTREAL (CP)—Night club dancers Nina Page and Patsy Martin returned to their midtown apartment building after the late show, about two hours after midnight.

In the distance they saw the ominous orange light flickering above the city's murky skyline.

"If we had returned a half hour earlier, we probably would have been in bed when the fire broke out," said Miss Page.

They considered themselves lucky. They watched the flames sear through the Oldfield Apartments destroying everything they owned. At least 20 persons were believed to have died in the fire.

CONFUSION, TEARS

Confusion and tears prevailed in the pre-dawn Sunday darkness as people sought news of the victims. Many stood dazed in the cold drizzle watching the fire rip through the 47 small apartments that furnished rooms occupied by about 100 persons.

HYDRO CHARGES IN ANNEXED AREA

Ratepayers in those sections of Thurlow and Sidney townships which will be annexed to Belleville on Jan. 1 have been anticipating an increase in their taxes. They have also known that this increase will be small, in part, by a decrease in the cost of Hydro. Both of these factors were discussed last week, when a meeting was convened by the Ratepayers' Associations of College Hill, Parkdale and South Thurlow and was addressed by Mr. L. Thompson, city assessor, and Mr. O. H. Scott, manager of the Belleville Public Utilities Commission.

The reasons why taxes are likely to be higher in an urban community than in its suburbs are many and varied. The reason why Hydro should be cheaper in Belleville than in its suburbs are not so self-apparent. Moreover, the extent of the difference in charges will surprise many. Figures quoted by Mr. Scott showed that residents in the annexed areas will find their Hydro bills more than halved.

Mr. Scott stated that consumers here pay one of the lowest rates in Canada. Efficient management by a city council is responsible, though, is obviously not the sole or even the major reason for such a wide difference in rates. There will certainly be no difference in the cost of generating the power which residents in the annexed areas will use, just because these areas have ceased to be part of the township and have become part of the city. It is possible that the Belleville Public Utilities Commission may be able to service these accounts at a lower cost than could the Ontario Hydro, but this difference in costs will certainly not be as large as the difference in rates. What, then, accounts for this big reduction in rates?

The answer is not difficult to discover. Residents of the annexed area have been paying part of the costs of providing services for Hydro users in the farming areas. There is nothing essentially unfair about this system — or if there is it is an inequality which is matched in the city and the elimination of which would be so involved that the accounting cost would be prohibitive. It is obvious that the Belleville Public Utilities Commission has to service a customer close to its substation than it does to provide the same service for a customer many blocks away. But all customers within the city pay the same rates. Similarly, in a rural Hydro district, the costs of transmission and servicing are added to the costs of power and there is no difference in charges between the built-up areas and farming districts.

One point, though, strikes us. Rural Hydro-servicing costs, per customer, must have been decreased considerably over the past decade or so by the vast expansion in these services. However, many Ontario cities and towns are annexing suburbs, resulting in the rural Hydro system shrinking over to local commissions a large number of customers. This will inevitably tend to increase the per capita cost of servicing those customers who remain in rural Hydro areas.

We are not suggesting that there is anything unjust about this development, much less than there is any practical way to avoid it. We do think, though, it ought to be recognized that, in the provision of Hydro as with everything else, one man's meat is another man's poison. The servicing of suburban residents by the Belleville Public Utilities Commission will certainly not reduce the cost of these services by anything like the amount that the rates will be reduced. It is obvious that, if somebody gains, somebody must lose. Those who lose may eventually be the Hydro customers remaining in the rural district. However, rural consumers have already been receiving assistance. The Ontario Government is subsidizing rural Hydro users by paying 50 per cent of the capital cost of construction of rural lines.

We see in a CP release that the other day a woman clad in a pair of spectacles boarded a metropolitan bus, rode for about a dozen blocks and then got off. The bus driver, on reporting the incident to the constabulary, stated that the woman paid no attention to his look of surprise. We surmise that the driver was paying attention to the woman's looks however.

The moral of the incident might be summed up in that short-sightedness is not always cured by spectacles.

How to Collect Folklore

BBC London Letter

"Folklore once dealt mainly with fantasy and custom, with myth and traditional belief. Today it deals with conditioned reflex sometimes present-day fact as well," said Folklore collector Michael J. Murphy in a talk he broadcast to listeners in Britain from the BBC's North of Ireland studios.

It was a younger enough, he said, to know the customs and beliefs about fairs and festivals, about the "cures" for warts, weddings and "wakes" the collector has to study the curiously complex economic and cultural sides of the subject as well, and the wireless was to provide material for scientific research.

It was about ten years ago that Mr. Murphy was sent to the Mourne Mountains as a collector of folklore for the Irish Folklore Commission, but the door into that "wonderful and hidden world" first opened for him, he said, as he listened to old men round the mountain sheepings and villages on foot or bicycle on his official collecting. Strangers opened not only the doors of their homes but their doors of their memories, as he talked and listened to the folk stories they told him. The words poured like ripe grain from the chutes of a threshing mill."

Over seven years he had collected some thirty volumes of material, and he compiled a diary which ran into four manuscript books 1,000 words each, he said; but sometimes even a paragraph had taken hours of talk to collect.

"I was getting more difficult each year to collect folk tales," Mr. Murphy said. Old people who used to tell us round the fireside died, and many younger people hesitated to tell them for fear of being classified as old-fashioned and backward. Some lovely old fireside tales and folk tales were now thought to be heartstones.

"Doctors watch the growing shadow of leisure that dwindling man's working hours with apprehension. They realize that the big problem in the future will be how to turn those leisure hours to good account.

"They name boredom today as the Number One cause of neurosis which is the forerunner of many ailments.

"Even today, criminologists insist that increased leisure hours are to blame for the rise in juvenile delinquency in Britain in general.

"These are problems that will have to be solved in the future. Meantime the treadmill of today's working week is creating other problems and may yet turn out to be a paradise unrecognized and unappreciated."

There are those who will claim our fears for the future of more leisure is resulting in the development of more hobbies. Indeed the hobbies are often a side-kick, the do-it-yourself trade, for instance, is booming as never before. Still m o r e horrible thought, as individuals turn from active sport to the collective hobbies won't they be accused by the unions of "moonlighting"? We merely ask.

If, as the ancient adage claims, the devil finds work for idle hands to do, he will be in his seventh element if demands for shorter hours and "guaranteed work-weeks" continue to be met.

Mind you, there is nothing wrong with a rational work-week, but one suspects that "What, precisely, is a reasonable, economically sound work-week?"

Not so many years ago 10 hours a day, six days a week was the general rule. Not so long before that again, it was 11 hours a day and six days a week. Unjust, unreasonable a n d unnecessary though that may seem, by our standards, it may not have been so at the time. Aside from that controversial point, the average work-week today is given as from 44 to 40 hours, though there are a good many who enjoy a 37½-hour week and a few still less. If there is pressure for a 35-hour week and the end is not yet in sight.

As mentioned recently by The Regina Leader-Post, economist, at least, has predicted that in less than 10 years people will be required to work as few as 30 hours a week, the theory, apparently being that we should share the work to prevent unemployment. But what, may we ask the economist and our contemporary Newspaper, is a mere 10 hours a week except unemployment?

Anyway, at first glance, concludes the Regina journal, a 30-hour week might appear to be a wonderful prospect. "But," it says, "a second glance has the experts worrying about the problem

"The happiest man in the world," my father used to instruct me, "is the one who c a n carry everything he owns in his pockets."

At the airport, waiting to board the transatlantic plane for Scotland, I met exactly that happy man. He was an old comrade of mine in the first war and he phoned me to come out and bid him goodbye. I had not laid eyes on him for forty years.

Except for the little aircraft bag they gave you to carry your razor and toilet kit in, he was without luggage. Everything he owned was in his pockets. One of them, I guess, was a letter of credit from the bank tran'sferring $50,000 from Canada to Scotland.

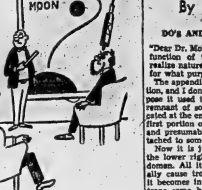
YOUNG FATHER'S DREAM

By EDGAR A. GUEST



Designed for the best of boys,
From the land of Joys and Toys
When my ship comes in from sailing here
I'll be waiting and you and me,
And she will wear satins and silks, my dear,
When my ship comes in from sea.

When my ship comes in, little boy, 'twill bring
All that you've set your heart on doing,
Everything known in Youngsterland
Will be yours when my ship comes in.

When my ship comes in, little boy, from afar
Its hold will be full of toys—
Trumpets and drums and mustangs and cars
When my ship comes in from sea.

Belleville's showing with regards to increase in population is much more favorable than that of many places which do more shouting. City Assessor J. Parker Tilton's report shows that during the year 1908 the assessment of the city increased by 293 and is now 9,808. This is without counting the assessment of the colleges. Were the students and the suburbs added to the residential vicinity of the city to be counted in the population, it would be 13,000 or possibly 13,000. Watch Belleville grow.

The Rev. G. W. Henderson of Peterborough is a guest at the Bleecker House of the parsonage and will be the special preacher at the services tomorrow.

Dean Farthing of Kingston, that he had submitted Mr. Beamish's name to his Lordship Bishop Mills for the rectorship of Kemptville which parish is now vacant. The stipend attached is $1500. per year and free residence. Dean Farthing stah stated today that he has no intention of accepting the offer as he desires to remain in Belleville.

Reds' Expense Accounts High

Winnipeg Tribune

The Kremlin is in a mild lather trying to keep tab on the accounts turned in by civil servants. It has recently charged that Russian bureaucrats are padding their expense accounts and padding their swindle sheets.

The paper charged that functionaries squandered more than 50 million roubles during a six month period on theatre tickets, travel, movies and football games.

Pravda complains that this sort of thing might be slapped down. But it is noteworthy that it did not suggest that expense accounts should be abolished.

Pay $10,000 For Degree

Financial Post

Any doubts about the need of more scholarships for deserving students should be dispelled by the new and generous higher rate of fees announced by Canadian universities this fall.

Indications are that they indicates an increase of 25 per cent to 50 per cent across the country, though the three largest, the universities of Montreal, Toronto and University of Columbia, with a total enrolment of close to 37,000 students, are holding to the previous level.

The old days when "a student could get by on enough in his holidays to cover his college outlay" are gone for ever. Higher and more enterprising earners, McGill which is on of the most economical universities, estimates that the average out-of-town student figure is put at $1,250 a year for board, lodging, books and personal expenses, plus tuition fees in arts courses of $780 for medicine.

That works out at not far short of $10,000 as the total cost of a degree in one of the longer courses. Even at the University of Montreal, where costs are among the lowest, it is estimated that the average student will spend over $8,000 in the seven years to reach the total for the four-year arts course, and $6,000 to $8,500 for the professional and pre-medicine courses.

And these outlays, it should be stressed, are only those paid by the student. In every case, those who can afford heavy expense borne by provincial and federal governments and by private endowment funds.

INCOME AND OUT-GO

What is your yearly income? Impertinent question! Yes, asked with any expectation of a reply. But it is expressed in terms of dollars and cents. What I am thinking of is the amount you learned to live on what y o u have and be satisfied if there is no expectation of improvement? In our prodigal western hemisphere we have learned to live completely to his income. Some years ago a man earning $1,000 was several hundred thousand dollars a year had to borrow to meet. This seems incredible, but when one realizes the num'er of anthropes and the huge family responsibilities he had, we can understand how he got well hap- pen. Just yesterday one of my friends said, "If anyone had told me that in my mid-sixties I would be spending more money on other people than I spend on myself, I would not have believed it possible." Yet an aged mother and a number of personal and domestic responsibilities have caused h i s income to shrink until just this way.

Fifty years ago anybody could live most comfortably on $3000 a year. A friend of mine is bachelor who died within the past decade lived practically all his life on less than $1000 a year and ends was happy in so doing.

money in order to make ends Ve give a long whistle when we see how far that. But it is well for us to remember that living does not depend on how much income we have but on how much we have learned to get along on — or without.

SUPERNATURAL FORMS WATCHING EARTH SAYS ROCKET EXPERT

In Frankfurt, Germany, rocket expert Hermann Oberth says the U.S. was working intensively on an electric space ship and that he believed a manned space vehicle will reach the moon in "around five years." Oberth, 64, the father of modern rocketry, also said he believes supernatural forms are watching the earth and have been doing so for a long time.

Marmora House Razed by Fire Saturday Noon

MARMORA (Special) — A 79-year-old widow and her two boarders were made homeless here Saturday when the Hubbell residence on McGill St. burned to the ground, with only a few articles of kitchen furniture being saved from the blaze.

Destroyed in the blaze, which started during the noon hour was the home of Mrs. Jennie Hubbell. A barbershop, operated by Frank Cole, who with his seven-year-old grandson Ole can, boarded with Mrs. Hubbell, occupied one room of the old frame residence.

The fire is believed to have started from an overheated wood stove in the barber shop which was left closed during the noon hour while Mr. Cole had lunch in another part of the house. When the blaze was discovered only a few articles of kitchen equipment could be saved. Costly furniture owned by Mrs. Hubbell, and $200 in cash owned by Mr. Cole, were lost.

The blaze was fought by the Marmora and Stirling fire departments under the direction of Fire Chief Gerald Vance, Belleville, co-ordinator for the mutual aid program of which Marmora is a part.

Fire loss, including household furnishings and personal possessions, was estimated at $12,000.

Firemen had difficulty in saving the nearby home of Basil McTaggart with men having to continually wet down the roof to keep it from igniting. The duplex residence of Harry Camplon also had to be watched closely.

Famous 21st. and Legion Attend Remembrance Service

COL. W. E. KIDD, MC., DD

"We must make our citizenship efforts commensurate with those made by Canadians in two world wars and Korea, Colonel the Rev. Canon W. E. Kidd, M.C., DD of Kingston, told a crowd at the parade held here on Sunday.

Colonel Kidd, spoke at a Remembrance Service in St. Thomas' Church attended by members of his former battalion the famous "Fighting 21st" of the CEF, World War One, those of the Canadian Legion Branch 99 of the city and a capacity congregation.

The service was in charge of Major the Rev. Canon A. S. McConnell, MBE, ED, rector of the church, and was marked by simple but impressive remembrance ceremonies.

One of the lessons was read by President Bill Heasman of the Canadian Legion. Captain Fred Hart of the 21st Battalion read the names of church members who paid the supreme sacrifice in World War One with Mr. A.A. Clarke a church warden reading the names of those who died in World War Two. Former station warrent officer John Silver, RCAF read the lines of Remembrance, "We Will not Forget Them," with standing before the flag-draped poppy-adorned honor-roll of the church.

Canon Kidd took as his text Moses, warning to the children of Israel, "Remember the olden days, consider the future generations."

"We must remember the old days and the sacrifices made by the men of the nation, also those of later generations who made the same sacrifice that the nation and the world should survive."

He said that not only should these men be remembered but those who were left behind, the mothers, wives and families who proven to keep up the morale and courage by efforts of their own heroic doing.

"In these days when the world is filled with stories of grim foreboding and threat, we should remember the olden days when God helped our forefathers and ourselves and found each and all courageous when the time came to battle for the right."

"We must believe earnestly on this Sunday of Remembrance how our ever expanding citizenship should be linked up with all that Remembrance Day stands for, for we must remember the days of old because they put in our hands the qualities that made two wars victorious," Canon Kidd said.

He said Canadians should make citizenship efforts commensurate with those great efforts in time of war, and in expanding emphasize Remembrance Day and what it stands for.

He paid tribute to his old "buddies" of the 21st Battalion, present and absent. "The comradeship and fellowship forged in the flame of war has lasted down through the years and given strength to our lives. We join hands with the younger generation of World War Two and Korea in holding before the country the best war stands for. We should try to infuse this same spirit of camaraderie into our new citizenship and thus make our country worthy of its past, present and future."

Mr. George Wardle sounded the "Last Post" and "Reveille" in a service that was both profound and impressive.

Y.M.C.A. Plans New Building To Start in 1961

At a recent meeting of the Y.M.C.A. board of directors, President Jack A. Ireland, received a unanimous vote to a motion for the following program:

That a site be chosen and Procured by September, 1959;

That a drive for funds be launched early in 1960;

That construction of a new Y.M.C.A. building commence in 1961.

This latter date will mark the anniversary of a half century of service given by the present downtown building to the youth of this city.

For some years now, it has been increasingly, obvious that facilities designed for the conditions of fifty years ago are unable to cope with the demands of the present. The board last September heard from Mr. George Ferman of the Building and Furnishing Service, National Council of Y.M.C.A.s, New York City, on his appraisal of the existing structure and suggestions for possible expansion. To obtain further professional guidance, a representative of the National Council's Finance Bureau has also been invited to come to Belleville as soon as possible.

These steps forward are planned with an eye to the next fifty years to ensure that the part played by the Y.M.C.A. will be in keeping with the future growth in size and population of Belleville.

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Leonore Crawford, music and art critic of the London, Ont., Free Press has been elected a vice-president of the Music Critics' Association.

Hillcrest Auto Wreckers' Shop, P.E. County Barn Destroyed

Despite the efforts of Belleville firemen a Hillcrest auto wreckers' shop and an Ameliasburg township barn were completely destroyed by fire over the weekend.

Fire loss estimated at $10,000 resulted at the Borden Lane Auto Wreckers when the shop burned, together with a stock of used parts and new and used tires.

Cause of the fire which occurred Saturday afternoon was said unknown.

Belleville firemen answered the alarm but owing to lack of water could do little to stop the progress of the flames. The only water available was that taken with them in the fire truck tank.

Electric wiring or a broken electric light bulb was believed the cause of the blaze which Sunday morning burned the large L-shaped barn of Cecil McFaul, south of Redmersville.

Destroyed in the blaze were 7,500 bales of hay and a quantity of grain.

Mr. McFaul was said to have just completed the morning chores before 10 o'clock when the fire started. He, his son, and hired man, were able to free livestock in the barn and save the animals from the fire. Only a small amount of insurance was said carried by the McFauls.

Firemen had no chance to save the barn, the blaze being well out of control before fire trucks from Belleville were able to make the ten-mile run.

NEW MEDICAL EXPENSE POLICY

Now Metropolitan Life announces a new Insurance policy — supplementing the Provincial Hospital Plan — It helps you pay bills, both in the hospital and at home, for:

- Semi-private or private room hospital accommodation
- Surgical expenses
- Maternity expenses
- Medical expenses such as physicians' charges, registered nurses' charges, and certain medical services and supplies

The cost of illness or injury in your family can be sizeable. Consider the cost today of items such as physicians' bills, surgeons' fees, special nurses — in hospital, at home, or both — special prescriptions, prosthetic appliances, and similar expenses.

Also, when a member of your family must be hospitalized, you may well require room accommodations more private than those offered.

And so, Metropolitan has designed a NEW POLICY to supplement the benefits available to you under the Provincial Hospital Plan.

It is available to you either as an individual or as a family head, including wife and children, at a cost within the average budget.

Now is the time to review your Medical Care coverage. See if it meets the needs of you and your family. Sound advice by an insurance expert can help tailor a plan suitable to those needs.

Your Metropolitan Representative is such a person. He has been carefully trained in the analysis of insurance needs — and he is interested in helping you get the most coverage for your money. Call him today through the local office below.

"World Peace" Theme of WA Meeting

The November meeting of the Front Road W.A. was held on Thursday afternoon in the church, opening with a prelude of music.

The devotional period was under the direction of Mrs. W. E. G. Dovey, the theme being "World of Peace." It stressed the world's problems of today and hoped that one and all would work to realize that great goal of victory, which is peace.

A prayer was read in the form of a poem on peace. The scripture lesson was then taken from Isaiah 61:4, and Micah 4:1-3. A small play on peace was read by Jean Ritchie, Mrs. Dovey and ended with a much enjoyed solo by Mrs. Dovey, accompanied with hymn 353, "In Christ There Is No East Or West."

Mrs. Hall, president of the W.A., took charge of the business period.

Plans were made for the W.A. rally which is being held in Front Road United Church on November 27th, Mrs. McMullen thanked Mr. and Mrs. Dovey for giving the devotional and asked Mr. Dovey if he would close the meeting. He responded with a prayer, followed by the benediction.

A social hour and delicious refreshments brought a very pleasant afternoon to a close.

Eskimo Women Face Problem Of Leisure Time

OTTAWA (CP)—The once hectic existence of the Eskimo woman is giving place to a life that includes leisure, says an officer of the northern affairs department's information branch.

Mrs. Irene Baird told a women's group here that with fairly modern homes and household equipment, women in the Arctic are beginning to face the problem of leisure time.

The Eskimo woman's place in the world is also changing, she said.

In the past, "life was so densely crowded up against the immediate moment that she had no time to feel idle, lonely, confused or supplemented."

The normal pattern of Eskimo life made each member of a family essential to each other. But schools, hospitals and organized communities had changed that pattern.

"Such periods of social change are harder on women than men. Men move out into the new ways because they must; they have the adventure of a wage earner."

Such changes had taken place in a very few years, she said.

The government was attempting to help the Eskimos to adapt to the new ways. In this time of rapid change, Mrs. Baird said, is a fortunate thing for Canada that our Eskimo fellow-citizens are people of goodwill, and not a source of smouldering grudges."

Couple Honored by Neighbors, Friends

On the evening of November 7th, a surprise shower in honor of Miss Elizabeth Smith and Mr. George Donaldson, whose wedding takes place on November 15th, was held at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Smith.

The shower was given by Mrs. Don Anderson. There were about 25 neighbors and friends present.

During the evening, euchre and bingo were played after which an overflowing basket of beautifully wrapped presents was presented to the bride and bridegroom-to-be.

Refreshments were served and a sociable hour was spent.

Tall, white standards of white Shasta chrysanthemums, pink gladioli, interspersed with ferns, formed a beautiful setting for the wedding ceremony uniting in the United Church at Point Anne, Ontario, when Glenda Ann Doxtator, of Point Anne, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Doxtator, became the bride of Maurice Harold Jeffery, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold W. White satin bows designated the guest pews.

Mrs. G. H. Rennie, of Belleville, presided at the console of the organ and accompanied the soloist, Mrs. C. P. Lind, of Belleville, in her rendition of "The Lord's Prayer," before the ceremony, and "At Dawning," during the signing of the register.

The radiant bride, given in marriage by her father, was charming in her floor-length bridal gown of antique white slipper satin, designed on Empire lines, having a fitted bodice with scalloped portrait neckline outlined with hand-cut organza flowers, and short, shoulder-length veil, complemented by matching elbow-length lily-pointed mitts. The fully pleated skirt, worn over several crinolines, was accentuated by side drapes, she wore a pillbox style headdress of fine petit point lace showered with ivory sequins and pearls with finger tip veil of embroidered white tulle illusion, and carried a white Bible crested with a mauve orchid surrounded by white stephanotis and fern, with trailing satin streamers knotted with lily-of-the-valley.

Mrs. Lola Doxtator, of Belleville, attended her sister-in-law as matron of honor, gowned in pink lee; Mrs. Betty Kingston, Belleville, sister of the bride; Miss Betty Jeffery, of Trenton, and Miss Jackie McMurter, also of Belleville, were bridesmaids. Miss Sheppard, of Point Anne, as flowergirl, was wearing a floor length in aqua marine with matching white feather headpiece, and matching aqua marine accessories. All carried white baby 'mums centered with pink roses.

Little five-year-old Deirdre Barlow, of Belleville, as flower girl, was wearing in her aqua marine frock with matching floral bandeau and carrying a tiny basket of blue, pink and white rosebuds.

Mr. Ronald Jeffery, of Trenton, attended his brother as groomsman, while Messrs. Gordon Flynn of Trenton; Douglas Doxtator of Point Anne, brother of the bride; Dr. J. S. Barlow of Belleville, and Ted Jeffery, brother of the bridegroom, also of Trenton,- ushered the guests. Six-year-old John Barlow was ring-bearer.

Following the ceremony the reception was held in Hotel Quinte club rooms for one hundred and thirty guests. The bride's table was daintily appointed with white damask, and centred with a three-tiered wedding cake, made and decorated by the bride's mother, with pink roses, topped by a miniature bride and bridegroom beneath an arch of lily-of-the-valley, and misted about the base with pink tulle and white roses. The bridal bouquets and tall pink candles in crystal holders, added a lovely nuptial accent.

The bride's mother, wearing a periwinkle blue gown of lace and crepe fashioned on princess lines, with dusty-rose hat and gloves, black accessories and corsage of cream roses, pink baby 'mums and adiantum fern, received, assisted in the receiving line by the bridegroom's mother, who was gowned in a willow green sheath of lace and crepe with side panels, winter white accessories and corsage of bronze and cream spoon, mingled with fern.

For the wedding trip through the Adirondack Mountains, the bride chose a French blue Shantung ensemble and other points in the United States, the bride chose a navy cinnamon-coated tweed suit with dark brown accessories, brown squirrel jacket and mauve or mild corsage.

Upon their return, the young couple will reside at Carrying Place Road, Trenton.

Guests attended from Belleville, Trenton, Moira, Picton, Cobourg, Oshawa, Toronto, Wellington, Bloomfield, Consecon, Cherry Valley and Point Anne.

Previous to her marriage the bride was entertained at several showers: a miscellaneous shower held at the home of Doctor and Mrs. J. S. Barlow; a cup and saucer shower at the home of Doctor and Mrs. Howard House; a miscellaneous shower at the home of Mrs. Allan Church Seemongul, all of Belleville; at a miscellaneous shower held by the Point Anne community, in Point Anne club rooms, and at a presentation of a wool blanket by the staff of the Entomology Laboratory where the bride is a technician.

The bridegroom was also honored at a turkey stag dinner held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Carr, when he was the recipient of a lounge chair.

The monthly reports were given, after which the president introduced the speaker, Mrs. A. Watson, president of the Prince Edward Deanery, who gave an interesting account of the Dominion Annual which was held at Christ Church, Deer Park, Toronto, which she had attended as delegate.

Mrs. S. E. Morton thanked the speaker.

Plans were completed for the Diocesan Board meeting to be held at St. Thomas' parish house on November 11 at 2.30 p.m. at which Miss Florence Smith, supervisor of girls' work, will be the special speaker. Plans were also completed for the November tea dinner for the Brotherhood of Anglican Churchmen.

A presentation was made, on behalf of the members, by Mrs. C. Coleman, to Mrs. D. G. Bennett, who has been the W.A. treasurer for the past seven years. Mrs. Brunton is leaving the city to reside in Barrie, Ontario.

Mrs. C. Coleman was elected to fill the office as treasurer.

Mrs. J. Watson closed the meeting after which tea was served by Mrs. Aiker and Mrs. Shirley.

Girls' Work Supervisor to Speak Here

Tuesday, besides being the Day of Remembrance, will be a special occasion for the members of the Woman's Auxiliary of the Anglican Church of Canada in the Quinte District, when the Diocesan Board of the W.A. will hold their monthly meeting in the Parish House of St. Thomas' Church.

Since this meeting is usually held in Kingston, this occasion is an opportunity for the members to see and meet the diocesan officers and to see them at work.

Miss Florence Lamb, the Dominion Supervisor of girls' work for the Anglican church will be the speaker.

Miss Lamb has made extended field trips in many parts of Canada and provided assistance and training for leaders of teenaged girls' groups in Anglican parishes in several dioceses, including Quebec and Fredericton as well last season.

In the summer of 1959, she will direct the Second Dominion Girls' Auxiliary Conference, to be held at Camp Fontiac near Kingston.

All those interested in work among the young people will have the opportunity of hearing Miss Lamb.

Woman Responsible for Design, Color in New Comet Jetliner

By SYLVIA HACK
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP) — When British Overseas Airways Corporation called in Gerry Schreiber to design the decor for their new Comet jetliner she got the chance of unfurbished fuselage of the aircraft.

"It was just like a prison cocridor" on that first look, she says.

Among her problems in designing comfort allied to elegance was the choice of atmosphere where many technicalities like weight, durability, or color changes at different levels.

Now, the once-drab frame is a combination of color, restful yet bright and not boring.

SUCCESSFUL DESIGNER

Mrs. Schreiber, an elegant 40-year-old who looks considerably younger, heads a team of 20 specialists in industrial design. She is probably the first woman ever to assume responsibility for the decor of an aircraft and her success can be measured in terms of the interest in her scheme as it is Britannias and DC-7s. Now Mrs. Schreiber is at work on the decor for the new Boeing 707.

Basically, her job is to design and decorate aircraft interiors is to break up the long, tubular shape of the fuselage by introducing various colors for different seating blocks.

In the Comet Mrs. Schreiber was responsible for the choice of color of all the different items, including crockery, catering equipment, curtains and fabrics, even the typography on the permanent magazine covers.

Her assistant in the course of her job, Mrs. Schreiber has called in Dorothy Annis to color the long-distance flights. She discovered red, khaki and mustard to be taboo. The first suggests danger and the last two encourage airsickness. "Not any strong colors become monotonous on long flights."

RESTFUL COLORS

For entering the Comet passengers are greeted by a sea-blue carpet, cream walls, restful tweed grey, oatmeal and aqua. The marine of the chairbacks, the bulkheads are wheat-yellow and the ceiling oyster beige. The curtains are designed in oatmeal tweed fabric and the head - rest covers are tangerine, cyclamen and lime.

Mrs. Schreiber was born in Vienna, studied interior and stage design in Paris, Florence and Berlin before coming to Britain in 1938. From designing interiors for wealthy people before the war, she designed camouflage netting utensils for the forces during the war, and afterwards became involved in industrial designing.

From her marble-topped desk in her Park Lane, Hyde Park, Mrs. Schreiber and her team of experts study blue prints and aircrafts to tea-cups. "Mass production interests me," she says, "I want to create luxurious conditions for everyone."

In the design of contemporary decor has a particular liking for antiques in the Victorian manner. "I like to combine the old with the new."

Her assistants are golf, gardening and helping out on her husband Sussex farm. "I enjoy sending the animals and even stack hay, sometimes."

Rules Laid Out For 'Perfect Boss' of Office

By EDNA USHER
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO (CP) — The perfect office boss is a paragon of virtue, according to Margaret Stuart, president of the Association of Administrative Assistants and Private Secretaries.

There is nothing personal in this, says Miss Stuart, who has been a secretary for 30 years, the association, which she heads is trying to produce perfect secretaries, and the office head naturally is an important factor.

Apart from the standards required of the secretary, there are a number of points required of the "perfect boss."

COMPETENT, COURTEOUS

He should be competent at his own job, she says.

He should listen sympathetically to complaints or suggestions.

He should be interested in people enough to be complimentary when his secretary wears a new dress, for instance.

And...he should be courteous, which includes dancing, with his secretary at least once at the office Christmas party, and giving her a box of candy at Christmas.

SKILLED WORKER

In return, the "perfect boss" should be able to expect from his secretary:

Competence in the technical skills of shorthand, typing, and filing.

A deep interest in the workings of her firm.

That she should be pleasant in the office but never bossy.

That she'll remember she represents her employer at all times, and will dress and behave accordingly.

And that she'll be ready to work overtime in an emergency without special pay, or praise.

GOOD REWARDS

It pays to be the perfect secretary, says Miss Stuart, and in future will pay even more.

"Employers are seeking skilled assistants to help their executive administrators, and they are ready to pay for them," she says.

"We also take up office work today should not regard it merely as a job to mark time in until they get married. If they take an interest in their work, study at night classes and take special courses it can be a satisfying career and if they marry a lucrative trade to return to in later life."

Melrose WMS Elects President, Vice-President

The regular monthly meeting of Melrose WMS was held November 5, at the home of Mrs. K. Embury, with 12 members present.

The president, Mrs. C. Bates, Sr., gave the call to worship. Mrs. S. Denville presided at the piano. The Scripture reading, Deut. 7:6-13 was read by Miss Margaret Bailey.

Mrs. Bates commented on the topic, "Are Our Strangers Enemies?" and discussed questions arising from it. Tribal relationship did not extend further than their own borders and the early Israelites thought of God as jealous and revengeful.

A business session was held next. The treasurer, Mrs. M. McLaren, reported that the Society and the Mission Band had raised $283 so far this year. The supply secretary, Mrs. R. MacFarlane, read a letter regarding needed supplies.

Officers for 1959 were elected. Mrs. J. Milligan was elected president and Mrs. C. Milligan first vice - president; the rest of the slate remaining the same as in 1958.

It was decided to hold the meetings in the evening after the new year. The tea and sale of work planned for December was postponed. Mrs. Wilmot Embury was elected superintendent of the Mission Band.

Mrs. J. Milligan, group leader, gave an account of the Caribbean area, the portion of the Study Book, "Concerns of a Continent" set for November. Columbus discovered one of these islands on his first voyage; Cuba is the largest island in the group. The West Indies have formed a Federation and are now a part of the British Commonwealth of Nations.

Mrs. Osborne read read an article on the Fred Victor Mission in Toronto.

The December meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. S. Denville.

At the conclusion of the program, the hostess served refreshments.

GOOD MANNERS

By Mrs. Beeckman

FRANCE'S MOTHER SHOULD WRITE TO FIANCEE

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My son works and lives in a large city quite a distance from here. He has just written me that he has become engaged to a charming girl there. I have not met his fiancee, but it so happens that two years ago I met her mother and father on a vacation. Should I write to the girl now, or after the engagement is announced? And should I also write to her parents? — N. Y.

It is most important that you get in touch with your son's fiancee at once to welcome her into your family. (Please don't wait until the engagement has been announced.) If you wish, you may telephone her, telling her how happy you are about the engagement, how happy and proud you are to welcome her into your family, tell her (if true) what delightful things your son has written you about her, and (if convenient) ask her to visit you. And yes, you should also write a separate letter to her parents, or a mother-to-mother letter to her mother (recalling of course your meeting) and include your friendly greetings to her husband.

GROOM SHOULD GIVE PRESENT TO HIS FATHER, HIS BEST MAN

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My fiance has invited his father to be best man at our wedding in December. My fiance is planning to give a bachelor dinner, which he will present his gifts to his attendants. He would like to know if he should also present a gift to his father. Should he?

— H. C.

Certainly he should give his father a present, as fine a present as he can afford, as a tribute to his best man, and as a souvenir of the great occasion. I suggest it should be something lasting, and if possible, something that can be married with his name or initials, the groom's name or initials and the date of the wedding.

LIGHTED CANDLES WELCOME GUESTS TO DINING ROOM

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

As their Wedding Anniversary present to my husband and me, my two kind and generous cousins gave us a lovely pair of crystal candles. They are (to beautiful want to begin to use them at once). When we have guests should I light the candles before I go to the living room to summon the guests or do I light them after the guests are seated? — Reader

Felicitations on your receiving such a lovely present. You should light the candles before your guests enter the dining room . . . the lighted candles then dramatically greet and welcome the guests.

The first Canadian Food Editors' Conference was held in Toronto recently, the theme being "New Trends in Food Communications". You do not have to scratch your head very hard to realize that yours truly was right at hand to learn more about foodiy communicating to you every day.

The feature dipsaeker was Dr. Albert Rose, Professor, School of Social Work, University of Toronto, Title—"Canada: the Design of Change." His speech was a masterpiece from my viewpoint and one of the nuggets I intend to remember and heed is: "There is a tendency to lose sight of the individuals and families who comprise the nation" . . . Increasing attention should be given to the intangibles in the standard of living as they affect Canadian family life and less attention to the tangible physical essentials of living standards."

My interpretation of this soul-searching advice is to care more whether you have a new car or TV and have better talk around the dining table and play more games with your children yourselves.

Miss Laura Pepper, Director, Consumer Test Kitchens, Department of Agriculture, Ottawa, lead a group discussion on "Why do recipes fail sometimes?". Flours differ, measuring units differ in Canada and the United States, pan sizes are not constant, even temperatures are not accurate, etc.

Mary-Etta MacPherson, former editor, Chatelaine Magazine and Canadian Home Journal, now Director of Women's Interest of the J. Walter Thompson Co. Ltd. of Toronto, led a group discussion on "What makes a Food Presentation Slick?"—pictures, colored and black and white, and genuine human interest, etc.

I was a discussion group leader, the subject "What Does Your Public Want?". I was in clover because you sure let me know what you want. Some of your questions that are posed were answered for me by other food editors present.

It was an exhilarating experience to be buddying with your colleagues, every one of whom was willing and eager to swap ideas and give every manner of help — including recipes that competing research teams have worked on. Out of just such unselfish attitudes grow great results and benefits for a fast growing nation.

It made me love being a Canadian even more.

Farmer's Wife Helping Hand On Prairies

HIGH RIVER, Alta. (CP)—The farmer's wife is a handy mate during harvesting on the Prairie.

Large crews no longer invade the fields of ripening grain, and in many districts harvesting has become a family affair with the farmer and his wife working side by side in the field.

A reporter found dozens of wives helping with the harvest when she made a survey of this district in Southern Alberta.

One was Mrs. Ed Noad. She consented to have her picture taken in her work clothes.

"Take a picture of me anytime but not in the field," she said.

NO HALTS

But the photographer was never able to catch her as she moved from field to field to complete the harvesting.

Mrs. Reg Eccles had decided to help this year but she couldn't help pitching in when there always seemed to be some delays.

"Last night we had a TV dinner when we came in late," she said, "and tonight I have my dinner in after cooling."

Mrs. Dave Morrison last year did the cook with the aid of a neighborhood "hee" because her husband was ailing, but this year she and her husband worked side by side.

FARM WORKER

Mrs. Harold Kinzel, a teacher, looked as unruffled and serene mowing alfalfa as she does a classroom or conducts her office as president of the Parent-Teachers' Association.

Mrs. Dan La Paisiere drove a big truck throughout the harvest and kept the grain moving into storage from two combines.

For hauling the grain last year Mrs. Allan Smith's husband bought her a new dishwasher. She is debating what to ask for this year.

There were many other women helping with the harvest. Drop in included the president of a club, the superintendent of a Sunday school, a Girl Guide leader and a women's institute officer.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, a newspaper editor, a women's editor and two writers. Each article is a summary of an actual case history. The Council reports on problems that have been dealt with by responsible agencies and counsellors.

Mercedes F. — Judy told her boyfriend Jim about me.

Judy F. — A lot of it was true.

Mercedes F. — The other day I overheard a conversation that my 15-year-old daughter had with one of her boy friends and I nearly dropped dead.

Judy told her friend that he and father was many years older than I am, and that I am not happy in our marriage. She said I was forced to marry at a very early age because my father could not support his family. She said that even though I may seem happy on the surface I am not in secret.

All of this is not true. I did not marry young, but it was against my parents' wishes, and my husband is only five years older than I am. We have had our share of ups and downs, but on the whole we're reasonably happy. What could make Judy do such a thing?

Judy F. — A lot of the things I said are so true about Mother. Five years is not so much to most older people, but my mother looks and acts a lot younger than my father. Everyone takes her for my sister, and some of my friends have asked me how come I don't look more like her. She is so pretty. When Mom talks to them, she looks and acts like almost any kid at school. .

It's also true that Mom often secretly cries after she's had a fight with Dad. I don't think they're happy together — even though Mom says they are.

I did lie about my grandparents forcing Mom to marry young, but that's because I got mixed up when my boy friend asked me why she married a much older man.

The Council: Horrified as she is at Judy's "lies," Mercedes should recognize that her daughter meant no harm. From her story we gather that she was trying to make excuses for her mother and then about her. It was inevitable that she would get contacted and tell her. She doesn't quite understand her mother or what it is she feels the need to excuse and explain.

Young girls are usually proud of their attractive, youthful-looking mothers, and sometimes may be a bit jealous of them, but they don't feel the need of relating an elaborate story of mistreated and like almost any kid at school. This is undoubtedly quite a embarrassing to Judy.

From both stories, it seems possible to us that Mercedes rather regrets her early marriage and probably feels that she missed out on a lot of teenage fun. Possibly when Judy's friends come over she gets carried away with the opportunity to play the role she lost so early in life.

This coupled with what is probably a tinge of resentment against her husband for being the instrument of her early loss of freedom, may be enough to give Judy a lot of her "notions." The whole situation can easily be rectified if Mercedes makes an active effort to come to terms with herself. She should try to learn to enjoy being the mother of a teenager and realize that her daughter looks to her for guidance, for a model of womanhood — not for a pal, sister or rival.

JOHNSTOWN

Church Marks Eighty-Second Anniversary

JOHNSTOWN — The 82nd anniversary of Johnstown church was celebrated on Sunday with services at 11 a.m. and 7.30 p.m., Rev. F. S. Fuller officiating.

The church was decorated for the occasion with 'mums. Quiet music was played by Mrs. Alec Vandervoort, and then, singing "Holy! Holy! Holy!" the choir took its place. The Scripture lesson was found in Isaiah 55 and in Matthew. The choir sang a lovely anthem. A story was told for the children.

The text was "Things That Last." Rev. Fuller said, "Most people were always thinking of material things instead of the Spiritual. Wealth is only temporary, and blessedness is found in giving rather than receiving.

"Many are troubled these days; some take pills for tension. Fear is an uncomfortable feeling and swallowing a pill will not help, but cast your care on Him Who cared for you, and your heart will be made glad, for the eternal things are the only worthwhile things."

Miss Gail Lohnes and Miss Marion Bush sang a duet, "Who Is The Stranger?"

At 7.30 p.m., the 73rd Psalm was read responsively. The lesson was found in Luke 14:15 to end. The choir sang an anthem, "Blessed Are." Rev. Fuller told a story to the children of a disobedient monkey.

The text was, "And they with one accord began to make excuses." The speaker reminded us of the fine way Jesus had of bringing home truths to His children. "He likened things to many objects to a farmer it would be seed; to a shepherd, sheep; to a woman, yeast; illustrating great truths for you and me in a way that they reached their objective. He had built His church, asked all to come to the feast but they had made excuses."

"How many excuses are made these days when the church asks for funds? Some say they don't like the minister, others have different excuses. There is a very great task before the church today. Too often we do not call on the Lord until we are in despair. We should keep Jesus with us."

The speaker told of two fishermen who were in distress out on the deep, so one suggested to the other they pray. The other fellow said he wasn't much at it but if it would help, okay. They got down on their knees with one saying, "Dear Lord, if You will get us out of this jam, I will never bother you again."

"People have lost all sense of gratitude to God for the many blessings we enjoy. Churches should be full of people but some of these people have a habit of drifting along. If this old world is going to succeed at all, we must take up our cross and go out in the highways and byways and bring them in.

"Jesus is ready to forgive if we only are sorry for what wrong we have done. We must make the Lord of Life our chief cornerstone."

Miss Gail Lohnes and Miss Marion Bush sang a duet, "Take Jesus With You." At this time, Rev. Fuller said he had enjoyed being with the congregation very much, and especially enjoyed the wonderful music and choir singing. He invited all to come anytime to Connect to visit him and sing in his church.

LEST WE FORGET .... When Canadians everywhere observe a moment of silence at 11.00 a.m. on November 11th, it will be in tribute to those Canadian servicemen who have paid the supreme sacrifice in battle.

More than one million Commonwealth servicemen — nearly four-five thousand Canadians — lie in sixteen thousand cemeteries in more than one hundred countries.

Marked by simple headstones or white crosses, the graves are reverently cared for by the people of the country in which they lie.

In tribute to Canada's fallen soldiers, the above photograph shows: centre, a Canadian corporal standing in reverence beneath a figure of the Virgin Mary, miraculously remaining practically untouched amid the ruins of a church in Carpiquet, France; top left, row on row of crosses in the Canadian cemetery at Dieppe, France; top right, little Dutch girls, two of thousands who look after graves in the Canadian cemeteries in Holland, paying pensively at crosses in the Holten cemetery; bottom left, two small Korean boys, while visiting the United Nations Military Cemetery near Pusan, Korea, pause beside a grave in the Canadian plot to salute those who gave their lives in the Korean conflict; bottom right, rows of crosses in the Canadian cemetery at Holten, Holland. There were 13 members present and all took part in a lively discussion on the topic, "What Price Freedom."

Freedoms of an individualistic nature such as producing as much or as little as one wished regardless of the supply and demand, and selling when and where may be lost in the new trend; but on the overall picture, some things are gained. Now a group will look after the disposal of your products, and being a larger bargaining agency can command a better market.

Sport Slices

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

The little man with the wandering forelock shook his head. Around him his world champion Whitby Dunlops dressed slowly, readying for what they anticipated would be the hardest battle of the season against the national champions wearing the uniforms of "Canada." We were talking in the Dunlops' dressing room prior to last Friday's game.

Somebody complained about having a touch of headache. Wren Blair snorted, "He should talk," he snapped in an undertone. "An aspirin will cure him. He should have headaches like a hockey manager."

"For instance?" the visitor queried.

Blair whirled. He tapped a solid forefinger on the reporterial chest. "Privateer," he echoed, "like your manager Drury Denyes. There is only one headache like it. And only two people that I know of, know what it is like. They are Drury and I."

Winning the Allan Cup is one thing, Blair said, and getting a team ready to compete for a world tournament is very definitely a horse of another color. "All people think you have to do, is get the fellows into shape, pick up a few players to strengthen the club and presto, you've got your way to Europe with nary a worry but winning. Shucks," he said, "that ain't the half of it."

Manager Denyes, Blair went on, is beginning to find this fact is true. There is a big price to glory—and it is not all financial.

"You have got a public to please and if you get off on the wrong foot like Whitby did and the McFarlands are doing, you will find there is fan and public relations hostility. Last year the Toronto papers and radio people blasted the Maroons nearly all the way, because we were not the supermen we were supposed to be after winning the Allan Cup. "You will find the same thing will happen' to the Macs if you fellows hit a losing skein. If."

Blair suggested the thing to do, as he did, is to go ahead with organizational and player plans and forget what the world is saying. That is a tough order, but this is complete you will find Canada and Canadians are solidly behind you. Then all you do is pray the boys are 'up' for the games and leave the rest to the gods."

We were told this reporter he did not feel too sorry for the Kelowna Packers and their so-called shortage of help. "They blasted the CAHA, but I believe the fault lies mainly with their own organization." They had plenty of time to go and get players and they did not do it."

Didn't he think the Macs and Kitchener Dutchmen should have helped with a player or two or perhaps a line? After all nine days is not too long for a team to be shorthanded and providing the schedule was not heavy.

"It might not have been a bad idea for Drury Denyes to have let the Packers had a player or two, if not a line, especially since the Macs are going over later," he replied.

"Those players, or the line, depending on what he sent, would have got lots-and-lots of valuable playing on European ice in inside and outside European arenas. They could have returned with nine or no games under their belts, and a lot of knowledge of international play and players and could have coached the rest of the Macs along these lines," Blair said.

They will find quite a difference playing on outdoor rinks, he went on, but like the Dunlops they will quickly adapt themselves to all the conditions over there, was his opinion.

He felt the Macs will pull out of their early season slump and like his Dunlops will weather all kinds of storms and bring home to Canada for the second year in a row the world hockey championship.

Leafs Refuse To Wither; Win Pair Over Weekend

Defeat Boston 5-3 Saturday Blank Wings 2-0 Next Night; Rangers Take Twin Victories

By BEN WARD
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Toronto Maple Leafs enjoyed their best weekend of the young season and served warning the National Hockey League opposition race may not be a cut-and-dried affair after all.

Leafs frepd Boston Bruins from their jinx Saturday night by stumbling them 5-3 in Toronto, then moved into Detroit Sunday to put down the Red Wings 2-0.

The two wins didn't get the Leafs out of last place but they served notice the team is gunning for higher places. Both wins were convincing ones.

In Sunday night's other game New York Rangers edged Boston 2-1, again denying Bruins the first place spot left vulnerable when the league-leading Montreal Canadiens lost 6-5 to Rangers in Montreal Saturday night. Chicago Black Hawks beat Red Wings 4-2 Saturday afternoon.

DUFF, CHADWICK STAR

Dick Duff scored both Toronto goals Saturday night and Bob Chadwick turned in a starry performance as Leafs posted their first win in four starts this season.

Wings were so inept in the third period that Detroit fans booed and jeered at their club and made an attack unwarranted. Even when Leafs were shorthanded the Wings weren't able to score.

The loss dropped the Detroiters to fifth place, two points ahead of Toronto.

Saturday the Leafs led Bruins all the way and outshot them 32-24. Billy Harris had two goals and singles came from Bob Baun of George Armstrong, Brian Cullen and Bobby Pulford.

ARMSTRONG SCORES

Boston scorers were Jim Morrison, Leo Boivin and Don McKenney. Jim Morrison's goal-mouth jinx working again when Bob Armstrong suffered a shoulder injury while making a shot. In Boston's last Toronto appearance, Morrison and Bronco Horvath were sidelined with jaw fractures. Leafs' George Armstrong also was hurt and did not play Sunday.

The Bruins were still showing the after-effects in Boston Sunday when Rangers outskated them. It was the first home loss for Bruins, who had tied Rangers in three previous meetings.

Andy Bathgate scored his eighth goal of the year for Rangers, Camille Henry, Hank Ciesla, Wally Hergesheimer and Andy Hebenton got the others. Goalie Gump Worsley's shutout died when Boston's Jim Morrison scored on a 50-foot screen shot.

WIDE-OPEN GAME

Rangers beat Canadiens by scoring the only goal of the third period after two periods of wide-open and loose play had produced 10 goals.

Hergesheimer took a pass from Bill Gadsby and walitzed in to beat goalie Jacques Plante with the winner. Other Ranger scorers were Bathgate, with two, Lou Fontinato, Harry Howell and Larry Popein.

Canadiens' Maurice Richard got the 397th goal of his NHL career. The others were Bob Turner, Ab McDonald, Dick Moore and Don Marshall.

A fluke goal by Bobby Hull gave Chicago the edge at Detroit. Hull's shot deflected off Red Wing Alex Delvecchio's stick and into the net. Ken Wharram, Ted Lindsay and Eric Nesterenko got the others for Hawks. The Detroit scorers were Gordie Howe, John Wilson and Tom McCarthy.

Hockey's Big Seven

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Andy Bathgate, New York's rangy rightwinger, bagged three goals and helped set up a fourth in a weekend National Hockey League action to climb into a tie for the leadership in the scoring race.

Bathgate's four - point effort gave him eight goals and eight assists for 16 points and lifted him even with Chicago's Eddie Litzenberger, who didn't pick up a point.

Hawkeyes Win Big Ten Title; Irish Beaten

NEW YORK (AP) — Iowa's once-tied but unbeaten Hawkeyes laid claim to their second Big Ten title and Rose Bowl trip in three years with a 26-6 victory over Minnesota Saturday while Ohio State, Notre Dame and Tennessee posted big-ten solitron in major college football.

Louisiana State, the top-ranked club in the Associated Press poll, mauled Duke 50-18 in a night game, running the Tigers' unbeaten string to eight. LSU trailed 6-0, then opened up with 22 points in the second quarter for a 28-6 halftime lead.

Texas Christian beat Marquette as expected, 36-6, but Mississippi Southern knocked off North Carolina State 26-14 in other night games.

STILL WINLESS

Iowa, ranked second, stretched Minnesota's winless string to 10 Randy Duncan and Willie Fleming of Iowa each scored on touchdown runs. The Hawkeyes clinched the Big Ten crown when Wisconsin knocked off Northwestern 17-13 and Ohio State and Purdue battled each other with a 14-14 tie.

Northwestern was ranked No. 1 Wisconsin No. 7, a notch ahead of Purdue.

Notre Dame was a fumbling, stumbling affair as Pittsburgh beat the Fighting Irish 29-26 on a touchdown in the last 15 seconds on a desperate 4th chance aerial bowl bid.

Tennessee was beaten 14-6 by Chattanooga, a club that hadn't beaten the Vols in 51 years. The surprise victory touched off a 10-minute riot at the end of the game before tear gas and fire hoses quelled the fans.

Elsewhere among the ranked clubs Army beat Duke 21-6, 14 - 7 and Auburn (No. 5) stretched its unbeaten lone tie string to 29 with a 33-14 victory over Mississippi State.

Oklahoma, which defeated Iowa State 30-0. The Sooners collected two touchdowns on fumbles in the final quarter. Oklahoma can clinch the Big Eight title and Orange Bowl berth by beating Missouri next Saturday. Missouri is tied with Oklahoma for the lead after surprising Colorado 33-0 with five touchdowns in a span of 11 minutes and 30 seconds that bridged the third and fourth quarters.

In the far coast, California regained the lead for the Rose Bowl by defeating UCLA 20-13 while Washington State jarred Oregon State 7-0. Southern California retained hopes by defeating Washington 21-6.

SPIESER STOPPED

DORTMUND, Germany (AP)— Erich Schoepper, German light heavyweight champion, handed Chuck Spieser of Detroit a bad beating Saturday night and won a technical knockout when Spieser failed to come out for the sixth round. Schoepper weighed 175; Spieser 175½.

Tiger Cats Blank Ottawa 23-0 Alouettes Edge Argos 14-12

By JACK SULLIVAN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Maybe coach Frank Clair should write his Ottawa Rough Riders a letter before they meet the Alouettes at Montreal in Wednesday's Eastern Conference semi-final. He'll have to do something to convince the Riders are up against an old jinx.

A researcher unearthed the interesting information that Riders have lost 11 straight games in Montreal in the last five years. The string included a 24-15 loss in the 1937 sudden-death semi-final.

Letter-writing appears to work.

TRIEBBLE'S GIMMICK

Coach Jim Trebble of Hamilton Tiger-Cats resorted to the mails last week to fire up his club and Tiger-Cats responded with a 23-0 shutout over the Riders Saturday in the windup of the 14-game schedule. The loss spoiled any chance Ottawa had of slipping past the Als into second place for the home-field playoff advantage.

Meanwhile, Alouettes, with often-jeered flying wing Ivan Lingington and idolized Sam Etcheverry playing the star roles, nudged the last-place Toronto Argonauts 14-12 on a last-second spectacular play. Now Als and Riders meet at 1 p.m. EST Wednesday, the winner taking on Ticats, in a total-points series.

PATTERSON OUT

But there isn't much cheer in Montreal today. Out of the playoffs is brilliant Hal Patterson with an injured knee.

The 22,844 crowd at Montreal had every reason to cheer and carry off the lanky Livingstone, often booed and dubbed "butterfingers" for dropping key passes. He got back in their good graces by taking a 75-yard pass from Etcheverry on the Toronto five-yard line with Montreal behind 12-7 and the final seconds ticking off on the scoreboard clock.

Livingston was pulled at the three and Joel Wells went over two plays later. Just 24 minutes before, Etcheverry tossed a short touchdown pass to Red O'Quinn. Bill Bewley, Toronto-born kicking specialist, booted the game-winning convert.

WIN SEEMED CERTAIN

Argonauts, out of the playoffs for the third straight year, appeared to be on their way to their fifth victory of the season. They had set up their 15-0 lead on two singles by Dave Mann, a field goal by Ed Krstopaitis and an eight - yard touchdown pass to Menan Schriewer from quarter Ronnie Knox.

Trimble's letter - writing gimmick didn't seem to have much effect on Ticats as they led only 2-0 at half-time. But, with quarters Bernie Faloney and Tony Cisnello clicking on their passing and handoffs, they powered to second-half touchdowns by Mitz Don Sutherin.

Harry Langenan took a pass from Faloney for one convert. Steve Oneschuk kicked another, Cam Fraser booted two singles and Faloney was credited with a single when he fumbled after eroding the Orange end zone.

It was Ticats' first victory in three games, since Oct. 18, when they defeated the Als 29-19 at Hamilton.

Varsity Wins College Crown With 50-7 Win Over Redmen

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

University of Toronto Blues, undefeated all season, won the senior intercollegiate football title in the Saturday with a shattering 50-7 home park victory over McGill University Redmen in the final game of the season.

It was the seventh win for the undefeated Blues.

In Saturday's other game Queen's University Golden Gaels came from behind with two touchdowns in the second half to defeat University of Western Ontario Mustangs 14-12.

SECOND WIN

It was only the second win for the Gaels who end up tied for third place with Redmen.

Blues' victory was the highest score this season and it marked the first time since 1904 that a Varsity team has gone through a season undefeated and untied.

Hali Tim Reid led the Blues' assault with three touchdowns and a single. Peter Joyce scored two touchdowns and others were by Brian Aston and Don Baird. Walt Adams kicked six converts and Don Marshall added a single.

Quarterback Dick Carr scored the McGill touchdown with Chuck McLaughlin converting.

HELD AT BAY

At Kingston the Gaels fashioned their margin on a fourth quarter touchdown march and a pass interception that cut cold a late Mustang attempt in the Queen 12-yard line.

The touchdowns for Queen's were scored by Cal Conners and Tom Wicklum with captain Jocko Thompson scoring two points on a convert and kick.

Western's touchdown scorers were Doug McKenzie and Roger Stewart.

McFarlands Tie Hull-Ottawa, Lose To Kingston

Play Canadiens to 3-3 Draw After Close Tough Weekend; Meet Que. Team Here Tues.

The McFarlands, playing another tough weekend three-night schedule, salvaged a tie out of the trio, drawing 3-3 with Hull-Ottawa on Sunday after dropping a close 8-6 decision to Kingston Saturday night.

In-other sections of the league the Whitby Dunlops continued their runaway, trouncing Cornwall 6-3 Saturday night, while Kingston dropped a 7-2 decision to the Chevies yesterday afternoon.

Kingston players like those of the McFarlands, have been fined for losing games which managements thought should have ended otherwise.

In Sunday's contest, the Macs' third in as many days, the Canadiens jumped into a 3-0 lead early in the contest. Belleville got one back to trail 2-1 at the first intermission, and then scored the only goals in the middle heat to grab a 3-3 lead. Hull completed the scoring to earn the split in points with the lone goal of the final period.

Jean-Paul Payette and "Wimpy" Brown with a goal and one assist each topped the McFarland point-getters. Lou Sanko notched the other goal. Nagy Raglan, who played excellent hockey throughout, Eddie Chalineau and Al Dewsbury picked up single assists.

Defenceman John Longarini had a goal and assist for Hull while Johnny Annable and Bobby Emmerson also scored. Bob Eilet earned a brace of assists.

The Macs had trouble in the first period and Annable gave Hull a 1-0 lead from a scramble after only 11 seconds of play. Longarini made it 2-0 at 12.32 on a play with Eilet.

Ives Lucas was serving a penalty for Hull when the Macs finally blinked the light, Payette clicking with Marineau and Brown at 13.45.

The McFarlands looked much the better team in the second period on their way, skating and going well in both directions. Hull survived early parts of the period with Cyr kicking out labelled drives but Goaltender Gauthier was off at 6.54, "Wiener" Brown tied the score with his fifth goal of the weekend series.

Al Dewsbury was serving-his first of three second-period penalties a little more than a minute later but Hull's power play backfired and Sanko tipped in Raglan's shot to put the Macs in front 3-2. Belleville drew four minor penalties before the period ended but Hull could not capitalize.

The third period was fast with both Cyr and Gordie Bell coming through with excellent displays in the nets.

The Canadiens made it 3-3 at 4.30 when Bobby Rousseau combined with Eilet and Longarini. The period was fast and closing with neither club receiving a penalty.

Belleville drew seven penalties overall, all minors, while Hull received five two-minute sentences.

Playing coach Ike Hildebrand did not dress for the game, but handled the coaching duties from the bench.

These are two clubs hook up here Tuesday night in a twenty-second place.

Giants Buck Baltimore Colts; Browns Lose

NEW YORK (CP)—New York Giants Sunday turned aside a trampling Baltimore Colt team 24-21 to split the Western division leader's record for an unbeaten streak in the National Football League. The win moved the Giants into a first - place tie with Cleveland Browns in the Eastern division.

It was a crucial day for all concerned. Cleveland met its jinx team and suffered its second defeat when Detroit Lions upset the Browns 30-10. It was the first time this season the Browns have been held to less than 20 points.

New York became the giant topper with its victory, its fifth of the season. Last week the Giants upset Cleveland 21-17.

The Giants, Cleveland and New York are tied for first place in the Eastern conference with identical 5-2 records. They are followed by Washington and Pittsburgh.

COLTS ON TOP

The Colts still lead in the West with six and one loss but Chicago Bears, who defeated Green Bay Packers 24-0, surged within one game of the Colts.

In other games, Washington Redskins defeated Chicago Cardinals, 45-31 and Pittsburgh Steelers edged Philadelphia Eagles 21-24. On the west coast, Los Angeles Rams humiliated San Francisco 49ers 56-14.

An inspired Detroit defence limited Cleveland Brown to 80 yards rushing in 21 attempts, his lowest total of the season.

Tobin Rote threw Jim Biggons and Howard Cassay scored touchdowns as Detroit and Bay from Milt Plum of the Browns.

MONTREAL (CP) — Grattan Hanover, owned by Fred Brown in Ed monton and trotters — only five of whom finished—is a $2,500 five-heat stakes event at Richelieu Raceway.

The eight-year-old bay gelding covered the marathon course in 12 minutes, one second.

Peterborough horse, Tim's Ace, driven by Jim McIntyre won the fourth race Saturday running the mile C trot in 2:06 for a purse of $800.

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (AP)—Shadow Wave, driven by Canadian-born Joe O'Brien, burst to the front in the final sixteenth Saturday and set a world record for three-year-olds as he won the second leg of the $75,000 pacing classic at Hollywood Park.

Shadow Creed, who won the first leg, ran out.

Shadow Wave, laying just behind a swift race, came to the outside rounding the stretch turn, took command from Belle Acton, and won going away. His time for the mile was 1:58 3-5, a track record and also a world standard at this distance for three-year-old trotters.

Eskimos Romp Over Riders In First Game Semi-Finals

BY JIM PEACOCK
Canadian Press Staff Writer

REGINA (CP) — Quarterback Frank Tripucka listened to the figures on the running of Normie Kwong and Johnny Bright and smiled over the magic of Jackie Parker. Then he said:

"We've got to stop them before we can beat them."

The wily 30-year-old veteran summed up the almost impossible task facing him and his Saskatchewan Roughriders tearmmates as they prepare for the second game of the Western Interprovincial Football Union semi-final.

Riders couldn't contain Kwong, Bright and Parker Saturday and Edmonton Eskimos romped to a 37-11 victory to carry a 18-point lead into the last game of the two-game total-points series.

It is scheduled in Edmonton Tuesday afternoon.

ROLL ON SATADAGE

Kwong crashed through the Rider line 20 times for 152 yards and Bright picked up another 141 as Eskimos, under brilliant direction of Jackie Parker and Lyle Bennett using a new play that sent the fullbacks over the giant touted Rider defence, rolled up a total of 527 yards.

The new play inserted by coach Sam Etcheverry gave some gaping holes through the middle of the Rider line.

Parker capped what Lyle said was the calling of a perfect game by scoring one touchdown on a 19-yard end run, passing to Joe Poirer for another and assisted Bennett play, and kicking three converts. Kwong and halfback Don Flynn burst through the line for the other Edmonton touchdowns.

Fullback Bobby Marlow, with Cookie Gilchrist, paced the Rider offence, scored the only Saskatchewan touchdown on a end run from the Edmonton two, while halfback Ken Ploen booted a 25-yard field goal and a convert and Tripucka punted for a single.

Don Campbell Breaks World Speed Record

LAKE CONISTON, England (AP) — Donald Campbell roared over Lake Coniston in his jet hydroplane Bluebird today to set a world speed record of 248.62 miles an hour.

The 37 - year - old son of a famous speed king, the late Sir Malcolm Campbell, succeeded after seven weeks of trials and waiting here in northwest England to better his own world mark of 239.07 miles an hour.

This was the fifth time he has raised the world water speed mark.

Campbell, who wants to break the land speed record as well, piloted his streamlined jet hydroplane over two legs of a measured kilometer course for the record.

Sweden Nips Kelowna 5-2 Kowalchuk Canuck Star

STOCKHOLM (CP) — Sven (Tumba) Johansson, one of Sweden's best hockey players who has faced Canadians many times in world and Olympic competition, scored three goals Sunday night to lead a Swedish national team to a 5-2 victory over the touring Kelowna Packers.

The Swedes, taking advantage of their home ice, handed the Canadians defeat in the first game of a tour which will take them to Russia. Sweden was never behind, scoring twice in the first period, once in the second and twice more in the final. Canada's scoring was in the last two periods.

A capacity crowd of 17,000 watched a dull match.

Johansson scored twice in the first four minutes of play. Nils Nilson made it 3-0 early in the second period. Canada finally cracked the scoring column in the last minute of the session when Brian Roche of Kelowna, B.C., got a goal. Jim Middleton of Winnipeg, who starred with Penticton Vs when they won the world championship in Germany in 1955, scored the second goal at the 15-minute mark of the third period.

But Johansson came back with his third goal and Ronald Petterson put the Swedish game on the fifth goal four minutes from the end.

Middleton and Russ Kowalchuk of Kelowna were the outstanding players for the Canadians.

The game was one of four exhibitions in Sweden. The Canadians will play five games in Russia.

Russian hockey coach Anatoli Tarasov, who watched the match, was not impressed.

"The Canadians were perhaps not used to the climate here, but I expected them to be better."

Marlies Clip Hamilton 4-2; Petes Win

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Even a cut in pay apparently isn't the answer for the sagging Hamilton Cubs, occupants of last place in the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A circuit.

Their salary envelopes got thinner Friday and coach Gerry Brown said they'd stay that way until the Cubs, who have won only one game in eight starts, changed their ways.

Sunday 4,324 fans at Toronto watched the lowly Toronto Marlboros clip the Cubs 4-2.

On the same bill, Peterborough Petes blanked St. Michael's 4-0 in their campaign to catch St. Catharines' off-and-running Teepees.

Petes' weekend performance didn't make that task any easier; Teepees clipped the Mike's 6-1 in a Saturday night game at St. Catharines. Chico Maki and Don Grosso each fired a pair, Ray Cullen and Carlo Longarini getting singles. Dave Keon scored for St. Michael's goal.

MARLIES CLIMB

At Toronto, Marlboros' victory gave them a fourth-place with Barrie Flyers. Sonny Osborne, Jim Pappin, Bob Davidson and Ross Morrison scored for Toronto. Hamilton's goals came from Pat Baker and Dennis Nathrall.

Larry Babcock fired two goals to lead Peterborough's whitewash of St. Michael's. Tom Thurlby and Bill Mahoney got the others. Peterborough outshot the circuit-wide leaders 40-26 but Petes have 11 points—nine wins and a tie—after a defeat. The Petes have 11 points in a 5-5-1 record, Guelph is 3-5-4, for eight points and third spot.

WIN NINTH

SHUMOCKEE, Japan (AP)—Sonny Jo Cunningham belted a three-run homer in the first inning Sunday to spark St. Louis Cardinals to a 7-1 win over the Japan all-stars. It was the Redbirds' ninth victory against two losses in their 16-game Japan tour. Righthander Larry Jackson limited the all-stars to two hits.

Riot Features College Game

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—Chattanooga's 144 upset football victory over Tennessee Saturday touched off a 45 - minute riot broken up by more than 100 police and firemen who used tear gas and a fire hose.

The crowd ignored a plea from Chattanooga Mayor P. R. Olgiati to stop the demonstration.

Of the hundreds of rioters, police arrested 16 persons, including a man identified by police as a aide to Senator Estes Kefauver (Dem., Tenn.).

Three policemen were injured, a patrol car was set afire, and the transmission of a patrol wagon broke down under the weight of prisoners and police guards.

Among those arrested was Harry D. Mansfield, identified by city safety director David Garrison as an aide to Kefauver. He was booked at city jail with malicious mischief and destroying public property.

Some of the others, Garrison said, apparently were students at the University of Chattanooga and Tennessee. All were released on $1,000 bond, pending hearing on charges including disorderly conduct and inciting to riot.

"We have at least $10,000 worth of damage to our equipment alone in addition to the 3-year injured officers," Garrison said.

The riot was touched off when Southern Chattanoogans, who had waited through 23 previous games for such an opportunity, rushed to the steel goal posts at the north end of the field. Tennessee students and a handful of police challenged them.

There were conflicting reports from responsible authorities as to whether an explosion or explosions preceded the fire in the Oldfields apartments.

Detective Captain Cecil Rowe, of the Montreal provincial police, said preliminary indications were that the fire was caused by a gas stove explosion on the third floor. He ruled out the possibility of arson.

Capt. Rowe said a gas stove, with all its valves open, fell with all its valves open, fell with all its valves open, fell

United Church WMS Holds Nov. Meeting

SHANNONVILLE — The monthly meeting of the W.M.S. of Shannonville United Church was held at the home of Mrs. Raymond Clarke on Nov. 5, with an attendance of 18. The president, Mrs. Charles Wood, welcomed all and read a Remembrance Day poem. After the hymn, "Safe In the Arms of Jesus", the president offered prayer. Mrs. Sam Elliott, group leader, took charge and gave the call to worship. The hymn, "Stand Up and Bless the Lord," was read in unison. Mrs. Elliott read the Scripture lesson from the 7th chapter of Deuteronomy, and commented on and explained this passage of the Bible. Theme for the month was, "Are Strangers Enemies?"

Mrs. Asa Cook gave an interesting reading about a little girl in Trinidad who learned about the Christian religion by attending Mission School, and what a change it made in her life. Group leader read, "Living With Others," and closed the devotional with prayer.

Mrs. Wood took charge of the business period. Mrs. Ross gave the treasurer's report and read a letter of thanks from Mr. Mooney for the money sent to pay the expense of sending the bale overseas. The president thanked the hostess and all who had cooked and helped make the rally so successful.

Mrs. Ross moved that Mrs. Robertson, Mrs. Elliott and Mrs. Gordon Akey be a nominating committee to bring in a slate of officers for 1959. This was seconded by Mrs. Asa Cook. Offerings were dedicated by the president. Mrs. Robertson gave a sketch of last Sunday's church service for the benefit of those who were absent.

Rev. G. H. King, B.A., B.D., Canadian secretary of the Mission to Lepers, spoke about the care the lepers receive at this interdenominational Mission where this disease is doctored and sometimes cured. Mrs. Rostorch described the pictures and told the story of a little African boy who, after three years' residence in this mission was healed and went home to a happy reunion with his family.

The president closed with the benediction and prayer for sick members.

Mrs. Clarke and her assistants a social time and refreshments and those who were not at the meeting kindly bring their thankoffering envelopes to the next church service.

Nasser Is Upset By Incident Over Hussein's Plane

Believes Action Proper But Is Still Disturbed

AMMAN, Jordan (AP) — Jordanians celebrated today the safe return of King Hussein from what charged was a United Arab Republic attempt to kill or capture him on a flight over Syria.

U.A.R. officials in Cairo denied the charges. They said Hussein's plane lacked proper clearance to fly over the Syrian province of U.A.R.

(President Nasser was reported to be concerned Syrian authorities acted properly but also to be upset by the incident, which worsened U.A.R. - Jordanian relations after a recent improvement.)

A national holiday was declared throughout Jordan to celebrate the escape of the 23-year-old king.

Hussein left Amman airport Monday in a twin-engined transport plane bound for a European vacation. He later reported that two MiG jet fighters from Syria set upon him near Damascus, capital of the Syrian province.

HEDGE-HOP HOME

The MiGs tried to force his plane down but did not fire at it, the king reported. His pilot dropped down near the ground and used best defence from fast fighters — for a wild, hedge hopping flight back over ridged country to Amman.

Hussein, himself flyer, was riding as co-pilot. His pilot said the two MiG were trying to get him to follow to a field in Soviet-dominated Iraq. But Hussein's plane lacked proper clearance to fly over the Syrian province of U.A.R.

Hussein himself said the two MiG jet fighters tried to force his plane down but did not fire at it. He hedge hopped

Building on Parking Lot Will Be Renovated to House Health, Recreation Depts.

Council approval for the renovation of the concrete structure on the Pinnacle Street municipal parking lot at an estimated cost of $16,200 for use by the city health department and the recreational commission, was given in committee last night at city hall.

Estimated cost figures both for renovation of the parking lot building, and for conversion of the city hall market space were presented to council by City Manager Drury Denyes who recommended the former project be proceeded with.

Renovation in the market building to provide space for the health department and recreational commission was estimated at $4,400 but the city manager felt this space would be required possibly in the very near future for city administration offices.

Under the proposal approved last night by council the ground floor of the parking lot concrete structure would be renovated at a cost of $9,885 for use by the city health department, while the upper floor would be fitted at a cost of $5,315 for use by the recreational commission.

One large room on the second floor would be provided for recreational use as well as space for general offices, craft classes and storage. The large room would have a folding partition in order that it may be separated for simultaneous use by two groups.

With the city health department in desperate need for additional space, City Manager Denyes was authorized to proceed with the drafting of final plans for the renovation of the parking lot building. It is expected the work would be done by city forces.

Council Will Pay Hospital Premiums for Some Indigents

The city of Belleville will pay hospital insurance premiums under the Ontario Hospital Services for certain classes of relief recipients in the city.

Approval for the plan was given by city council last night in committee when a recommendation authorizing insurance premium payments for indigents was passed.

City Welfare Administrator Clifford Whitman told council that he estimated the plan would cost the city from $300 to $400 per month.

At the present time indigent hospitalization is costing the city from four to five thousand dollar per month he said.

Council also voted to amend the city zoning by-law to call for no house costing less than $7,500, exclusive of the cost of land, to be erected in the "R" class area.

It was noted that the by-law applied only to the present city area, with a separate zoning by-law to be drawn up for the annexed area.

AMEND PARKING LAW

Amendment of the parking rules out rush-hour parking on Bridge Street east, was approved. The amendment will call for parking to be allowed on the south side of Bridge Street as a temporary measure until the end of the year.

Alderman Don Whalen said that the amendment had been asked by merchants who felt the opening of 401 highway had so relieved traffic congestion that the rush-hour route was no longer required.

This was disputed by Ald. R. Graham who said the rush-hour route had been installed primarily because of local traffic. He said he would like to see matters left as they are until the re-opening of the Trenton No. 2 highway bridge brought traffic back to normal.

The city druggists want their closing by-law extended to include drug stores in the annexed area following January 1st.

Santa Parade On December 6, City Gives $300

Hey kids, Santa Claus is coming in to make an official pre-Christmas visit to Belleville again this year!

The big day will be Saturday, Dec. 6th when the jolly old fellow will parade through the downtown area, thanks to the co-operation of members of the Belleville Fire Department and a $300 grant from city council.

Authorization for the parade was given by city council last night, as well as approval of the $300 grant. Council approval was also given for the parade route with the parade this year to pass without interruption from other traffic.

The opening of 401 highway will this year allow through traffic to be diverted around the downtown area to let Santa and his helpers parade.

RCAF Escape Group Member Tells Rotarians About Work

Rotarians had the rare opportunity yesterday of hearing a report of an unofficial experiment by a member of the RCAF Escape Society, at their weekly dinner meeting in the Hotel Quinte.

Mr. William Jones, now an area representative for the Rexall Drug Company in Peterborough, was a flying crew member with the Bomber Command during the Second World War. It was his aircraft was shot down by enemy flak just north of Rouen, France.

The speaker gave Rotary members a description of his experiences in the hands of the French while he and another of his crew were in enemy-held territory. Speaking in a husky voice Mr. Jones recounted the acts of bravery and selflessness which the French farmers and their families willingly performed to keep him and his pilot out of Nazi hands. The two RCAF members were in the area for several weeks, moving around by night and hiding by day. During the entire time they were supplied with food and drink, shelter and information by the French peasants. They were helped considerably by one family in particular — by the name of Deschervois — which consisted of a farmer, his wife, daughter and several sons. Eventually Mr. Jones and his pilot met up with the advancing Canadian Second Army. They returned to the area they had been hiding in to find that two of the French boys who had helped them, had been executed by the Nazis. Another, the eldest son of the farmer Deschervois, had died after being tortured by the Nazis for five days.

It was because of heroic and tragic incidents such as the foregoing that the RCAF Escape Society, which has been called the world's most exclusive society, was formed. It is composed of some 40 members in Canada, with a total of about 700 in the Commonwealth.

REMEMBER 4,000 FAMILIES

They remember those in Europe who helped RCAF personnel to escape during the war. There are about 4,000 French, Belgian, and Dutch families who are remembered with a Christmas card each year. Many RAF and RCAF members have returned to the European continent by visit to those who had previously assisted them to stay out of enemy hands. The Society has provided for vacations in Canada for many of the children of these families and just recently started an assistance program for many of these families which were in need of help. There are about 150 families which have replied to the Society's offer of assistance. The money for this comes mostly from donations, as the membership fee for the society's members is nominal.

Mrs. Jones remarked on the tremendous good will which this work by the society has created in the European areas affected by the relatives and ancestors concerning his recent trip to France to visit the Deschervois family, and to take their daughter to the Brussels World Fair. All in all, Mr. Jones' address was the simple relation of a very powerful personal experience, such as many other downed flying personnel had, which pointed up the better qualities of the human race in giving aid to one's fellow man. It is understood that Mr. Jones does not regularly recount this experience but was persuaded to do so for the local Rotary club by Court Miller, a personal friend.

GIFT PRESENTED

Mr. Miller introduced the speaker and Harvey Elliott expressed the club's appreciation for Mr. Jones' address. Jack Yanover, club president, presented the speaker with a gift of appreciation.

The meeting was opened by Art Francis, who led the group. Jack Yanover was chairman and asked for a two-minute period of silence in remembrance of those who fell in battle. On the lighter side a sing-song was led by Joe Demeza, accompanied by Don Kennedy at the piano. Ron Hamilton introduced the visitors and the Reverend Frank Harbick of West Ontario, formerly the pastor of Tabernacle United Church, was awarded the carnation as the long distance visitor.

Birthday congratulations and cakes were in order for members Jack Creegan and Captain Harold Lucas. A total of $74.00 was obtained for the crippled children's fund through the disposal of the last gag.

Sheriff Roscoe Robson was welcomed to the club as a new member.

The club bonspiel was announced for the 28th of November and members were urged to get themselves and their friends to the annual chicken dinner this Thursday evening at Centre church.

Florida Police Seize Arms, 22 Cuban Rebels

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP)—An arms-laden plane and 22 men identified as Cuban rebels or sympathizers were seized Monday amid gunfire that followed a police swoop on loading operations at an abandoned airfield.

Machine-gun fire, from federal and local officers flattened tires of an automobile in which five of the men tried to flee. They surrendered unhurt. One other man got away on foot.

U.S. border patrol officer Robert W. Gilbert said the 22 capt ures were booked on charges of violating the neutrality act.

Gilbert said rifles, sub-machine guns, ammunition and field equipment in packages marked "Fidel" were loaded from 10 automobiles onto the two-engined Lockheed plane that flew onto the former Prospect air field half an hour earlier.

Cuba's armed rebellion is headed by Fidel Castro whose headquarters are in the island republic's eastern most Oriente Province.

43 Are Accused Of Plot to Kill Ghana Premier

ACCRA (AP) — The government has accused 43 persons of plotting to kill Prime Minister Kwame Nkrumah and two of his ministers. Twenty-three are arrested and police hunted the other 23 today.

An official announcement Monday night said the group formed an underground movement known as Zenith Seven. Its aim was said to be the violent overthrow of the present regime following assassination of Nkrumah.

The two ministers were reported to be Interior Minister Krobo Edusei and Information Minister Kofi Basko.

Leaders of the opposition United party attended a hastily summoned meeting to discuss the arrests.

One opposition leader, R. J. B. Dangoah, told reporters: "This is a further attempt by the government to cripple opposition and democracy in Ghana. I believe the allegations made against these men are untrue."

Heavy Schedule Set for Visit Of Diefenbakers

AUCKLAND, N.Z. (CP) — The advance party of Prime Minister Diefenbaker's tour of New Zealand next month points to a whirlwind visit covering a large part of the country in a week.

The Diefenbakers are expected to arrive at Harewood airport, Christchurch, at 4 p.m. Dec. 1 from Australia. The prime minister will inspect a guard of honor by the Royal Regt. Commander Norman Bradford were Mr. John Priman and Mr. Everett Liddell, members of Branch 89 Canadian Legion.

The units assemblies then pursued back to the Bridge Street Armouries where they initially assembled. The ceremonies were prompt, and circumstance were quiet. Then the deeds of the fallen were not forgotten.

Sifting Rubble For Bodies of Fire Victims

MONTREAL (CP) — With the aid of a mechanical shovel, fire rescue crews sifted through the rubble of a mid-town apartment building all through the night in the grim search for more victims of Sunday's inferno.

The search resumed Monday night after demolition crews broke down the dangerously tottering shell of the Oldfield Apartments on Saint Mathieu Street, just off Dorchester Boulevard.

Eight bodies had been recovered before crews were ordered to evacuate the building while a crane swung a one-ton wrecking ball against the remaining walls.

A ninth body was recovered later today, leaving nine others "positively missing." A civil defence spokesman said more persons may have been visiting the building at the time of the holocaust and may have been trapped. The body of the ninth victim was so badly scattered morgue officials said identification will be difficult. So far only three of the bodies have been identified.

SEVERAL DAYS' WORK

Police said it will probably take several more days and nights to sift through the debris. In the produce store, the scene of the fire, a storey building and the top two floors collapsed, sandwiching between them anything that may have been in the apartments and rescue crews.

The grisly task of trying to identify the victims is left to those who are still alive was taken over by volunteers from the city's fledgling civil defence organization.

A makeshift quarter at a police station, they sorted out lists of persons known to be alive and tried to locate those on the list of missing persons.

CAUSE NOT KNOWN

Cause of the fire remained uncertain. Detective Captain Cecil Rowe of the arson squad said investigation of the cause won't be completed until experts have burrowed into the basement where 43 bodies are recovered. He added it was established that the fire started on the third floor.

The city executive committee called a meeting for today to consider the tragedy.

Reds May Start Daily Shellings Of Quemoy Isles

TAIPEI, Formosa (AP)—The Communists warned defenders of the Quemoys today that they might resume shelling every day, the Chinese Nationalists reported.

Red shore guns have been silent for the last four even-numbered days.

The warning broadcast by loudspeakers on the mainland did not make clear whether the supply ships to Quemoy would be shelled on even days. Since Oct. 25 the Reds have shelled the supply ports only on odd-numbered days.

Quemoy today was an odd day for the Nationalists on the offshore islands waited until Wednesday to see what gunners would do. Nothing was heard from Peiping radio.

RED POLICY

Radio Peiping had announced 17 days ago that the landing beaches and airstrip on the Quemoys would not be shelled on even days. It said the remainder of the offshore islands might be shelled on even days, however.

But in practice, Communist gunners have been inactive on the last four even days. The load speaker announcements also imply mean that areas other than the landing zones now will be bombarded on even days some more.

Or it could mean that the Communists alternate-day policy is being abandoned completely in favor of shelling the landing zones daily.

Between 12:30 a.m. and noon today the Reds fired 232 shells at the Quemoys, the Nationalists defence ministry said.

The flags and ensigns of the color party were then lowered in tribute to the fallen as a Royal Canadian Air Force trumpeter sounded the Last Post and Reveille. Group Captain McConnell, padre of the Hastings and Prince Edward County Regiment then said Prayers for the fallen of two wars.

Young Cyclist And Pedestrian Hit by Cars

TRENTON—William Pfeifer, 68, of 73 Henry Street, suffered a cut on the head and bruises to his right leg last night when he walked in front of a car on Dundas Street West.

He was taken to Dr. W. S. Bailey's office by Constable Jack Graham in the cruiser. After his injuries were treated he was later returned to his home.

The car was being operated by David Johnson, 29, of 47 Elderbeck Street, Kingston, and was not insured. There was no damage to the vehicle.

According to the police report, the car was proceeding west on Dundas Street West and was about in front of the Bata Shoe Store when the man walked in front of the car. Walter Weightman of 69 Queen Street, Trenton, was a witness to the mishap.

The accident occurred at 7.10 p.m. and was investigated by Constables Sid Vickers and Jack Graham of the Trenton Police Department.

At 4.15 p.m. yesterday afternoon Constable Vickers and Ron Rutherford of 36 North Scott Street had a close call from injury when he turned into the path of an oncoming car while riding his bicycle along North Scott Street.

Gilbert was not injured in the accident but the front wheel and spokes of his bike were damaged to an estimated $25.

The car was being operated by Nelson A. Dilabourah, 62, of 27 North Scott Street. He told police he was going west on North Scott Street when the boy on the bike came north on West Street and turning right got into the path of his vehicle. He said his car was not damaged.

Constable Sid Vickers of the Trenton Police investigated.

Miss C. Haslam, School Health Nurse, Resigns

TRENTON — Members of the Trenton Board of Education voted last night to accept the resignation as health nurse to take effect on the last day of this year.

Two of the members of the board, T. S. Ketcheson and C. Crews, voted in favor of an amendment to the motion which would give Miss Haslam a $1,000 grant. However, four other members voted against the amendment and passed the original motion.

Miss Haslam was praised by the members of the board for her years of good work with the children of Trenton schools. Members expressed her appreciation with regret.

Members of the board decided, however, that it would be best to hire a full-time nurse to fill the vacancy left by Miss Haslam. They also decided that certain qualifications should be set for anyone applying for the post. To qualify applicants will be required to be under the age of 45 and fully qualified as a public health nurse.

The board set a minimum salary of $3,000 per year for such a nurse but said that the wages would be also governed by the qualifications of the successful applicant.

Miss Haslam had been employed as health nurse for the past six years.

Anglicans Told Evangelistic Program Will Fend off Inroads by U.S. Sects

By EDA USHER
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO (CP) — Evangelical missions are essential to enable Anglicans to deal with canvassers, Kenneth A. Evans, Bishop of Ontario, said Monday.

Speaking at the annual meeting of the executive council of the general synod of the Anglican Church of Canada, he told 114 bishops, priests and laymen: "Many sects with their origins in the United States believe that Canada is a prime missionary field and they are hoping to proselytize our people by distributing literature.

"Our people want the answers to many half-truths that confront them."

He reported that 1958 is the first year of intensified Anglican evangelism in Canada.

"This concern for evangelism is not of a belief that we are losing saints. It appears to spring from a profound discontent with the listless apathetic kind of churchmanship so general only a few years ago," he said.

NEED PROJECT FUNDS

The work of the Anglican Foundation—a fund for loans and gifts to churches for building and special projects—is limited through lack of funds, C. P. Dawson of Victoria reported.

More than $135,000 has been distributed in loans and grants for building churches and rectories and for mission work.

"We could easily lend another $200,000," he said.

Brig. J. W. Forth, chaplain-general of the Canadian forces, was named to represent the armed forces by Rt. Rev. I. A. Norris, Bishop of Brandon, at a memorial sermon for the forces.

Brig. Forth reported 10 chaplains are being built for radar stations in northern Canada.

The council for Toronto is to be held in 1963 to the Anglican World Congress — a meeting of representatives of clergy and laity from every diocese of the Anglican Communion. The last congress was held in Minneapolis in 1954.

It was announced the Revised Prayer Book will be available for study in March, 1959, but will not be used in churches until authorized by the general synod. That could take 15 years, Rt. Rev. Philip Carrington, Bishop of Quebec, said.

PRAYER BOOK SPEAKS

Premier Frost told Monday's opening of the five-day conference that the Anglican Church is doing "great work" among Indians in Ontario.

"There is still much to be done for Indians," he said. "It is not right that they should live in second-class or third - class citizen."

Another speaker was Rt. Rev. Leon Srochowski, of Scranton, Penn., Bishop of the Polish Catholic Church of America. The Polish church and the Anglican Church of Canada have agreed to inter-communion. Bishop Srochowski said inter-communion had increased the strength of the Polish church which would "help us in our struggle for a free church for the Polish nation, now in the United States and Canada but in Poland where we have strong opposition."

G. M. Wright of Saskatoon opposed a suggestion that a needed extension to Church House in Toronto, headquarters of the church in Canada, could be partly financed from royalties from the Revised Prayer Book.

"That is not the way to use the money," he said. "We Anglicans cannot exist without a Prayer Book, and soon every Anglican in Canada will need a revised one. The Prayer Book is almost a means of grace.

"When a tax was put on a means of grace before, the Reformation resulted."

He suggested if royalties were necessary the money should "be spent on buying cheap books for evangelical purposes, or it should be spent on missionary work. . . ." The council ordered further study of the proposed building, extension and methods of financing it.

THE GLORY THAT WAS SPORT - - -

The past week the papers have been carrying a lot of copy concerning the arrest and conviction of several students and athletes over the operation of a large gambling pool in a Michigan university. Many people have expressed their surprise and disgust at this incident. We can understand their disgust but wonder at their surprise, especially when it comes from faculty members and educators who are relatively close to the matter.

Sportsmanship can, for all practical purposes, be considered as a thing of the past in many American schools. In football, basketball, hockey and even track and field the American colleges, their coaches, or their alumni compete most vigorously with one another to "sign up" promising young athletes before they have even graduated from high school. Handsome "contracts," subsidies, scholarships and gifts are offered to these teen-agers who show some proficiency at a sport. It is small wonder that their sense of judgment might become distorted when they see more and respected men placing a price on something which they have considered to be "fun." What was once a proposition of playing something for "the sake of the game" now becomes a business of playing for "the sake of the buck."

The placing of amateur athletics on a pseudo-professional level is doing much more than just ruining the sport and the attitudes of those who play the game. It is also affecting the other young people who have grown up with and gone to school with these paid and propelled young athletes. What student who does well in his scholastic work is ever offered a new convertible or a home by the campus fraternity, a job for his father, or a sinecure for himself to keep him in pocket money just to attend a university? How many teachers, we wonder, are sent circulars requesting the names of those who are proficient at their studies? How many students are asked by "scouts" to give the names of those who stand out in their classes and who they think would do well in university academics? Very few if any, we would feel confident in saying. Yet these procedures are used constantly by university coaches across the border to recruit freshmen talent for their athletic squads.

This situation is not as rampant in Canadian schools as in American institutions, but this is perchance due to the fact that there are fewer universities competing for athletic talent and there is usually enough to go around. It may also be due to the fact that there is not so much money involved in subsidizing athletics in Canada as in the U.S.A. But it does exist to a certain degree. The "athletic scholarships" and special privileges are offered and taken. The special efforts are made by alumni and coaches to get the "best." And so the seeds have been planted for the weeds of commercial athletics to start choking off the flower of amateur sport.

We have seen on several occasions what the eventual result has been in the land to the south of us. Let us hope that those who are inclined to follow the "American" plan take a good look at the consequences. But the most serious consequence is not that the coach or the school or the recruiting alumnus is hurt but that the youth of the country really pays the shot in the end.

And the disenchanted are dropped by the wayside - - - with nothing, but the bitter realization that more has been lost than has been gained.

PROPAGANDA BOOMERANG

Socialist propagandists in Iron Curtain countries set great store by the word "colonialism." At a recent conference of writers from Asian and African countries held in the Soviet Union, a resolution was adopted urging writers of the world to protest against colonialism and exploitation by foreign powers. .

This resolution ought to appeal very strongly to writers in the Baltic countries, in Hungary, in Poland and in other areas where the Soviet Union, by armed force has overrun them, has crushed and exploited countries which it has overrun. Certainly writers in these satellite countries behind the Iron Curtain could write with feeling based on personal experience of the horrors of Soviet-style "colonialism."

Writers behind the Iron Curtain who act on this resolution must be brave men. For those in the satellite countries who voice concern about Soviet colonialism will be writing their own death warrants.

BOASTING

By EDGAR A. GUEST

I never knock a friend, said he,
If good I cannot say,
No word of blame shall come from me;
I scorn the knocker's way.
There's none in his finest mean I know,
We've never had a tiff;
To anger he is always slow,
And he'd be perfect, if—

And Brown, well, Brown is all right,
He's lolling in a rut;
He's trying hard big things to do,
Yes, he's succeeding, but—

And Smith is doing very well;
Some people say he's slow.
How true this is, I cannot tell,
Smith's very bright,
although—

Yes, things are coming right my way;
I'm working hard, but then
Hard work was always known to pay,
I'm passing other men.
In fact, I think that I may say,
In life's eternal press
That, take it all, from day to day,
I am a big success.

Kangaroos Multiply

Shuford Benson Herald

Kangaroos like to square a f i and trade flurries of blows, like boxers. Trainers have even taught them to box with men at exhibitions. A good referee needs to be on hand when a kangaroo hops into the ring. Bracing on his powerful tail, the long-eared pugilist may lash out with both legs. In a clinch, he may dismay the sticklers by sinking his teeth into his opponent.

A safeguard for the Marquis of Queensberry is not the reason Australians are combining these days about their famous kangaroos. The trouble is simply that there are too many of them. Reports from some areas indicate the animals have reached plague proportions. Bounding ahead of cattle and sheep, they prohibit vegetation, and quench their thirst with water needed for stock. Kangaroo populations now range into bounties to attract more hunters.

At $7.18 a young kangaroo or "joey" is about the size of a bumblebee. The Australian Geographical Society says. The blind and hairless creature, guided by instinct, immediately begins his mad dash for safe her pouch. There he finds a comfortable home. If the mother kangaroo becomes alarmed, she may invert the baby into a sleeping bag. This increases the chances of escaping and returning later to give birth to more. If she is killed, he still has a chance to live.

With only a teaspoon of nourishment for a voice, the great gray is not overly blessed with intelligence. But he is handy against a fence or try to go through a wire. He can also be cagily jump over.

Though a gentle vegetarian by nature, a full male kangaroo will stand his ground when cornered or boys and girls scouts studies developed, but the powerful five-toed hind feet are used for kicking and clouting. A favorite stunt for a kangaroo beset by dogs is to wade breast-deep into a river, catch his tormentors as they attempt to follow him, and drown them one by one.

Where Does Sunshine Go?

Fort William Times Journal

Where does all the sunshine go?

The answer could bring much comfort to gardeners, farmers, skiers, and perhaps one day help to control the weather, as well.

And to get the answer, a team headed by Dr. Verner Suomi, University of Wisconsin meteorologist, is putting finishing touches to a "sunshine recorder" which will become the sunshine sleuth. It probably will be launched late this year.

Sunshine means heat, tremendous amounts of heat, tremendous amounts of heat falling upon the earth's surface.

Obviously the earth doesn't keep all this heat. If it did, we would all cook. The earth must get rid of as much heat as it collects.

Over a year or 10 years, the radiation exchange balances out, Dr. Suomi explains. "But we don't know what happens in January by month, or whether there are significant effects in the summer by for a week we get more or less heat than the earth surrenders to space.

"Clouds and snow reflect a great deal of the directly back to space. What happens to weather if the United States is covered with lots of clouds for a week or so?

"Suppose the oceans get more sunshine than usual, for lack of clouds, for a week. There to be would be more evaporation and so more rain would have to fall somewhere. Or do the ocean-reflaps store heat in such a way

GLEANINGS FROM OUR PYLES OF BYGONE YEARS

30 YEARS AGO

November 11th., 1928

A large turnout of war veterans assembled at the armouries this morning and, accompanied by the Argyll Light Infantry, marched to the cenotaph where a large number of citizens had gathered to observe Remembrance Day and do honor to those who gave their lives in the great war. A brief service was conducted by the Rev. R. E. Newman, president of the Belleville Ministerial Association assisted by the Rev. A. Beauchamp Payne, chaplain of the Argyll Light Infantry. Many wreaths were placed at the foot of the cenotaph by the veterans' organizations, the city, clubs, societies and individuals. It was a very impressive service. The collection was announced by the Rev. D. T. McClinck. Next the armouries the 21 gun salute, at which Col. Roscoe Vanderwater will be in command.

Beside the flag draped war memorial that stands near the town hall in Canniffton residents of that village in conjunction with those of Point Anne, Shannonville and district paid tribute to their honored dead in an impressive Armistice Day service this morning. The service was in charge of the Rev. Arthur Pepper, Anglican minister at Point Anne and Shannonville assisted by the Rev. Adam Armstrong, minister of the United Church, in Canniffton. There was a large attendance and the choirs of the Canniffton United Church, Hershimer Avenue Anglican Church, Christ's Anglican Church, Point Anne, sounded music in keeping with the occasion in an excellent manner.

THE WAR IS OVER—GERMANY HAS SURRENDERED

ARMISTICE TERMS ACCEPTED BY GERMANY.

Early this morning citizens were awakened by the continuous rent ringing of the city clock bell and the blowing of locomotive and factory whistles. Lights soon commenced to show from windows and all hours and crowds of people were soon upon the streets. The celebration of victory commenced about four o'clock in the morning and lasted all day and all nights were free to enter into the merry-making of victory and peace — joy was unconfined. All kinds of vehicles were called into service and many of them were soon decorated and filled with cheering men, women, boys and girls. They paraded the street, bands played and hundreds of people jammed the sidewalks. At eleven o'clock a thanksgiving service was conducted upon the court house lawn. At 3.00 o'clock in the afternoon a parade was formed and included ex-soldiers, policemen, school children and many floats. It was a great day in Belleville.

Rainmaking In Australia

BBC London Letter

Even though rainmaking h s come out of the realm of magic into the realm of science, many people still look on it as a rather hit-and-miss af air. But in a recent address to the "Workshop for Farmers" program broadcast in the BBC's General Overseas Service, Donald Shand pointed out that this was far from being the case in Australia, where experiments with silver iodide have been carried out over many thousand miles of country in the Snowy River ranges.

No one could have rain simply because he wanted it, Shand explained. There was legislation to ensure that rain made over the ranges was for the greatest benefit to the greatest number of farmers. After his travels in California and Arizona, he found that rain was a very doubtful blessing to the farmers, and he thought the time had come to take a scientific approach to the subject. He added: "If we can precipitate rain on the highlands and make the inland dry, then we have got the right soil temperatures and we can get some rain through pumps." The process, said Shand, had been developed by Dr. Schaefer, who is in charge of the Council of Scientific and Industrial Research, and had done tremendous things for farmers in Australia. He had carried out a series of flights releasing silver iodide into the cloud at different levels and temperatures. Just like a farmer going down to sow seed. You fly through the cloud at a certain level and temperature. "It's just like a farmer going down to sow seed. You f y through the cloud and inject silver iodide, and in a matter of ten minutes there is rain." Rainfall over the Snowy River ranges had been increased by as much as 30 per cent, and he had been told that an increase of 5 per cent in seven was worth five million pounds in electricity alone to Australia.

Why Is Nelson Flying Flags?

Kitchener Record

Recently the 150th anniversary of the birth of the man who became England's greatest naval hero, Horatio Nelson, was celebrated.

At that time, of course, the British press published many stories and comments upon the career of Nelson, and the people of the great variety of superlatives.

Quoted in many tributes w s the famous signal Nelson made before Trafalgar.

England expects that every man this day will do his duty."

Fortunately some commentator recalled that a typically British "understatement" made by Nelson's second-in-command, Collingwood, during the signal flags and it helps place the rhetorical message in better perspective. That admiral said:

"Whatever is Nelson doing flying all those flags? We all know what we have to do."

Hunters Must Eat Hearty

Ottawa Journal

When we with Quebec hunters in the woods this fall, it is not only with normal goodwill but with a growing sense of anxiety. If they don't eat heartily enough they will be in trouble.

Our wildlife expert remembers a man in Quebec who shot a moose weighing 1,200 pounds and the ... amount is supposed to yield 500 pounds of edible meat. But the hunter got only 200 pounds ed on October 22 about 1,500 moose were killed, which ... calculation makes 750,000 pounds of meat.

A new Quebec regulation to combat poachers makes it illegal to have moose meat in your possession after February 28 and we can imagine an unhappy weight remembering ... February 28, that he has half a moose in cold storage.

"He that banquets every d a y never made a good meat", s a i d Thomas Fuller, and even with this warning in mind all we can say to the hunters is "Eat, brothers, eat, eat until it hurts"!

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

How little war really means to us is best demonstrated in the fact that we set aside one minute of silence out of the five million, category minutes fifty and devote send minutes of the year as a mark of respect and mourning for the 58,000 Canadians killed in the First War, and the 39,000 in the second war. We declare a whole day for remembrance. But we gravely suggest one minute for silence; and hardly anybody remembers.

Thus lightly is war brushed off in the minds of the survivors. And even some of them forget.

For reasons of convenience I offered to use formal observations of November 11 years held on Saturday and Sunday, November 8th and 9th.

A woman of my acquaintance lost her husband in the first war and her son in the second. S h e observes both days of ceremonies on each of the three dates, one for her husband's regiment, one for her church and one by h e r son's school principal.

To Your Good Health

By Joseph G. Molner, M.D.

SMALL VARIATIONS IN TEMPERATURE ARE NOT ALARMING

"Dear Dr. Molner: Please tell me if I am right in believing normal body temperature varies up to 98.8 degrees, but if it reaches 99 we have a fever. — Mrs. C.P.W."

You're a little off the beam, although not very much. If you mean that the temperature is "normal" if it's below 98.8, but that four tenths of a degree above is bad, that's not quite true.

Variations in temperature, if they are small, mean little. If the variations are large, they become alarming whether they are above or below normal.

The average body temperature, as measured by a thermometer under your tongue, is 98.6.

It may rise to 99 or slightly higher without one being ill. Technically you "have a temperature" at 98.7, and technically you are "subnormal" if you have 98.5.

But a tenth of a degree, or several tenths, is so small a disturbance, and always has been anything serious. Exertion, excitement, a hot bath, a humid day, any one of a dozen such common matters which can raise your temperature half a degree more or less.

If, on the other hand, your temperature is 100 or more, you're quite sure to be ill. Fever will be associated with an over-active thyroid gland. And so much for the above-normal readings.

SUB-NORMAL READINGS

Other people are alarmed by a low temperature. Say 96 degrees. This is not necessarily unusual. Indeed, if you take it noon in the morning after you have had a good night's sleep your body has relaxed and is operating at a slow and easy pace.

Such a sub-normal temperature is to be expected when the thyroid gland, rather than being over-active, is under-active. The rate of metabolism (the rate at which it burns up food) is at a low ebb. Body temperature tends to decline a bit.

It is wise to be alert to any large variation from the normal. Like 98.6 — but there may be as many significants. Generally speaking, if you go drastically below, as compared to a rise above.

Sheik Builds New Palace

Montreal Gazette

The Sheik of Kuwait is building a palace with just something out of the Arabian Nights; it is reported in Beirut. The writer of the 1,001 nights could have dreamed. The German architect is designing the interior of the palace, and the details:

The whole 90-room palace will be air-conditioned;

The 20-room wing, with swimming pool, will be harem quarters;

The palace-movie theatre w i l l seat 200 and the main dining room will be "a forest of crystal chandeliers."

Total cost of the palace is estimated at 5 million. Many characters have been warned, however, that the Sheik is changing his mind in the spring: payment of bills presented after that date is not guaranteed.

Next spring is the date set for a state visit to the king of Saudi Arabia by Sheikdom on the Persian Gulf by Gamel Abdel Nasser, president of the United Arab Republic. And the Sheik of Kuwait fears that after the Nasser visit Kuwait's oil revenues will no longer be his to spend.

Nasser, it seems, is expected to "liberate" him from the burden of his money. So it's a sheik's "last fling.

Strength for The Day

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

DEAD WITHUN

"Look at that tree. It has a fine growth of leaves on the outside and long, healthy-looking limbs. But the inside seems to be dead." "Yes," replied the tree expert, "that is because the tree has got enough water. When it planted in good ground, has sufficient moisture, but not enough to overload it, it tends to die at the centre."

One could hardly put any more forcefully than this the situation that many human beings confront. They are dead at the centre of their lives, and dead because they do not get enough water. The people we have in mind are those who have not read a book since they left school nor had a conversation worth the name. They are hard swallowing of gum! — C. J. W.?

Don't we all wish well-meaning strangers would quit giving our children things we can't? However this particular piece of business is long since gone, the question process may have broken it up into small bits. In any event, swallowing one piece of gum is nothing to worry about.

Dear Dr. Molner: Is there such a thing as hormone shots to enlarge the hustles? Would you suggest such? or, should I see my doctor? My husband insists on getting these shots. — C. R."

If I had any evidence to indicate that such a treatment would work, I would say so. I don't, except in the few cases in which the patient is medically deficient in hormones. It seems to me that this is a decision for your doctor to make, not your husband, certainly your husband, if he stopped to think about it, would see that you should not run the risk of physical harm by trying a treatment which, at best, probably would have to be watched closely, and which, at worst, might do serious benefit. In plain words, I'm afraid of such a treatment if there is not enough to give any chance of results.

"Dear Dr. Molner: Any pains? Both can be stopped' To learn how, write to Chicago Institute, Suite 1000, 1234 Main 258, Dundee, Ill., requesting my booklet, "How To Stop Leg Cramps and Foot Pains," enclosing a large, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 50c in coin to cover handling.

High School Activities

The agriculture department seems to have been busy with activities and plans this fall.

Under the direction of Mr. Cochrane, students in the grade 9 and 10 agriculture classes have planted over 2,000 trees on the school grounds as part of the general landscaping program.

Arrangements have been made for 60 boys from the grade 9 and 10 agriculture classes to attend the Royal Winter Fair on Friday, November 21.

Ken Lucas, a student of G-10-A, ploughed his way to a $16 prize in the International Ploughing Match held recently at Crysler, Ontario.

The Quinte Tractor Club is forming this week. As Dennis Clarke, the Student Council vice-president said in explaining school clubs to the members of the Home and School Association, "All you need is a tractor!"

A reminder that the next meeting of the Home and School Association of Q.S.S. will be held Monday Nov. 17 at 8 p.m. A special invitation is extended to the parents of grade 2 students. The meeting will take the form, of a panel discussion chaired by Mr. A. O. Hall, chairman of the Bay of Quinte District High School Board Planning Committee. Other members of the panel will be Principals E. A. Orr, L. F. Reid and W. J. Musgrove. The subject under discussion will be the streaming plan to be introduced instead of the customary week. schools in September, 1959.

A couple of warning notes issued recently from Principal L. F. Reid's office. One is in connection with the interim reports that are being sent out this week to a number of parents in connection with the academic progress rate of some of the students. The second concerns the June examinations which will be held this year on three days November 24, 25, 26, instead of the customary week. In an effort to save classroom time, the examination time has also been shortened to an hour and a special showing of a film, "The Final Times of Ten" exams are as follows: 9—10:30; 10:45—12:15; 2—3:30. It is planned to have report cards distributed before the Christmas holidays.

The English department has also been busy recently. Final rehearsals are underway for the Saturday Evening Ghost which will be presented this Thursday and Friday by the Drama Club, under the direction of Mr. A. Connerty. The students body was treated to a preview of the play at last week's assembly.

Mr. H. Bond has arranged a special showing of a film "The Tale of Two Cities" on Tuesday, Nov. 18 at 7 o'clock especially for those students in grade 10 who are studying this Dickens' novel.

HONOR DEAD

An impressive Remembrance Day service was held in the auditorium at the opening of school on Monday, November 10, to honor the fallen of World Wars I and II. At the foot of a solitary cross, flanked by the Union Jack and the Red Ensign, a wreath was placed by Squadron Warrant Officers Gordon Smith and Dwight Richard and Senior Flight Sergeant Doug Dixon. The Last Post was sounded by Barry and Brent Daniels, after which one minute of silence was observed. Appropriate scripture readings and music added to the solemn and respectful tone of this assembly.

On Tuesday, November 11th, 23 cadets and 4 officers from the squadron took part in the Remembrance Day Parade to the Belleville Cenotaph where a Q.S.S. wreath was laid by the Squadron Warrant Officers and the Senior Flight Sergeant.

As practical gesture in the observance of Remembrance Day, our school donation to the Poppy Fund was over $65.

The executive and two members of the Student Council are conferring with their staff advisers on possible revisions of the Council constitution.

The band is sporting new blue and gray uniforms, and three drum majorettes are working very hard at their drills. With new uniforms and majorettes, it won't be long until our marching band is in full swing.

Toni Wall, a student of G 9-D, had an interesting essay on the history of Foxboro published in a recent issue of the Ontario Intelligencer.

Quinte Air Cadets are beginning rifle-range firing this week. All first-year cadets will be firing their first targets. Plans are being made for the formation of a rifle team to enter the Strathcona Rifle Shooting League in the year.

Under the direction of Mr. Smykaluk and Mr. Isaac, a handsome plaque has been erected in the lower hall as a tribute to "Peter Paul Mitas Student" of the year. To date, the plaque bears the portraits of Rosetta Campbell (1956) and Paul Mitas (1957). Jim Greene will also join the gallery to represent 1958.

Teachers' Desks At Quinte School Rifled by Thief

Quinte Secondary School was entered last night and most of the teachers' desks rifled. Loot is estimated at under $10. The thief or thieves scattered papers about, especially in the main office, but this appears to have been as the result of a hurried search for money, rather than deliberate vandalism.

Entry to the school was gained by breaking a window on the ground floor in the rear of the school. Glass was also broken on entering the main office, where papers were strewn about but no important documents appear to be missing. There is a twelve-inch pane of glass in the door of each classroom and most of these panes on the main floor were broken, the doors then opened by reaching through the holes and the teachers' desks rifled.

School Debenture Of $1,300,000 Is Approved

A debenture by-law authorizing the borrowing of $1,087,250 for the construction of the new Moira Secondary School east of the city, was amended by city council in committee last evening to provide more funds for the erection of the school structure.

Original estimates and government approval had been given for the above amount but the tender award of $1,058,000 for the construction was higher than expected. The new figure asked by the Bay of Quinte District High School Board and approved by council was $1,300,000.

The board request for additional funds was approved by council with little discussion other than a query from Ald. Monaan as to whether the third high school would be necessary if non-residents students or students living outside the school area were excluded.

Ald. Gordon Wishart, former member of the high school board, explained that no money was lost in selling education to non-resident students. Such students paid the full costs of education along with a share of debenture costs and in addition helped to pay for transportation for rural students belonging to the school area, while they had to provide their own transportation.

The Belleville Memorial Arena would take on this modernistic appearance if renovations costing $215,000 were carried out. Renovations would include new self-supporting roof, new seats and heating with the swivel frontal appearance.

City council will vote their approval or disapproval of the plan following financial report on arena operations in other centres.

Proposal for Renovation Of Arena at $215,000 Placed Before City Council

A proposal for the renovation of the Belleville Memorial Arena to provide for new seating, self supporting roof and a new entrance at a cost of $215,000 will be up for approval by city council at their next meeting.

In the meantime city manager Doug Denyes will get operational figures of other municipally-owned arenas in the province in order that councillors may be provided with a financial picture through operation of better arena facilities.

With approval by council the matter would have to be placed before the Ontario Municipal Board for their approval.

Planned alternations would call for removal of the present roof and posts with provision of a new self supporting roof, approximately 2,800 seats, locating units to raise the temperature of the seating section and change the frontal appearance of the building to give a modern perspective.

THREE STAGES OF WORK

Alderman Claude Tice, as chairman of the Arena Commission noted that the work could be done in three separate stages, the first calling for removal of the present roof structure and provision of a new self supporting roof to give uninterrupted view of the ice surface. This phase of the work with the contracting firm to take old steel and other salvage, would cost $83,000.

Second step would be to provide reinforced concrete steps designed for patent seats to be installed at $10 per unit. Underseat washrooms, snack bars and other rooms would be required to equal to existing rooms. This phase would cost $42,500.

Cost of the seats would be in addition to the construction contract price.

800 EXTRA SEATS

Third step of the work would be removal and replacement of the roof over the front entrance with provision of approximately 800 gallery seats at the north end.

Alderman Tice said the Arena Commission was asking council to grant an authorizing by-law, following which the matter would be placed before the municipal board for approval. He felt that the cost of the renovations could be financed out of profits.

This was doubted by several other council members, including Mayor Gerald Hyde, who said the commission might be able to pay half the annual renovation costs out of profits.

Alderman Digby said the program would have to be sold to the people before action could be expected to be taken, while Ald. Doug Moxam asked why thinking was not in terms of a new building when it was planned to strip the present structure to the bare walls.

In reply, Mayor Hyde said the walls, plant equipment and site were valuable with engineering estimates that it would cost nearly a million dollars to provide a new recreational centre with hockey arena.

Alderman Ralph Graham said that with better facilities yearly rental estimates could be stagnated with commensurate increase in profits.

Operational figures for other municipally-owned arenas in the Ontario area will be placed before council at their next meeting at which time council meeting will be again asked to approve of the project.

McCRAE APPOINTED

WELLAND (CP) — Municipal Affairs Minister Carrother Monday announced the appointment of Welland Mayor Armour McCrae as Welland's new municipal board. Hope Diamond Now Property Of U.S. Govt.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Hope diamond, a beautiful gem with a dark past, now belongs to the U.S. government.

Will Purchase Radio Equipment For Public Works

The city public works department will adopt radio communication as a means of speeding up operations.

This was decided by council Monday evening when in committee members voted to purchase radio equipment for seven of the department's vehicles.

City Engineer Malcolm Turnbull said radio equipment would save the works department money in that more work could be gotten out of present equipment. This would be especially true during winter conditions with snowplowing operations in the annexed area.

There was some discussion as to whether a rental proposition or outright purchase of equipment would be more economical. Rental of equipment from Bell Telephone would cost $272 monthly, as against a capital outlay of slightly over $5,000.

Decision was made in favor of outright purchase of General Electric equipment at cost of $5,644.

GOOD MANNERS

By Mrs. Beeckman

STRANGE WEDDING ANNIVERSARY SITUATION

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I have an unusual situation and have not been able to find anyone to help me solve it. Can you? Mrs. A married Mr. B in December, 1934, and they were divorced in January, 1944. In February, 1944, Mrs. A married Mr. C. In June, 1947 Mr. C died. In October 1947, Mrs. A and Mr. B were remarried, and they are still very happy. Now the question is: When will Mrs. A and Mr. B celebrate their 25th Anniversary? — Reader

I can well understand that you haven't been able to find anyone who would give Mrs. A and Mr. B the advice they (or at least Mrs. A) would like to have — that it would be proper for them to celebrate their 25th Wedding Anniversary 25 years after their first marriage, in December, 1934. That is, in December 1959. This is my judgement, but I wouldn't make good sense, or be in good taste — for then wouldn't they also be "celebrating" the three years (1944-1947) when Mrs. A was married to another man, Mr. C?

I have a very definite feeling that if they persist in celebrating their 25th Wedding Anniversary and dating it from their first marriage, relatives and friends might do a bit of date-figuring and think this plan rather strange.

IS GIFT NECESSARY AT GOLDEN WEDDING CELEBRATION?

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

When a couple celebrates their Golden Wedding Anniversary with "Open House" to anyone w h o wishes to come, is it necessary to bring a gift? — Hope

Not strictly "necessary." But I do think that a guest attending such an important and significant occasion as this Golden Wedding celebration, would naturally be inclined to take some kind of gift as a gesture of warm-hearted congratulations. It might be a simple, inexpensive, but carefully-chosen gift, handsomely gift-wrapped in radiant golden paper.

Broilers Glut The Market

by Mary Moore

From two totally different sources in one day, I heard that broiler chickens are a drag on the market this month because two many ambitious men and women went into the business.

My neighbor Bruce, who is a block salesman for a farm machinery firm, said that some of the chicken raisers who went into the business in too big a way may lose their shirts this Fall.

Then my hairdresser, who is a wives' gain.

FARBECUED CHICKEN:

To serve six I bought 3 broilers for $3.00, split them in halves and arranged them side by side on the rack in the big broiler pan. I was in a big hurry as usual so using one of those coated-foil packages of spaghetti sauce dry mix, I added to it 1-4 cups water and 1-4 cup catsup and stirred it over the medium heat until it thickened. I used 1-2 of it spread over the surfaces of the raw chicken halves and baked the whole business 1 1-2 hours at 325 deg. Fahr. basting them with remaining sauce two or three times until it was used up.

Seven year old Neddy Miller ate one of those halves of chicken but "nearly busted" in his attempt to keep up with Pete and his Dad.

A second informant, a feed man, said he lost $4,500.00 because an over-ambitious chicken grower had to sell his broilers below cost and could not pay his feed bill. So while chickens are cheap we might as well live the life of Reilly and have chicken in the middle of the week as well as on Sundays.

PRIZEWINNING BROILED CHICKEN

Place chickens cut in halves in broiling pan. Rub entire surface of chicken with cut lemon, squeezing lemon to obtain plenty of juice. Coat with butter or margarine that has been melted. Sprinkle with a mixture of 1 teaspoon each of salt and sugar, 1-4 teaspoon paprika and 1-8 teaspoon pepper for each half. Leave the broiler pan skin side down. Place the broiler 6 to 9 inches under heat. Chicken should be broiled slowly. Regulate heat and pan position so

They have to kill and sell them on the day they reach the broiler stage or be faced with buying feed to raise larger chickens, to sell at a very low competitive price in the big meat packing companies. Indeed chicken raisers say that broilers are fed so scientifically to make them grow so fast that they will die (without being killed!) if stricly "necessary." But I do think that a guest attending such an important and significant occasion as this Golden Wedding celebration, would naturally be inclined to take some kind of gift as a gesture of warm-hearted congratulations. Club Activities

QUINTE PER-CAY-KLLES

The third meeting of the Quinte Per-Cay-Klles was held recently at the home of Mrs. C. Reid.

The meeting began by each member giving her name, age, previous units taken which will go on the progress report.

The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. A. Mitchell.

Points of discussion, which were demonstrated, included: posture; preparation of material for cutting, and laying the pattern and cutting, and cutting of pattern markings.

The practical work included each girl practicing good, posture, checking patterns on the figure and altering patterns.

Home assignments were read.

Mrs. Reid served refreshments.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, a newspaper editor, a women's editor and two writers. Each article is a summary of an actual case history. The Council reports on problems that have been dealt with by responsible agencies and counsellors.

Martin S. — I'd like to go to college.

Martha S. — But I don't want to have to live with his mother.

Martin S. — My wife and I were married ten years ago at the ages of 18. Both our parents were against it, but we eloped.

My parents had money put aside for my college education, but after I married they said the money would be for my sister, since I wouldn't be able to go to college because our first child was on the way.

We now have three children and our youngest is six. I haven't gotten very well settled in life from the finacial point of view, and I am sure I could do much better if I could get a college degree in business administration.

My father died a year ago, and my mother would like to take us into her home. Then my wife would be able to go to work. We could get through the four years easily, but my wife doesn't want to live with my mother.

Martha S. — I don't think it's a good idea to live with in-laws, no matter how good relations are. As it happens my relations with my mother-in-law are not of the best. She doesn't talk about it, but I feel she hasn't really forgiven me for marrying Martin before he had a chance to get in his schooling.

My mother-in-law is not particularly good with the children anyway. She seems to make a big fuss over them and give them lots of affection and treats, and then she'll suddenly turn on them and become very strict. They say they don't know where they are with her. They don't like the idea of going to live with her.

I wouldn't mind going to work, but I feel that the children are still too young to be left to their own devices after school. Besides my job couldn't cover expenses if we had to pay rent.

The Council: Martin's drive in wanting to go after his college education at this period of his life deserves some credit and encouragement from his wife. It seems to us that if this marriage were more firmly founded in mutual understanding and helpfulness, Martha would be so eager to have her husband fulfill his ambitions that she would be more than willing to make any necessary sacrifice.

Martha's arguments do strike us as being, it is understood that conditions might not be ideal in a mother-in-law's home, but where there is a will to accomplish a goal, a helpful wife might try manipulating the situation so that everyone concerned could achieve greater happiness within limitations.

Whether or not she quite realizes it herself, we suspect that Martha really doesn't want her husband to go to college. She should ask herself whether this is so and investigate the reasons for it. Perhaps she is afraid that her husband will go too far beyond her, or perhaps she feels that his attending school at a late age is a rebuke to her for the hasty marriage. We believe that she would be much happier with herself if she gave up this kind of self-centered brooding and threw herself with enthusiasm into the job of helping her husband achieve the kind of success he really wants.

Stooks of Grain Capped To Assist in Research

MELFORT, Sask. -(CP)- Motorists passing a farm at this town 100 miles northeast of Saskatoon have their curiosity aroused by stooks of grain that seem to be wearing caps.

The tops are actually sheets of white cloth, and it's all part of the endeavors to develop superior varieties of cereal grains at the Dominion government's experimental station.

Cerealist Harold Ballantyne said in an interview that the number of varieties on test each year ranges up to 300 of wheat and from 50 to 100 of oats.

This year there was a co-operative project with the University of Saskatchewan on barley, considered a main crop in this area. Flax also is being studied.

The small covered sheaves are the two middle rows of a plot, capped to protect them from the yield, weather and left to dry outside until cured if weather permitted. Then they were brushed by small, hand - fed machines. The cerealist checks them and they are forwarded to Winnipeg to be checked for protein and milling and baking quality.

Mr. Ballantyne, a graduate of the Ontario Agricultural College at Guelph, Ont., said the seed is obtained from other Dominion government grain farms, the universities and the cereal breeding laboratory at Winnipeg.

His fertilizer is used in growing the experimental plots as Mr. Ballantyne is concerned with growing types under normal conditions.

During the growing season, the plots are kept free of weeds and notes are made on the type of growth, strength of straw, height, disease resistance and Expected Entire Country Will Be Spanned by Ribbon Of Asphalt, Concrete in 2 Yrs.

OTTAWA (CP)—A paved highway now stretches across about two-thirds of Canada's girth and it is expected the entire country will be spanned by a ribbon of asphalt and concrete in the next two years.

By December, 1960, Canadians may be able to drive in comfort over a coast-to-coast network of surfaced roads, a national undertaking first advocated in 1910 by the Canadian Highway Association.

Built of the surfaced road will be highway built by the provinces and the federal government under the Trans-Canada Highway Act. Other sections will include roads built by the provinces before the act was passed in 1949 and 400 miles of provincial highway through Quebec, which had refused to sign a Trans-Canada Highway agreement.

4,479 MILES LONG

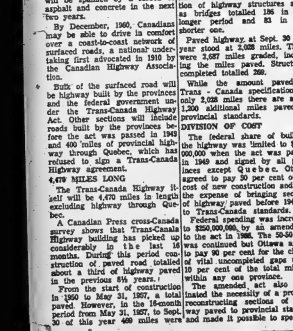
The Trans-Canada Highway itself will be 4,470 miles in length excluding highway through Quebec.

A Canadian Press coast-to-coast survey shows that Trans-Canada Highway building has picked up considerably in the last few months. During this period construction of paved road totalled almost a third of highway paved in the previous 5½ years.

From the start of construction in 1950 to May 31, 1957, a total of 1,500 miles was paved. However, in the 15-month period from May 31, 1957, to Sept. 30 of this year 469 miles were paved.

In the 5½ years 2,154 miles were graded, compared with 533 of 1,559 miles of highway were graded in the 15 months. Construction of highway structures such as bridges totalled 126 in the 5½-year period and 21 in the shorter one.

Paved highway at Sept. 30 this year stood at 2,028 miles. There were 2,587 miles graded, including the miles paved. Structures completed totalled 269.



While the amount paved to Trans-Canada specifications—only 2,028 miles there are about 1,000 additional miles paved to provincial standards.

DIVISION OF COST

The provincial share of building the highway was limited to $150,000,000 when the act was passed in 1949 and the eight provinces except Quebec. Ottawa agreed to pay 50 per cent of the cost of new construction and half the expense of bringing sections of highway paved before 1949 up to Trans-Canada standards.

Federal spending was increased to $250,000,000, by an amendment to the act in 1956. The 50-50 split was continued but Ottawa agreed to pay 90 per cent for the closing of vital uncompleted gaps up to 10 per cent of the total mileage within any one province.

The amended act also eliminated the necessity of a province reconstructing sections of highway paved to provincial standards and made it possible to speed up

By December, 1960, Canadians may be able to drive in comfort over a coast-to-coast network of asphalt and concrete roads. Route of the route will be highway built by the provinces and federal government under the Trans-Canada Highway Act.

A paved road now stretches across two-thirds of Canada.

Canadians Killed in 2 Wars Remembered Across Nation

By DAVE McINTOSH
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Over the broken dead,
Over the trenches and fire,
Rugged as God rang out
"Cease fire."

These lines by Frederick George Scott recall today the 40th anniversary of the cessation of the four-year horror known as the First World War which cost more than 60,000 Canadian lives and 138,000 Canadian wounded.

That war did not end war, of course, and in 1939-45 another 41,600 Canadians were killed and 53,000 wounded.

They are being remembered again today in bowed-head ceremonies before the National War Memorial in Ottawa and at cenotaphs, churches and graveyards in hundreds of other Canadian communities.

In March, 1918, in the fighting in northeastern France, the Canadian Corps held its ground in the Lens sector though the British forces on either side caved in under the great German offensive.

In August, the Canadian Corps under Lt.-Gen. Sir Arthur Currie spearheaded the Amiens offensive, then was moved north for the series of attacks rom Arras to Cambrai.

On Nov. 1, 1918, the Canadians mounted the attack which yielded Valenciennes. From there, the road runs to Mons, 25 miles to the east.

The evening of Nov. 10 found the 3rd Division close to Mons on the west and south. On the right, the 2nd Division reached the Mons-Givry road.

During the night of Nov. 10 and morning of Nov. 11 the two divisions resumed their advance, oblivious to the fact that at 5 a.m. Nov. 11 the Germans signed the armistice in Marshal Foch's railway car at Rethondes station in the Forest of Compiegne, and the armistice was to take effect at 11 a.m.

Meanwhile, the Canadians cleared the Mons suburbs of Ninny and Petit Ninny with the bayonet and by 8 a.m. stubborn machine-gun resistance had been broken and the ancient town freed of the enemy.

Mons was the point where the British Expeditionary Force first made contact with the Germans in August, 1914.

The official report of the Canadian Corps' operations in 1918 says only this of the armistice: "Word had been received through First Army that hostilities would cease at 11 a.m. on Nov. 11, the armistice having been signed in acceptance of our terms."

On the armistice celebrations the London Times commented:

"There was little beautiful or useful about the celebrations."

The Times added: "All that can be said is that they were relatively harmless."

Prime Minister Lloyd George read the armistice terms in the British Commons. Elsewhere, St. Margaret's Church, Westminster, to thank God for deliverance from four years of killing.

Former Legion Chairman Fulfilled Comrade's Wishes

By DAVE McINTOSH
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Zero hour came, the whistle blew and the men went over the top.

But just before they jumped out of the trench, a soldier asked Sgt. Jack Moore whether he would look after his 14-year-old orphan sister if he were killed.

The soldier was killed and Moore was wounded for the second time—the first was at Vimy Ridge a year earlier—but survived.

Moore remembered and that is why he himself is remembered throughout Canada, particularly in Winnipeg and especially on July 4th, which marks the end of the First World War.

FULFILLED PLEDGE

Moore, then 36, came out of Deer Lodge Hospital in Winnipeg and took the first things he did was to find the 14-year-old girl, remove her from the farm where she had been working, find her a home and put her in school. Then he became a foster-father and later matron of a hospital.

He eventually became foster-father to 64 boys, 62 of whom served in the Second World War. Two were killed, two were gassed, really unfit.

Arthur Ernest Moore was born Feb. 21, 1892 at Lewisham, England, and died of a brain tumor in Winnipeg July 4, 1950.

He joined the Royal Navy at the age of 12. He left the navy after nine years and he came to Canada in 1910, going to work in the C.P.R. shops at Winnipeg where he made his home.

He joined the 90th battalion in 1914 and served overseas until he was sent home because of ill health.

VETERANS' LEADER

Moore seemed to have no ambition other than to help those around him and it is probably no exaggeration to say that his work at least indirectly benefitted some 100,000 Canadians.

He was a Dominion chairman of the Canadian Legion from its founding in 1925 until his death and he helped to draft a veterans' charter later adopted in substantially the form he had suggested.

He knew cabinet ministers and generals and right watchmen and alcoholics and drug addicts. They all called him "Jack."

Though Moore had seven children of his own he found the means to help scores of children of dead or ailing comrades.

Belgian Priest Awarded Nobel Peace Prize

OSLO (AP) — Rev. Dominique Georges Pire, a Dominican father who has devoted years to helping refugees from eastern countries, won the Nobel Peace Prize for 1958 Monday.

Father Pire, 48, heads an organization he calls Europe of the Heart. He is a Belgian, born in Dinant, a French-speaking city on the River Meuse.

The prize, worth $41,227, was awarded by the five-man Nobel committee of the Norwegian parliament. As usual the committee gave no reason for its decision. It did it say which other names had been proposed.

FINAL NOBEL AWARD

The announcement winds up the award of Nobel prizes for 1958, made from a fund left by Alfred Nobel, the Swedish inventor of dynamite.

The awards will be presented at a ceremony in Stockholm on Dec. 10.

When the award was announced, Father Pire was at the Dominican convent at Huy, his city of residence on the River Meuse.

His secretary, Miss I. Jolling, said: "Father Pire is down with flu and I will have to let him know."

A huge hydro project which will eventually provide 1,000,000 horsepower is electrify for Aluminum Company of Canada smelters in the Lake St. John district of Quebec is expected to be in operation next summer.

This sketch shows how rushing rivers as much as 300 miles north of Quebec City are being harnessed in a $150,000,000 project that began two years ago.

The project involved damming the wild Peribonka River, digging a 34-foot tunnel 6½ miles through solid rock and feeding the water through five generators.

First the east end of Lake Manouan was plugged so the water would flow from the west end of the lake through the Peribonka. Then a dam was built at Passes-Dangereuses to create a reservoir.

The tunnel carries the water from Passes-Dangereuses to generators at Chute-des-Passes to preserve its power. Other generators are at Chute-du-Diable, Chute-a-la-Savane, Isle-Maligne, Chute-a-Caron and Shipshaw.

Most of the power will be used by Alcan smelters at Isle-Maligne and Arvida. (CP Newsmap.)

2,000 Albertans Shoot Antelopes

EDMONTON (CP) — Another antelope harvest has ended in southern Alberta. The yield was high.

This fall 2,580 Albertans got 85 antelope licences in a province-wide draw from a total of 3,700 applications. An estimated 2,000 of the lucky licencees took home the pronghorn allowed each one in the eight-day hunt that ended Saturday.

It was believed to be the highest hunter-success ratio for any of Canada's big game. Last year the Alberta lands and forests department found that of 635 hunters queried, 91.5 per cent had killed an antelope.

painter's shack in the CNR yards at Winnipeg.

Then the down-and-outers went to him for help. Even during the depression years he managed to find many of them jobs. His helper from the Bahki Home in Winnipeg which put orphans through school and cared for them.

During the Second World War, he wrote from a day to day to 65 "sons" in uniform and sent them parcels. Some of them still corresponded a unit of the No. 1 branch of the Legion in Winnipeg which carries on his work.

Some of his "sons" have said frankly—that Moore was a saint, one, a penitentiary guard, said recently he would have been a convict himself if it had not been for Moore.

Just a few weeks before Moore died in 1950, the Legion adopted a "foster-father" program under which veterans and the children of other veterans who have died, or are ineptus for this program was provided, of course, by Moore.

NOVELIST DEAD AT 79

Power Drama Being Unfolded In Untamed Country 300 Miles North of Quebec City

CHUTE - DES - PASSES, Que. (CP)—A power drama written by engineers and performed by hundreds of workmen is unfolding in this untamed country 300 miles north of Quebec City.

It is being built by Aluminum Company of Canada's project to supply 1,000,000 additional horsepower to company smelters and the energy-hungry Lake St. John region.

The concept "itself is simple: build a dam and have the backed-up water pass through power-generating turbines in a controlled flow. But the application means holding back the wild Peribonka River, digging a 34-foot tunnel 6½ miles through solid rock, and feeding the water through the five largest generators yet built.

THREE-YEAR PROJECT

This $150,000,000 project was started in September, 1956. Target date for the first generator to be in service is next August although engineers say they are hopeful they can advance that by one month.

"This job is probably bigger than Kemano," said Jack Liddle, Alcan's general administrator. "Their supply tunnel is longer but ours is greater in diameter and we have much longer adits (access and construction tunnels). I think we've moved more rock."

Kemano is the British Columbia power project which supplies energy to Alcan smelters at Kitimat.

Two phases were involved in building up a reservoir of water. One involved the plugging of the east end of Lake Manouan, about 80 miles northeast of here, so the water would flow from the west end of the lake through the Peribonka River, a distance of 30 miles.

The second was building a dam at Passes-Dangereuses, at the head of the Chute - des - Passes water-supply tunnel. These two dams created a reservoir which is nearly 100 miles back from the project.

CALLED FOR TUNNEL

From Passes - Dangereuses to the five generators here the water fall, or head, is 340 feet. Had the water been allowed to follow the natural river bed, the Peribonka between Passes - Dangereuses and Chute-des-Passes much of its energy would have been dissipated, so a tunnel was rammed through solid granite.

The tunnel is wide enough to allow three cars to drive side-by-side and is shaped like an inverted U. Engineers explain this makes a stronger arch than a circle and that it provides a better hydraulic section for the flow of water.

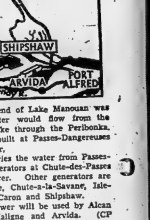
It will be lined with concrete two feet thick to provide easier water flow and to prevent rock from working loose and making their way into the generators.

In addition to the main tunnel there are about 3½ miles of adits and discharge tunnel — through which the water flows after leaving the generators. Water will no longer the supply tunnel just behind the Passes-Dangereuses dam in an intake shaft large enough to accommodate a small office building.

Connected to the supply tunnel is a surge tank 250 feet deep and 130 feet in diameter. This takes care of a back flush of water when the power gates are closed.

IMPRESSIVE STRUCTURE

Most impressive underground excavation is the powerhouse, with an arched roof it is 477 feet long, 199 feet high and 77 feet wide. Here will be housed the five 200,000 - horsepower generators.



Power will be carried on transmission lines to the Alcan substation at Isle-Maligne, 90 miles to the south.

Key day for many working on the project will be next spring when the rock plug 50 feet thick and 100 feet in diameter, blocking the intake tunnel will be blown out to take advantage of the lowest possible water level behind the dam. Gates and a temporary bulkhead can back up the water until the generators are able to receive the flow.

Main contractor for the project is Perini - McNamara - Quemont Construction Company. At a peak period some 3,200 workers were employed. That force now is about 2,350—about 80 per cent of whom are employed by Perini-McNamara - Quemont. The remainder work for Alcan or subcontractors.

Completion of the project will raise to 3,500,000 horsepower the energy generated by Alcan's six major generating stations on the Peribonka and Saguenay Rivers.

STIRLING

Hastings County Federation Of Agriculture Meets in Stirling

STIRLING — The annual meeting and first banquet of Hastings County Federation of Agriculture was held Wednesday evening in Stirling Community hall with approximately 150 farmers and their wives in attendance.

Laurel Rebekah Lodge, No. 211, under the supervision of Noble Grand Mrs. Morton Carter and her convenor, Mrs. Hilda Rose, catered for the delicious meal, which was preceded by a toast to the Queen and grace.

Mr. Ross Ketcheson, president of the County Federation, was master of ceremonies. In his presidential address he welcomed the group which included Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Johnson and Mr. and Mrs. Fred Crown, of Peterborough.

OUTLINES PROGRAM

He outlined the various items that had been carried out during 1958. These included a plan to secure better prices of Ontario winter wheat, a Brucellosis canvass, plans for a beef committee and a poultry committee.

The president also reported that through the Federation's efforts the compensation for grade cattle had had to be changed to in a clean-up program was increased by $50, and for purebred cattle, an increase of $40, plus their beef value.

The group also took part in the Hog Vote and the Dairy Queen elimination contest. A great deal of time was spent in preparing a constitution for the county, he noted.

The president said in part: "The lines have come when farmers of this province and nation must be concerned about production, public relations, advertising, and greatest of all, marketing."

He thanked the local agricultural office members and the farm director at the local radio station.

Mr. Don Leeming, secretary of the Feedration, introduced the head table guests, who included: Mr. Gordon Greer, Ottawa, president of the Ontario Federation of Agriculture; Miss Kay Homan, Belleville, president of the Junior Farmers of Ontario; Mr. Cunningham, Seldman for this area; Mr. Philo Harris, first vice-president, and Mrs. Harris, Madoc; Mr. John Kane, second vice-president, and Mrs. Kane, Stirling; Mr. Cecil Ketcheson, fourth vice-president, and Mrs. Ketcheson; Mr. Lee Grills, M.P., and Mrs. Grills; Mr. Phil Flagler, provincial manager, and Mrs. Flagler; Mr. Sid MacDonald, agricultural representative; Mr. Percy Ray, county director and past president, and Mrs. Ray; Mr. Geo. Carlisle, treasurer and Mrs. Carlisle, and Mr. Ross Ketcheson, secretary, and Mrs. Ketcheson.

The presidents of all the commodity groups were also introduced.

Decorations included chrysanthemums and two large bunches —one giving particulars regarding the Rural Co-Operator which is read by 85,000 farm families in Ontario, and the other depicting the Provincial Federation's achievements under the headings of legislation, economic and social, and stressing the 18 departments of service.

MUSICAL PROGRAM

A male quartet composed of Messrs. Bryce Philip, Jack Bush, Grant Richardson, and Ralph Johnson, with Mrs. Gerald Clancy as accompanist, sang four vocal selections. Miss Maria Heasman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Heasman, R.R. 4, Stirling, gave three tap dance numbers, one of which was the Highland Fling. She was accompanied by Messrs. Kenneth Rose and Douglas Kane with bagpipes and snare drum. All three were garbed in traditional Scots costumes.

Mr. Percy Ray introduced the provincial president and told of his activities in various farm organizations throughout the years.

Mr. Greer, who has just returned from a six weeks' trip to the British Isles and Europe brought a wealth of information to those in attendance. He based his message on the theme, "The Federation of Agriculture. What Does it Represent and What Do We Do?"

The speaker gave illustrations of what the C. G. A. has done along such lines as the "pharmacy bill" farm bargaining, the value of having trained salesmen, in order to have fair prices for the farmer, farm marketing boards, and other phases of the department.

He stressed that farmers must be organized if they want a fair share of our national income.

"We as Canadian people live in a high price economy and in other countries our Canadian cheddar cheese is a luxury product," he said.

Mr. Greer suggested a good immigration policy in Canada would develop our national resources and create better home markets for our produce.

He also spoke on the value of advertising in keeping the product before the consumer.

"Line contribution is a great asset, he stated.

The speaker compared the farmers and their produce with that of the countries which he had visited and mentioned several items of interest dealing with powdered milk, cheese, butter production.

He also spoke briefly about what had been accomplished to curb the spread of rabies, and assistance given farmers dealing with contracts for pipelines, highways, and hydro projects, the work of the rural agencies and co-op insurance, The Rural Cooperator, Farm Forums, and competations.

In closing he reminded the group that the Federation's efforts are dependent upon the grade of its members and urged that through the Federation's efforts we accomplish more.

Mr. Philo Harris thanked the speaker for his worthwhile address.

Mr. George Carlisle, treasurer, presented a full financial statement and reported a small bank balance. A copy of the statement was given those in attendance.

Mr. Ray Cunningham, fieldman for the D. F. A., presented the constitution of The Hastings County Federation of Agriculture. Each article was read and carefully outlined along the lines of objects, membership, board of directors, officers, finances, meetings, and by-laws. A printed copy was distributed and the proposed constitution was unanimously adopted.

Mr. George Carlisle commended Miss Kay Homan for her achievements and said Hastings County deeply appreciated the honor she brought to the county when she was elected president of the Junior Farmers of Ontario. On behalf of the county he presented Kay with a small gift for which she graciously expressed her thanks.

Kay briefly expressed her appreciation of the loyal co-operation she had received previous to her new appointment from the members of Hastings Federation.

Mr. Lee Grills, M. P., spoke briefly and said it was always a pleasure to work with farm people. He stressed the value of orderly marketing and advised the group to support their various organizations and also to pass on advice to the government.

Mr. Cecil Ketcheson expressed thanks for the entertainment and also to Laurel Lodge for their delicious meal. Noble Grand Mrs. Marion Carter, replied.

Check Rad Hose And Connections Before Winter

By EUGENE MILMOE

Your car's radiator hose and connections should be inspected at least twice a year. In every pre-winter checkup, of course, the heater hose must be given some special attention. Heater hose cracks and clogging or looseness can be a fairly common source of anti-freeze leakage.

With today's increased cooling system pressures and engine vibration, it's more important than ever to keep hose clamps properly tightened, especially when permanent anti-freeze is in the system. Check this yourself, or examine the hose for cuts, breaks, blisters or rotting. If any part feels very soft or unusually stiff and brittle, don't take a chance — replace the entire hose. A thorough check also includes disconnecting and examining the passages for clogging or restriction.

H. V. writes: "My radiator doesn't seem to be losing any coolant, but I do notice a little stain on the curb where I park. It stains a sign of leaks?"

(A) Usually, but apparently this one is very slight. A radiator sealer will probably be enough to stop it.

From T. D.: "I had my car checked for loose exhaust connections or pinholes in guard against monoxide poisoning. The service man said an inspection and a smoke test showed everything was alright. What is the smoke test?"

(A) Light oil is poured into the carburetor air intake to effect a smoky exhaust, and the tailpipe is blocked off momentarily. Then the smoke can be seen escaping through any cracks, holes or loose connections that might exist.

F. W. asks: "I've had some starting and stalling troubles which were due to water in the gas. With rain-freezing weather coming, I'm anxious to avoid a repetition of this trouble. What do you suggest?"

(A) Keep your gas tank well-filled to minimize condensation. You might also pour one of the alcohol mixtures (sold by your gas service station) into the tank to absorb any water in the system. Do this a few times during the winter months.

H. Mc. writes: "Two questions about tires. Does correct alignment add anything to tire mileage? Will a tire last longer if underinflated or overinflated?"

(A) Proper alignment helps tires wear more evenly. Underinflation will ruin a tire, whereas slight overinflation can add many miles to tire life.

THIS WEEK'S SAFETY REMINDER

Always check twice before pulling away from the curb.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

The Hull-Ottawa Canadiens, as many a puck-chasing aggregation to ever face a Belleville foeman, will be the guests of the Maes tonight. They are no strangers and are one of the clubs that gave the Maes one of their biggest heartbreaks on the occasion of their last visit here. Remember? Our side playing one of its best games of the season had the Quebec youngsters down 3-0, with less than four minutes to go. Then it happened. Three goals in three minutes and our team was beaten.

The Macs are trying desperately to get back into the groove and they should be rested for tonight's tilt after a gruelling three-game weekend. They tied the Quebec club in Hull on Sunday after leading them 3-2 going into the third period. However, the supervised conditioning the players had lots left and roared on to knot the count. Game time tonight 8.30.

Bobby Hull of Point Anne Now With Chicago Only Two Points Behind Leaders

MONTREAL (CP) — The National Hockey League scoring derby has taken on the aspects of a traffic jam, with eight Baby Bleu gate of New York Rangers and Eddie Litzenberger of Chicago Black Hawks barging through to the front and crowding the elite of Montreal Canadiens back into the ruck.

Bathgate, sharp-scoring right-winger, rattled in three goals and scored an assist in New York's three games to run his point total to 16. Litzenberger's output was two goals and an assist, in two games, putting the lanky Black Hawk on the same 16-point plateau.

BATHGATE TOPS

Bathgate takes top billing in the official statistics, released today, because he has scored a total of eight goals to Litzenberger's four.

Canadiens played only a single game—a 3-3 setback at the hands of the Rangers—but even in the five - goal production Montreal's top guns were almost silenced.

Jean Beliveau and Bernie (Boom Boom) Geoffrion, co-leaders a week ago, failed to get a point and dropped back into a third - place tie with Bathgate at 15 points.

Three of their teammates—the Richard brothers and Dickie Moore—were left stranded in a six-way tie at 12 points.

Tod Sloan of Chicago with nine goals and five assists, leads the group. Sloan had a 3-2 record for the week. Maurice (Rocket) Richard, scoring one goal in the 4-4 bracket, the same as Moore who collected two assists, is an assist in his team's one game.

HULL HEADS HENRI

Bobby Hull of Chicago, also with a 1-1 count for the week, joined the 14-point contingent, ranking ahead of Henri (Pocket Rocket) Richard of Montreal and Ned Sullivan of New York. The little Rocket could muster only one assist while Sullivan clicked once four.

With the 10th-place man only two points behind the leaders, the scramble is just as tight for several more places. Camille Henry of New York, with a 9-2 production, is all alone at 13 points. Only one other player has a teammate Bill Gadsby, the ace New York defenceman helping on four goals last week.

Bracketed at 11 points are Jerry Toppazzini and Bruce Bridges, Andy Hebenton of New York and Geordie Howe of Detroit. Only top - point-getter of this trio failed to get a point. His leadership is goals, with nine, one more than Howe. New York's Sullivan leads the league in assists with 13.

Committee Will Keep Boxing On High Plane

HAGERSTOWN, Ind. (AP)—Arch Hindmarch executive secretary of the National Boxing Association, has announced formation of a new investigating committee to "keep boxing on a high moral plane and to give direction and stability to the sport."

Hindman said the committee, appointed by NBA president Dr. Ward Wylie, will set up a file on underworld figures and encourage exchange of information among the association's member states.

"With the decline of boxing in New York and the shifting of the sport away from the East Coast, many racketeers and bootlegger who prey on boxing can be expected to follow the sport in other states," Hindman said.

Jack W. Urch, executive officer of the California Athletic Commission, will head the group.

John J. Agnew, member of the District of Columbia commission, was appointed ahead of a grievance and appeals committee to which boxers,managers and promoters may appeal rulings by association members.

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Winger Rocky Rukavina, suspended by Philadelphia Ramblers for not reporting on time for the Eastern Hockey League club last month, reached agreement on contract Monday. Terms were not announced. The club said he will left Kapuskasing, Ont., and will report today in time for the Ramblers' game against Washington in Philadelphia.

Eskimos Heavy Favorites To Meet Winnipeg in Finals

By JIM PEACOCK
Canadian Press Staff Writer

EDMONTON (CP) — The first quarter may tell the tale today in the second game of the Western Interprovincial Football Union semi-final as Edmonton Eskimos play Saskatchewan Roughriders here. The two clubs meet in the first afternoon game before Eskimos returned to the Commonwealth Stadium in 1949.

Edmonton carried a 16-point lead out of the first game with a 29-13 total-point series 37-11 in Regina Saturday, and are heavy favorites to whitewash their opponents to the league final against Winnipeg Blue Bombers.

EARLY ADVANTAGE

Coach George Terlep of the Riders looks for the point spread Monday night, then said: "It could be 50 points or more by tomorrow night. It's all over if they get a couple of quick touchdowns. I just can't see what the attitude out here might be.

"But I could go the other way, too. If we get one fast."

The game was scheduled for 2 p.m. EST and the weather forecaster called for good football weather—dry sunny and 40 degrees with light winds. A few scattered showers/flurries in the morning wouldn't be heavy enough to harm the playing field.

A crowd of more than 20,000 was expected.

For the underdog Riders, who surprised many by grabbing the third and last playoff spot in the league race by one point after finishing in last place a year earlier, the outlook was bleak.

But Terlep said his players' attitude has been good; they still hold a hope for victory. The club is as healthy as it was going into Saturday's game, when speedy halfback Mike Blaser, a 30-year-old sensational rookie from Iowa, is the only man kept on the sidelines by injury.

Terlep said Hagler might dress for the game today, but it was doubtful whether he'd see much action. Hagler's knee injury was not coming around too well.

On the other side, coach Sam Etcheverry of Eskimos finished second place this season after five consecutive years of taking the league pennant was not overly confident.

"It could go a wing and a prayer," he said after Monday's workout. "I expect that to be a read "a wing and 16 points."

He said quarterback Jackie Parker, who was finished for the season with Bombers meeting Eskimos.

If Riders win the semi-final, the opening game of the final will be in Regina Saturday.

Playoff Games In Big Four To Be Televised

OTTAWA (CP) — Sam Berger, chairman of the television committee of the Big Four football league, has announced that all three playoff games will be televised live by the CBC in the home cities concerned.

Berger said equitable terms had been reached with the CBC and permission now has been granted by the league.

Previously league authorities had said there would be blackouts in the cities where the games are played. They said then this stand was taken after reviewing the situation of previous years and the effect on the gate.

NOT PRECEDENT

Before this season, the Big Four gave the sponsors the rights for home-city TV of the playoffs but said the action is not to be considered a precedent. The decision for blackouts this year stood until Monday night.

The games concerned are the round-robin semi-final in Edmonton Wednesday between Ottawa Rough Riders and Montreal Alouettes and the two games of the final. They are scheduled for Nov. 15 in Ottawa and Nov. 22 in Toronto Tiger-Cats, first-place finishers, and the winner of the Ottawa-Montreal tilt.

WANTED MORE MONEY

A CBC spokesman said the Big Four football league corporation on Oct. 21 that it wanted an extra $15,000 a game for playoffs shown on TV in its home cities when each was played.

This has been "quite a shock," the spokesman said, since the CBC had understood all along that the fee was the same as for the previous three years, it would be on hand for the playoffs in all Big Four cities.

The CBC spokesman said has approved the request that Montreal to allow TV showing of the games in all Big Four cities "on account substantially less" than $15,000 a game.

Alouettes' Long-Pass Play May Sink Ottawa Riders

MONTREAL (CP)—It's no secret that Ottawa Rough Riders will be well advised to look out for Montreal Alouettes' long - pass play when the teams meet here Wednesday in the Big Four football league's sudden-death semi-final playoff.

The play depends on Sam Etcheverry's throwing arm and on the fleetness of pass-grabbing of three of two wingbacks—import Dick Hunter or hometown boy Ivon Warmington.

The long - pass operation has brought the Alouettes seven touchdowns this season. It had telling effect last Saturday when the Als rallied on Toronto Argonauts in the final minute of play to win 21-20.

Livingstone was the man who hauled down Etcheverry's terrific pass and it was caught down on the Toronto three for a 67-yard gain. Two plays later, Argo fullback scored the Al's winning touchdown.

It was somewhat ironic that Livingstone, often booed by the fans of drooping passes, came off the bench for the play and suddenly a hero. Fans in Montreal are still talking about the Montreal boy's performance.

Coach Jim Trimble of Ottawa Rough Riders is the understatement of the football season:

"It was a good play."

In fact, Walker wasn't happy over the Alouettes showing here Saturday against the Argos, since they will have the same lineup for the 41-7 the previous Saturday in Toronto.

"We will have to play much better than that if we are to beat Ottawa. We can take it for granted that the Ottawa team will come here fired up for this game.

"I have a great deal of respect for Frank Clair's ability as a coach."

In their four meetings of the regular schedule the Riders and Als broke even, each winning twice at home. On the over-all score reckoning, the Riders have the bulge, 80-56.

The Als will go into the game without fullback Hal Patterson, who re-injured his left knee Saturday. He is out for the season.

Walker is expected to use Canadian Ron Morris in Patterson's position. Moran showed well in past performances.

WEBB TO U.K.

LONDON (AP)—Spider Webb of Chicago, the fourth-ranked challenger for Sugar Ray Robinson's world middleweight title, has been matched against British middleweight champion Terry Downes in a 10-rounder at London's Wembley Stadium Dec. 1.

Rough Riders Ready for Game In Montreal

OTTAWA (CP)—Ottawa Rough Riders top off today with a light early practice and then leave for Montreal, a good night's rest and a workout Wednesday for their sudden death semi-final against the Alouettes.

The Riders haven't won a game in Montreal since the Alouettes' home was into Molson Stadium the 1954 season—that's 11 Montreal games ago.

But Coach Frank Clair, perhaps with a gambler's faith that even losing streaks have to end some time, is having no part of worry over these bleak statistics.

"Those defeats are no criterion," he said Monday night, "of superiority."

NO WORRYING

Furthermore, he wasn't letting himself worry. He wasn't even letting his players worry.

The shortened list of injured players was a slight source of comfort to Coach Clair.

"We're not in A-1 shape," said he, observing a flitting note of optimism, but we're much better physically than we have been for the last three games."

Having spoken thus, he took his team out on the greensward of Lansdowne Park for a short late-afternoon drill.

Clair said he's going along with rookie quarterback Russ Jackson but import Hal Ledyard also likely will see some action.

Toronto Blues Will Be Short 16 Big Guns

TORONTO (CP)— University of Toronto Blues will be short 16 big guns when /next year's football season opens here.

Varsity coach Dalt While says the entire first-string backfield and supporting cast will graduate this year. Many of these players helped Varsity wrap up an unbeaten and untied season which ended Saturday with Blues defeating McGill University Redmen 5-7.

One encouraging note, said While, is the fact that the defensive team, which allowed only seven points in every three games, will be back almost intact.

Among those graduating are Varsity captain Tim Reid, rushing champ Pete Joyce and backfield mate Brian Acton.

EARLY PRACTICE OUT

PORT CREDIT (CP)—No malter how healthy and invigorating hockey practice at 5 a.m. may be, the South Peel board of education doesn't approve of it. Trustees have turned down a request by a local hockey association to distribute early morning hockey practice schedules to district pupils. They said early practices detract from a pupil's schoolwork.

British Sport Writers Ask Title Shot at Heavy Crown

By ED SIMON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP)—Hope springs eternal in the breast of the British sports writer. He currently is working overtime to convince himself that his country boasts not one but two future heavyweight champions of the world.

To the unprejudiced observer, every meeting of two British heavyweights looks like an epic struggle between the resistible force and the immovable object. But the boxing writers, unsurpassed in their talent for making a banquet out of a few crumbs of comfort, are lately demanding a title shot for either Brian London or Henry Cooper. Or, preferably, both.

London, the Negro-Canadian from Blackpool, established himself in the eyes of his compatriots by breaking even in two fights with Willie Pastrano, the clever but light-hitting New Orleans cutie who ranked as the No. 3 challenger for Floyd Patterson's crown before London gashed his eye and beat him by a technical knockout in the fifth round last October.

FRENZIED HEADLINES

Two weeks later, Cooper produced frenzied headlines on the sports pages by winning a narrow decision over Zora Folley, who had been Patterson's No. 1 challenger. Folley countered that the Cooper boom by saying after the fight that the British heavyweight smith "would have a great chance of beating Patterson."

Rumors and matchmakers flew across the Atlantic with monotonous regularity. Then, in the mounting indignation of the writers, the unsporting crowds and the publicity - conscious Cooper boom by saying after the fight that the British heavyweight smith "would have a great chance of beating Patterson."

Rumors and matchmakers flew across the Atlantic with monotonous regularity. Then, in the mounting indignation of the writers, the unsporting crowds and the publicity - conscious Cooper boom by saying after the fight that the British heavyweight failed to expose Patterson to the British onslaught. There would be no option from Cooper on the claims of Sweden's Ingemar Johansson, the European champion, whose experience includes a knockout punch.

KNOCKOUT PUNCH

The Swede, unbeaten in 15 fights, stopped Eddie Machen, perhaps the most formidable of the possible potential American opponents, in one round. He has also flattened Cooper and Over Erskine, London's predecessor as British champion.

Stan Mikita Leading Scorer In Junior 'A'

TORONTO (CP)—Forward Stan Mikita of the first-place St. Catharines Teepees continues to lead the scoring race in the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A series with 20 points on 10 goals and 10 assists.

Official statistics released Monday show Bill Connolly of Peterborough Petes in second place with 17 points. He has seven goals and 10 assists. Mike Chico Maki of Teepees a tni third place with 16 points, scored by eight goals and seven assists.

Peterborough netminder Jacques Caron has moved into the goaltender's position with a 1.33 goals - against average and four goals in three games.

Dennis Delgrosso of Teepees, in junior play, has allowed 26 goals for a 2.6 average.

UTTENDALE TO TRAPPERS

NORTH BAY (CP)—North Bay Trappers, last-place clubs in the OHA-NOHA senior A group, have acquired right winger Johnny Uttendale, ranny 20-year-old Negro, from Sudbury Wolves in exchange for the Quebec Hockey League. Coach Gus Comeau of the Bears had hoped to turn Uttendale pro and form the first Negro forward line in professional hockey. However, he decided Uttendale needed more seasoning.

Gerry McDougall of Hamilton Ground-Gaining Champion Of Big 4, Faloney Best Passer

TORONTO (CP) — Halfback Gerry McDougall of Hamilton Tiger-Cats won the ground-gaining title and quarterback Bernie Faloney of the Tiger-Cats took the passing championship in the Big Four football union this season. It is the second successive year that McDougall has won the rushing crown.

Bill Bewley of Montreal Alouettes won the league scoring title with 62 points, five better than Vic Kristopaitis of Toronto Argonauts. The Toronto-born Bewley, one of the most accurate kickers in professional football, had two touchdowns and booted 28 converts, six field goals and four singles.

Hamilton, which finished first in the standings for the second straight year, ended up with three individual championships, official statistics released today showed. The team's other pace-setter was home brew Cam Fraser, who again maintained his place as the top kicker.

SHATTO'S AVERAGE BETTER

The 226-pound McDougall, who came to the Tiger-Cats from UCLA and then was relased as a non-import because his parents were born in Canada, rolled up 1,190 yards on 222 carries for an average gain of five yards. Halfback Dick Shatto of Toronto Argonauts took second place with 969 yards, averaging 6.3 yards on 154 rushing attempts.

Faloney, former all - American with the University of Maryland, topped the passers with an average gain of 9.3 yards as he completed 166 of 309 attempts for 2,532 yards and 18 touchdowns. Quarterback Ronnie Knox, loaned to Argonauts in mid-season by Chicago Bears of the National Football League, finished in second place, averaging 8.8 yards with 114 completions on 193 passes for 1,658 yards. Former UCLA star threw nine touchdown passers.

Quarterback Sam Etcheverry of the ground-gaining club with 2,760 yards but they had the least number of yards in the air, 2,160, and trailed all the clubs in total offence with 4,920.

The last-place Argonauts, who gained 5,004 yards passing and running to rank third in total offence, piled up 2,508 yards passing but 2,496 yards rushing. Offensive laws was the only club to gain more yards than the Argos along the ground.

Montreal Alouettes was third with an 8.4-yard average. The former University of Denver pivot, now in his seventh season with the Alouettes, passed for the most yardage, 3,248, and threw 18 touchdown passes in connecting on 267 of 423 tosses.

O'QUINN TOP RECEIVER

Red O'Quinn, Montreal's veteran import end, led the pass receivers. He caught 62 passes for 982 yards to finish ahead of import halfback Joel Wells, also of Montreal, who shared 48 loaned and gained 414 yards.

Fraser averaged 43.8 yards on 156 punts and following him was import Dave Mann of Argonauts with an average of 41.8 yards on 104 kicks.

Tom Hugo of Montreal intercepted nine passes to head that division. Homebrew Don Fisbey of Ottawa Rough Riders was top in returning punts with a total of 362 yards and an average gain of 7.3 yards. Import Bobby Judd of Ottawa led in kickoff returns with a total of 430 yards and an average gain of 32 yards.

TEAM FIGURES

Team offensive statistics show Alouettes rolled up 3,273 yards along the ground and in the air. The Als passed for 2,573 yards and 1,700 yards on the rushing division with 1,799 yards.

The first-place Hamilton Tiger-Cats were second in total offence with 3,091 yards, 3,011 passing and 2,080 rushing.

The Riders, who finished third in the standings, were the top

B.C. Lions Invade Sarnia To Take Five on Option

VANCOUVER (CP) — British Columbia Lions have chosen five of the senior Ontario Rugby Football Union for player help in an early move to build up their team for the 1959 Western Interprovincial Football Union schedule.

The Lions, who finished last this year, said Friday they have taken options on halfback Gerry Stanley, tackle Gerry Sturm, end Sweet Harkins, fullback Tom Dwinnell and end Morgan Clarke. All played this year with Sarnia Golden Bears.

No figures were released but Cappozzi, Lions' general manager, said the amount involved was "a lot more than the $3,000 Saskatchewan (Roughriders) was reported to have paid Hamilton (Tiger-Cats) for Cookie Gilchrist."

LARGEST DEAL

Capozzi said the deal is the largest in Canadian football history, in both money and players.

Maurice Chilton, director of public relations for the Bears, said in Sarnia if the players do not make the Lions they will be returned to the Golden Bears.

Capozzi said the players are definitely interested in joining Lions, who won only three of 16 league games this year. Whether they see action in any of the early WIFU games depends on their showing at Lions' summer training camp.

Stanley, 22, was formerly with South Carolina State. Sturm, 21, came from Illinois University. Harkins, 26, Clarke, 25, and Dwinnell, 23, are Canadians.

Bears won the OIAAU championship this year by defeating Kitchener - Waterloo Dutchmen, four-time titleholders.

Asked how the transaction could affect Sarnia's title defence next year, Chilton said:

"It's a little hard to say at this point. But we feel it's a good thing for the club.

"For one thing it should make it easier for us to get ball players. Players in the colleges and the pro camps in the U.S. may want to start out in Canadian ball with us when they see it's possible to move up from here. And, of course, the deal will mean money for the Sarnia treasury and that always helps."

Capozzi said Lions are interested in other players with Eastern Canada senior teams and indicated there may be more deals.

Directors of the Lions are expected to announce the club's 1959 head coach in a few days, Dan Edwards, who took over from Herb Capozzi early in September, is one candidate.

There have been reports that Frank (Pop) Ivy, former coach of Edmonton Eskimos and now coach of Chicago Cardinals of the U.S. National Football League, could be Edwards' successor.

Ballymoss Will Likely Go to Post Favorite

LAUREL, Md. (AP)—The $100,000 Washington, D.C. International will have its seventh and greatest running today with Ireland's Ballymoss favored to become the 1958 horse of the world.

The horses from seven countries were invited to the sporty 1¼-mile global gallop on Laurel Park's sharp - turn grass oval. With the finest field ever lined up for the race, world interest has mounted to a peak for the annual battle.

Sunny weather, turning cloudy later in the afternoon was in prospect and good weather could lure the biggest crowd in Laurel history. The record is 32,715, set in 1956 when France's Master Bing won.

Ballymoss has the credentials, and looks the champion. Not big, but well put together, the four-year-old specimen can whip up all world titles by getting into the winner's circle.

FAVORITES OUTLUCKED

However, no favorite has yet won the race, which is the final leg in a world triple crown. Ballymoss, owned by John McShain, Philadelphia construction two richest races, the King George VI and Queen Elizabeth Stakes at Ascot and collected $66,197, and the Prix de l'Arc de Triomphe at Longchamps where he netted $106,190. He can complete the triple and snap up another $70,000 if he can add victory to the stud in England.

Although early odds have listed Ballymoss the 6-to-5 favorite, the latest word from London is that Ballymoss was quoted there as 4 to 5.

There are big question marks from all corner of the world, including two Soviet three-year-old Garnie and Zaryad, who will run as an entry at odds of around 20 to 1. Trained by the Yellow Derby, Zaryad was runner-up.

AMERICAN ENTRIES

Entered for Canada only, who upset Round table in three consecutive $100,000 races, is the second choice at 4 to 1, and Tudor Era is 5 to 1. Tudor Era won the Laurel Futurity Cup as a grass foal.

Others in the race are Sailor's Return, Australian champion sire; Tharp, an Irish colt; Venezuela's Escribano; Germany's Orsini II; and Revoque, from Argentina.

Peterborough Petes Defeat Marlboros 4-1

TORONTO (CP) — Wayne Connelly of Peterborough Petes took over the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A scoring leadership Monday night as he and linemate Bill Mahoney each counted two goals and two assists to take the Petes to a 4-1 victory over Toronto Marlboros.

Connelly now has 31 points from his nine games. Mahoney's total of 29 is good place in the scorers' ranks, three behind St. Catharines Teepees' Stan Mikita who led with 30 points until Monday night.

The win also brought the Petes within five points of the league-leading Teepees who have lost only one game in 19 starts this season.

Marlboros' loss left them in a fourth-place tie with Barrie Flyers at seven points each—one behind Oshawa Canadair Billmen's squad which last week fought its way out of the cellar and had first place.

Petes' first two goals came during Marlboro penalties. Wayne Brassard scored for the hosts with only seconds remaining and Petes wrapped it up in the final period with two more.

Chuck Adamson played goalie for Petes after a back injury early in the first period to regular goaltender Jacques Caron. The injury occurred when Marlboro defenceman Bill White flew into Caron and knocked him back into the net.

Lamar Clark KO's Three In One Night

SALT LAKE CITY (AP)—Heavyweight Lamar Clark knocked out three opponents Monday night in preliminaries to the Joe Micell-Gene Fullmer middleweight bout here.

Clark, 183, Cedar City, Utah, was to have fought only one on card. Because of a mixup in schedules, officials said, he ended up fighting on the other two.

In his regularly scheduled bout Clark knocked out Ken Howard, 179, Oakland, Calif., in 1:35 of the first round.

Clark then faced Dick Tanner, 182, San Francisco, who was scheduled to fight Maurice Lefice of Ogden, Utah. Tanner failed to emerge for the third round. Referee Ken Shulsen awarded Clark a TKO.

Then Clark opponent, Lefice, showed up. Clark pounded him to the canvas in 2:11 of the first round.

Clark was named in October as the National Boxing Association's heavyweight prospect of the month.

Casey Stengel Honor Guest At Banquet Was as Always Amusing But Very Confusing

GLENDALE, Calif. (AP)—Charles Dillon Stengel, prominent Glendale banker, has ended a self-imposed silence of a month, a record for Stengel.

He was tendered a banquet Monday night by the Verdugo club. It was in honor of Stengel's New York Yankees, whom he manages as a hobby.

Stengel, at his indescribable best, spoke on a variety of subjects. He was, as always, amusing but confusing.

Del Webb, co-owner of the Yankees, described Stengel, as the greatest baseball manager who ever put on a uniform. Casey applauded vigorously.

Richard Breen, movie and television writer, introduced Casey as a man "with a unique and destructive approach to the English language . . . and the only man I know who can make a sentence without using a verb or a noun."

INTO VERBAL ORBIT

Casey bowed politely at the compliment and took off into verbal orbit.

The 300 guests and Casey were in black-tie formals. Casey interpreted this to mean sports must be slightly successful and said: "It's wonderful to be back here in Glendale."

The guests enjoyed this immensely and Casey, without a pause, added fuel to the befuddlement with: "If you ever study this, where you're going-to-leave you'll stay here."

He discussed "tatician" who know more about his ball club than he does and said no one can pleasen a team without dissension, especially from parents.

Casey said three things make a good ball club. Good pitching was one, which led Stengel to a discourse on his near-sighted pitcher, Ryne Duren, who occasionally hits a batter.

Stengel said Duren's hitchs were found to be faulty. The hitchs were changed so the close-reading section covered three quarters of a lens. Still there was no improvement with his eyesight.

Stengel said it was decided to turn the glasses upside down. He said this even cured the problem, but aded that Duren insisted on using a dirty handker-chief to clean the glasses so it didn't make any difference anyhow.

The second point about a good club got obscured but the third, said Casey, is that "the Yankees will train you so good you'll go to another club." The explanation here seemed to be that a player has to go all out to stay with the Yankees.

Campbell May Use Other Lakes For Speed Runs

LAKE CONISTON, England (AP)—World water speed king Donald Campbell says he will consider using large lakes in Italy, Canada and Switzerland for future speed runs.

Lake Coniston, where he set the world record of 248.62 miles an hour Monday, "is getting a bit short for very high speeds," Campbell said.

But Campbell said he likely would return to Coniston in the English lakes district early next spring for experiments on stability at high speeds.

Hap Emms Wants $2,500 for Player With St. Mikes

TORONTO (CP)—Jack Cole, a 21-year-old right winger who played with Barrie Flyers in the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A group last year, now is attending St. Michael's College here.

But if the St. Michael's Majors want to play him in the league it will likely cost them $2,500, according to Barrie coach Hap Emms.

"I want another player for him or $2,500," Emms said at Monday's OHA Junior A meeting. Emms was seeking a ruling from the council on Cole, who is not playing for Barrie this year.

"I don't want to keep him out of hockey but I feel I shouldn't lose a player after paying his salary last season," said Emms. "If he wants to play for Barrie, fine and used him on permission but I'll ask for the game because he couldn't miss time at Barrie Collegiate."

Rev. David Bauer, St. Michael's team manager, said he didn't know if Cole was in school so it wasn't a case of taking the player from Barrie. He said Cole was prepared to sit out the season if forced to.

St. Michael's is playing a 56-game schedule compared to 54 by the other clubs. Barrie and will even up the standings playing six four-point contests. These are: Dec. 7 at Peterborough; Dec. 8 at Marlboros; Dec. 18 at Oshawa; Jan. 22 Peterboroughs; Feb. 8 against Barrie, the sixth game, against Guelph, to be decided later.

Gene Fullmer Wins Easily

SALT LAKE CITY (AP)—Former middleweight champion Gene Fullmer pummelled veteran New Yorker Joe Micell all over the ring Monday night and knocked him out in 38 seconds of the second round of a scheduled 10-round bout. Fullmer weighed 159, Micell 153½.

Fullmer dropped Micell twice in the first round before sailing him away in the second with an overhand right.

"I don't remember what hit me," Micell said. "I don't remember going to my corner at the end of the first round."

Jap Pitchers Surprise Cards

HAKONE, Japan (AP) — Eddie Kazak of St. Louis Cardinals says Japanese baseball will be of major league calibre in 10 years.

Stanky, a front office executive with the touring Cardinals, said shortstop Tatsuro Hiroaka of Taiyo Whales, outfielder Sadaharu Oh of Yomiuri Giants, and pitchers Tadashi Sugiura of Nankai Hawks and Motoshi Arimpaki of the Daimai Orions are of major calibre.

He predicted Japanese will be playing in the American majors "in the not too far future."

Cardinal players also praised the Japanese after playing several exhibition games against them.

"They are a lot better than I expected," said shortstop Alex Grammas. "The pitchers surprise me more than anybody else."

Author Claims All Working Girls Want to Get Married

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Do all working girls want to get married?

Yes, says Rona Jaffe, successful chronicler of the toiling lasses. She's the 30-year-old ex-time office worker who wrote The Best of Everything and sold it for a film story of $100,000. It's her first novel and it's bobbing along on the middle of the 10 top sellers.

Rona is here to promote the book and take a glance at the film script. She hedged a bit on her all-working girls - wanna-get-married thesis with three exceptions:

"Girls who are very shy, who fear that married life will interfere with pursuit of their profession or who are dissillusioned by too many unhappy romances."

But there are a large segment of the great feminine working mass, she claimed. The others want a man.

"That's the theme of her book, and the reviewers state that it contains some rather racy passages.

"My book is the result of working four years in an office mu-sic and interviewing a hundred working girls. I discovered they were five basic types of working girls in New York, so I wrote a story about five girls."

They are:

1. The well-to-do girl who works out of boredom.

2. The out-of-towner who seeks the glamor life of an actress but fails.

3. The would-be actress who must work part-time to live.

4. The engaged girl earning enough to buy furniture, etc.

5. The divorced mother who must work to support her child.

All are seeking marriage, said Miss Jaffe, and that brought up a natural question: What about sex?

"I'm always asked that," she smiled. Rather than pursue the issue, she's dashing off to South America to finish her second book.

7 and several downtown acquaintance of the police were informed.

One bf the persons called police and told them a man fitting Johnson's description had been drinking champagne at the club for several hours..

He said the estimate of the amount found was made by the arrested man, who admitted that he had spent about $60,000 in Los Angeles, Twin Falls, Idaho, and here.

The money will be counted later today. Officers also hope to obtain a written statement from Johnston. He is being held in jail.

neighbor than Canada has in the United States.

"For the United States, Canada has no fear, no jealousy, no suspicion. On the contrary, we have the positive attitudes of co-operation, fairness, justice and freedom. Our relations are an example the whole world. What witness is better qualified than Canada to give this testimony? . . .

He drew applause almost as great as did Eisenhower.

The Canadian was sounded by South Viet Nam's delegate, Nguyen Dinh Thuan. Mr. Thuan, who said the Colombo Plan "has assumed still greater importance in the defence of the countries of Asia against the expansion of Red imperialism."

Eisenhower's points were:

1. An expanding high level of trade with less international restrictions.

2. An intensified program of technical assistance to other countries through the U.S. foreign aid program and the United Nations technical assistance program.

3. More emphasis on private investments as a means for speeding economic growth.

4. More public loans for such projects as highways to be provided on normal banking terms.

5. More long-term development financing that would permit borrowing countries to repay their debts in whole or in part through the country's own currency.

Eisenhower did not estimate the cost of his proposals. He carefully stipulated that portions of the program are subject to the approval of Congress.

He put strong emphasis on long-term loans rather than grants as a means of financing economic development.

Colin B. Mackay, 36, Fredericton, president of the University of New Brunswick Students' Union, 55, vice-president and manager of Bell Telephone Company, publishers of the Cape Breton Post; L.C.J. Davis of Stewart, 49, Charlottetown industrialist; Robert Stafford Furlong, 56, St. John's, Nfld., lawyer.

The nine part-time directors of the CBC board are:

Mrs. Gertrude Alexandra Carter, Salmon Arm, B.C., housewife; Miss Ellen Armstrong, Calgary, director of the Interprovincial Farm Union Council; William Lewis Morton, 49, Winnipeg, professor of history at the University of Manitoba; Frank Peers, Toronto, women's radio commentator; Charles W. Lewis, 49, Stratford, industrialist;

Raymond Dupuis, 51, Montreal department store executive; Rector L. Dunmore, 65, Montreal engineer; Rendel Harris Harrison, 52, St. Stephen, N.B., president of a confectionery manufacturing company; Dr. Ian Mackenzie, 53, Wolfville, N.S., professor at Acadia University.

Mr. Nowlan told the press conference 'that salaries of the part-time directors of the two new boards have not been fixed. However, there had been some preliminary discussion in the case of the full-time BBG members.

The general area of these salaries would be about $20,000 for the chairman; $17,000 or so for the vice-chairman and about $16,000 for the third full-time member.

There had been no discussion of salaries for the chairman or vice-president of the CBC, but their remuneration would be less than they'-now receive as general-manager and assistant general-manager of the CBC. He did not know those salaries.

The new Broadcasting Act provides a fee of $100 a day, for part - time members of both boards while attending a meeting of the full board or any of its committees. They also receive expenses.

Integrated High School Wrecked By Explosion

MORGANTOWN, W.Va. (AP)—A thunderous explosion wrecked an integrated junior high school in the small community of Osage, four miles northwest of here, on Monday.

No one was injured and there was no fire.

State police said the 2:15 a.m. explosion was caused deliberately apparently with dynamite. The explosive is easily obtainable in this mining town of some 400.

The school has 93 Negroes among its 400 pupils.

Charles Stevenson, superintendent of Monongalia County schools, did not rule out the integration issue as a possible motive but said:

"Integration here at Osage school has been going on for three years without incident."

Horse Burps On Peppermints Ruining Opera

LONDON (Reuters)—The 20 members of the cast filled the stage for the grand finale of Boris Godunov at the Covent Garden Opera House. The rich bass of Boris Christoff boomed through the house.

Then disaster struck. The horse on stage started to rumble inside, louder and louder. The cast sang louder—and the horse rumbled louder—until the singers finally drowned out the embarrassing rumbles by sheer volume.

It seems that members of the cast were fond of feeding peppermints to Bubbles, the docile horse who had been brought nightly to Covent Garden to be kept in a comfortable stall as the mighty cast played out the long and intricate story.

But Saturday night Bubbles disgraced herself at the critical moment with her deep, sonorous, rumbles.

Members of the opera company have been warned not to feed Bubbles peppermints in the future.

Mental Patient Locks Self in House Trailer

BARRIE (CP) — A young Orillia woman committed to a mental institution threatened Monday to shoot police if they tried to take her from a house trailer parked outside the brewers' retail store here.

She later agreed to let her husband drive the trailer to a mental hospital in New Toronto.

The husband, Bud Adams, 26, parked the trailer outside the brewers' retail store here on Sunday and asked the police to help. The woman threatened to shoot herself and also to shoot anyone that tried to take her from the locked room.

Later she agreed to let her husband continue to Toronto. The trailer left Mon. with the woman still locked in it. A provincial police cruiser followed at a discreet distance behind the trailer. A doctor from the mental hospital accompanied the husband.

ONTARIO HOG MARKETING PLAN WILL BE REBUILT

Goodfellow Talks To Farm Federation

TORONTO (CP)—Ontario Agriculture Minister Goodfellow indicated Tuesday the province's controversial hog marketing plan will be rebuilt from the ground up in an attempt to make it acceptable to all Ontario's farmers.

Speaking at the Ontario Federation of Agriculture annual meeting, he touched briefly on the hog plan, under which a producers' marketing board seeks to control sale of all hogs marketed in Ontario.

He said the government has not moved weakly and last July's plebiscite on the plan should have left no doubt in any earlier. Answering a question from the floor, he said: "We have to work out a plan that is more acceptable and more workable. At the moment there is a lot of misunderstandings, the plan is not being supported by many producers.

"I'm not concerned with minor opposition groups, but with those producing large hog-pens during counties who are not supporting the plan," the minister said.

Voicing support for the present government regulations such as the Ontario Farm Products Marketing Act, he said: "It is the industry Act. He said marketing plans should stand on their own feet and not have to go to the courts from time to time. (The Act under which Oliver Farm Products received a favorable vote last July, again has been challenged in the courts).

Mr. Goodfellow said farm income this year could rise to a record $650,000,000, while gross farm income would be about $1,200,000,000, the best all-round crop on record with the exception of the war years.

During morning sessions a panel discussed vertical integration or contract farming and registered views indicating that this type of farming could be a big dangerous as many had feared.

Ken Betzner of Waterloo, a federation director, said it would create more credit for many farmers since most of them had already some farmers had no capital investment in their agricultural enterprises. They are handicapped by owning too much, he said.

Other panelists including Mr. Betzner, Professor Ralph Campbell of Guelph, Merrie Archer, Ayr, George McCague, Harriston, and Ben Albert, Ayr, agreed that farm units are likely to increase in size while the number of farmers decreases.

The meeting continues today.

Harkness Warns Federal Price Supports May Have to Be Cut

OTTAWA (CP) — Agriculture Minister Harkness bluntly warned today that high federal price supports may have to be reduced unless farmers voluntarily curb grain production and prevent a crisis in certain farm surpluses.

The Progressive Conservative government doesn't believe in reincarnation, he said at the opening of a one-day federal-provincial meeting of agriculture ministers.

But the world faced prospects of large surpluses in grain and dairy products. Canada couldn't even give away certain items, like skimmed milk, let alone sell them.

He added:

"If serious surpluses do develop which are impossible to sell, or in some cases even to give away, it will become impossible for us to maintain the stabilization act, and share in increases.

"I do not believe quotas on production would be acceptable to the Canadian people, for they are philosophy and that of the government in general is opposed to attempting to regiment our agriculture in that way.

"The alternative is educational work, propaganda and pressure by you people on these you represent, to voluntarily refrain from producing beyond the capacity of Canada to consume and of our ability in the present world situation to export."

He also said this, Mr. Harkness predicted Canadian farmers will have a "reasonably favorable" year in 1959.

There would be troubling surpluses "like the immediate future," but eventually a rise in population would "create more substantial markets for all that we can produce."

Canada would face a "particularly serious problem" in grain, he said, if the wheat production this year reached a record 288,000,000 short tons, much of it in the west.

But while Europe's 1958 wheat crop was big, quality was poor and large quantities of high - quality Canadian wheat would be required for blending purposes. Exports in the current year could be as much as last year's 316,000,000 bushels.

This, combined with the short crop in the Soviet Union, promises

SECOND RAILWAY STRIKE SET BY UNION FOR DEC. 1

130,000 Non-op Men Want Wage Increase

MONTREAL (CP) — Canada's second transcontinental rail strike this year is to start Dec. 1 unless settlement is reached over a wage agreement with their 130,000 non-operating employees.

Strike notice was served on the railways Tuesday on behalf of 15 railway unions representing the non-ops.

Frank H. Hall, chief negotiator for the unions, announced that the Canadian National and Canadian Pacific railways were advised by telegram that unless progress on the new wage agreement with their 130,000 non-operating employees, strike notice was served on the railways Tuesday on behalf of 15 railway unions representing the non-ops.

Frank H. Hall, chief negotiator for the unions, announced that the Canadian National and Canadian Pacific railways were advised by telegram that unless progress on the new wage agreement with their 130,000 non-operating employees, strike notice was served on the railways Tuesday on behalf of 15 railway unions representing the non-ops.

The railways promised to settle the dispute within 30 days — but full rate boost—estimated to be $60,000,000 a year.

The non-ops—workers who do not actually operate trains—last got a raise of 5 cents an hour. Their demands for a five-day week. It was refused after 13 days when Parliament intervened. The firemen's union went on strike against the CPR for nine days in January, 1957, and again for three days in May this year.

CONCILIATION REPORT

The unions have accepted a conciliation board report which recommended a 14 - cent - an - hour wage increase in two installments over a two-year contract. When negotiations opened a year ago the unions demanded an increase of 35 cents an hour.

The railways rejected the report. Ways maintained they could not afford an increase without getting a corresponding boost in freight rates.

Wage scales for non-operating workers vary widely, but average hourly earnings around the country are $1.60. The contract was to expire Dec. 31, 1957.

At this late date in place, it would tie up the CNR, CPR, Ontario Northland Railway, Pacific Central and Hudson Bay Railway, Toronto Hamilton and Buffalo Railway, Quebec North Shore and Labrador Railway, Algoma

"BING" HAYES MADE GOOD RUN IN U.S. ELECTIONS

Charlie "Bing" Hayes, former resident of this city and while here interested in Scout work, is has been a resident of Watertown, N.Y., for a number of years. While in the city he was the leader of the First Belleville Boy Scout Troop and, in the time of Mayor W. C. Mikel was the junior Mayor of the city.

Since going to Watertown he has become interested in city business and for the past twelve years has been a councillor and on ten occasions headed the poll for election. Northern New York is considered a strong Republican district but Mr. Hayes being a Democrat has had excellent success in his election.

In the last election held on November 4th, Mr. Hayes ran as a Democrat for State Senator against Henry A. Wise and was only defeated 38,501 to 38,410 and in Watertown held a 616 majority. From a paper in Watertown it was stated that Mr. Hayes made the best Democratic run in the State for the last 24 years. It was the most impressive run as a Democrat in a solid Republican area" said the paper.

Men of Ideas What World Needs Today, Kiwanians Told

In our world of today we need more than the power of the atom to preserve our freedoms and carry on our ideals if future generations are to inherit what we now enjoy, Belleville Kiwanians and their guests were told Tuesday when they had as their guest speaker, Captain H. W. Johnson, MBE of Kingston.

Captain Johnson, a military chaplain stationed at Barriefield Camp, said that what the world need today is men like Livingstone, Augustine, and St. Francis of Assisi men of ideas with deep religious convictions to carry out their ideas.

"Their strong belief in God changed the lives of men living in those times," he said. "We need men like them today . . . if we are to preserve our liberty and ideals to hand down to future generations."

Special guests on hand for the Remembrance Day service held during the regular meeting of the club at the Riverside Tuesday were Lt. Col. Angus R. Duff, commanding officer of the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment; Mr. J. C. Lundberg, president of the 1st Battalion 201 of the Army, Navy, and Air Force Association, and vice-president of the Dominion Command; Mr. Norm Spencer, vice-president of Branch 6 of Canadian Legion; and trumpeter Bill Wardle. The guests were introduced by Lt. Col. Everett Fairman. Other guests included Mr. Ken Clark, secretary of the Quinte Secondary School, and an inter-club group from Trenton.

NERVED IN TWO WARS

Captain Johnson was introduced by Padre A. S. McConnell who gave a brief resume of the speaker's military career.

Born in Camlachie, Ont. near Sarnia, the son of a United Church minister, Captain Johnson received his theological degree from Victoria College, University of Toronto.

He enlisted with the RCOS as a chaplain and served overseas in the First World during World War II and with the R.C.R.'s during the Korean war. He was with the 1st Battalion of the British Empire for his service in Korea.

Upon his return to Canada at the end of the Korean war, he received a number of three years at Barriefield Camp.

In his inspiring address, Captain Johnson reflected that Remembrance Day is a "day of remembrance, particularly for ex-soldiers."

"Like 23-cent slides, sharp and precise, we remember isolated incidents, some pleasant, some not so pleasant," he stated.

"Maybe you remember a military cemetery between France and Belgium, where the rows of crosses were inscribed with the name of one regiment — a regiment which was ordered to hold a road near Dunkirk against a tremendous German attack. Only three men from that regiment survived.

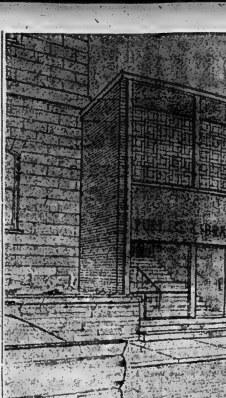
"Or maybe you remember a hot, dusty plain in Normandy. The stench, you'll never forget.

"Or an old couple climbing over the rubble of what once was their home. Or a Korean boy of nine or ten, rooting around in garbage cans trying to find something to eat.

"But these memories of incidents are merely the background to the people you know — the quiet, competent soldier, the reckless daredevil, or the ordinary bloke, like you and me.

TASK NOT FINISHED

"As we remember them on Remembrance Day we realize that the task started by them is not finished. It is up to us to complete the task if their sacrifice is to mean anything," Captain Johnson stated.



In spite of the great strides being made in the acquisition of destructive power — the atomic bomb, rockets, missiles and satellites — the speaker said, "A fantastic power has been placed in our hands and still the search for more power goes on.

"We have this power and we can't give it back, but is this power what we need most of all?" he queried. "Some people say this power is all we need," he remarked, in noting the great rush to train scientists and missile experts.

"But there is another kind of power — the power of ideas, and religious convictions — which take men to the far corners of the earth to accomplish intangible tasks," he stated.

In conclusion Captain Johnson urged his audience to remember that the job of preserving liberty is the task of all and "we must have the strength and power to accomplish it."

Trumpeter Bill Wardle then played "The Last Post," and one minute's silence was observed in tribute to those who died in three wars. This was followed by "Reveille," and the meeting was adjourned.

Architect's drawing ofnew two-storey extension to the Corby Public Library which has been approved for erection by Belleville city council. The addition, costing an estimated $100,000, will provide increased facilities for both adults and boys and girls. Adult books will be housed in the front of the new section with a small but attractive library for boys and girls in the rear. Extension will be built on vacant lot to the south of the present library.

Deloro Workers Reject Offer Made by Board

MARMORA, Ont. (CP)—Striking workers at the Deloro Smelting and Refining Company have rejected a settlement proposal by Ontario conciliation officer R. V. Bradley.

In conciliation, attended by 130 of the 200 workers affected, voted to continue the strike which started Oct. 6. The conciliation officer warned the shutdown might continue until next spring.

"There just wasn't enough in the offer to suit the membership," said William Pocock, area representative of the United Steel Workers of America (CIO). "There was no money offered." Pocock said USWA officials asked for a wage increase of 15 cents an hour, higher shift bonuses, a reduction to 40 hours of the present 43-hour work week, 50-50 participation between the company and employees in an insurance and welfare plan, a dues shop and grievance machinery.

Hourly wages before the strike raged between $1.31 to $1.61.

At Home, Abroad Canadians Honor Their War Dead

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Canadians remembered their war dead Tuesday as with heads bowed they observed two minutes of silence at the 11th hour.

In many centres, wreath-placing ceremonies were held along with religious services and parades by the armed forces and veterans units.

Prime Minister Diefenbaker attended Armistice Day services at Verdun, France, a First World War battlefield on RCAF guard of honor and a pipe band took part.

At Vimy Ridge in France, members of the Canadian Legion observed Remembrance Day in ceremonies at the Canadian Memorial.

Most of the overseas services observed Remembrance Day Sunday when parades and other ceremonies were held at army bases in Germany and air force bases in France and England.

At home, parades and services were also held by many organizations Sunday while Tuesday was a working day for many.

At the National War Memorial in Ottawa, a silent crowd of about 10,000 gathered under cold, overcast skies to watch the placing of wreaths at the base of the memorial.

At Toronto, Mayor Phillips placed a wreath at the city cenotaph during a brief ceremony.

In Moscow, representatives of eight nations laid a brief Armistice Day observance at a cemetery in the heart of Moscow.

French Ambassador Maurice Dejean placed a wreath at the memorial for French veterans killed on Soviet soil since 1812. Also participating were the United States, British, Italy, Belgium, Canada, India and Japan.

IN MEMORIAM

ARMITAGE. — In loving memory of a believer, wife and mother, Dorothy Isobel Armitage, who passed away November 12th, 1942. A token of love and remembrance from her husband, Albert.
The years are many, the days are few,
Since you left us to journey through.
May God bless and keep you safe in His journey.
Yes, memory creates for us
Each hour you are missed.
And nothing our loved one close to us.
We never will.
For even the echo of her voice,
Is heard in memory still.
Her love proclaims triumphantly,
Her life was not in vain.
Sadly missed and lovingly remembered by her loving husband, Albert V. Armitage and family. —

SCRIVEN. — In loving memory of our dear son, Scriven, 1956, November 12th, 1956.
God knew that his work was finished,
That the hills were hard to climb;
So He closed his weary eyelids,
And whispered, "Peace be thine."
Now we're left to journey on,
By the valley of rest so fair.
Memories linger with us,
Though he's not there.
We will meet our loved one there.
Ever remembered by Mom, Dad, Gail and Linda.

SCRIVEN. — In loving memory of our son and brother, Reginald Scriven who died suddenly November 13th, 1956.
He is gone but not forgotten,
And, as dawns another year,
In our hearts we bear a blessing,
Thoughts of him are always near,
But they little know the sorrow
That lies within the heart concealed
Of a mother, sister, dad, and family.

SCRIVEN. — In loving memory of a dear brother and brother-in-law, Reginald Scriven, who died one year ago today, November 12th, 1957.
Sweet are we boys to meet you,
Some day, we know not when,
In God's home by the golden sand,
Never parted again.
—Always remembered and deeply loved by brother, sister-in-law Betty; also boys Gary, Reggie, and Eddie.

TORONTO STOCKS

TORONTO (CP) — The stock market was irregularly lower today in moderately-active morning trading.

Industrials had a majority of losses and their index was off more than ¼ of a point. Base metals lost nearly ¾ of a point on index while golds and western oils had minor index-gains.

The 11 a.m. volume of 1,061,600 shares was a bit heavier than Tuesday's 1,026,000 at the same time as trading continued at the accelerated pace it started Monday.

Most industrial losses were fractional but Canadian Oil and McColl each lost ¼ point as refining oils moved down in a solid line. B-A Oil was off ¾ to 40¾.

Algoma Steel climbed ½ to 33 among industrial winners.

Senior base metals were easier but trading in this group was light. Some uranitums showed strength. Golds were mixed and western oils had a majority of losses although index stocks were narrowly higher.

Wheat Carryover May Drop by 90 Million Bushels

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada's wheat carryover may drop by 90,000,000 bushels next July to a six-year low of some 626,000,000, the agriculture department estimated today.

However, the total would still be substantially above the annual 1947-56 average, the department said in a report to the federal-provincial agriculture conference.

In a separate report, agriculture officials said chances are estimated that by the end of next July, prairie farmers will be able to market more wheat they want to elevators, eliminating farmer-storage.

Canada's 1958 crop was estimated at about 600,000,000 up from last year's 370,500,000, but relatively small compared with other postwar years, including the record 792,000,000 in 1952.

Les Digby, chairman of last evening's annual Canadian Legion, Branch 99, Remembrance Day dinner, chats with Juan Sheridan, former Alnwick star timekeeper, who was guest speaker for the occasion.

International Sports Program Would Help Relieve Tensions Speaker Tells Legionnaires

Sheridan's talk had slightly upset his thank-you speech, which had to do with football. Instead Dr. Walters expressed his deep appreciation of what the speaker was promoting and urged the fellow Legion comrades to get out and coach or support any juvenile or minor athletic team for Belleville children.

Les Digby was chairman for the occasion. The address of welcome was extended by Branch 99's president, Bill Hessman, and greetings from the city of Belleville were brought by Mayor Gerald Hyde.

HONOR FALLEN COMRADES

The toast to fallen comrades was quite appropriately handled by Mr. Hessman. This was followed by the "Last Post", a silence, and "Reveille" with Command Duffy as bugler.

Zone Commander Bill Daley gave the greetings from the Provincial Command. Grace was said by George Taylor. The ladies were thanked for the wonderful turkey dinner by Clarence Reed with those present singing "Let Me Call You Sweetheart". Accompanist was Desmond Reid at the piano.

The evening concluded with those present performing yarns of dear memories, dancing, singing, and general good fellowship.

Office Workers, Engineers at Chrysler Strike

DETROIT (AP) — Chrysler Corporation's 8,000 unionized office workers and engineers walked out Tuesday in support, combined demands and quickly forced shutdowns of eight plants employing 16,400 production workers.

Chrysler said the strike could affect 40,000 workers in the auto-making operations, but the United Auto Workers Ctrs (CIO) which represents strikers and production workers, moved to minimize short stoppages.

The UAW ordered white-collar workers off their skill-classified jobs time. Thus UAW members would not violate a long-standing policy against crossing picket lines of fellow unionists.

Chrysler and the UAW reached a new three-year pact covering the firm's 70,000 production workers five weeks ago, but left unsettled terms covering those who do not belong to the UAW.

The striking white-collar workers are spread through 54 Chrysler plants, 20 of them in Detroit. The union says it does not plan to strike or picket at any missile, tank or other defence plant operated by Chrysler.

John J. Wintermeyer Speaker At Armistice Day Banquet

TRENTON — The presenting of a life membership in Branch 110 of the Canadian Legion to Mayor Ross Burtt was among the highlights of the Remembrance Day banquet held in the Memorial Hall last night.

The presentation of the award was made by Legion President John Farrell who told Mr. Burtt he had learned it after many years of service he has given to the branch and his fellow members. Over 300 veterans and friends shared the Legion Hall for their annual banquet and to hear the guest speaker for the evening, John J. Wintermeyer, QC, MPP.

Mr. Wintermeyer named the various battles of both wars and recalled how, after the Second World War the "hot wars" had turned into "cold wars" but said that in all crises the Canadians have been called on for duty. He recalled that the First World War had been a war to end wars to have ended all wars but it did not.

"Remembrance Day," he said, "is a day of dedication to the principles of democratic soldiers who have died so that we could live in freedom and justice, under God and in peace and economy."

In introducing the guest speaker Senator W. A. Fraser urged the veterans to get into public life so that they might care for a better Canada. "In this way," he said, "you can devote your lives to the country, the province and the community."

The speaker was introduced on behalf of the branch by President Harold Hicks.

OTHER SPEAKERS

Other speakers for the evening were W. T. Lawson, who gave the toast to the ladies, and John J. Wintermeyer, QC, MPP (above) delivered the Remembrance Day address to over 300 veterans of three wars, who attended a banquet in Trenton's Legion hall last night. His talk dealt chiefly with Canada's part in world wars and the reason Canadian soldiers died on the many battlefields.

Mrs. George Leeman who replied; His Worship Mayor Ross Burtt, MM, who extended the civic welcome; and Lee Grills, MP, who brought greetings from the Federal Government.

William Downs of Bradford, England, also spoke briefly and told the veterans, "We should be proud to be the 'forgotten' (the fallen's) sacrifice."

The banquet menu was prepared and served by members of the branch's Ladies' Auxiliary.

Parks Board Holds Meeting On Steps of Locked Building

TRENTON — The shortest meeting in the history of the parks board took place last night on the wind-swept steps of the Municipal office. Four board members, in the persons of E. M. Parker, Mrs. Ann Hunt, Herbert Strong, Bill Ireland and Marion Baker, the gardener, Jr. Boots, and the secretary-treasurative waited patiently for the office to be opened, in order that the regular meeting of the Board of Parks Management might take place. Four board members, as is the custom, on the second and third Tuesday of each month. The wait was in vain, however, for the doors remained locked and unopened.

Through chattering teeth Mr. Parker reported that sodding of the Park on the street side of the Trent Canal Bridge has been completed. Mr. Boer recommended fall seeding the remainder of this park area and after some discussion he was instructed to carry out his own discretion.

The board hopes that parents in the vicinity will co-operate in keeping the children off the park in the early spring in order that the sod will be given a chance to become established.

CANOE SAFELY WATER

Mr. Parker advised that he had checked with the Public Utilities regarding installation of water in the Champlain Heights-King Street-Second Avenue park area. The cost would be high and it would be impossible to install a water line that would not freeze, unless it were placed in a heated building, and the board regrets, therefore, that it will be impossible to comply with the request of the Champlain Heights committee to supply water for a skating rink for the children of that area.

During the discussion of this problem, a member of the board mentioned that he had received a complaint from one resident whose property borders the park. It seems this taxpayer feels that, due to the proximity to the high school grounds, no provision should be allowed reserving the entire area for a formal park. The members of the boards feels it must abide by the will of the majority, and the welfare of the kiddies in the Champlain Heights must be given due consideration.

The matter of a budget covering next year's expenditures will be discussed at some length in the near future.

Mr. Ireland suggested the board dispense with its "open air" meetings until next spring, with which the other members heartily concurred.

Lost Is Small As Fuel Firm's Office Entered

TRENTON— A thief or thieves got less than $10 last night, it is believed, after breaking into the offices of the P and D Ice and Fuel Company at 3 Bapliste Street, Trenton.

The break-in was noted about 2.05 a.m. this morning when Constables Fred Stokes and Ed Miller were checking property in the vicinity with their cruiser. Entrance to the office had been gained through a window in the rear of the building. The panel had been completely smashed in.

Mrs. Mel Dunfield was called by the police and on arrival she reported that nothing was missing, nothing missing except the cash from the till and this she estimated at less than $10. Police found nothing missing except the cash from the till and this she estimated at less than $10. Police found nothing else," she said.

The police reported breaking and entry case the police have had this week, although the first two were not the work of would-be thieves. They were sitting for the police station a few wee minutes after they broke the front door glass of the service station on Front Street. It happened about midnight Monday when Art Hoover heard the noise of the breaking glass and shouted at the pair he saw in the office. They ran, but the police cruiser with Staff Sgt. Walter Simmons and Constable Ed Miller in it was on the usual patrol in that area and the officers had little trouble finding the two lads up and charging them.

It is expected they will appear in Magistrate's Court next Tuesday.

Town Briefs

TRENTON — Mayor Ross Burtt announced last night that he will be seeking re-election to the post of Mayor of Trenton. At the same time Councillor Fred MacDonald announced he too, will ask town voters to put him at the head of the municipal table. There had been some speculation during the past week that both men would run in the Mayoralty contest the first of the month but it was not until last night either of th. men had definitely announced his intention.

ADJOURNED MEETING

The Trenton Board of Education will meet again next Monday night with their monthly business session which was adjourned at 11 p.m. last Monday night. It is the usual procedure for the board's meeting to meet the first Monday of the morning but it is expected these long sessions will cease. Superintendent Fetz also suggested at the last meeting that perhaps it would be better to have two meetings per month rather than the one long session. The board meets in the North Trenton School in their own office the second Monday of each month.

ATTENDANCE HIGH

R. S. McIlwain, BA, principal of the Trenton High School reported at the last meeting of the Trenton Board of Education that the attendance figure for the month at the High School was 96.72 per cent. He also reported that the Cafeteria and Home Economics Department in the school has been examined by health authorities and was found to be above the required standards for cleanliness. The board agreed to his suggestion that the busload of athletes be sent to Barrie from the High School at the expense of the board. The principal also extended an invitation to Peggy Haber, physical education teacher for her work in the girls' field at the High School. He said she was doing a wonderful job in this field and was really dedicated to her work.

Engineer Says RCAF Not Ready For Missile Age

OTTAWA (CP) — An RCAF aeronautical engineer says the RCAF is unprepared for the guided missile age.

And he adds that it won't be prepared until it gets its share of Canada's graduate engineers.

The engineer is Sqdn. Ldr. J. H. Woodrow, a Second World War observer now stationed at Gimli, Man., and he makes the statement in an article in the latest published 1958 Journal of the RCAF Staff College.

"The recruiting situation for graduate engineers has become so competitive that even advertising has become misleading," Sqdn. Ldr. Woodrow said.

RCAF advertisements proclaimed that opportunities for electrical engineers were "unlimited." This was "simply not true."

The RCAF, technical journal could act as staff advisers only in their particular technical specialties and could have a voice in policy matters.

Sqdn. Ldr. Woodrow says that it cannot hope to compete without the full participation of researchers and engineers in the decisions of top management.

"Yet decisions concerning great expenditures for research and engineering development of our new weapons are being made in our armed forces without any real technical participation of career technical officers."

Sqdn. Ldr. Woodrow says the solution to the recruitment problem lies in more pay and an increase in opportunity and prestige for RCAF engineers.

Technical officers now were paid $100 less a month than aircrew officers and the latter, as a rule, did more work. And only personnel trained for top management jobs in the RCAF were aircrew, especially pilots.

ON RACIAL ORIGINS

A Quebec cultural group, Le Conseil de la Vie Francaise en Amerique, has filed a brief opposing any action by the federal government to eliminate questions on racial origin from the 1961 census.

Just recently a Toronto newspaper published a copy of a letter by a citizen there to an Ontario Government official, stating his reasons for refusing to give racial origin on the birth registration form for his child.

Quite evidently the members of the Quebec organization and the Toronto man have different views on this matter. Yet, as so often happens, both have a point.

The Quebec group says that there is nothing offensive in questions on racial origin and that information on this point is of real value to Canada.

The Toronto man, if we recall his argument properly, based his objections on two grounds, that the information on race could be used as the basis for discriminatory legislation and that, in any event, it was of no value.

Racial statistics could be used in drafting race legislation, but we do not think there is any real danger of this in Canada today. We have no sympathy for the theory of superior races, but by the same token we do not think that a person worth his salt should be ashamed of his racial origin or reluctant to state it. Questions on racial origin ought not offend anyone.

The fact that there is nothing offensive about a demand to state racial origin is, however, not in itself enough to warrant the inclusion of such a question on official documents, whether they be birth registrations or census returns or some other compilation of statistics.

To warrant inclusion, the question ought to serve some purpose.

We suspect that the Quebec organization's interest in the retention of questions on racial origin is bound up in French-Canadian nationalism, and we are willing to admit that, as far as the province of Quebec is concerned, information of this sort serves a useful purpose. Because of this relatively small number of recent immigrants from France, it gives a fairly, but not wholly, accurate idea of the present numbers of the descendants of Canada's earliest settlers.

The same, however, does not hold true for racial origins of the inhabitants of other provinces, where there has been a much wider intermarriage between members of different races. Because racial origin is considered to come from the paternal side, it is possible for a person to be legally considered of English extraction, although he may be as black as coal, similarly an Indian forefather back around 1600 could make a French-speaking resident of Quebec, whose Indian blood had been diluted many times by habitant stock, still an Indian, proving the exception to the usefulness of such statistics as far as Quebec is concerned.

If racial origins are to be considered at all, they should have regard to the "majority stockholders," to the fifth or sixth generation. And how many of us know enough about our family trees to know how many thirty-seconds or sixty-fourths of us are English, Scot, Irish, Welsh, French, German, Dutch, Spanish, Italian, Swedish, Australian, Greek or Italian?

PASS THE CRACKERS

Out in Madison, Wisconsin, comes the "latest" word - - cheese. Yes, cheese in a powdered and deodorized form makes the most superior cigaret filter to date. It is reported to remove as much as 85 per cent of the tar from cigaret smoke and also considerably reduce the effects of nicotine.

This could be of interest to local persons, although we do not believe that it will happen overnight. Imagine the amount of cheese required to supply the cigaret manufacturers with filter tips. Perhaps the whole concept of cigaret advertising would change to "the taste is in the filter." We certainly do believe that the mom and pop cigaret brand would be the first which advertised the "Cheddar filter" or, better yet, why not forget tabouis the tobacco part and advertise the product as "Cheddar Cigarets?"

Just think of it - - a snack with every smoke!

'Or you, too, can have a smoke-snack.

HISTORIC BELLEVILLE

(Article 53 contributed by the Hastings County Historical Society.)

HYPOCRITES AND TURN-COATS

A few weeks ago we ran a series of articles on Belleville's newspapers over the past century and a quarter.

Now we find that Belleville has had at least yet another paper 100 years ago.

Thanks to Miss Olive Delaney of the Corby Public Library, we have examined the second number of "The Expositor," dated December 11, 1857.

The discovery of this paper belongs in three the number of newspapers published at Belleville in 1857. In addition to "The Expositor," there were the "Intelligencer" and the "Hastings Chronicle."

"The Expositor," which professed to stand for "Political and Religious Liberty," was born in the 1857 Canadian election campaign. Its existence appears to have been Benjamin Davy, a prominent local merchant, who was the Reform candidate for two terms in the early 1850's.

Davy was contesting the South Hastings riding in the December 9 election, and "The Expositor" was issued almost exclusively to support his campaign and attack his Conservative opponent.

The only advertising was on Davy's behalf (although the paper solicited other advertisers), and there was little general news.

"The Expositor" advocated set the "election of honest men;" ral or a hitchhiker with a and its editorial section dealt farmers, merchants and mech- give rides to strangers.

anics, and opposed "all lawyers" (no doubt because Davy was running against a prominent local lawyer).

Davy was proclaimed as the choice in South Hastings, since he was:

"The merchant — Not a Lawyer.
An honest man—Not a Hypocrite
An upright man—Not a Turn-Coat," etc.

To further his campaign, the text of his recent speech was given, and his opponents were attacked with sarcasm.

Only on the last page of the small four-page paper was there some general news. This included a letter from Europe, local and foreign market quotations, and an article on "The Ruins of Delhi and Its Atrocities."

To reach as many electors as possible, "The Expositor" was gratis for the first month. At the end of that time, subscribers would be welcome.

The paper seems to have ceased publication almost immediately, however, probably owing to Davy's defeat in the election.

So perished Belleville's third newspaper in the 1850's. The other two, the "Intelligencer" and the "Hastings Chronicle," are still with us today. Directors of the present "Ontario Intelligencer" will celebrate its 132th birthday in 1959.

Ends Illiteracy in Hours

By Daniel Behrman in UNESCO Features

A new and revolutionary method to teaching illiterates how to read and write in their own tongue has been developed by a British educator, Dr. Calico Gattegno, and tested in Ethiopia where he has just completed a one-year mission for the United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization.

The story of the method — which can be applied to any phonetically written language — was told by Dr. Gattegno in an interview at Unesco House in Paris after he had returned to Addis Ababa. He believes that it has overcome the main obstacle to mass literacy, that of learning how to read and write — a formidable psychological undertaking of the 251 characters of the Amharic "fidel" or alphabet.

Now 47 years old, Dr. Gattegno has a degree in science, three doctor books and textbooks, and he has taught in most of the countries of Western Europe and the Middle East. Before leaving for Ethiopia he was for 10 years director of the Institute of Education of London University.

He was a mathematician that Dr. Gattegno set upon his new approach to literacy teaching. Actually, he developed it in his spare time, for his main task in Ethiopia was to advise the Ministry of Education on ways of speeding up production of textbooks.

The mathematical approach led Dr. Gattegno to consider the 231 Amharic characters on the basis of similarities and differences. Then he dropped their old order of presentation and the A-B-C and re-arranged them into three basic families of characters: two-and-three legged; one-legged; and "no-legged."

With additional help to learning, he use colors which he has already employed in a "unified field" color system of teaching arithmetic, now used in thousands of schools in Britain, Canada, Switzerland, France, Belgium, the United States and Israel. Spain, Italy and Canada. In the case of Amharic, the colors distinguish each of the various variations of the thirty-three basic characters in the language. . . .

Once he had developed this system, Dr. Gattegno tried it out . . . on himself. He discovered that, four days after his arrival in Ethiopia, he could read and write Amharic (although he didn't understand a word of what he was reading.)

"But I was able to write t h e just top healthy.

names of people on a blackboard and then helped me make sentences," Dr. Gattegno recalled. The next test was tried on five guards at the Ethiopian Ministry of Education. After 15 hours of teaching, one, a 27 year-old illiterate, could read and write. Other informal tests were conducted with waiters and bell boys at an Addis Ababa hotel and a group of telephone linesmen.

Then came an official evaluation. The method was tried on 300 students at the Ethiopian Air Force Training Center. Seventy-five men were chosen from this group and taught his class in the courtyard of the prison under conditions which would be duplicated in Asia. As one Ethiopian official of the Ministry of Education put it:

"Prisoners are not the best subjects to teach and prisons are not ideal classrooms."

After six hours, three twenty-year-old youths (and one forty-three-six) were tested for their ability to recognize letters and syllables, to understand simple phrases. On the basis of their answers, Dr. Gattegno said, "It's good", thirteen "good" and three "excellent." The Ethiopian Ministry of Education is now studying the results of these tests.

Mr. Gattegno has never been content to rely on rote learning in teaching arithmetic, for instance, he became an enthusiastic disciple of Emile Borel, famous Georges Cuisenaire, who developed a system of teaching mathematical relations through the actual physical handling of colored rods. Even as a child, young Borel was taught to learn to add, subtract, multiply and divide by literally "doing it with their hands".

He has already applied his method of teaching Amharic to Spanish and to French, however, are much more difficult because of their fantasy in pronunciation rather than their phonissy in fonetics. . . .

Where does all the vast quantity of money come from, the millions and hundreds of millions of dollars, that are required to pay for the miles and miles of high class residential streets all big cities have, filled with gorgeous ranch type bungalows costing $40,000, $70,000 and $80,000?

Why, out of all of us, of course. We all contribute. In the food we eat, the clothes we wear, the cases we live in, the cars we buy, the insurance we take out. The lawyers we consult, the experts we employ, in a score or a hundred different ways, we all

Yesterday, morning, November 11th., when the great news came that the war had ended, Professor Ernest Wheatley, organist at St. Thomas' Church and an ardent Britisher, born and bred on the old sod, was one of the first to ascend to the flat of Bibles and he went at once to St. Thomas' Church, turned on the Pedals to invite worshippers and played the Hallelujah Chorus on the church's beautiful pipe organ and this triumphal chorus swelled down the heart of the town and did the heart of the organist at 4.30 p.m. when the morning, reasserbo fortunate enough to hear the music were treated to a masterpiece.

"The union thanksgiving service which was conducted on the Court House square next day morning at 11 o'clock was everything but cold and citizens who were happy and thankful that the war had ended. The procession was commenced with the singing of the Doxology accompanied by the Salvation Army band. Adjutant Pendergast and Captain Armstrong led in reading the Lord's Prayer. This was followed by the reading of the 46th psalm by the Rev. D. C. Ramsay of John Street Presbyterian Church. The hymn "All People That on Earth do Dwell" was announced by the Rev. W. H. Dairymen Had No Milk

On of the better stories coming out of the Fort William conference is that told by Premier Ernest C. Drury to the Arizona Dairymen's League he said.

"I go into ziant, waiters, and railway dining cars and see diners for soda pop, coffee, sandwiches, and just about everything but milk. I went to order that they could, of course, get milk if I wanted it. But at time I went on, they found this impossible to do. There one, they built a considerable portion of their house across the stream. The rest of the house was built on the other side of the stream.

The necessity under which the builders labored is a necessity which frequently confronts us. It should like to see certain, things but we find an obstacle in our way.

To Your Good Health

By Joseph G. Molner, M.D.

CALCIUM SPURS ARE OFTEN CALLED "POLICEMAN'S HEEL"

"Dear Dr. Molner: Would you please write about 'spurs,' especially those located at the bottom of the heel. Does a bruise or injury cause this formation? Is removal by surgery satisfactory? — G. W."

Another relatively-common cause of discomfort — "calcium spurs," or just "spurs," as they are often known.

A bruise, as such, isn't the cause of a spur. But a bruising blow might also cause damage inside and then lead to a spur. However, a spur can develop without your even sustaining a blow hard enough to cause a real bruise.

Rather, pressure and irritation cause an inflamed area, and the "spur" develops in the healing process. Sometimes the accumulation of calcium in the healed spot becomes a problem itself, just as the scar of a large wound can sometimes be a problem even though it has healed itself is cured. For an example, a heart valve, injured by rheumatic fever, becomes "calcified" in the healing process, and then becomes still more serious as patient narrowed, occasionally requiring a heart operation for her.

As for spurs — often called "policeman's heels" — they usually form at the point at which the tendon is attached to the bone, pounding, pressure, perhaps wrenching of a foot can contribute to the formation of the subsequently boils with the formation of a spur.

Many times the spurs never cause trouble and are found only accidentally by X-ray. Others are of such size or such position that they cause real torment. Only when they are painful is there any need to do anything about them.

You ask about removal by surgery. There isn't any positive guarantee that such an operation will afford permanent relief, but it would give you a good chance. And such surgery should be expected to succeed, and unless other factors intervene, the trouble should not recur.

TRY THESE FIRST

However, there are a number of other things to try first. Soft rubber pads inside the shoe may help you. Alternate one pad out of the heel of the shoe is occasionally tried, and sometimes this alters the position of the foot enough to take the pressure off the spur.

Heat and rest help.

Occasionally the area is injected with a pain-killing medication, eliminating the discomfort.

Sometimes the harm (the pad on which the bones of the foot slide) may become inflamed and then you have bursitis. Removal of the bursa, the bursa-heal, rest, medications on the order of cortisone control these and others are among bursitis treatments.

For the common spurs which resist these simpler methods, surgical removal is the final resort.

"Dear Dr. Molner: A few years ago I had a slight stroke due to high blood pressure. At present I am in good health except every night I wake up once or twice to urinate. Is this the after effect of the high blood pressure? — G. W."

No, sir, it is not an "after effect" of high blood pressure. In all probability your prostate has enlarged a little, and should be checked.

R.W.: When you've had a different pattern of eating for 78 years, far be it from me to insist that you start having breakfast now! For most of us, a solid breakfast is important, particularly for growing youngsters. Too often they skip breakfast, not because they don't feel a need for it, but because they are going on goofy "reducing diets" they don't need, or just don't get up in time and have to substitute candy bars. For that, no!

Why suffer from sinus trouble! Much can be done to help you, and, as I've explained in my booklet, "You Can Stop Sinus Trouble," I'll receive your copy, write to Chicago Sun-Times Syndicate, P.O. Box 19, Chicago 90, Ill., enclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope. 25c in coin to cover handling.

His Friends Squirrely

Windsor Star

Organizations assigned for the protection of animals deserve all possible credit. They have done much to prevent abuse of those creatures which can't speak on their own behalf.

Occasionally, however, such organizations find themselves a bit ridiculous, as has the Animal Welfare League in Ontario, protected a bluejay to get acquitted, being lodged in jail in Dorchester for its crime. Perri, the squirrel, evidently spent its first night behind bars in the city jail, after struggling in its owner's shirt pocket.

The squirrel was released from jail because of the protest, and placed in the good graces of what Perri thinks of this hasn't been revealed. If it could talk, no doubt it would express itself as so called benefactors.

If we were a squirrel we would prefer the comparative shelter of a loving master, even in jail, than the mercy of predators and howling dogs. Incarceration in the latter place would make any of us a bit squirrely in the head!

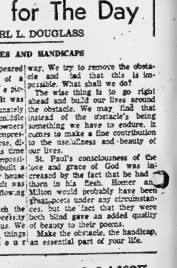
Snare Romances

Hamilton Spectator

Scene of three cruises into outer space may take 10 years, so it is to be supposed romances to make a fine contribution to the loneliness and beauty of our lives.

St. Paul's consciousness of the love and grace of God was increased by the fact that he had Christ in his flesh. Homer and Milton would probably have been great poets under any circumstances, but the latter's blindness may both have gone added quality to their work.

Make the obstacle, the handicap, the block to overcome the essential part of your life.



Strength for The Day

OBSTACLES AND HANDICAPS

Some time ago there appeared in the real estate section of a great metropolitan daily the picture of a beautiful house. It was a home for sale, unfortunately the area was divided in the very middle by a narrow stream. Some genius sought the lot under the impression that they could, of course, build a bridge. But as time went on, they found this impossible to do. There one, they built a considerable portion of their house across the stream. The rest of the house was built on the other side of the stream.

The necessity under which the builders labored is a necessity which frequently confronts us. We should like to see certain, things but we find an obstacle in our way.

Attending the five-day session of the executive council of the general synod of the Anglican Church in Toronto are three new bishops. They are Rt. Rev. R. L. Seaborn, left, assistant bishop of Newfoundland; Rt. Rev. W. W. Davis, coadjutor bishop of Nova Scotia, right, and Most Rev. P. Carrington, Archbishop of Quebec. There are 33 bishops at the synod.

Last Big-City Political Boss Dies at Boston

BOSTON (CP)—James Michael Curley, last of the big-city political bosses, died today at city hospital. He would have been 84 on Nov. 20.

Curley was a Democratic leader for more than half a century, serving four terms as mayor of Boston, one term as governor of Massachusetts and four as a congressman.

Slowly failing health had marked Curley's last years and he was long under treatment for cirrhosis.

Mrs. Curley and Curley's two sons, Rev. Francis X. Curley of Holy Cross College and George J. Curley of Boston, were summoned. Father Curley gave his father the last rites of the Roman Catholic Church.

TRIUMPH, TRAGEDY

Curley's long career was one of triumph and tragedy.

He won election to the highest offices in his home city and state and once was high in the councils of his Democratic party. He also served two terms in jail.

His triumphs included election as governor of Massachusetts at the peak of his career in 1934. He served one term. He was mayor of Boston for four terms of four years each.

He claimed to have carried Massachusetts for Alfred E. Smith in the 1928 presidential election and thus stunned the country in the first election campaign of Franklin D. Roosevelt in 1932.

NOVEL DISTORTED

Curley contended the best selling novel, The Last Hurrah by Edwin O'Connor, was based on his career, but he said here, the political boss Frank Skeffington, gave a distorted picture by emphasizing his accomplishments.

The Last Hurrah was made into a movie that had its premier in Boston. Curley attended.

Curley later published his autobiography, entitled I'd Do It Again.

His tragedies were mainly personal.

Curley's first wife, Mary, who bore him nine children, died in 1929, half a dozen years before his career reached its zenith with his election as governor.

DEVOTED TO FAMILY

Curley was deeply devoted to his family but he lived to mourn the deaths of seven of them. He never had a grandchild.

Two sons who survive are George and Father Curley.

Curley's daughter, Mary, his official hostess when he was governor, died unexpectedly of a cerebral hemorrhage in February, 1950.

Curley's son Leo, a lawyer, dropped dead the next day.

Besides the two surviving sons, Curley also left his second wife, Gertrude.

In recent years, Curley expressed a wish to live to be 125 "so I can bury my political enemies."

Burns Is Home For Vacation

OTTAWA (CP) — Lt.-Gen. E. L. M. Burns, commander of the United Nations Emergency Force in the Middle East, arrived here Tuesday night for a week's visit with his family.

The Ottawa general was asked about recent published speculation that he might be appointed chairman of the National Capital Commission, charged with carrying out a long-term plan for the beautification of Ottawa and environs. He declined comment.

Mother Lowered Into Well to Rescue Son, 2

PETERBOROUGH (CP)—Mrs. Elloy McConnell of Omemee took her two-year-old son to a doctor for a check-up Monday night and disclosed that she was lowered into a 30-foot dry well a week ago to rescue the boy when he fell in while playing.

"I didn't think there was anything to that to get excited about," she said.

Mrs. McConnell was visiting the Ballsboro home of her sister and her son, Daryl, wandered outside.

Later when she went to check she heard him crying and found he had fallen through the covering of a well being dug.

"The other women came running out of the house," she said. "I grabbed the hook at the end of a rope that was being used to take out the dirt from the well and the others lowered me down by cranking the windlass.

"Daryl was lying on his stomach, crying. I called for the others to pull me up."

X-rays of the child showed he was none the worse for his fall.

Mr. John E. Dyble, president of the local Lions Club, presents Mayor Gerald Hyde with a cheque for the Belleville Springhill Relief Fund in the amount of $177.00, which was raised by personal contributions from the members of the club. This brings the total amount contributed to the local Springhill Relief Fund to almost $800.

Rylstone Maker Winner at London Show

Murray Heath, cheesemaker at the Rylstone Cheese and Butter Co-Operative, took the reserve prize in the Commonwealth Class at the London, England, cheese show. Ontario makers made a clean sweep on the Commonwealth class.

First prize went to T. A. Aicken, Blanshard and Missouri Cheese Factory at Belize, who also took the Bledisloe Challenge trophy.

Harold Montgomery, Farmer's Joy Cheese Factory of Monckland, took second prize, and third prize went to Max Prehner, Ava Food Products, of Thamesford.

"The showing of these men is particularly gratifying and is just another indication of the appreciation of the quality of Ontario cheese in Great Britain," said Hon. W. A. Goodfellow, Ontario Minister of Agriculture. "I sincerely congratulate these men in making a clean sweep of the Commonwealth Class.

One of Mounties Who Called Was Former School Chum

It's a small world after all.

At least that is what Mel Alcyea, salesman for J. and J. Cash of Belleville, realized the other night at Truro, N.S. after he was rather rudely awakened in his motel unit by two members of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police.

On his first selling trip to the Maritimes with the Belleville firm, Mr. Alyea, who lives at 19 Ponton Street, had bedded down at the motel when during the night he was ordered to open up in the name of the law.

Donning his dressing robe and at the same time wondering what he had done to warrant a visit by police, he opened the door to the two Mounties and then nearly fell over in surprise at finding one of the Mounties was a former school chum from Belleville.

It turned out that a service station in the district had been robbed by two men, and the Mounties were checking out motel units in an effort to locate them. The two service station holdup men were located by the Mounties in the adjoining motel unit.

"I hadn't seen my former school chum for years. The last I heard of him he was with the Mounties out West," Mr. Alyea said.

PRE-NUPTIAL TEA

Yesterday afternoon a pre-nuptial tea and personal shower was held at the home of Mrs. Robert M. Chipman, 66 Montgomery Boulevard, in honor of Miss Theresa Anton, bride-to-be of this month, with twelve guests present.

The afternoon was spent in a social get-together, reminiscing about past occasions, and planning for the future.

Tea was served from a delightfully appointed table with a turquoise lace cloth centred by baby bronze mums in a silver candelabra with tall, turquoise candles.

Mrs. V. Phillips, mother of the bridegroom-to-be, presided at the silver tea service. Miss Elaine Anton, sister of the bride-elect, assisted the hostess in serving.

'Stork Derby' For $1,250 Ends Dec. 11

TORONTO (CP) — Motherhood —and a millionaire's whim—will give a $1,250 Christmas present to a Toronto housewife.

Dec. 11 brings the reckoning in the second of Toronto's Tom Foster "stork derbies."

By the $1,250,000 will of Mr. Foster, three times mayor of Toronto, the money will go to the city wife who has borne most children in the last 10 years.

FOUR DERBIES

The millionaire, who started work in a butcher store, died in 1950 and left $10,000 to provide four 10-year derbies, the first starting date of his will.

The present contest began in December, 1948, ended in 1958 and 1955. Under the will's terms the winner must prove Toronto residence and produce both birth and marriage certificates.

Mrs. Muriel Scott, 39-year-old wife of an unemployed construction worker, won the first of the derbies. She had nine children in the 10 years, 21 in 22 years of marriage.

Thirty mothers who entered that contest had more than 150 children among them. Second and third prizes of $800 and $450 had to be split.

NO ENTRIES YET

So far no entries have been received in this year's contest and none will be considered until the Dec. 11 deadline, said the Foster estate chief executive, Arthur L. Fleming.

Notices inviting entries will then be placed in Toronto newspapers.

"Honest Tom" Foster, 94 when he died, made his money in property deals.

He left money for newsboys and charwomen, chauffeurs and Eskimos and to feed wild birds and protect animals.

In an earlier Toronto stork derby, four mothers each got $100,000 in 1938 after a two-year court battle, in which they had to prove their claims. They each gave birth to nine children during the period from the death of lawyer Charles Vance Millar in 1926 to Oct. 31, 1936.

Miss Universe Of 53 Happily Wed to Filipino

MANILA (AP)—The first Miss Universe—Armi Kuusela of Finland, crowned at Long Beach, Calif., in 1952—now leads a quiet life here with her Filipino husband, Virgilio Hilario, and three children.

"My children (Arne, 3; Anna-Lisa, 1½, and Eva Maria, one month) seem to be my chief hobby now. They keep me busy all day," she said recently.

Home for them is a modern, air - conditioned bungalow in fashionable Forbes Park — Manila's millionaires' row.

"I would describe my life here as a very quiet one. We love to stay home with the family as often as possible," she said.

Except for a slight matronly bearing, 36-year-old Armi's Nordic beauty seems untouched by the tropics, motherhood and the task of keeping house for her 30-ft. four-oar reciter-builder husband.

Armi has been so busy raising her family she hasn't considered Miss Universe contests closely.

She met Hilario, scion of a wealthy landowning family, in 1953 in Manila when the then Miss Universe came to visit the Philippines.

A whirlwind courtship wound up at a wedding ceremony in Tokyo on May 4 of that year. They visited Finland in 1955.

Language has never been a problem. Armi can speak flawless English, spoken by the vast majority of people here. She hasn't had much of a chance to teach her children her native tongue "because I'm the only one who speaks the language here and I don't want them to get confused."

Armi is learning Tagalog, the Philippines national language, with the aid of her household help, as fast as Virgilio is learning Finnish from her and a newly-arrived couple from Finland.

Father Buckley also explained fully to the ladies that a member of the CWL is in apostolate work participation of the laity in the work of the hierarchy.

Meeting was conducted by the president, Mrs. Halloran, with the executive giving the various reports.

Following the meeting, a Chinese auction took place, after which refreshments were served by Mrs. M. Hankey and Mrs. M. Barlow.

In last weekend's New York Times we read an informative article in the magazine section concerning the controversial author Pasternak, who recently won and refused to accept the Nobel Prize. "This lonely and craggy figure is closer to the thinking people of Russia than is Khrushchev or any other recent political figure," reads one sentence. He has been ostracized from the people whom he knows so well. There he is condemned by the autocrats who fear his understanding. Are we burning the clock full cycle and running it in the opposite direction? A labor leader in the States has been condemned by the foremost leaders of the nation, yet the people of his union proclaim him from the roof-tops, but the U.S.A. is a democracy. T & T wonders if, in our friendly nonchalance, we aren't letting the same thing develop in less dramatic and spectacular ways in domestic fields. TV, radio and magazines are crowded with experts telling the housewife what to do and not being satisfied, telling her what she should like whether she happens to or not. Are we becoming regimented as to our tastes in spite of our personal preferences? Your reporter actually guessed the following this autumn. An expert had been telling a group of us what we wanted, needed and should have regarding food. At luncheon he was close by. A woman asked him if he cared for some sauce and asked him what kind of sauce it was. Obviously embarrassed, he replied that he never used sauce on lobster. If he knew anything about the sauce he certainly didn't oblige, and his hasty excuse was unfortunate because there wasn't any lobster on the table. Reflection hasn't made T & T very proud of itself as a representative housewife. We didn't say anything and no one else pointed out that the expert without a script was rather at a loss. Were our good manners also an excuse for us and were we afraid in our free country to expose what there is so much of — gramaphone experts telling the intelligent housewife how to provide for her family on a few dollars each week? Often, too often, T & T is convinced that too few of the so-called experts know what the thinking Canadian housewife can afford and should spend. Can any more than the writer of the article thinks Khruschchev knows about the thinking man in Russia. If Pasternak and the people of Russia are frightened to express themselves, your reporter must acknowledge her cowardice when we have so much freer in Canada. The housewives can and should speak out and tell experts or those who advise, including T & T, that they or we must get down to earth, get into the kitchen, get within the ordinary budget, and that providing for a family on limited means isn't a pretty colored picture of delectables but an exacting art. It is time the Canadian housewife was telling the experts what they need and can afford and not what someone, like their landlords, think they should have.

Miss Marlene Munroe was her sister's bridesmaid, while Mr. Charles Jeffs acted as groomsman.

The bride wore a becoming suit of blue with a feathered headdress, corsage and matching accessories while the bridesmaid wore a blue suit and matching accessories.

In the evening, the bridegroom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Badgley entertained in honor of the newlyweds with a reception held at their home and the family members of the immediate contracting parties attended.

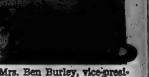
Amid showers of confetti and good wishes the happy couple left for a honeymoon trip to points west and around Lake Ontario.

Full Time Physiotherapist Needed by CA

The November meeting of the Women's Auxiliary Quinte Branch of the Canadian Arthritis and Rheumatism Society was held last Thursday evening at the home of Mrs. J. S. Stock, 235 Ann Street, with the president, Mrs. Enos David, presiding.

Mrs. David reported on the successful annual dinner meeting of the Society held at Hotel Quinte in October and also on the general activities of the Auxiliary. She expressed the hope that a full time physiotherapist would be appointed in the near future and advised that Miss Martin, in charge of the Ontario Branch, is at present in Great Britain for five weeks on a speaking tour and this would probably result in some British physiotherapist coming to Canada.

Mrs. S. Kostasbuik, general convener for the tea given for arthritic patients at Christ Church Parish Hall on October, reported this as a most enjoyable outing and well attended by local patients.



Enthusiastic plans were elaborated for a Christmas party and turkey dinner to be given by the member for district and Prince Edward County patients.

Mrs. Stock informed the Auxiliary that the medical wives would be interested in helping with this project.

Mrs. A. W. Hume offered her home for the next meeting.

Refreshments were served at the close of the meeting by the hostess, Mrs. Stock and members of the social committee.

GOOD MANNERS

By Mrs. Beeckman

IMPORTANT RULE OF TABLE MANNERS

When you are eating, bring the food up to your mouth . . . not your mouth down to the food.

WHAT NAME-FORM FOR HER FIANCE'S MOTHER

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I am going to announce my engagement very soon, and I have a problem. My fiance's parents were divorced when he was very young. He has never met his father, so he won't be mentioned in the announcement. Since I'm different, my fiance' mother has always used the name (for example) "Mrs. Betty Jane Brown." Her maiden surname was Thomas, and I thought if I used "Mrs. Thomas Brown" in the announcement, people might mistake the "Thomas" for her husband's first name. I have met my fiance's mother only once, since she lives at a great distance from where we live, and I don't want to take it upon myself to use a name she has never used. I asked my fiance about this, and he said she would definitely not use her husband's name. I want to maintain the friendliest possible relationship with my fiance's mother, and of course I do not want to offend her in any way. I would so very much appreciate your help.

— Bride-to-be

This is an extremely important question, and you must "go to headquarters" — directly to your fiance's mother — to have her inform you exactly what form of her name she wishes to have you use. It is for her to say, not for you, not for your fiance. So I suggest you write her at once. Also, Mail Special, (to suggest your haste and the importance of your request), and ask her about this name she wishes you to use in the engagement announcement.

SHOULD FIANCE'S MOTHER GIVE BRIDAL SHOWER?

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Is it correct for me to give a shower for my future daughter-in-law? She is a charming young girl and we love her. And I would like to invite a few of my close friends to my house and have a small shower. Please give me your opinion.

— Mother of groom-to-be

I wish I could honestly tell you that it would be correct for you to give a shower for your son's fiancee. But really it is not considered good taste or good form for a member of the groom's family (or a member of the bride's family) to give a bridal shower. The reason for this is quite clear: that giving a shower might have a close-relationship suspicion. I s. I can't help giving the so-designated and so-unattractive impression that the shower is a planned "take" for presents. It is hoping that one or two of one's intimate and devoted friends of yours may feel the generous inclination to give a shower for your son's fiancee. Otherwise, it would be a charming gesture for you to give a tea or luncheon in honor of your son's fiancee, or perhaps a late-afternoon party on either Saturday or Sunday, in honor of the couple.

NO "EXCUSE ME" NECESSARY

Dear Mr. Beeckman:

My mother says that when we have a cough at table or just must blow our nose, we should make every effort to do these as inconspicuously as possible, and that it is not at all necessary to say "Excuse me." My oldest sister says she thinks we should always say "Excuse me" as soon as we are able to say this. What is proper about this? — Joan B.

Your mother has given just the right advice . . . if you have to cough, to do it as inconspicuously as possible (behind your hand), and if you really must blow your nose at table, it should be done as quietly and inconspicuously as possible. And for neither should you say "Excuse me" . . . for this calls attention unnecessarily.

HAND ON TOP TABLE OR IN THE LAP?

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My question concerns correct position of the hands when dining. I was always trained that the left hand, when not in use, should rest on the table at the wrist, but not in the lap. Now I have been told (not nowadays the left hand when not in use, should be in the lap. Which is right? — M. K. W.

In the past there have been differences of opinion about this. However, nowadays the accepted procedure is the procedure you were taught . . . to rest the left hand on the table when it is not in use. This is really more natural, more gracefully "at ease," than to put the hand in the lap.

Women's Missionary Council Meets at Full Gospel Tabernacle

FRANKFORD — The Women's Missionary Council convention was held in Frankford Full Gospel Tabernacle on November 6th.

The morning session began at 1030 a.m. with the W.M.C. president, Mrs. Harold Curry, welcoming all the W.M.C. ladies.

Mrs. G. Pierce, sectional leader, brought greetings as well as Mrs. R. Makin, district secretary of Carleton Place.

Weavers' Guild Prepares for Christmas Party

The November meeting of the Weavers' Guild was held at the home of Mrs. R. Goddan Monday evening. After the business was attended to, deciding to have a Christmas party for the next meeting in the form of a pot-luck supper the evening was spent in a lively discussion on weaving, and planning for the sale and exhibit coming on later in November.

Work was displayed by Misdames Pattillo, Mouit, and Goddan. There were place mats, draperies, upholstery, two men's sport jackets, one lady's two-piece suit, and catalogue rugs.

A social hour brought an interesting meeting to a close.

SAME TREATMENT

TORONTO (CP)—The Ontario Hospital Services Commission Tuesday assured rural citizens who have registered for hospital insurance through medical co-operatives that they will get two months' free coverage the same as anyone else. Registering through a co-operative in no way altered an applicant's eligibility, a spokesman said.

Vancouver Reporter Taped Eyes to Live Blind a Week

VANCOUVER (CP)—Reporter Audrey Down for the Vancouver Sun, who volunteered to have eyes bandaged for a week to find what it is like to be blind, now said boredom was her biggest enemy.

Miss Down sought also to discover how the Canadian Institute for the Blind helps the sightless to adjust to the world of darkness.

When an eye specialist was applying the adhesive pad, panic gripped her momentarily and she fought against a desire to tear it away.

MANY MISGIVINGS

"I have risked my life in stunts such as riding in a balloon, climbing mountains and training wild horses," she wrote, "but no adventure held so many misgivings as this trip into the darkness.

"First came a feeling of helplessness. Would I have to depend on others for everything, eating, getting dressed, telling time, reading friends?"

As the doctor guided her to the room, sitting alone in the dark . . . I could hear and imagine what was going on, but couldn't see to be sure that I was right. My steps dragged because I had no faith in myself or anybody else.

Miss Down heard the elevator doors roll back, felt the breeze in the main hall and smelt the candy smells at the CNIB stand in the lobby. Each of the sensations, she said, was a little triumph in an attempt to fill the space left when my sight went.

"I could not get the full impact of the terrible loss suffered by someone who has gone blind for life," she said. "I could only imagine more vividly than I ever have before what it would be like if these bandages were never to come off.

"At home alone I heaved a sigh of relief . . . but hours that had been too short before now stretched out endlessly. A friend who was coming to take care of me was not due to arrive for two hours.

However, Miss Down found during the experiment that blindness need not remain a thing of sadness and a matter for pity. At the blind institute all the voices were cheerful.

On her fourth day she was getting used to being blind and found boredom her biggest enemy. She wrote:

"When a noise or movement stops, everything stops. When you are sightless the only thing to occupy your mind is your imagination and that is usually just a product of something you have already seen or heard.

"Learning braille is like being in grade one again.

"While I am still a little afraid of the stove, I find house-keeping not too difficult even though it takes more time.

"My world, at first a cubicle of darkness, has enlarged to the dimensions of the city now that I can travel on buses and walk around. I feel I have gained a tremendous amount of self-confidence. Life is beginning to get rather busy again."

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, a newspaper editor, a women's editor and two writers. Each article is a summary of an actual case history. The Council reports on problems that have been dealt with by responsible agencies and consultants.

"Rudolph M. — I can't give her a job in my business.

Adele M. — But I want useful work.

Rudolph M. — My wife and I are in our 50's and we recently married off our youngest daughter. Our only problem is that my wife doesn't seem to know what to do with herself.

For years I have been warning Adele that this time would come, and she should cultivate some hobbies or join some of the women's organizations, but a h e never showed the least interest. Now she says she wants me to give her a job in my business.

This is a ridiculous idea. Adele hasn't worked in more than 30 years and she never had any real business skills anyway. It would be very embarrassing to me to have her around. People would think I'd gone off my rocker or something. Why can't she f i n d things to amuse herself like other women?

Adele M. — I can't help it, but I just don't like those women's clubs or courses that women take to keep busy. I feel as though I am in kindergarten and I have to be kept amused or I'll get into mischief. I have even attempted some hospital volunteer work, but it just annoys me to see other women running around trying to look important, and I feel that I don't want to be one of them.

I want to do some useful work. It is true that it is some 30-o d years since I've worked in a business office, but I am very adaptable. I pick up things quickly, and I would even go to business school to work up some skills.

I don't see why my husband should consider this a ridiculous idea. It's possible that he's turning away a valuable employee.

The Council: Husband l i k e Rudolph don't use much imagination when they try to see their wives problems. Because they themselves, are needed and busy — often harassed — the idea of having as much leisure time as their wives sounds just wonderful.

If Rudolph will try to imagine how he would feel if he came to work one day, only to be waved away and told he wasn't needed any more, he'll begin to get some lea of how his wife feels. Hobbies of how his wife feels. Hobbies of how his wife feels. Substitute for his once active life.

We don't mean to belittle hobbies and clubs. When an individual becomes deeply engrossed in one of these activities, he loses self-consciousness and feels that the activity needs him. It becomes vital. Then the individual puts even more of himself into it and undergoes facets that requires work and exploration. Adele should recognize that the preliminary stages must be "like kindergarten" because she feels dull and cold toward these activities. She can only make them glow through her own warmth.

The same is true of the hospital volunteer work. While the idea is repellent to her, Adele is self-conscious and aware only of her own needs. The moment she realizes that the women who are "running around" trying to look important are not merely trying to look that way, but are important" to those they help, she will see that there is a real need that she can fill. S h e will no longer have the sense of shame she now experiences because she knows she is coming to receive rather than to give.

If, however, a job is the thing that intrigues Adele at this moment, we're all for her going ahead with the idea — but not in her husband's business. The chances are very much against her being able to make a real place for herself there. She should brush up on her skills and find a job on h e r own. If it is not worth this much effort to her, she doesn't really want a job and couldn't find satisfaction in it.

200 Negro Girls To Enter Canada During Year

OTTAWA (CP) — Some 200 Negro girls from the West Indies federation and British Guiana will be entering Canada as landed immigrants this year.

They will swell to 700 the total admitted since Canada agreed in 1955 to requests from Jamaica and Barbados—now part of the federation—that this country accept a limited number annually on condition that the girls work for a year as domestic servants.

Violet P. King, a liaison officer with the federal citizenship department, says the girls are quickly becoming integrated into the Canadian way of life. Miss King, a native of Calgary, in 1955 became the first colored woman to be admitted to the bar in Canada.

WORK IN HOMES

She w r i t e s in Canadian Welfare, bi-monthly publication of the Canadian Welfare Council, that one reason for the girls' rapid integration is that they live in Canadian homes in close contact with the Canadian people.

About 35 of the 80 sent here since the program began still are in the Ottawa area. The others have gone mainly to Toronto and Montreal, where there are Negro communities and better job and marriage opportunities.

Standards are high for admission. Applicants must be single and, with rare exceptions, between 21 and 35 years old.

Each girl pays her own passage. The girls must also pass medical examination and meet normal immigration requirements. Priority is given those with more than five years' formal education and special training in homemaking. The federal labor department finds them jobs, usually in Ottawa, Montreal or Toronto.

VARIED JOBS

After their year's domestic service, many get work as hospital kitchen help, bookkeepers, stenographers, n u r s e s, nurses' aides, store clerks or factory workers. Several have sponsored immigration of their fiances and have since married.

The girls usually have trouble at first with Canadian currency, climate and food. But they quickly take to football, hockey and square dancing. Many take night courses to improve their education.

The militia is another popular leisure-time activity, especially in Ottawa. Several girls have joined and acquired such varied abilities as truck driving and teletyping.

However, Miss King writes, "they have found it difficult in Ottawa to find employment where training can be acquired on the job or where their present education is a d e q u a t e. They themselves feel that their color has been the real objection."

MUSIC LOVERS

One leisure-time help is a British West Indies club Miss King organized at the Ottawa YWCA. The girls love to entertain and have presented calypso programs for several groups in the capital.

Despite difficulties, they intend to remain in Canada, Miss King writes:

"Looking at this Ottawa group as immigrants, I feel that their adjustment has been rapid and favorable. For most of them Canada now is their home.

"Most expect to return to the islands for occasional visits but I know that already several of them are waiting with keen anticipation the day when they can display their certificates of Canadian citizenship."

Rich Colonial Fruit Cake For Christmas 1958

by Mary Moore

Girls gather round. At last, after ...ter experimenting since mid-July, a decision has been made and I am ready to give you now and different Christmas Fruit Cake recipe. By happy chance some of our readers have tasted it in advance and it has their stamp of approval — besides the old regulars such as Pete, Walt the mailman and my sisters.

It calls for two ingredients I held in size in fruit cakes — candied ginger and molasses. Small amounts to be sure but a never-the-less' present and distinguishable. The cake is on the moreish side.

It will cost you under $3.00 and these amounts yield nearly 12 lbs. so you will pay 75¢ per lb. for one of the finest cakes you will ever taste or make (the modestly calmly).

COLONIAL FRUIT CAKE 1958

1 lb. fruits and nuts — 1 lb. each white pecans, seedless raisins, candied cherries (colored (red, green and yellow) pineapple (cut in very thin small slices, mixed whole red and green candied cherries (that is 1-2 lb. of each color), very thinly sliced citron, 2 lbs fat seeded raisins, 1-4 cup (1 oz.) finely chopped candied ginger.

BATTER:

1 lb. each butter, ...own sugar, 16 large egg yolks, (ways of using up the 16 leftover egg whites will be given tomorrow Nov. 13), 1-2 cup (8 oz.) canned apricot nectar and molasses, 2 cups water, 9 1-2 cups sifted cake or all-purpose flour, 2 teaspoons each allspice mace, soda, salt, 4 teaspoons cinnamon, 1 teaspoon cloves.

To begin put fruit in your largest mixing bowl or clean clothes bag; here you break apart the sticky seeded raisins and other fruits that bunch. Sift together the sifted flour, spices, salt and soda and sprinkle them over the fruits and carefully work this through the fruit to divide all of the morsels. Cream the butter until it is pale and light, then cream the sugar into it until both are light and fluffy. Beat in egg yolks. Stir in the 3 liquids — the ap-

A PRODUCT OF MOUNT ROYAL RICE MILLS LIMITED — ESTABLISHED 1883

WHITE'S DISTRICT

Most Successful Bazaar, Tea Held by W.A.

WHITE'S DISTRICT—On Wednesday afternoon the ladies of White's Church Woman's Association, Bayside, sponsored a successful bazaar and tea.

Mrs. Roy H. Richards, wife of the pastor of Bayside pastoral charge, and Mrs. Jack Girdon, president of White's Woman's Association, welcomed the guests, while the tea room fees were collected by the treasurer, Mrs. W. Jeffery.

The tea room looked inviting with six small guest tables centred with baby 'mums, evergreen and cones on a melon base.

In charge of serving the guests were Mrs. Leonard Young, convener, assisted by Mrs. A. Skaarup, Mrs. Arnold Ketcheson, Mrs. Norman Hazelwood, Mrs. Samuel Reid and Mrs. Vera Sine. Replenishing the plates were Mrs. Frank Sandercock, Mrs. Clifton Rush, Mrs. B. Westover, Mrs. V. Sine and Mrs. S. Reid.

Brewing the delicious cups of tea was Mrs. Stanley Ketcheson, while pouring the tea were Mrs. Ritchie Ketcheson and Mrs. Leonard Young.

In charge of the baking and candy table were Mrs. William Yateman, Mrs. Orval Ghent and Mrs. Everett Nicolson. Meringue and top-crust pies, dainty cookies, cakes, tarts, small containers of candy, apples and potatoes were quickly sold.

SEWING—NOTIONS

The sewing table and notions were presided over by Mrs. Ernest Curtis and Mrs. Walter Jones. The dainty and more practical aprons, children's aprons, mitts, corsages, towels, pot holders and other useful articles quickly disappeared. The 25c table was very popular with its wash cloths, cups and saucers, small plates, measuring cups and pot holders. But most popular of all were the red bill-shaped recipe books with favorite recipes. These were quickly sold and orders were taken for re-prints. Much credit goes to Mrs. Glydon who typed and assembled these books.

The thanks of White's Woman's Association goes to any who helped to make the bazaar and tea a success.

Marsh Hill

MARSH HILL — The members of Marsh Hill Harmony Club attended the meeting on Friday night in masquerade.

After the promenade, the judges selected the winners: Dennis Little and Carol Lindenfield for the children and Mr. Berson Mitts for the adults.

Mrs. Charlie Mayell opened the meeting.

After a short business period, Mrs. David Little took charge of the following program: the hymn, "Come Ye Faithful People" was sung followed by a poem, "Thanksgiving" by Mrs. Little; Scripture reading, Psalm 100, was read by Marilyn Finkle; solo, "Prayer of Thanksgiving" by Farley Linden field; reading, "Little Orphan Annie," by Mrs. Harry Coulter; song, "The Apple Pie," Gwenda Deller.

Mrs. Little gave a reading on "Armistice" and the hymn, "O God Our Help In Ages Past" was sung, followed by the benediction.

Refreshments were served by the lunch committee and the host and hostess, Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Finkle.

Consumers May Pay Less For Pork Next Year But Beef Prices to Be High

OTTAWA (CP)—Canadian consumers may pay less for pork in 1959 but beef prices likely will remain high, the agriculture department predicted today.

Looking over the hog and cattle situation, the department concluded before the federal - provincial agricultural conference that livestock producers had one of their best post-war years in 1958, mainly because of the heavy demand for beef in the United States.

Farm cash income from livestock sales rose by 21 per cent in the first half of 1958—to $404,000,000 from $358,000,000 in the similar 1957 period. Biggest increase was in the West where income rose by 34 per cent to $202,000,000 from $151,000,000.

Cattle exports in the January-August period quadrupled to 360,000 head from 90,000 last year.

Heavy U.S. demand for beef boosted Canadian Prices. Consumers switched more to pork. Then hog production rose rapidly and some surpluses developed.

Agriculture Minister Harkness, addressing the conference, suggested that the 1959 beef market will remain strong but that mounting surpluses may reduce hog prices.

Some officials have suggested the 25-cent-a-pound floor on hog prices might be reduced to 23% cents some time next year.

No Export Outlets for Surplus Dairy Products Meeting Told

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada has "practically no export outlets for surplus dairy products," Agriculture Minister Harkness said today.

In fact, the situation was so bad the government couldn't even give away milk powder.

"With surpluses of dried skim milk in all dairy producing countries, we have found it extremely difficult to export even limited quantities," Mr. Harkness told a federal - provincial agricultural conference.

Butter, skim milk and cheese are among the 21 farm products whose prices are supported by the federal price stabilization board.

Canada also was being "threatened" by a mounting butter surplus.

STEADY PRESSURE

Mr Harkness said he was under constant pressure to boost protection for dairy products and other perishable items through price support and import restrictions.

"I have pointed out that it is absolutely impossible to maintain present support prices if they result in over - production and unmanageable surpluses."

As for import curbs, it was a question of how far Canada could go before reaching the "breaking point" in international relations. Farmers favored curbs but they didn't seem to take into account the "possible consequences by way of retaliatory action."

RECORD TOTAL

Canadian butter production this year was estimated to rise to a record 18,010,000,000 pounds from 17,238,000,000 last year. Creamery butter production was expected to increase to a high of 335,000,000 pounds from 303,400,000 while consumption declined to 210,000,000, down about 12,000,000 from 1957.

Some other estimated 1958 dairy production figures with 1957 output in brackets:

Cheddar cheese: 85,000,000 pounds (85,600,000); dry skim milk 180,000,000 (119,800,000); evaporated whole milk 308,000,000 (318,400,).

Thirteen Bodies Recovered in Montreal Ruins

MONTREAL (CP)—The bodies of eight men and five women have been recovered so far from the ruins of a mid-town apartment block destroyed in a weekend blaze that is believed to have claimed at least 18 lives.

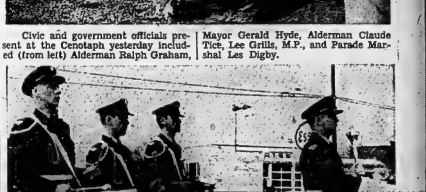
Five bodies were recovered Tuesday as firemen continued their around - the - clock sift through the rubble in the search for more remains.

Only four bodies have been identified, those of John Sim, 36, and his 32-year-old wife; Lewis Dunn, 23, and Beryl Fowler, 25, all residents of the apartment block. The remains of Miss Fowler, believed a native of Australia, were found Tuesday.

Cause of the blaze, which broke out early Sunday morning in the Oldfield Apartments, was still a mystery.

Investigation of the fire will be conducted chiefly by the fire commissioner's court, said the district coroner, Richard L. Duckett.

Meanwhile city officials have moved to revise fire protection rules.



A committee set up yearsago to make recommendations for a city fire prevention code will start Thursday to draft a fire prevention code bylaw.

Engineers Will Begin Taming Peribonka River in Quebec Next Summer to Get Power

CHUTE - DES - PASSES, Que. (CP)—The land of Maria Chapdelaine is still rugged enough to excite a novelist's imagination, but engineers are taming the Peribonka River.

Next summer the Aluminum Company of Canada's power project at this construction community 200 miles north of Quebec City is expected to begin operation, adding 1,002,000 installed horsepower to the power-hungry Lake St. John district and to Alcan smelters.

"When this one is finished I think we'll be just about through with the Peribonka," one engineer here said. "There just doesn't appear to be another worthwhile site for a major installation on the river."

BUILD FOUR DAMS

What famed the Peribonka are four dams and three generating stations. For Chute-des-Passes, dams were built at the east end of Lake Manouan, about 80 miles northeast of here, to back up water and make it flow through the Peribonka at the west end, and at Passes-Dangereuses, 61½ miles north of here.

Thus a reservoir twisting nearly 100 miles was provided to water falls 540 feet from the Passes - Dangereuses dam, through a 30,949-foot tunnel the size of a subway, to the Chutedes-Passes generators.

Below here, near where the Peribonka empties into Lake St. John, there are the Chute-du-Diable and the Chute-a-la-Savane dams and generating stations, each having an installed capacity of 270,000 horsepower.

Completing Alcan's power network in the area are three installations on the Saguenay River just below Lake St. John. The Isle - Maligne project generates 540,000 horsepower, Chute - a-Caron, 300,000, and Shipshaw, 1,200,000.

Total installed horsepower will be 3,580,000 a firm capacity will be about 2,500,000. Engineers explain that installed capacity is what the power generators can produce under ideal condiltons. Firm capacity is the average generating capacity.

Most of this power—an Alcan official estimated 75 per cent—will be used by Alcan smelters at Isle-Maligne and at Arvida. The Arvida smelter is the world's largest.

The remainder is transmitted and sold to industry and for residential use through three Alcan subsidiaries: Saguenay Transmission; Saguenay Power and Saguenay Electric.

Production of aluminum requires a tremendous amount of electricity and because of this country's hydro-electric developments Canada has become a major producer of the metal despite the fact that all her bauxite, aluminum's basic ore, must be imported.

Most bauxite for Eastern Canada smelters, comes from British Guiana, while Alcan's Kitimat smelter in British Columbia gets its raw material from Jamaica.

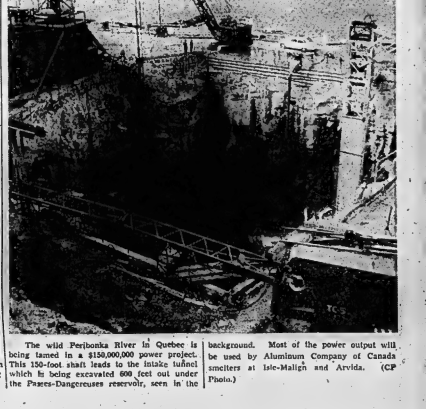
Next July or August the first of five Chute-des-Passes 200,000-horse power generators is expected to transmit power to Isle-Maligne, 30 air miles south of here.

The generators, the largest ever built, are in keeping with the huge project. In gouging out some 18 miles of water supply and access tunnels, pinstocks, powerhouse, intake and surge tanks and a discharge tunnel, the hard-rock miners moved some 2,202,000 cubic yards of granite.

Before the project is completed they will have pumped back in 432,000 cubic yards of concrete for linings, shafts, the powerhouse and tunnel plugs.

Main contractor is Perini-McNamara - Quemont Construction and at the work peak some 2,200 men were on the job. About 2,250 now are working on the $150,000,000 project.

The work is dangerous and 18 men have lost their lives since the project started in September, 1955. Work goes on in two 12-hour shifts a day, six days a week and most of the men pocket $400 to $500 a month.



"Most of the men are here to make a stake," said one Alcan engineer. "And so are we—a 1,000,000-horsepower stake.

SCLEROSIS RESEARCH

TORONTO (CP)—The University of Toronto pathology department will undertake research designed to put medicine nearer the cause of multiple sclerosis, a presently incurable disease that attacks the central nervous system. The program will be financed by grants totalling $50,052—including $3,300 from the Multiple Sclerosis Society of Canada.

Scene shows interior of 34-foot tunnel being blasted 6½ miles through solid granite as part of an Aluminum Company of Canada power project in the Lake St. John district of Quebec. In the background is powerhouse under construction. The vehicle on left is tearing out blasted rock and pipes overhead are carrying forced air for the ventilating system. (CP Photo).

The wild Peribonka River in Quebec is being tamed in a $150,000,000 power project. This 150-foot shaft leads to the intake tunnel which is being excavated 600 feet out under the Passes-Dangereuses reservoir, seen in the background. Most of the power output will be used by Aluminum Company of Canada smelters at Isle-Maligh and Arvida. (CP Photo.)

STIRLING

Mrs. R. Utman Hostess for W.I. Meeting

STIRLING — Mrs. Ralph Utman was hostess for the November meeting of River Valley Women's Institute on Thursday with approximately 35 ladies in attendance.

Mrs. John Kane presided over a short program as there had been a lengthy business period.

Mrs. Ernest Carr read an impressive message on the theme, "Stones of Remembrance," which closed with: "Greater love hath no man than this — that a man lay down his life for another." A period of silence followed in memory of all who had paid the supreme sacrifice in two world wars and the Korean war. Afterward an appropriate poem was read and Mrs. Glenn Brooks contributed a vocal selection on the same theme.

Mrs. Percy MacMullen, friendship link secretary, brought a message of thanks from Abbots Leigh W.I. in England for the continued Christmas gift of two Canadian magazines.

AWARDED NOBEL PRIZE

She also brought a message from Mrs. D. Hearnden of England that Dr. Mary Rutnam has just recently been awarded the Nobel Prize of Asia, which is awarded to outstanding personalities in Asia "exemplifying the highest type of democratic leadership."

Dr. Mary Rutnam was born in Canada 85 years ago. She went to Ceylon in 1886 where she joined the American Medical Mission. Later she married and adopted Ceylon as her country. She became a doctor and practised in Colombo. She has five children.

She was the pioneer of the Women's Institute movement in Ceylon and now this landwide organization has a membership of 75,000 women.

Dr. Rutnam's many friends in A.C.W.W. rejoice that she has received this honor.

Mrs. MacMullen, who was delegate for the first day of the area convention, held in Belleville, gave a review of the highlights. The theme was "The Home, the Centre of International Neighborhood." The short addresses on various countries all portrayed their great achievements through A.C.W.W.

Wonderful work has been accomplished in Australia, Ceylon, Africa, Scotland, Ireland, and Holland, she said.

INFORMATIVE SESSIONS

Mrs. MacMullen said the three sessions were very informative and educational and those in attendance were thrilled with the various activities of this large organization.

Mrs. Roy Bush, the delegate for the second day, gave a brief report. It is hoped at a future date to have her own report on "Historical Research and Current Events," and a fuller outline of the last two sessions.

The institute business session was conducted by the president, Mrs. Roy Bush, and included a financial report by the secretary, Mrs. J. R. Donohoe. Arrangements for the euchre parties, and the building of a new kitchen and minor items, took considerable time.

The Christmas meeting will be held on Thursday, December 4th at the I.O.O.F. Hall. There will be two conveners and six hostesses. The usual gifts for children will be exchanged and the adults will pay 50 cents for the building fund in lieu of a gift exchange.

Mrs. V. Harry and Mrs. A. McDoell attended the hooked rug course training school last week and the former outlined the articles needed. It is hoped to begin early in January.

Refreshments were served at the conclusion of the meeting.

Mrs. George Hesselton voiced appreciative thanks to all.

Tweed

TWEED — The 1958 deer and moose season opened in the Tweed district with bright sunny skies, and a slight tang of frost in the air during the early morning.

The forests were dry making stalking almost impossible. Those hunting with dogs found the hunt most rewarding.

A young bull moose was shot by Mr. Bruce Price of Actinolite, five miles north of Tweed, and the most southern limit on record in the Tweed district for a moose kill.

According to statistics, the deer kill increase during the time when the forest floor is wet or snow covered. Rain dampens leaves, cuts down noise, and makes scenting their presence easier for dogs. Snow gives the hunter a visual pattern of deer travel and also increases scent for hunting dogs.

Although the fire season would normally have ended on October 31st., the fire danger increased to high and necessitated the placing of staff on fire ranging duties, and look out towers were again manned to keep a close watch for forest fires.

One fire was reported and controlled on three acres in Lake township north of Marmora. Apparently this fire was caused by careless smokers travelling through a deer area.

The woods are dry enough to be dangerous and with the large number of hunters who have moved in for the deer season, extreme caution with fire will be necessary to prevent a serious fire situation.

All those who use the bush are asked to take every possible precaution to see they do not drop burning smoking material or leave a fire unextinguished.

Peterborough Ousts BCI Juniors; Oshawa Eliminates Senior Squad

BY PAUL FLEMING

In a COSSA semi-final football game at Quinte yesterday the BCI juniors were defeated by Peterborough Juniors 31-13. BCI got off to a roaring start on the first play when quarterback Don Skinner tossed to Pete Weston, who galloped down the sidelines to complete a spectacular 80-yard pass and run play. Weston's convert was blocked, putting BCI out in front early in the game 6-0.

On the first play of the second quarter Bill Laitimer sliced over centre for 20 and Mulrhead carried to the 10-yard line, only to have the ball intercepted by John Ambler of PCI.

On the next play speedy John Yorke of PCI went straight over centre for 90 yards, outrunning the whole BCI squad. Quinn attempted the extra point, but was blocked, ending the first half with a 6-6 tie.

Early in the third quarter Peterborough began to get untracked behind strong running from John Yorke, Tom Poulin, Don Ebbs and Bill Laitimer and scored when he bootlegged the ball around the right end from close in. The convert attempt was wide.

The Belleville boys started to fall apart and two successive fumbles led to TD's, one by Ebbs and then Yorke; Ebbs converting the last one, boosting PCI into a 31-6 lead. The local squad battled back and late in the third quarter Bill Laitimer scored after a fine tackle with Small and Weston adding the convert put the locals back in the game 25-13.

In the fourth quarter both teams battled hard but PCI came up with another big one when Poulin again swept around the right end.

For the winners Poulin, Yorke and Ambler stood out particularly well. In a losing cause Gary Ray and Roy Sines who have both been out of action since the opening game, Jim Gervais, Dave MacFarlane played standout ball along the line while Brian MacKenzie, Don Skinner, Bill Soules, Stewart Mulrhead did a fine chore tugging and tackling.

BY KEITH DICKEY

Oshawa Central High School defeated BCIVS 19-8 in Oshawa on Tuesday in the COSSA Senior 'A' semi-finals. Oshawa will play the COSSA Central Ontario finals.

Play was even for the first ten minutes of the game before the Oshawa defence blocked a kick on BCI's 19-yard line. Two plays later Matt Lappa sped around right end for a touchdown. The convert attempt was wide.

Near the end of the quarter Don Deacon kicked a fine 83 yard rouge to put BCI back in the game. In the second quarter the Belleville team dominated play but failed to score.

The third quarter saw both clubs attempt field goals, BCI's falling short by inches and Oshawa's being blocked by Baxter. The heavy Oshawa line thwarted the visitor's ground attack.

In the fourth quarter Oshawa marched deep into BCI territory with a strong ground attack taking them to the one yard line. Matt Lappa crashed over for the major.

Oshawa increased their lead when after a BCI pass was intercepted at midfield. Three plays later Lyons and Lappa hooked up on a passing play for the major, the convert failing again.

Ed Bardy made a beautiful catch return from BCI's 20 to Oshawa's 10 yard line with two minutes left to play. Ralph Chamberlayne took the ball another six yards before Deacon crashed across for the TD. Don Masters converted for the 19-8 score.

Small Montreal Crowd Expected To Watch Game

MONTREAL (CP)—One of the smallest Montreal crowds of the season was predicted as Montreal Alouettes and Ottawa Rough Riders got set to meet here today in the Big Four football union's sudden-death semi-final.

Observers said local television coverage and the fact that the game was to be played the day after a holiday, Remembrance Day, might keep attendance down to 7,000 in the 25,787-seat stadium.

It was felt many office workers might not risk staying away from work on two consecutive days. Only 7,000 fans were expected to follow the visitors down from Ottawa.

21-Year-Old Football Star Loses Left Leg After Tackle

TORONTO (CP)—Bob Fox, 21-year-old football player who had his left leg amputated last week as the aftermath of a tackle this season, wants to play in football — if not as a player, then as a coach.

"I'll never get out of sports; I love them too much," the smiling Fox told reporters today from his hospital bed Tuesday. Doctors amputated his leg above the knee.

Less than three weeks ago Bob was injured in an Ontario Rugby Football Union intermediate game at Oakville. Playing with the Niagara Falls Thunderbirds against the Oakville Black Knights, he received a gust and just as he lateralled the ball three Oakville players hit him.

PAIN IN KNEE

"I don't remember much of what happened," Bob said. "I just must have blacked out, but I do remember a terrible pain in my knee."

The tackle crushed veins and arteries in Bob's leg. Doctors tried two minor operations to restore the blood flow but both failed.

Bob doesn't blame his tacklers.

"It was all in the game and I probably would have done the same thing. They were trying their tackles when I lateralled the ball. It wasn't their fault."

Now he is waiting for the day when he can be equipped with an artificial limb. He hopes it will allow him to compete in some sports.

GREY CUP HELP

Bob will receive some financial aid from the Grey Cup player committee which has a reserve fund for football players disabled in competition. Del Wonnacott, a member of the Grey Cup group which recommends grants, said he will suggest aid for Fox. The Niagara Falls team has also indicated it will look after some hospital expenses.

"I hope I never again will be able to play hockey or football," Bob said. "I'll stay in other sports. What I want to do most is coach. I want to help young kids play hockey and football—to help them the way the coaches helped me."

Vince Mazza, coach of the Thunderbirds, has asked Bob to come out next season as an assistant coach. Bob feels that a year from now he will be ready for coaching minor hockey.

Among the other sports in which he'd like to compete are bowling, golf, swimming and skating.

"I know I won't be able to play hockey but I can't see anything wrong with skating. That's my big project—to skate again."

Ted Workman Says Live TV Hurting Gate

MONTREAL (CP)—Ted Workman, president of the Big Four football league, says live television is playing havoc with attendance at the home games.

The last two years "has cost the Big Four an average of 5,000 seats a game."

This put the total at 15,000 seats per crack or 30,000 seats for the two years.

Workman's statement in an interview followed announcement Monday night by Sam Berger of Ottawa, chairman of the Big Four's TV committee, that agreement had been reached with the CBC for televising this year's playoff games without blackouts.

CBC SHOCKED

A CBC spokesman in Ottawa said the CBC had understood it would be allowed, following practice, to show games in all Big Four cities.

He said it was "quite a shock" to the CBC to learn the Big Four wanted $15,000 a game for televising in the local area and that agreement had been reached on an amount "substantially less."

It was a shock to the Big Four when the CBC practically demanded to get Toronto games free," said Workman.

"We reviewed gate losses resulting from local-area television broadcasts the last two years, pointed these out to the CBC and said we couldn't carry these losses any longer. All such arrangements have been adversely affected by live local-area television.

"However, we agreed to take substantially less than what we had proved we have been suffering in losses."

Workman declined to state the agreed-upon figure or to give the Big Four's losses other than in number of seats.

Teepees Edge Biltmores 4-3, Mikita Scores 2

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

St. Catharines Teepees jumped into a seven-point lead in the OHA Junior A circuit Tuesday night by edging Guelph Biltmores 4-3. Stan Mikita scored two goals.

Mikita's effort moved him back into first place in the individual scoring race, where he is tied at the top with Bill Connelly of Peterborough Petes at 23 points. Biltmores—only team to beat St. Catharines so far this season—are fourth in the standings. They share the slot with Barrie Flyers who moved over Thursday night and played a 4-4 tie with last-place Hamilton Tigers. Tuesday night's other game.

St. Catharines' Dennis Dejordy, especially brilliant in the third period when he made eight stops on nine shots, for two occasions he skated far out of his net to check uncovered Guelph forwards.

Don Grosso and Ted Wright scored single goals in support of Dejordy. Bob Erlel, Rod Gilbert and Jim Neely each scored one.

PORTER SCORES TWO

At Barrie Lyle Porter's second goal of the game pulled Hamilton Cubs to a tie.

Larry Jeffrey of the Cubs opened the scoring for Grand Trunk league, playing his first game of the season for Barrie, evened it. In the second period Barrie's Porter scored the visitors 3-1 as Tom Maloney, Harold Miller and Danny Patrick potted singles. Porter scored for Cubs.

Barrie looked good for a win going into the third leading 4-2 but Dennis Ker-tell's single and Porter's second earned the Cubs one point.

J. Hampton Pool Hired to Lead Argos in 1959

TORONTO (CP) — Rock-jawed crew-cut J. Hampton Pool is not a man who gives up easily — as he proved this Tuesday by agreeing to return in 1959 to coach Toronto Argonauts of the Big Four Football League. Managing Director Lew Hayman said the Argos club executive made the invitation unanimous.

Pool's future was obscure up until Hayman's announcement. Many came here in 1957 from the National Football League Los Angeles Rams at a time when Toronto fortunes were sagging. They still are.

STILL LAST

Argos finished last in 1957 and this year. But each year there was an 110-door open good for three victories before the Toronto machine stripped its gears and ground to a halt. Each year the trips win gave great promise for the following year. Each year Toronto football fans talked excitedly of a Grey Cup.

Each year, the Argos finished with 4-10 won-lost records.

It was probably the memory of those 1956 victories—Pool is still known here as Grey Cup—that led to his being rehired. Toronto hasn't been in the Big Four playoffs since 1953.

No contract terms were disclosed.

Commenting on his new contract, Pool said he wants to start "something" around U.S. as soon as possible for college prospects.

KNOX UNCERTAIN

There is still no word on whether Toronto will be able to rehire Chuck Knox, whose sparkling performance at quarterback appeared largely responsible for the late-season surge. A former glamor boy of U.S. college ball, Knox is only on loan from Calgary Bears—Pool's old team—and if they recall him, Hamp has quarterback problems all over again.

"I'm more than happy to know that the executive thinks enough of my ability...to get me continue with this club," Pool said. He said he realized "I've got a great responsibility" to the Toronto fans to produce a real contender next fall."

Pool indicated he would ask assistant coach Joe Thomas and defensive coach Steve Owen to return with him next season.

KITCHENER WINS

GUELPH (CP) — Kitchener's Eastwood Collegiate completed an undefeated football season Tuesday, crushing Owen Sound 47-0 to win the Central and Western Ontario Secondary School Association senior football championship. Three touchdowns by George Chris sparked the CWOSSA southern division team to the title. Gary Helf added two touchdowns with the others going to Dave Bott and Gerry Mason. Grossman converted five of the touchdowns.

'Pursuit' Is Melodrama Series At Times Most Depressing

By CHARLES MERCER

NEW YORK (AP)—Pursuit, a Wednesday evening feature on CBS-TV, is mistakenly billed as a drama series. It's a melodrama series and a depressing one.

Some recent stories have been earning money trying to find possibilities in inspirational scripts. Each of these melodramas, obviously, is a story about somebody in a chase for somebody else.

Tonight, for example, Dan Duryea, Laraine Day and Chester Morris will appear in Tiger On A Bicycle, a book by Cornell Woolrich who sets out to hunt down the robber-killer of his policeman friend. He begins to hound the young son of an ex-convict in the hope that the kid will lead him to the killers.

POOR CHARACTERS

In the Pursuit offerings I've watched there has been little subtlety of depth of characterization. Series is filled with Mike Hammer than Sherlock Holmes.

Last week, for instance, Barry Sullivan, Hans Conried, Zachary Scott and Kam Tong were caught up in something called Ticket To Tangier. It was a good idea for the bureau because his hands had been frostbitten in the line of duty, incapacitating him for shooting. Personally I got the impression the Tangier mugs must have been glad to get rid of him because his facility had frozen on him. He was sour, self-pitying and obsessive.

FOLLOW HOODLUM

Well, he sees a guy getting on a trans - Pacific plane with a blonde and follows him because the blonde is a crook although he can't remember who she is. Dr. Wake Sloan for hero blows his stack and screams that the guy is the former hoodlum named Lucky something or other. Lucky just stares at him.

Then Sloan, Scott and Conried relentlessly pursuing Lucky's family to the Riviera. It became seemed to be a pleasant sort and the two kids obviously were Lucky's children but when Sloan's action audience because they were playing an American flag around for no discernible reason. Then they were goes on to Tangier and finally shoots Lucky.

The blonde, whose role was murky, turned out to be a middy, turned out to be a widow from Atlanta, Ga., who allowed she'd scout right back to Atlanta and a life of moral rectitude.

The end of another wasted hour of television.

Shatto, Parker Best Players in East and West

TORONTO (CP) — Halfback Dick Shatto of Toronto Argonauts of the Big Four and quarterback Jackie Parker of Edmonton Eskimos in the Western conference have been named the outstanding football players in the East and West in a poll of sports writers and sportscasters in the nine Big Four and Western Interprovincial Football Union cities.

A further ballot, conducted by a distillery, will be held to name one of the two as the outstanding player in the country. The result will be announced Thursday, Nov. 27, at Vancouver, two days before the Grey Cup final.

Parker was voted the country's outstanding player in 1957 and received a plaque and $1,000. Parker, from Mississippi State, led Eskimos to Grey Cup victories over Montreal Alouettes in 1954, 1955 and '56. Shatto, from the University of Kentucky, has played five years with Argonauts. Voters also will decide two rookie awards — the Canadian player and lineman of the year. Ron Howell of Hamilton Tiger-Cats and Gordon Rowland of Winnipeg Blue Bombers were the Canadians chosen in the Eastern leagues and Jacki Simpson of the Alouettes and Don Luzzi of Calgary Stampeders were the linemen chosen in preliminary ballots.

Desilu Workshop Will Help Develop Many Young Actors

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Two years ago Lucille Ball and Desi Arnaz agreed to help develop the best of it; now we've got to help others."

Today workmen are putting the finishing touches on the latest result of that resolve, the Desilu Workshop.

Once they both worked for RKO stadios. Now they own it. And acting jobs in Desilu's TV series. They have spent a large sum to make over a storage building into a handsome new theatre seating 200. Here, they will give a helping hand to struggling young talent.

"We both were in on the planning stages, but Desi is so darned busy that I've had to take over and work out the details," said Lucy.

"And what a job it has been! One day I auditioned 70 young actors and actresses. I'll never do that again. The most I should see in one day is five or six."

But the results have been good, she said, and she is greatly enthused over the project.

Kelowna Packers Win 2nd Game Of Tour by 5-2

STOCKHOLM (CP) — Kelowna Packers, who have played before more than 30,000 people in two exhibition games, are all even with Sweden's national hockey team today with two more games here before they fly to Moscow for a five-game series against the Russians.

A three-goal flurry in the first period provided the impetus for the Kelowna Tuesday night, 5-2 over the Swedes, who had won by the same score Sunday.

The Swedes, considerably more rested than they were Sunday after their long trip from home got their sport Tuesday night from the oldest player on the team, 35-year-old Jack Lanzien, the former New York Ranger from Regina.

SWEDES START FAST

As they did on Sunday, the Swedes wasted no time taking the lead. After two minutes of play, Einar Granat beat Dave Gatherum, who was back in the nets for Packer sets all night.

Lanzien, who joined the Packers after the team was picked for the tour, evened the score a minute later. Duke Durban made it 2-1 at the 5:30 mark and Russ Sutherland scored one of the two Canadian goals Sunday, came up with what proved to be the playoff marker at 9:58.

Sweden got its second goal late in the period off the stick of Sven E. Hedlund.

The Canadians were not to be denied and they added a goal in the ninth minute in each of the last two periods. Tom Steely made it 4-2 and Brian Roche wrapped it up.

MIDDLETON CHEERFUL

Forward Jim Middleton, who started with Penticton Vs when they shut out the Russians 5-0 for the world title in 1955, predicted the Packers would hit their stride now that they had had a chance to catch up on their sleep.

He said the club "felt more at home" than it had Sunday.

A surprising feature of the exhibition games have been the big crowds. Tuesday's game moved out Sunday and better than 14,000 saw the second game.

Soviet officials watched both games. The Packers leave for Moscow.

Anatoli Tarasov, Soviet hockey coach, said he wasn't impressed with the Canadians after their loss Sunday, but Tuesday night he refrained from confident, at least for publication.

FLYING HIGH!

The Macs were flying high last night and the only sad part was that young Jerry O'Hearn in the Hull nets had to be the victim.

He's boys had their scoring eyes sharpened and came through with a great offensive effort, picking up 39 assists to go with their 11 goals. Just about every person in the rink must have felt a little sorry for O'Hearn, pressed into action because Hull's regular goalie, Claude Cyr, was ill. With the Macs clicking like that it would not have mattered much who was between the pipes.

This was one of their better nights and let's hope there's plenty more to come. Matter of fact we can't think of a better time to put goals like that, what with back-to-back contests coming up on Friday and Saturday against Whitby. The 12-3 score should do wonders for the morale. We know the ability is there, boys, let's keep it coming.

While the team as a whole looked great in the Hull half of the rink there was a lot lacking inside the Belleville blueline. The locals had trouble clearing the puck from around the net. They appeared a little confused at times and but for a few missed corners, the Baby Hake could have had several more goals.

Flori Googan proved last night he will be one of the loop's best rushing defencemen. He carried the puck like it was a personal possession, set up plays all over the ice and was well worth the goal and four assists he got. His end and Brownie were hot in that second period, carping their hat tricks. Minnie Hill reached the points list with four assists and one his mates must envy, and they are those you can look for a bagful. Botley played his usual steady defensive game and Moe Benoit celebrated his return by dishing out a couple of solid body checks.

With some improvement in their own zone the Macs should make it an interesting weekend for the Dunlops.

Boston Bruins Take Over First Place In NHL

Blast Third-Place Hawks 8-4; Tod Sloan Thrown Out Of Game for Talking

By BEN WARD
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Boston Bruins capitalized on yesterday's lake over first place in the National Hockey League Tuesday night.

The Bruins, who had muffed two weekend chances to move into the top spot, blasted the third-place Chicago Black Hawks 8-4 and took a one-point edge on the deposed Montreal Canadiens.

The situation may not last long, however. Canadiens move into Toronto to meet the Maple Leafs in the only NHL action slated tonight.

BOSTON OUTSHOT

Statistics on Tuesday night's game in Chicago make the Bruins win look like a fluke. They scored three of their goals while the Hawks were short-handed and were outshot 39-17. But from rink-side they definitely looked like the sharper club.

Probably the toughest penalty from Chicago's standpoint was one which didn't figure in the scoring. Tod Sloan, the former Leaf who has become one of Hawks' top guns this season, was tossed out of the game on a match misconduct after only four minutes.

Rookie referee Matt Pavelich put the blue on Sloan when the winger protested his action in overturning a goal Boston got from Jerry Toppazzini. At one point in the argument Sloan became so irate against referee Pavelich behind the ear with his stick.

ALMOST RIOT

Sloan wasn't the only one riled by the incident. Chicago fans, many of whom claimed Toppazzini's shot missed the net, almost set off a riot.

The disputed goal was Toppazzini's 10th this season and a goal him on top of the NHL goal-getters. But Hawks' Eddie Litzenberger did even better than that, scoring two to become the top scorer in the league with a total of six goals and 13 assists.

Johnny Bucyk and Don McKenney had a big night for Boston. Bucyk joining the league's Big Seven for the first time with a five-point effort on three goals and a pair of assists. McKenney scored twice and three Boston snipers were Earl Reibel and Guy Gendron.

Hawks' other goals went to Eric Nesterenko and Ken Wharram.

Georgia Peach Tagged by Tax Office $49,197

REDWOOD CITY, Calif. (AP) Ty Cobb, the Georgia Peach of baseball fame, has been tagged by the state income tax office for $49,197 in claimed back taxes.

A tax lien was filed by Harry J. Morton, director of collections for the California franchise tax board, against Cobb's mansion in Atherton.

The lien claims Cobb failed to file California income tax returns for the years 1949 through 1957. Cobb is protesting the lien, claiming his legal residence is at Tahoe City, Nev., on the south east shore of Lake Tahoe. His appeal is pending before the state board of equalization. Cobb posted security for the amount of the lien.

BUYS MOUNTAIN TOP

Meanwhile, Cobb has returned to his native Georgia, where he has bought a mountain top overlooking his childhood home in Chenocetah, Ga.

It was understood Cobb's income tax troubles stemmed from a recent article on his move back to Georgia. The article, carried in a national magazine, said that after 36 years in California . . . I want to get out of circulation.

"I don't want to leave Californ-ia now, but, I have no business connections there anymore."

Cobb always has been careful to maintain his legal residence was Nevada. With income taxes however, divorced him in San Mateo County in 1907, stating that his fortune then amounted to $7,000,000.

Lane's Manager Not Happy Over Last Fight

MUSKEGON, Mich. (AP) — A league-lashing by his co-manager, Pete Petrosky, had southpaw lightweight boxer Kenny Lane of Muskegon "a little steamed up" today.

Petrosky said Lane's 10-round split decision over unranked Leonard Godih at Syracuse, N.Y., Friday was "a mediocre performance."

"Before the Godih fight, he thought he was the 'great Kenny Lane', but to me he was just an ordinary fighter who had not trained," Petrosky said.

Lane lost a close decision in July to lightweight champion Joe Brown in a title fight at Chicago.

"Ever since the Brown fight," Petrosky said, "I've had trouble trying to get Kenny to listen."

LANE BRISTLED

"That doesn't discourage me," Lane said, adding: "It kind makes me mad. I only had four fights last year. I could do a lot better if we got on the ball and got more fights. I don't think sitting around gives you the good—I need at least a dozen fights a year."

Lane, No. 1 lightweight contender, said he was forced to take three days off training before the Godih fight because of a pulled back muscle.

"Even so," he said, "I was in pretty good shape. I should have pushed Godih with more and more, but I was hitting him pretty good with my punches."

"I know it was a bad fight, but we all have bad nights," Lane said.

Sailor's Guide Wins Big Race After Winner Disqualified

By GEORGE BOWEN

LAUREL, Md. (CP) — Queen Mother Elizabeth of England once waited nervously to find out whether Sailor's Guide won a horse race. Tuesday the whole world was wondering who had triumphed in the $100,000 Washington, D.C., Internationl.

The Queen Mother got a foal involving the horse which had given the 10,000,000 sports-loving people of Australia something more to crow over. And both times Sailor's Guide was on the receiving end of protests.

Earlier this year at Melbourne a foal was claimed against the first - place finish of Sailor's Guide in the Queen Elizabeth Stakes. The Queen Mother was watching and was reported to have had the equivalent of a $40 bet on the Sailor. She carried off the $100,000 after the foul was disallowed.

In the International, the circumstances were reversed. The United States staked a claim to victory on the basis of Tudor Era's 3½-length margin over Sailor's Guide at the end of a mile and half grass race.

But the Sailor's jockey, Howard Grant, protested he had been bumped by Tudor Era, an English-bred owned by Mrs. Herbert Hertf of Memphis, Tenn.

There was a 20-minute delay while officials studied a motion picture of the first foul claim in seven running of the International. They ruled in favor of Sailor's Guide.

The disqualification was the climactic turn in a series of twists and reversal around the race which holds a unique position in the turf sport.

The third-place finish of Ballymoss was one of them. John McShain of Philadelphia could see the most highly-prized horse out of Ireland in years.

Ballymoss had won his last four races in England and France but was new in contention in the international.

Russia's two thoroughbreds ran but not enough. In their first appearance outside the Iron Curtain, Zaryad was left behind after six false starts and never caught up with the other nine starters from seven countries. Garnir, the Moscow Derby winner, couldn't get closer than sixth.

Australia's joy proved shortlived. Sailor's Guide isn't going home to the land which rules international amateur tennis and boasts the world record-breaking roller, Herb Elliott.

Dr. Leon Levy of Philadelphia, and two others have contracted for Sailor's Guide for a reported $50,000.

It was part of $305,000 the International paid for Sailor's Guide six years ago as auction sales at Sydney. He brought them $145,000 while racing in Australia and the International first prize was $70,000.

Mrs. Herff plans to retire for $15,000 second prize. Ballymoss picked up $10,000, and the Irish countryman, Tharp, owned by Carlton Palmer of New York, won $5,000 for fourth.

The others out of the cash were Germanicus, fifth in fifth place, Venezuela's Escribano seventh, the other U.S. horse, Clem, eighth and Argentina's Quarrier, next to last.

The biggest crowd — 40,376—in Maryland racing history sent a record $2,645,834 in and out of the mutuel windows.

The payoff on Sailor's Guide a rather well-backed $18.60 and $6 for a $2 bet.

Tudor Era paid $7.80 and $4.00, and Ballymoss $2.40.

REDWOOD CITY, Calif. (AP) Ty Cobb, the Georgia Peach of baseball fame, has been tagged by the state income tax office for $49,197 in claimed back taxes.

A tax lien was filed by Harry J. Morton, director of collections for the California franchise tax board, against Cobb's mansion in Atherton.

The lien claims Cobb failed to file California income tax returns for the years from 1946 through 1957.

Cobb is protesting the lien, claiming his legal residence is in Zephyr Cove, Nev., on the southeast shore of Lake Tahoe. His appeal is pending before the state board of equalization. Cobb posted security for the amount of the lien.

BUYS MOUNTAIN TOP

Meanwhile, Cobb has returned to his native Georgia, where he has bought a mountain top overlooking his childhood home in Chenoctah, Ga.

It was understood Cobb's income tax troubles stemmed from a recent article on his more back to Georgia. The article, carried in a national magazine, said that after 30 years in California . . . I want to get out of circulation. "I don't want to leave California now, but I have no business connections anymore."

Cobb always has been careful to maintain his legal residence was Nevada. Wife number two, however, divorced him in San Mateo County in 1947, stating that his fortune then amounted to $7,000,000.

Lane's Manager Not Happy Over Last Fight

MUSKEGON, Mich. (AP) — A tongue-lashing by his co-manager, Pete Petrosky, had southpaw Muskegon "a little steamed up" Tuesday.

Petrosky said Lane's 10-round split decision over unranked Lebouart Godih at Syracuse, N.Y., Friday was "a mediocre performance."

"Before the Godih fight, he thought he was the finest Kenny Lane', but to me he was just an ordinary fighter who had not trained," Petrosky said.

Lane lost a close decision in July for lightweight champion Joe Brown in a title fight at Houston. "Since since the Brown fight," Petrosky said, "I've had trouble trying to get Kenny to train."

LANE BRISTLED

Lane, No. 1 lightweight contender, said he was "peeved" when three days off training before the Godih fight because of a pulled back muscle.

"Even so," he said, "I was in pretty good shape. I should have pushed Godih around a little more, but I was hitting him pretty good when I could get to him."

"I know it was a bad fight, but we all have bad nights," Lane said.

Sailor's Guide Wins Big Race After Winner Disqualified

By GEORGE BOWEN

LAUREL, Md. (CP) — Queen Mother Elizabeth of England once had a horse named Sailor's Guide or Sailor's Guide had won a horse race. Tuesday the whole world was wondering who had triumphed in the $100,000 Washington, D.C. International.

Both times there was a foul involving the horse which had given the 10,000,000 sports-loving people of Australia something more to cross over. And both times Sailor's Guide was on the right side of protests.

Earlier this year at Melbourne a foul was claimed against the first horse across the finish line. Guide in the Queen Elizabeth Stakes. The Queen Mother was watching and was reported to have had the equivalent of a $60 bet on the Sailor. She cashed in a half hour later when the foul was disallowed.

In the International, the circumstances were reversed. The United States staked a claim for victory on the basis of Tudor Era's 3½-length margin over Sailor's Guide at the end of the mile and half grass race.

But the Sailor's jockey, Howard Grant, protested he had been bumped by Tudor Era, an English-bred owned by Mrs. Herbert Herff of Memphis, Tenn.

There was a three-minute delay while officials studied a motion picture of the first foul claim in seven runnings of the International. They ruled in favor of Sailor's Guide.

The disqualification was the climactic turn in a series of twists woven around the race which holds a unique position in the turf sport.

The third-place finish of Ballymoss had no one to blame but Shain of Philadelphia could see the most highly-rated horse out of Ireland in years.

Ballymoss had won his last four races in England by a total of 16 and he never was in contention in the International.

Russia's two thoroughbreds ran but not enough. In their first appearance outside the Iron Curtain Zaryad was left behind after six false starts and never caught up with the other nine entries from seven countries. Garnir, the Moscow Derby winner, was never closer than sixth.

Australia's five proved shortlived. Sailor's Guide isn't going home to the land which rules international amateur brawls and boasts the world record-breaking miler, Herb Elliott.

Dr. Leon Levy of Philadelphia, and two others have contracted to buy Sailor's Guide for a reported $80,000.

It was part of $300,000 the Dibbs gleaned from a $1,750 investment. That was all they paid for Sailor's Guide six years ago in auction sales at Sydney. He brought them $194,525 while racing in Australia and the International first prize was $70,000.

Mrs. Herff had to settle for $15,000 second prize. Ballymoss picked up $10,000, and his Irish countrymate, Tharp, owned by Cecil Boyd-Rochfort of New York, won $5,000 for fourth.

The others out of the cash were Germany's Alchimist, fifth; Venezuela's Escribano seventh, the other U.S. horse, $700, and Argentina's Revoque, next to last.

The biggest crowd — 40,276—in Maryland racing history sent a record $2,804,194 in and out of the mutuel machines.

The payoff on Sailor's Guide a dollar ticket was $18.60, $8 and $4 for a $2 bet.

Tudor Era paid $7.80 and $4.00, and Ballymoss $2.40.

TORONTO (CP) — Ali'e Pride, owned by Roger Leslie of Toronto and ridden by Don Hale, defeated Admiral's Lass by a nose in the feature Armistice Day purse at New Woodbine Tuesday.

Ali's Pride ran the mile and 70 yards in the good time of 1.42 3-5 and paid $6.60 to win.

Scratched

Norwin G closed a big gap to finish third, beaten a length for all the money.

The daily double of Regal Look and Richard's Mace, winners of the first two races, paid $140.40. Earl's Court Stadium Jan. 12.

Macs Trounce Hull 12-3, Climb To Second

Outscore Habs Every Period As Hildebrand, Brown Shine With Three Goals Apiece

The goal-hungry Belleville McFarlands unleashed a 60-minute offensive with power to spare before a small crowd here last night to whip Hull-Ottawa Canadiens 12-3 and take over second place in the OHA Eastern Senior "A" League standing.

The Hildebrandars spotted Hull the first goal, but after that there was never a doubt of the outcome. They had a 3-1 lead at the end of the first, made it 8-2 after forty minutes of play and wound it up by outscoring the visitors 3-1 in the third heat.

Top snipers, who made young Jerry O'Hearn's debut in the Hull net one he will not soon forget, were playing coach Ike Hildebrand and "Wiener" Brown, each with three goals. It was Ike's first hat trick of the season and came after he sat out two weekend games. Brown's trio brought his total to eight in four games, including his second hat trick.

GOEGAN TOP SCORER

Top point man for the evening was defenceman Flori Goegan with five, one goal and four well-aimed assists. Hildebrand added one socker while Dave Jones scored twice and drew a helper. Minnie Menard broke his point-less string by assisting on four goals, Johnny McLellan had a goal and two assists while Al Dewsbury helped on a trio. Frank Bathgate picked up one and one and Bart Bradley had a single goal. Assists for Payette, Martineau, Raglan and MacDonald rounded out the 25-point evening.

Claude Richard lived up to his goal-scoring name by blinking the light twice behind Gordie Bell while Jean Gauthier fired the other Hull marker. John Annable had two assists, Norm Doyle, J. C Tremblay, Guy Black and Andre Tardif one.

Canadiens were hard-hit by injuries and sickness; with goalie Claude Cyr, forward Bob Boucher and defenceman John Chagnon all missing from the lineup. They were replaced by O'Hearn, Yves Savaria and Claude Fournel. Floyd Crawford and Lou Smrke rested for the Macs with Benoit and Hildebrand returning to action.

The visitors drew five of the game's nine minor penalties. Each club scored twice while the opposition was shorthanded.

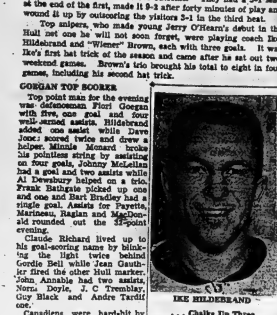
While the Belleville offensive effort was beyond reproach, the Macs were unimpressive in their own end of the rink. They had trouble clearing and controlling the disc behind their own blueline but once an attack was launched it was pretty to watch. Goegan rushed well and offen-paired with Lionel Bottey a defensive defenceman. Ike and Dewsbury led the forwards often. Hull missed a number of good scoring chances, especially in the opening period when they outshot the winners 13-8.

Canadiens opened the scoring while Hildebrand was serving an elbowing sentence. Gauthier walking in on Bell to blast the rubber home from point blank range.

MACS STRIKE QUICKLY

Belleville struck quickly to take the lead with goals by Brown at 9.24 and by McLellan at 9.48. Goegan gave Brown a perfect pass on the first one, after carrying the puck through the entire Hull club. Bart Bradley made it 3-1 on a pass play with Jones and Dewsbury at 12.16 on a snap shot to the corner.

The Macs cut loose with four goals in three minutes and three seconds early in the second for a 7-1 lead. Brown got a pair with a slap shot and a close-in play with Goegan and Payette. Hildebrand then rapped home a pair of quickies by the time the clock read 3.35.



Richard got Hull's second darker with MacDonald at 6.33 but Hildebrand completed the hat trick at 11.40 and Jones fooled O'Hearn in close at 19.17 for the 9-2 lead.

Belleville still looked bad behind their blue line and at 4.06 of the third, Richard banged home Hull's final goal.

Tremblay was in the sin-bin when Frank Bathgate made a hard drive on McLellan's pass

Ike Hildebrand guns the puck by Hull goalie Jerry O'Hearn here after taking a pass from Minnie Menard (7) to complete his three-goal hat trick. Other Hull players in the picture are Jean Gauthier and J. C. Tremblay. McFarlands won the fixture 12-3.

Edm. Eskimos Easily Win Semi-Final Series in West

By JIM PEACOCK
Canadian Press Staff Writer

EDMONTON (CP)—The Western football semi-final was "sorta a case of Eskimos and Parker.

Against the spindly-legged Edmonton Eskimo, there is little defense this side of an artillery battery—and Saskatchewan Roughriders couldn't muster one.

The sensational 28 - year - old quarterback from Mississippi State moved Edmonton easily through the two-game total-points Western Interprovincial Football Union semi-final with a 58-53 margin over Saskatchewan.

Eskimos trounced Riders 31-7 Tuesday in the sunshine at Clarke Stadium. They had trimmed Riders 27-11 three days earlier in Regina.

MEET WINNIPEG

The victory moved Eskimos into the WIFU final for a ninth consecutive time, and they will open the best - of - three series against Winnipeg Blue Bombers in another afternoon game here Saturday. A crowd of more than 18,000 who turned out Tuesday is expected.

Second game is scheduled next Wednesday night in Winnipeg and the third, if necessary, also is set for Winnipeg, Nov. 22—a week before the national Grey Cup final in Vancouver Nov. 29.

Parker didn't get any of Edmonton's points Tuesday, but he pitched a touchdown pass to fullback Normie Kwong and with his fantastic play-dodging on pass plays, kept the defence off balance much of the time.

Fullback Johnny Bright crashed across twice for touchdowns and led the offence with 73 yards rushing, compared with Kwong's 34, and Jim Letcavits picked up the fourth Eskimo touchdown on a 68-yard pass-and-run play with Canadian quarter Don Getty.

MOSBA KICKS

End Joe Mobra, taking over placement - kicking chores when Parker wound up with a sore toe that needed a hole drilled in the toenail to relieve the pain, kicked three converts and a 27-yard field goal and Letcavits, who did the punting, got a single.

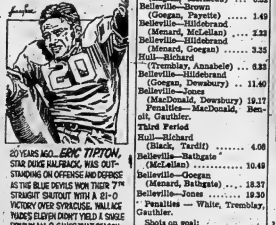
Riders got their only point in the third quarter when quarterback Frank Tripucka punted from the Edmonton 40 for a single after Kwong had fumbled.

The crisp work of the Edmonton defensive unit and inept work of the Rider offence had a good deal to do with the actual scoring.

FIGURES TELL STORY

Eskimos got 21 first downs to nine by Riders; rolled up 178 yards rushing to 37 by Riders and got 208 yards passing on 13 completions in 22 attempts to 132 yards on 14 completions in 31 attempts by Riders.

Defensively, Eskimos intercepted four Rider forwards, while Riders grabbed two Eskimo passes. Saskatchewan lost the ball four times on fumbles and saw their only bright spot in Tripucka's punting. He averaged 43 yards in 12 tries.



When the smoke had cleared, Rider coach George Terlep was unhappy and bitter. "They won with a lot of luck," he said, then picked Bombers to win the final. "I think they're the better club—a better balanced club."

"I hated to point out his girl in the stands with another guy, but how else could I get him to kick a 43 yard field goal?"

Fire Destroys Separate School At Sturgeon Falls

STURGEON FALLS (CP) — A search for emergency classroom accommodation for 300 children began here today in the wake of a fire which destroyed a two-room separate school building Tuesday night.

The blaze, seen 30 miles away, levelled the adjoining St. Joseph's and Sacred Heart schools with a loss estimated by school board chairman Gaetan Rochon at $1,000,000.

No one was injured in the fire, which broke out while the school was empty. But an unidentified 13-year-old girl was reported to have suffered a heart attack while being evacuated from a nearby girls' boarding house.

The 135 boarding students of the Notre Dame de Lourdes convent school spent the night bedded down in a church parish hall because of water damage to the convent.

Students from nearby Verner and North Bay, 36 miles east of here, were called in to help Sturgeon Falls units battle the flames.

Cause of the blaze has not been determined.

HARKNESS

that by the end of July, farmers in Western Canada should be able to deliver all of the wheat which they wish to get into the elevators."

BEEF OUTLOOK BRIGHT

The bright picture in 1968 was in beef cattle. Prices increased, particularly in the U.S., was for lower grade cattle. Between 1958, up 21 per cent from the similar period. Feedlot producers boosted their cash income to $434,000,000 in the first half o 1968, up 25 per cent over the earlier 1957 hal.

And the indications were that the U.S. would still provide a big market for Canadian beef cattle. Exports of prime cattle would be "very similar" to those of 1968.

"If increased consumption of poultry meats is halted, returns from these can be maintained at present levels.

"If we can secure a relatively small increase in overall production, prices for dairy products can also be maintained, but finding such a reduction, may still faeefa alty drop.

"Crops will be lower in price than in 1968 and may well be at the lowest levels for a number of the year. However, with present prices or grain, hog production is profitable by the efficient producer at the support levels."

His statement was included in a text of a speech issued to the press before delivery.

Mr. Harkness addressed agricultural conferences in the past usually on about two or three days. However, the 1967 conference was canceled and the current one is being held in one day.

PONDER

organized assistance to them countries.

In four years, he noted, China has sent aid worth $1.2 billion to Somalia 14 times, to Burma seven times and to India six times.

Vicente Paz Sioco, chief Philippine delegate, said "growing pains" shooting through Asian countries are forcing them down and threatening to wipe out what momentum of progress they have managed to create.

Other delegates called for stabilization of primary commodity markets which, when affected by prices that seem relatively minor in big countries, produce sometimes ruinous effects in small countries.

GOOD REASON

More than 5,000 Atlantic salmon were caught by anglers in Nova Scotia rivers in the 1968 season.

Astrological Forecast

By CARROLL RIGHTER

Thursday, November 13

Aries (March 21 to April 19) — New progressive methods are just what you need at this time. And if you study up on them, you will be amply rewarded in the future. Read your paper thoroughly and then go to see those persons who are experts and study their systems.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20) — A correct intuition is yours regarding how to better your personal and business life. So, get into the so-called silence for awhile and get results. P.M. is then excellent for anything connected with romance and soulmate.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21) — The right day to be with associates to quickly work out any ticklish problems, put new plans into affect. Keep working that lovely smile whenever the verbal sleddling seems to be rather rough.

Moon Children — (June 22 to July 21) — Get an early start on all the chores and work ahead of you. Stop procrastinating and deliberating. Decisive action now brings fine results in the early future, no matter whether it concerns home, office or outside affairs. Be alert and smart.

Leo (July 22 to Aug. 21) — Another day for enjoying the entertainments and fun that relieve the tension under which you usually operate, owing to that fertile mind of yours and great capacity for work. Get out in the open air as much as possible.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) — Get all your basic and practical affairs in order today for best results in the future. Be certain that house and business situations are ideally right. Then entertain beautifully at home.

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) — Perk up both business activities and lagging spirits by paying calls on trade, relations, pals, et al. Impress everyone with your good mind and real efficiency. Up and at 'em now!

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) — Anything in connection with finances and real estate, holdings can be put in more perfect and valuable order today. Forget the pennies and concentrate on the dollars. Look after your throat, cut records, attend to anything phonetic.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) — Think almost selfishly today. Give attention at last to those fine plans you have kept locked up somewhere or in your mind, see that you start putting them into operation, and achieve real success. P. M. let sociability reign.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) — A day for research into things which puzzle you and for learning new systems that will bring greater success in the early future. Be ingenious in all that you do, also in ways and means for helping your fellow man.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) — An ideal day to be with persons with whom you wish to join efforts for an early and joint success in some venture. Here is a particularly good day for large groups and round table discussions. Action.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to March 20) — By exercising the greatest consciousness and care in the performance of some specific duty, you can today get the backing and good will of some very influential person. Impress all with your patriotism.

If your child is born today — The fine child born today will have what is known as a one-track mind, which is an excellent thing, provided it is on the right track. Therefore, it behooves you to early give all the ethical and spiritual training possible, for your progeny has tremendous perseverance and can never be swerved from a certain course once he or she makes up the mind to go after something. A wonderful chart for the detective,

Science Now Shrinks Piles Without Pain Or Discomfort

Finds Healing Substance That Relieves Pain And Itching As It Shrinks Hemorrhoids

Toronto, Ont. (Special)—For the first time science has found a new healing substance with the ability to shrink hemorrhoids and to relieve pain and itching. Thousands have been relieved with this inexpensive substance right in the privacy of their own home without any discomfort or inconvenience.

In one hemorrhoid case after another, "very striking improvement" was reported and verified by doctors' observations.

Pain was promptly relieved. And while gently relieving pain, actual reduction or retraction (shrinking) took place.

And most amazing of all—this improvement was maintained in cases where doctors' observations were continued over a period of many months!

In fact, results were so thorough that sufferers were able to make such statements as "Piles have ceased to be a problem." And among these sufferers were a very large number of hemorrhoid conditions, some of even up to 30 years' standing.

All this, without the use of narcotics, anesthetics or astringents of any kind. The secret is a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne) — the discovery of a famous scientific institute. Already, Bio-Dyne is in wide use for healing injured tissue on all parts of the body.

This new healing substance is offered in suppository or ointment form called Preparation H. Ask for individually sealed convenient Preparation H Suppositories or Preparation H ointment with special applicator. Preparation H is sold at all drug stores. Satisfaction guaranteed or money refunded.

Trade Minister Gives U.S. Firms 'Friendly Advice'

Churchill Lists Eight Points for Subsidiaries

CHICAGO (CP) — Canada has put forward "in the spirit of friendly advice" eight points for consequence of suggestions on how U.S. firms with Canadian interests best go about their business for the benefit of both lands.

The call for a much greater Canadian voice in the operations of American industries with subsidiaries in Canada was made Wednesday at the Canadian-American trade and industry conference sponsored by the Chicago Association of Commerce Minister Churchill.

The Canadian cabinet minister told the conference, called to examine the importance of commercial relations between the Middle Western states and Canada, that misunderstandings must be examined if growth in trade be anticipates is to materialize.

EIGHT SUGGESTIONS

Churchill offered some suggestions whereby, he said, American industry might improve both its public relations and its economic position in Canada:

1. Provide more Canadian subsidiaries including companies for use in parent company policy.

2. Use as many Canadian materials as possible, particularly if Canadian operations as can be economically justified.

3. Increase processing of Canadian materials before export, which also can be done on a competitive basis.

4. Encourage and train Canadians directly to take an increasing part in the management and professional positions in subsidiary corporations.

5. Give local management greater autonomy in operating Canadian subsidiaries.

6. Offer Canadians opportunities to buy equity stocks in the subsidiary companies operating in Canada.

7. Encourage branch plants to purchase more fully in the light of their communities.

8. Support more research work and new development in Canada.

SETTLEMENT

The conference was sponsored by the Chicago Association of Commerce and Industry and attended by some 300 businessmen from the U.S. and Canada.

It was told by Wilfrid Sanders, vice-president and general manager of J. Walter Thompson Company Limited of Canada, that advertising could play an important role in Canada's future.

DOSCO STATES SPRINGHILL MINES WILL BE CLOSED

7,000 Residents Look Out on Bleak Future

SPRINGHILL, N.S. (CP)—The 7,000 residents of this hard-luck coal town looked out on a bleak future today. Mining, their lifeblood for 138 years, had been taken away.

The Dominion Coal Company issued a statement Wednesday night that said:

"After careful consideration it has been decided not to open the coal mines here."

Said Mayor Ralph Gilroy: "This looks like the knockout blow."

The town had just gone through two weeks of heartbreak. An underground upheaval Oct. 23 killed No. 3 colliery. Rescue crews's only operating mine and the community's lifeblood—four men died, 100 were rescued.

Twelve of the survivors were brought to the surface after six days underground without food, water or light. Another seven were found alive after almost nine days.

MINES OPEN

A. C. MacDoucall, executive vice-president of A.V. Roe (Canada) Limited, announced Oct. 31 left the door open for independent operation of the mines.

He said the company's lease on mine property would be turned over to the province of Nova Scotia.

President Bill Marsh of District 26, United Mine Workers of America (Ind.) said his union opposed abandonment of the mines. The union would fight for the reopening of No. 4 pit, sealed following the 1956 explosion that killed 39 men.

Premier Stanfield said the Nova Scotia government "will do all in its power" to meet the grave situation. Labor Minister Cecil Rhodes will be the main topic of a cabinet meeting in Halifax today.

Mr. MacDonald said no decision had been made to relocate subsidiary companies here. The matter "can, has and will be considered," he said.

He added that consideration was also being given to relocating other divisions of the company operations elsewhere.

Farmers Reluctant to Admit Production Is Too Great

OTTAWA (CP) — The government faces some stiff losses on its 1958 price support program, but it appears faced with a tough fight before it can persuade farmers to reduce surplus production voluntarily.

A federal report placed before the federal - provincial agricultural conference also says the government has already been hit by heavy market losses in disposing of surpluses, and maintaining price for cheese, wool, skim milk, fowl, apples, canned tomatoes, asparagus and potatoes.

Agriculture Minister Harkness Wednesday told provincial agriculture ministers, their deputies and spokesmen for national farm organizations to get farmers to reduce surplus production where necessary. Otherwise, he said, the government may have to reduce price supports.

The initial reaction was somewhat cool. Conference delegates will continue a general discussion today and their inclination seems toward getting still better prices for farmers, calling for a national crop insurance scheme, soil conservation measures and an expansion of federal farm credit.

The Dairy Farmers of Canada took issue with Mr. Harkness as to whether Canada is being "Kingsmere market" in exporting her surplus as he suggested.

"Present stocks of butter are not as alarming as some would have us believe," the farm body said in a statement.

But if the government did hold a surplus, this should be distributed to consumers in a way which would not lower the price to producers.

The government this year boosted the price support on butter to 58 cents a pound wholesale from 56 last year. Mr. Harkness estimated the current average price of 63 cents a pound in Canada compares with 59 cents in the United States and 58 cents for New Zealand butter in the United Kingdom market.

The government had accumulated large stocks of skim milk and though the dairy farmers insisted the administration should take the Harkness emphasized that Canada cannot even export the surplus as a gift.

Saskatchewan's Agriculture Minister I. C. Nollett argued that more than income production, (Continued on page 25)

TRANSPORT BD. SHOVED INTO KEY ROLE IN DISPUTE

Wage Hikes Depend On Rate Decision

MONTREAL (CP)—The board of transport commissioners has been shoved into the key role in wage disputes between Canadian railways and their 180,000 non-operating employees.

The 15-union group representing the non-ops have threatened to strike Dec. 1 if the railways don't meet their demands.

The railways have stated they are willing to raise wages—provided the board of transport commissioners grants a 15-per-cent freight rate increase they have requested. Any other way to get higher wages without a freight rate adjustment.

The board says the freight rate case may be settled within five days, leaving time for the unions to call off the walkout.

HOPE FOR ACTION

The railways remained silent Wednesday on possible embargoes on freight shipments, apparently hoping for a decision on the rate bid.

The union negotiating team stayed in Montreal, preparing for the strike while remaining immediately available for talks with the railways. Strike instructions were being prepared.

The railways Wednesday called the strike threat unjustified and said it was "unfair and irresponsible" against the Canadian public who will suffer from the delay and disruption resulting from a railway strike."

No Quick Action But Slow Squeeze Reds' Berlin Plan

East Germany's Premier Dispels Some Tension

BERLIN (AP)—West Berliners today shed some of their fears of another Soviet blockade and braced themselves instead for a slow Communist squeeze on their isolated city.

Western officials, newspaper editorials and the crisis-tested ordinary citizens saw Soviet Premier Khrushchev's threats were serving as a 5-year deadline to get allied troops out of both West Berlin and West Germany.

Communist newspapers and broadcasts played down the possibility of any act of force that might spoil war.

HARASSMENT EXPECTED

Allied officials expect however, that the Reds shortly will step-up their harassment of West Berlin and its 116-mile supply links to the Bonn republic.

A press conference on Wednesday given by East German Premier Otto Grotewohl gave West Berliners the idea the Russian bear might be growling at, but probably not yet ready to bite.

Grotewohl began dispelling tension. He said the fears of West Berlin residents expected something sensational but wouldn't get it from him.

Throughout the conference, Grotewohl gave the impression he might have just received the word from above that the Soviet-allied negotiations about Soviet troops, the correspondents figured, had not yet reached a settlement.

THE RECORD CHANGED

But 24 hours later the official East German news agency put out a correction list, published Grotewohl's remarks about the troop negotiations.

The unions have accepted Khrushchev's speech, Grotewohl had said.

Yet, I interpret the weekend speech of Khrushchev in such a way that I believe will not examine the question with the Western powers," Grotewohl said. "Perhaps there would have to be a pause that the Western allies take the same step as West Germany."

The news agency correction eliminated the word perhaps," and substituted "naturally." It now was saying that naturally the Western Allies would have to wait out when the Soviets have.

That left undecided what might become of Khrushchev's demand that the Allies leave West Berlin.

WEST GERMAN ALARM

The demand stirred alarm in West Germany. Chancellor Konrad Adenauer's government hurried last week to end any further occupation here would sharpen world tension "to a perilous degree."

Deputy Mayor Franz Amrehn of West Berlin said in an attempt to give Grotewohl's response control a western access to would remove immediate counter — measures British, French and U.S. troops in France. He did not elaborate. The United States has said it will use force to protect its position here.

Amrehn also told a commercial convention on Wednesday night that West Berlin has eight years' stocks of grain, coal and other basic needs. The stockpiles would last for 1,200,000 people West Berlin about a year.

Segregationists Defeated in Rhodesian Vote

SALISBURY, Southern Rhodesia (CP)—The administration of Prime Minister Sir Roy Welensky today won re-election in the inland central African federation's second national election.

Welensky promised a continued policy of tolerance and moderation after overnight counting confirmed his victory. He said he expects the final results will give his Federal Party a majority.

When counting stopped for the night Welensky's United Federal Party had won 23 seats in the 26-seat federal parliament against 3 for the Dominion party, the main opposition group. One independent had been elected.

The main issue in the three territories of the federation—Northern and South Rhodesia and Nyasaland—voted on Wednesday was the question of negotiations pending with Britain for full Dominion status.

Welensky's party campaigned for independence within the Commonwealth by mid-September, 1960.

Although little mentioned in the campaign, the principal issue in the election was treatment of Africans. It is pledged to a policy of racial partnership. Dominion party seats toward the segregation policy of the neighboring Union of South Africa.

Welensky said his party will pursue its policy of moderation and tolerance toward Africans.

The federal parliament has 35 members with Welensky's party holding 26 seats. Its senate will contain 22 elected and six appointed members.

Argentine President Crushes Attempted Coup in Palace

BUENOS AIRES (AP) — President Arturo Frondizi crushed an attempted palace coup Wednesday. Martial law, suspended, was imposed a nation-wide strike.

The threatened strike had sparked the political crisis. The coup was reported to have been engineered by the military.

The coup was led by Vice-President Alejandro Gomez, according to official reports. He denied it. Deputies and senators of the Gomez Intransigent Radical party early today called for his resignation. His impeachment by congress was threatened.

FORCES BACK PRESIDENT.

As Frondizi moved to solve the labor unrest that has caused a crisis endangering his power, Argentina's powerful armed forces leaped to support him.

Gomez, a tough politician, had claimed control of the armed forces' support for a move to form a national conciliation movement under his leadership.

Frondizi, weakened by a bout with ulcers, appeared to solve the vote of confidence from his military forces, enraged his military forces to make a desperate effort to settle a strike of oil workers in Mendoza province.

PARALYZES ONE FIELD

The strike, which started two weeks ago, paralyzed the oil fields in Mendoza at the foot of the Andes mountains.

Government authorities have been unable to settle the strike by the Petroleum Workers Union of Argentina.

The assessors said they feel it unfair that owner of properties invested in the new school strike should not pay taxes.

The council consists of Earl David, assessment commissioner of Peterborough; Leighton Brown, assessment commissioner of Belleville, and Stuart Spalding, Hastings county solicitor.

District assessors will vote on the resolution at the spring meeting here and if passed it will be sent to the provincial assessors. The Ontario association has more than 750 members.

Fourteen Firms Fined $65,000 For Fixing Prices

MONTREAL (CP) — Fourteen pulp and paper products manufacturers were fined a total of $65,000 Wednesday after pleading guilty to conspiring to fix and control prices of paperboard products in violation of anti-combines legislation.

Twelve of the corporations admitted operating illegal price control machinery from 1954 to 1955. The two others admitted to price charges covering the years 1956 to 1958.

Mr. Justice Wilfrid Lazure of the court of Queen's Bench said the fines imposed were "not the approximate relation to the respective profits made by the accused companies and to the duration of their participation in the conspiracy" and certainly not free competition.

The penalties are:

Price Brothers Company Limited and Beaver Wood Fibre Company Limited, Quebec, $10,000 each; Fraser Companies Limited and Canadian Kraft Paper Industries Company Limited, $7,000 each; Consolidated Paper Corporation Limited and E. B. Eddy Company, $5,000 each; Anglo-Canadian Pulp and Paper Mills Limited, $4; Lawrence Corporation Limited, $3,500 each; Belgo-Canadian Pulp and Paper Mills Limited, $3,000 each; Miller Brothers and Sons Limited, Montreal Engelfield, $1,500 each, and Minas Basin Pulp and Paper Company Limited, $1,000.

FORBIDS REPEAT

In addition to imposing fines, Mr. Justice Lazure issued an order forbidding the companies to continue or to repeat price-fixing operations.

In his judgment, Mr. Justice Lazure declared he could find "that the companies had filed submissions to the combines investigation officers "not all admitted by crown counsel."

The companies contended the violations had been made "openly and in the honest belief as to the law, and under counsel, so that in the circumstances there was no crime or bad faith."

The court ruled the various extenuating circumstances claimed were "to a certain extent in accordance with the evidence."

The corporations had been charged with forming a conspiracy relating to the sale, distribution and production of paperboard in Montreal and province of Quebec east of Saskatchewan since 1934.

The prosecution argued that the companies operated by means of "gentleman's agreement" to fix prices through the Paper Section of the Canadian Pulp and Paper Association.

Thousands of British Girls Offer Services to Work in Cyprus

LONDON (Reuters) — Thousands of office girls have offered to go to Cyprus to help the British patriotism, a desire for adventure or a longing for the nurse volunteering for work on Cyprus, the Mediterranean Island where 10 British civilians have been killed in the last six weeks.

The Navy, Army and Air Force Institutes (NAAFI) announced Wednesday night 15,000 applications have answered an appeal for workers to replace Greek Cypriots in service canteens in Cyprus.

NAAFI officials were flabbergasted by the response, mostly from young stenographers and store clerks. Girls began to line up at 8 a.m. Wednesday outside NAFI offices.

Telephone operators dealt with 600 calls an hour, while clerks were forced to hire typists to handle applications.

"Many pick as many pretty girls as possible," a NAAFI official said. "It's good for the troops' morale."

The first planeload of replacements left for Cyprus Sunday. They fired for security reasons, will be flown to Cyprus Sunday.

Applications for the jobs, which carry danger money, include Sir Winston Churchill's 46- year-old Austrian-born cook, Mrs. Josephine Schwarz, who said she wants to "repay her debt" to England.

The attitude of many girls was explained by attractive 21-year-old Jean Fraser. "It's the chance of a lifetime to do something adventurous and really different."

Belleville Man Named to Draft Motion on Taxes

PETERSBOROUGH (CP) — Assessing officers in the Peterborough area have drafted a resolution that properties rented to tenants should be assessed and taxed. At present they are exempt.

A committee to draft the resolution was named at the Peterborough district assessors' meeting Wednesday night when a ferry-boat capsized in the Yellow Sea 30 miles west of Seoul.

Impromptu Strip Show May Bring Legal Action

LONDON (AP) — A sharply swimsuit mannequin was threatened with legal action Wednesday night for an impromptu strip show inspired by a night club scandal in Rome. Solicitor London club owner Freddy Ireta said he would talk-to his lawyers about suing the 19-year-old Jackie Fortune peeled off everything but her panties during his dance floor Tuesday night.

"It does my club no good," Ireta fretted.

Jackie, a girl with a 38-24-38 figure, said she thought it was a whole thing as a challenge to her boy friend. He had remarked that he was disgusted by the impromptu striptease performed by Turkish belly dancer Sirah Nanah in a Rome night spot last week, and added:

"If you did anything like that we'd be finished."

Jackie's argument was that no one, but no one, told her what to do.

Two Men Stage Eating Contest For Girl's Hand

TERAMO, Italy (Reuters) — Two men staged a spaghetti eating contest for the hand of a pretty girl.

Nicola Si Attista won—by one steak.

Both contestants had each already eaten three plates of spaghetti, a dozen chicken, 30 sausages, 10 eggs in sauce, 16 steaks and half a large cream cake.

When the contest was over, Nicola, a 30-year-old village schoolteacher, said she never had agreed to marry the loser.

The girl commented: "All this proves is that one of you is almost as greedy as the other."

Fail to Agree On Agenda

GENEVA (AP) The 10 - power technical conference on prevention of surprise attacks failed again today to agree on an order of business.

The deadlock met for an hour and 15 minutes and then issued a communique almost identical with the one of Wednesday. Delegates from both East and West spoke during the discussion. The conference will meet again on Friday.

Power Rates May Have to Be Increased

TORONTO (CP) — Ontario's hydro-electric boss warned Wednesday night that electrical power rates in the province may have to be increased unless power commissions meet the competition of natural gas.

James H. Gordon, chairman of the Ontario Hydro-Electric Power Commission, said natural gas suppliers are making big inroads in Ontario, particularly in the field of water heating and space heating.

He told the annual meeting of the Ontario Municipal Electric Association the competition of gas "chilled for power commission by the electrical power industry."

Mr. Duncan said Hydro welcomed the competing power source and predicted it would spur the provincially-owned organization to greater achievements.

He said the adoption of natural gas for water heaters in Windsor had cut the purchase of electricity by this purpose by 37 per cent. Chatham was becoming another stronghold for gas in Southern Ontario where electrical consumption was 50 per cent below the provincial average.

ENTIRE SUB-DIVISIONS

Mr. Duncan said entire new housing sub-divisions were being equipped for gas furnaces and water heaters and for low-energy passage lines.

Electrical utilities would still have to bear the full costs of lines, poles and other facilities on reduced rates, Mr. Duncan said. It could soon force higher rates.

He predicted electrical house-heating as "the thing of the future." It was in development which could be approached with some caution to ensure the best possible application of electricity to this purpose.

Not Obliged To Do Work Says Judge

CHIPAGO (AP) Mrs. Gloria Gilbert Allen, 35, couldn't complain when her husband made her scrub floors, paint inside and out, hang wallpaper and lay cement walks.

Judge Harry G. Hershenow added in addition to her housework and caring for two small children.

But when her husband, Joseph, 39, a carpenter, left for work and he had used the tops of 250 desks he had contracted to refinish, Mrs. Allen had to draw down.

So in court Wednesday she told Judge Harry G. Hershenow that her husband struck her when she insisted the carpentry was not part of her marital obligations.

The Judge agreed with her.

He ordered Caldwell to pay Mrs. Allen a monthly support for the wife and children until the matter is determined. A separate suit is decided.

When Arrow Gets Iroquois Engine It Can Set World Record Any Time

TORONTO (CP)—Avro Aircraft Limited has told Canadians they can have the world's air speed record any time they want it—after the company gets an improved engine for its Arrow interceptor.

But the company made plain in a prepared statement Wednesday, it's not developing the delta-winged plane just to set speed records. Speed is incidental to the Arrow's primary mission.

Avro is traditionally closemouthed, for security reasons, about the Arrow's progress. The statement thus came unexpectedly.

General Manager and President J. L. Plant said he should be made in view of widespread press speculation that the Arrow would shortly make a bid on the world's record of 1,404 miles an hour set by a U.S. Air Force Starfighter.

"When the Arrow becomes powered by Canadian-designed Iroquois engine, the present world speed record could be brought to Canada by the Arrow at any time Canada wants this done," Mr. Plant said.

An Avro public relations man asked to explain the use of the word "powered" by Iroquois engines was supposed to convey the idea that the Iroquois engine Arrow could beat the existing record.

Avro has not disclosed when it expects to test-fly the first all-Canadian-built Arrow. And that it won't be much before Christmas.

The Arrow up to now has used a U.S.-designed power plant. The Iroquois engine is being built by Orenda Engines Limited, like subsidiary of A.V. Roe Canada Limited.

The government said some months ago it was postponing a decision whether to scrap the Arrow in favor of an alternative aerial weapons system—such as guided missiles—or to order its initial production at the piloted aircraft stage.

CURLERS WILL HOLD "STAG" PARTY TO GET SEASON STARTED

All is in readiness for the opening of the curling season at the new curling rink at the fair grounds. Those who have not been up to the rink since they put the ice down late in the spring will see a great difference. During the summer the members have worked hard and long to improve the inside facilities and the lounge room is now a picture with the new canteen, new equipment and tiled floors.

On Saturday night there will be no curling but the male members of the club are holding a "stag" to get the season under way. A social evening has been planned and it is to be hoped a large percentage of the members will be in attendance. There probably will be lots of surprises.

Trenton Flyers Play 3-3 Tie With Minden

TRENTON — The Trenton Flyers came close to winning their first game of the season last night, but a sizzling drive off the stick of J. Sharpsibling of the Minden Monarchs, tied the score,3-3 at the 14.28 mark of the third period and neither club could get the winning tally in the last few minutes of play. There was no overtime.

It was a fast, close-checking game all the way with only five penalties being dished out during the game. Referee Gaudette acted to the Trenton squad and one to the visitors.

Both teams had tough breaks around their opposition's net, with the Monarchs suffering the most in this division. Gaudette and Legrande got the only markers in the first period to give the local boys a 2-0 edge. However, in the second frame Scott and MacDonald scored for the Minden boys and they led 3-2. Kelly Bruce, Trenton goalie, did not let the second goal get the tying goal in the second with only three seconds left in the period.

In the final stanza Les Gaudette put the Flyers ahead when he scored unassisted at 7.01 but after seven minutes of rough playing the teams again faced off at centre ice after Sharpe's tying goal.

Both goalies made some fantastic saves but on the most part the defence suffered on their shots on goal.

Referees were Mike Rains and Tim Williams.

Less than 100 fans turned out to see the game.

Town Briefs

TRENTON — Painters and mechanics at Weaver's garage had an exciting few moments this morning when the paint work on a car caught fire. It was reported they were welding a piece of metal on the 1951 model car when the paint caught fire. They used every extinguisher on hand and still didn't have the fire out. They put in a call at 8.30 a.m. to the fire department but managed to get the fire out according to Fire Chief Ellis and Engineer Mo Mills arrived. No other damage than the fire, other than to the car, was reported.

CLUB HOUSE MOVED

At 6.30 a.m. today the Rover Club House was moved from the Bay shore (near the Canadian Legion Hall and Softball Field) to its new location on the Telephone Road. The small club house was loaded on a float last night and the truck was parked by Chief Ellis and Station Street until this morning and then moved when traffic was nearly nil. The small house was carried out Dundas Street to Highway No. 2 Highway to the Telephone Road where it was placed on a newly prepared site the Public Utilities Commission of Trenton.

LICENCE SUSPENDED OFF

Howard Chase, a driver for Bill's Taxi in Trenton, found the driver's seat of his vehicle lacking on the road near the CNR underpass on the way to the 401 highway about 4 a.m. Wednesday. He brought the crushed seat back to the police station and according to the police report it is believed the car was struck or was being driven by a car transport and the top was damaged when it passed under the 12-foot high subway. Glass from the windshield of the car was found to be spread over a considerable piece of the highway and that transit vehicle still clung to some of the pieces. No other report of the mishap had been made.

Forges Cheques So He Can Write Book on Prisons

SEATTLE (AP) — William G. Gates is an intense young man who wants to write a novel with prison life as its background.

He did a little advance research and decided forgery was one of the best ways to get inside for better study.

Detective T. C. Jorgensen of the Seattle police cheque detail arrested the 6-foot-old Gates on Wednesday afternoon. Gates quickly admitted in a signed statement that he was the forger of about $100 in bad cheques.

NEEDS ABOUT 5 YEARS

Later, talking with reporters, Gates said he calculated the amount he obtained during his worthless cheques would get him about a year in the penitentiary, where he says he needs to complete his edurstiok, and to get the necessary background for his novel.

Gates said he felt that forgery was the least harmful way to get to prison.

"It doesn't cause anyone physical pain," he said, "and those to whom I dropped the cheques could well afford it."

Gates, who spent a year studying psychology at the University of Washington, said he had been planning his move for years.

IN MEMORIAM

McNALLY. — In loving memory of our dear daughter, Margaret, who passed away November 13th, 1957.
You are not forgotten, Margaret,
Nor ever will you be;
As long as life and memory last,
We will remember thee.
—Sadly missed by Mom and Dad, brothers John and Frank.

LAWRENSON — In loving memory of William W. Lawrenson, of Plainfield, who died November 12th, 1955.
Not dead to us who loved him,
But lost to sight, for every eye
Must look with us in memory,
And will love more.
—Ever remembered by Blanche, Donald, Robert and Ruth.

LAWRENSON. — In memory of my brother, William Walter Lawrenson, who died November 12th, 1955.
Always smiling, happy and content,
Loved was my brother wherever he went.
To a beautiful life came a sudden end
He died as he lived, everyone's friend.
Time was his heart, his action as kind
His life was a pattern to those left behind.
God called him to rest for reasons divine
But memories will last to the end of time.
—Always remembered by D. R. Thompson.

HAWLEY. — In loving memory of a dear father, James Hawley, who passed away November 13th, 1957.
In our hearts your memory lingers,
Sweetly tender shall it rest,
Until the day that you and I
Shall meet to part again no more.
—Ever remembered by son Bert and family.

Office Workers' Strike Closes Chrysler Plants

DETROIT (AP) — Chrysler Corporation's automobile production was paralyzed today by a strike of 8,000 office workers represented by the United Auto Workers union.

The strike grew out of failure to arrive at a new contract settlement.

Picket lines forced Chrysler to shut down all eight assembly plants.

Chrysler said 17 supplier plants employed in production, some of them only partially.

48,800 NOW IDLE

A total of 48,800 workers were made idle by the strike.

Chrysler has a total of about 95,000 employees. 70,000 of these members of the UAW. Most of the Chrysler automotive operation is in the Detroit area.

Those not on strike were salaried employees who are not members of the union, employees engaged in government defense projects and workers in non-automotive plants such as air conditioner factories.

Negotiations on a new contract came to a halt on Tuesday when the UAW white collar group walked off their jobs. No date for a resumption of negotiations has been set.

Parking on New Lot Behind Stores Allowed Friday

Paving operations on the riverside parking lot at the rear of Front Street stores has progressed sufficiently to allow parking on Friday afternoon and Saturday of this week, it was learned today.

Paving of the lot itself has been completed and painting of traffic and parking lines is now in progress. Parking will be permitted from Friday noon until Saturday evening, following which the area will be again closed to allow for placing of curb bumpers and other work.

The paving of the area has resulted in a general cleaning up of the riverside parking lot. The different merchants have paved areas adjacent to the rear of their own stores with the pavement extending from stores all the way to the river bank.

City Planning Engineer Charles Mott said no parking would be permitted on the paved lot until all traffic and parking lines were painted in. Parking meters will be installed at a later date.

TV BILL INTRODUCED

The bill was presented by Labor MP Christopher Mayhew, who often appears as a commentator on the BBC. The Commons will debate the measure later this session.

Inquest Takes Evidence on Death in Blast

OTTAWA (CP)—A coroner's inquest resumes today to hear additional witnesses testify concerning the fatal burning of William Anderson in a mysterious explosion Oct. 25 and the source of the blast, which caused millions of dollars in damages.

The five-man coroner's jury, whose foreman is Dr. E. R. Birchard, a National Research Council scientist, heard evidence Wednesday from a number of veterans of firemen that a strong smell of natural gas was evident at the blast scene minutes after it happened.

Testimony also was given by several employees of Addressograph - Multigraph Company, on whose premises Anderson was killed, that a rusty gas outlet had been uncapped in the cellar for a number of years. But none had ever smelled gas in the building before the explosion.

MANY SAW FLASH

A parade of witnesses who observed the explosion, or were in the downtown area of several blocks affected by it, told of seeing a great flash—some called it a ball, some an arrow and others an arc—tower up from the area of the building as high as the nine-storey Jackson Building opposite.

Fire Chief Maynard Dolman said he had a personal opinion about the cause of the blast but did not express it. He testified in smelling something strange shortly after the blast but declined to say it was natural gas.

Eight of his firemen identified the smell as natural gas, likening it to the smell from the gas cooking stove in their station 1½ blocks from the scene. Chief Inspector Full Dunn of the fire prevention bureau said gas was causing fires at uncapped service outlet in the Addressograph cellar.

Crown Attorney Raoul Mercier and Eric Silk, assistant deputy attorney-general for Ontario, expect to call some 70 witnesses in the next two days.

Rule by Decree Lebanon's Plan

BEIRUT (Reuters)—The Lebanese government will rule by decree for the next six months under powers granted by parliament on Wednesday night.

Thirty-four deputies voted for the government and one against. One deputy abstained and eight left the chamber before the vote was taken.

The new powers allowed Premier Rashid Karami and his three cabinet ministers to make financial, economic security, administrative and judicial decisions without referring to parliament.

CAPTAIN RETIRES

FORT WILLIAM (CP)—Captain Thomas C. Jewitt of Hamilton, former master of the largest vessel in the Paterson Steamship Company's Great Lakes fleet, has retired after 36 years' service. His post will be filled by Capt. Kenneth Cecil Clark of Midland, a veteran of 33 years with the company.

Y's Men's Club To Hold Another Radio Auction

The Y's Men's Club of Belleville will again put on their annual radio auction on Nov. 17. This has proven to be very popular with the public and they can enjoy bidding and buying while obtaining some very useful articles or Christmas gifts. All proceeds from money raising projects of the type are used to further their work with the youth of our city. As an example the day camps which originated with the Club last summer at Oak Lake and was carried on by the Y.M.C.A. to a successful completion. The plan for a new Y.M.C.A. will consist this club to a great extent to help raise funds for a new building which this city desperately needs and their participation is but one means of helping to raise such funds. The merchants who donate the articles for this auction have given something of value for the participating public and the participating public buys the article at about 75% of retail value so they are receiving full value for their assistance in the Y's Men's Youth Activities.

Be sure and watch this paper for the bid sheet and phone in your bids early so that you have a good chance for the article you desire. Bids will be received from 6.00 p.m. on the night of the auction by phone. This is an opportunity for all members of this Quinte area to assist the Y's Men while having fun on the Y's Men's Radio Auction.

Winter's Jobless Campaign To Be Handled by Committee

A special committee for the express purpose of making plans to reduce the extent of unemployment during the winter months in the Belleville area, has been formed in the city, their work being the first phase in the winter's employment campaign.

This campaign is divided into two distinct phases, November and December is the "Plan Now" period during which the committee will encourage employers, labor and householders to take a good look at their own situation with regard to the coming winter and to plan to do whatever is possible to prevent unemployment and to create more jobs.

Members of the committee are George Whitman, city welfare administrator, as chairman, with Mayor Gerald Hyde, Robert Hamilton, secretary manager of the Chamber of Commerce; Fred Barton, advertising manager of the Ontario Intelligencer, and Mr. ., Huser, manager of the local National Unemployment Office, and G. Crawford, Unemployment Office.

If this first phase "Plan Now" period is well done, then the second phase coming from January to March, "Do It Now" period, will be relatively easy," said Mr. Hiuser.

The committee services are available in any way which might assist with respect to the employment problem. Call Woodland 8-5708.

THIRTEEN YEARS OF OCCUPATION

Khrushchev's declaration before a Polish-Soviet friendship meeting in Moscow that the time has come for the Big Four to end the occupation of Berlin is causing uneasiness.

Well it may.

It is difficult to conceive of any plan for termination of the occupancy which would not involve severe loss of face for at least one of the occupying powers, and would therefore be unacceptable to it.

And yet in one sense Khrushchev's remark was an understatement. The time for an end to this occupation is long overdue.

The coincidence that the Russian leader's remarks came one day before the fortieth anniversary of Armistice Day for World War One provides an interesting yardstick.

It is now more than thirteen years since the termination of World War Two.

How does the state of the world today compare with that existing on November 11, 1931, thirteen years after the conclusion of World War One?

Quite obviously, there has been no relaxation of tension to compare with that which occurred during the twenties.

The expansionist policies of international Communism are to blame for this failure for the post-war period of World War Two to keep step with the period after World War One.

There, however, does not alter the fact that the citizens of Berlin have valid grounds for objecting to the continued presence in their midst of occupation troops.

The West regards the withdrawal of occupation forces from Berlin as bound up with a political agreement which would result in the unification of Germany. The Russians do not regard this as essential, because Berlin, the pre-war German capital, is deep within the Communist satellite of East Germany.

If it were not for the East-West cold war, the reuniting of East and West Germany might not be so enthusiastically supported by the West.

Most of us can recall when a division of Germany, to split militaristic Prussia from the more highly industrialized areas of the west, was enthusiastically advocated by many democratic leaders.

Those who today oppose such a continued division of Germany may argue that the country is really an economic unit, that West Germany needs the agricultural products of East Germany to feed its people, while East Germany requires the products of the foundries and factories of the Ruhr.

This, though, may not be quite such a good argument for unification as it might appear on the surface. It would perhaps be more accurate to say that for the maximum economic health Europe itself must be considered as a unit.

With the growth of the appeal of a European Free Trade Area, the political division of Germany into two parts becomes less of a drawback.

We on this side of the Atlantic may not realize the full extent of the distrust with which many European peoples, with good reason, regard Germany. All Germans desire reunification, but it is quite probable that the vast majority of the inhabitants of neighboring countries, regardless of politics, are happy with the present division of Germany into two states.

This, far from making any agreement on the withdrawal of occupation forces from Berlin more easy to reach, makes it much more difficult.

It would not be surprising if, a decade from now, Russian, British, French and U.S. troops were still stationed in that city.

EDUCATING PARENTS

"Babyhood is the right time to introduce democracy," says Mrs. Victoria Wilkinson, president of Parent Education Associates.

We are happy to be able to report that not all of Mrs. Wilkinson's remarks on the education of parents makes this one an absurdity.

There are even some which make sense. For instance, she says that the remark "It's time to go to bed" will produce a better response that a straight command. This is in line with all our experience in the adult world. There is only one thing wrong. In practice "It's time to go to bed" and "Go to bed" produce precisely the same effect and all too often this effect is precisely nothing.

Now Mrs. Wilkinson is the mother of two, which obviously makes her a greater expert on child behavior than the writer, who is the father of one, so she may question the accuracy of this estimate of the value of her advice.

We shall not argue - - we shall merely refer her to friends, some of whom are the mothers of at least three more than they know how to handle.

Mrs. Wilkinson may think that she and Parent Education Associates can correct this deplorable condition. We doubt it. By the time a parent realizes that he or she needs education the responsibility for the task has already been firmly assumed, by the offspring of the uneducated parent. They do not do so bad a job, as witness the number of grandchildren who are firmly of the opinion that Grandpa and Grandma are great improvements on Daddy and Mummy.

War on the Common Cold

By James Wells in UNESCO Feature

The rapid progress of medical science in the past century has all but removed the scourge of the epidemic diseases — cholera, typhus, bubonic plague, smallpox, etc. In the West they are a thing of the past and in the East, though the battle is not yet over, they are rapidly coming under control. Medicine can thus claim one of its most effective victories which, though rarely fatal, causes misery, inconvenience and serious losses of manpower.

Probably first among these is the "flu" or influenza epidemic which, with influenza, causes the "something like 40 million-a-days' work a year in Britain, and about 120 millions in the United States. It is equally common in better countries, though there the secondary effects are normally less.

The cold is believed to be a virus infection, a term which covers a great deal of work has been done on viruses. They are the smallest known parasites, are not capable of independent life, and multiply only in living cells. T h is problem is to find some way of killing them (test e s t s are enough) without harming the cells in which they live. Unfortunately antibiotics, which there have been enormous advances in recent years, have no action on viruses.

There is no method of recognizing the virus of the common cold and the only known way of discovering whether any g i v e n material contains colds is. to inoculate someone with it and await the result.

Since 1946, 8,000 volunteers have taken part in experiments conducted at the Common Cold Research Unit of the British Institute for Medical Research at Salisbury, Wiltshire, under the scientific supervision of Dr. C. H. Andrewes, the Institute's Director of Virology. They spend ten days at the unit, using the enforced seclusion for reading, writing and doing this time about 40 per cent of their normal work.

The Salisbury unit has two main aims: to isolate the common cold virus and learn its life history, and to find a laboratory test for drugs which may involve the use of human volunteers. The virus was grown once on human tissue, but it has now been possible to repeat this process; none of the strains so far isolated have has proved suitable, and t h research still goes on.

Meanwhile, volunteers are t h e only means of testing substances, usually from people who have colds, are put in their noses, and the effects noted. Here is a typical case of the effects. All that can be said is that they show that some agents in these which induces colds in some people.

Combating cold research has a long way to go before practical results are achieved, but s o m e very interesting discoveries have been made. One of these is that exposure to the cold does not itself affect susceptibility to infection. Experiments on soldiers and sailors particular in the United States, with groups of people made to w e a r different clothing and stand in draughty corridors, and then inoculated with material containing c o l d virus, have shown no higher - a rate of infection among these groups than among others not subjected to such treatment. Another discovery is that colds are peculiar to civilization. Arctic explorers cannot be got by falling through the ice, but by visiting towns; colds do not occur in isolated communities, except when visiting shops from them.

Though the common cold is a well-defined phenomenon, its causes and very varied; thus even the first step in finding the cure, growing it artificially, and developing ways or recognizing it, is extremely difficult. Of the 25 strains of the virus have been isolated, but it is thought at Salisbury that these are "uncommon colds", and not the one which attacks the majority of people. For the same reason (the existence of so many varieties of virus) work in different countries cannot usefully be compared, though it is very similar, its causes are likely to be quite different.

The fact that the life of a virus so intimately linked with the cell within acts on its host makes the problem of dealing with it, even when isolated, very difficult. Many attempts have been made to develop vaccines to deal with virus diseases, but these are often too specific in their effects; there is no vaccine for dealing with the particular virus against which they were prepared. There are others, or other, on a similar kind. Vaccines prepared from a virus which causes fever, for example, were useless against the Asian variety which appeared last year, and the same applies would arise in trying to use a single vaccine against the many types of cold. However, should the real "common cold" — t h e constant cold of all — be identified, the possibility of developing a vaccine cannot be completely ruled out.

A different approach has been investigated recently at t h e Medical Institute of Virology at Glasgow's headquarters at Mill Hill, London. It has been known for some time that a one type of virus will interfere with the growth of another virus of a type. So only people suffering from one virus can be infected with the other viruses. Now it has been discovered by Dr. Alick Isaacs that if a virus is killed by heat or ultraviolet rays, and incubated with a group cells, a substance known as "interferon" is produced which prevents the multiplication of many other viruses. The action is not yet understood, but interferon is one of the most hopeful lines of growth common to many different viruses.

The practical value of this new substance in treating infections which cause illness is not yet known. A great deal of further research, but it is thought that results may be forthcoming much as cold may be a good subject for a beginning, as interferon is very easily produced.

Medical research is always painstaking and slow, and in spite of many false hopes the common cold still awaits some means at prevention. It is over 50 years at work the staff at Salisbury, though they have made much progress. Dr. Andrewes remarking, the problem can only provide t h e opportunity to different as a practising physician: take t w o aspirin tablets and spend a day in bed.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

One of the strangest things I ever heard said was by a man in his fifties speaking to his wife in the lobby of the library. Obviously he was walking a pace or two behind them. He placed his arm around his wife's shoulder and said:

"Mary, I love you, and I like you."

At which moment, he detected me gum-chewing and turned to me. He then collected our hats and coats at the check room and I held the door open for them as we departed.

"I'm afraid," he said, "you overheard my remark to my wife. I think I should explain myself. We have been married thirty years and have had, I think, an exceptionally happy life. We have not only been in love, but we have been great friends all our life. What I mean is, if we were to die tomorrow, if we weren't married we would still be great friends. Does that make sense?"

"It certainly does." I admitted. "Excuse me, what were you doing in the library?"

"Solving a point we have been talking about all week," replied the wife.

I knew by the way she tossed her head that she had won.

THE EASY-GOING MAN

By EDGAR A. GUEST

Oh, the easy-going man
Is the man you like to see-
The man who has the time
For the baby on his knee;
With a cheerful sort of smile
And doesn't growl
Anything for looks or style.

Oh, the easy-going man
Never out of patience here,
Never anything to say
But the little things that cheer,
Never cross and never glum,
Taking things just as they come
And forever seeming glad.

Oh, the easy-going man,
With his little words of praise,
And his smiles for one and all
That he greets along his ways,
Maybe misses much of fame
And the rich rewards thereof;
But he garners that the same,
All the harvest of our love.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

THE GALLERY OF THE MIND

I am such a lover of art and beauty that it is natural for me to imagine that art is a gallery, a gallery, with favorite works of art spread upon the walls, so that we carry galleries about with us day by day. This brings us to an approach to the question of beautiful in the garden of the earth, a n d the images that we permanently place upon the walls of our mind.

We cannot love art and beauty too much. We must not forget that all art is spread about t h i s earth and is a part of our conscious life. We couldn't very well live without it. It is so essential. Why did God create exquisite colors and designs for everything in Nature? It's a sign that all of life are divinely born, and created with a hunger for all beauty.

So, you see, we can have o u r own gallery, furnished with pictures and beauty of our choosing. It isn't it significant that as we become more educated, more cultured, and more appreciative of all that is beautiful in life, we want beauty all about us? We ought to ask ourselves what sort of a gallery do we have in this mind of ours. People with beautiful minds are usually those who have the most beautiful places.

The people whom we meet in beautiful places are usually those who are the most refined people. I recall how difficult it was for me to choose a birthday desk, for I loved art so deeply that I wanted to get cultivated at every gallery in my town (New York City). I believe that great art is at the bottom of all beauty, and we grow from it to the great thoughts of God, and the great of this earth. Thinking is the fashioner of us all! How true has ever discovered what the Sphinx or Rodin's "Thinker" was actually thinking.

To Your Good Health

By Joseph G. Molner, M.D.

SLEEP REQUIREMENTS VARY WITH AGE AND INDIVIDUAL

"Dear Dr. Molner: Can a person sleep through an entire night without once moving body, hands, or legs? I have heard this statement a number of times and doubt if it is true. — E.A.F."

Normally, no. The average person moves about twice an hour while asleep. Motionless sleep would imply drugs (sleeping pills, alcohol, phenobarbital, etc.) or paralysis.

Moving while asleep helps the circulation, and besides, we would doubtless be awakened if stiff if we didn't move for the entire night.

However, it is true that under extreme fatigue we will move less and tend, to some extent, to "sleep like a log." The reason for this is greater muscular relaxation. Indeed, if a person will relax both mentally and physically, sleep becomes almost irresistible. If you question this, notice that when you are really relaxed mentally) you yawn and get sleepy. If you are sleepy, and you get interested in reading a book, you may completely forget about the alarm clock.

Sleep is a rhythmic thing. The first hour often is an hour of deep sleep. This may lessen gradually until you wake up and again, you may have one or more periods of deep sleep later on. I presume this happens when we feel so especially sleepy just before the alarm rings.

There are various theories about sleep, and the final truth is yet to be agreed upon. One theory is that there is some break, or change, in the nerve connections. Another is that certain toxins build up in the body to be cleared away by sleep. If so, we have yet to learn what the toxins are. Still another theory, that when we are fatigued and ready to sleep, impulses to the brain are somewhat reduced.

WHAT WE KNOW

We know certain things about sleep with great certainty. Blood pressure lowers 10 to 20 points, body temperature is lower, so are breathing and the pulse rate. The brain waves change from 60 down 10 to 15 points. Electroencephalograms show that the brain - wave is retarded.

And yet the brain obviously remains alert in varying degrees. We become conditioned to certain sounds. Some of us can wake up at a given time without an alarm clock. We may sleep through noises, but awake at a whisper from a baby in the next room. Police city-dwellers are used to noise and are wakeful in the quiet of the country.

Sleep requirements vary with the individual. Babies need 18 hours sleep most of the 24 hours in a day; growing children need plenty of sleep, more or less depending on age; the average adult does well on 7 to 8 hours; oldsters may require only five or six — although some need more.

Some folk who claim to sleep very little are mistaken. Most usually mistaken, I believe. I base this in part on hospital experience when nurses peek in from time to time, hear a patient snoring, yet later the same patient complain of insomnia.

Real causes of insomnia, however, include worry, excitement, anxiety, and certain drugs among which are thyroid, appetite suppressors, and coffee.

"Dear Dr. Molner: If science hasn't yet found a way to make the hydrochoric acid stay down in the stomach function again, is there any new method of treatment? It would mean so much to us who are suffering from lack of hydrochloric acid yet can't take it by mouth. — S.S."

There are at least half a dozen preparations, in capsule form, which convert into hydrochloric acid after they reach the stomach, which avoids the difficulty you're taking to acid mouth. Your doctor can select the one best suited to your needs, and tell you the proper dose.

Want to lose weight? It can be done if you follow the advice given in my pamphlet, "The Lost Secret Of Reducing." Send a copy, write to me in care of Chicago Sun Times Syndicate P.O. Box 158, Dundee, Ill., enclosing a large, self-addressed, stamped envelope, and 5c in coin to cover handling.

Porcupines Damage Trees

Bush News

Although fir, insects and disease are the leading enemies of the forests, they do not cause the damage caused by the porcupine. One porcupine, it is claimed, can kill 2,000 trees during a year, including seedlings and mature timber. Ernest Hall in Outdoor Life writes were pulpwood species, the porcupine is the number one destructions of newprint is lost.

The porcupines feed on the juicy inner bark, and instead of confining his eating to one tree he goes from one to another, damaging but a number in the course of a day.

Frequently he eats his way all around the trunk and kills the tree. There is a case on record of one porcupine killing 30 seedlings and gnawing 23 other trees during one six-day spree.

In 1947 records of the Forest Commission on Forestry said this of the porcupine:

"They remove every considerable area of bark from trees in many instances killing them by girdling, but in any event so weakening them that they are a prey to disease. During the past season thousands of trees in this area, mostly jackpine, have been damaged in this manner."

Strength for The Day

THAT WORD "FUNDAMENTAL"

Several decades ago there was a great furor in the Protestant church over "Fundamentalism" and "Modernism." Some people lined the word fundamentalism and some did not. However, the word means — "Pertaining to the foundation or basis; hence, essential, important, primary, basal."

There are fundamentals, of course, in all fields. The past few centuries have convinced us of the basic character of natural law. A force, for instance, such as the force of gravity operates on all objects on the face of the earth, holding them down to the surface, drawing them toward the centre of the earth. W h a t chaos there would be if gravity worked on one continent and not on another. If sometimes it worked and sometimes it didn't. We must all breathe air in order to live, and eat food, and get a certain amount of water. The earth rotates on its axis, and on its orbit, at certain definite speed. It is that our relation to other planets and heavenly bodies is fixed with mind-like, math absolute accuracy.

As there are fundamental laws in the physical universe, so there are fundamental moral principles which we believe operate everywhere. As we must learn the basic physical laws in order to live physically in such a way as master the, spiritual fundamentals in order to live satisfactorily as intelligent personalities.

Facing Wife, Friends Chief Concern of Teller

DENVER (AP) — Facing his wife and his friends seemed to be the chief concern of a young Canadian bank teller police say has admitted stealing more than $360,000 from the Imperial Bank of Canada branch in Ottawa.

"That's going to be the tough part of this whole mess," Boyne L. Johnston, 25, said in a newspaper interview. "My wife had faith in me and I've sort of let her down. It's going to be awfully hard to face her — to say nothing of my mother and father."

Detective Chief James F. Childers said Johnston has signed a statement saying he took the money on Oct. 24 and spent possibly $55,000 on — champagne, women, and a sports car.

Police said "in the vicinity of $230,000" was found in Johnston's room at the YMCA here.

Two employees of the Chez Paree Night Club here named Johnston's arrest during a champagne-buying party on Monday night.

LIKING FOR CHAMPAGNE

Johnston said he developed a liking for champagne at a party in Ottawa.

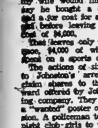
Johnston said he toyed with the idea of going to Florida, then returning to Canada in time for Christmas with his wife, Bernice, 22. "I don't expect to get caught so soon," he said. "But this thing was on my conscience night and day."

The money really wasn't too much fun, he said, "I've had better times spending $10 or $20 on a payday."

TO RETURN TONIGHT

Two Ottawa policemen were to return to Ottawa by air tonight with Johnston. He faces a charge of theft, carrying a maximum 10-year jail sentence if found guilty.

Calculations in Ottawa show that Johnston, squandered only $57,000 on his Ottawa-to-Los Angeles fling—not the $60,000 he himself admitted.



He is charged with taking $360,-000. About $233,000 was found in his Denver room in Denver. He set $6,000 at his Ottawa apartment "in a place where I knew my wife would find it." Police say he bought a diamond ring and a car cost he unidentified girl before leaving Ottawa at a cost of $4,000.

That leaves only $17,000 difference, $4,000 of which Johnston stood on a sports bet.

The actions of six persons led to Johnston's arrest. All may obtain shares to the $10,000 reward offered by Johnston's bonding company. They had all seen a "wanted" poster of Boyne Johnston. A policeman told one of the night club girls to watch for the missing tooth.

Search for Sunken Treasure

The search for seaweed off the rocky shores of Canada's maritime provinces is developing into an unusual and profitable industry. At Miminegash, P.E.I., a young girl removes impurities from a handful of carrageen (or Irish Moss), one of the important and versatile red seaweeds.

Irish Moss is laid out on flakes to dry at Sturgeon, P.E.I. It has a wide variety of commercial uses: as a stabilizing agent in ice cream and chocolate milk and in many toilet articles and pharmaceuticals.

National Film Board of Canada Photos

Maritimers rake in 25 million pounds of carrageen annually. In recent years surveys have been undertaken to determine the seaweed resources of the world's maritime countries. It has been estimated about one million tons exist off southwest Nova Scotia. Canada exports a large part of her produce to the United States where research is continually turning up new and exciting industrial possibilities for the seaweed.

RCAF Must Wait Until 1961 for Nuclear Weapons

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada's air defence forces are unlikely to get nuclear weapons until 1961 at the earliest, officials indicate.

Canada's military forces abroad, however, may get them sooner—or, at least, have them near at hand for use in an emergency.

Authorities say they feel confident this country will be able to obtain atomic warheads from the United States when it wants them notwithstanding. current U.S. law which indicates that American nuclear warheads remain under U.S. custody of American forces.

But Canada's first needs vehicles to carry the warheads—that is, guided missiles.

BOMARC IN 1961

The Bomarc anti-aircraft missile isn't scheduled to join the Canadian air defence system until 1961. It will be capable of carrying a nuclear warhead.

Opposition Leader Pearson has urged that the nine RCAF squadrons in the Canadian air defence system be equipped with nuclear-tipped air-to-air missiles.

But defence officials say this would require a new version of the CF-100 jet interceptor.

And they say a new CF-100 would cost too much for the short life it would have. A Mark VI model capable of carrying a missile was to have gone into production last year but the government cancelled the project.

The army next year is scheduled to obtain some American Lacrosse surface-to-surface guided missiles and half of them will be deployed with the 4th Canadian Infantry Brigade in West Germany. The U.S. keeps stocks of nuclear weapons in Europe.

Colombo Plan Meet a Success Smith Declares

By H. L. JONES
Canadian Press Staff Writer

SEATTLE (CP) — External Affairs Minister Sidney Smith of Canada says the Colombo Plan ministerial meeting here will go down as a "staggering success" despite difficulties and the long road of economic development to be travelled in South and Southeast Asia.

He made the comment in an interview Wednesday as delegates from 18 countries put the finishing touches on the report of the 10th meeting of the plan's consultative committee. The document will set the pattern for the next year of the plan, designed to eliminate hunger and want and bring economic stability to the under-developed areas of South-east Asia.

The meeting was to end today after four days of private conferences. Speeches released to the press indicated difficulties were encountered, particularly in finance and in wide fluctuations in the prices of commodities which the recipient nations must sell to help themselves.

MONTREAL -IDEA

Mr. Smith, who heads Canada's delegation, said the latter problem could be tackled in a commodity by commodity examination by nations. The proposal was first made at the Commonwealth trade and economic conference in Montreal in September.

In his address to the opening ministerial session Monday President Eisenhower said the United States would be willing to join in such discussion. Since then representatives of many Colombo Plan nations have hailed the idea to stabilize the markets on which they depend for livelihood and economic advancement.

In the interview Mr. Smith confirmed that outside the conference sessions he has had private talks with John Foster Dulles, U.S. secretary of state. He declined to go into details on the discussions except to say they covered "general matters." They did not, he said, cover Far East policy.

FIRST SINCE ELECTION

Trade is believed to have been one subject discussed. It was the first meeting of representatives of the Commonwealth and American governments since the recent U.S. elections gave the Democratic party a strengthened hold on Congress.

Some Canadian sources feel a Democratic Congress may mean policy changes, particularly in world trade. It is felt such changes could affect Canada, which like the U.S., is always on the lookout for markets. Both countries have big wheat and other surpluses.

Santa's Belleville helpers are active again.

Each evening, Monday through Thursday, Eric Cooper and his toy repairmen are hard at work at the Kiwanis Centre repairing toys and other gifts which, come Christmas time, will be distributed among under-privileged children.

But there is a lack of toys and dolls, and a call has gone out for used toys which can be repaired and make some kiddy happy at Christmas time. Badly broken toys are of no use, while it is asked that whenever possible dolls be dressed.

Toys may be left at any Shell service station in the city, or can be taken to the Kiwanis Centre any evening, Monday until Thursday between seven and nine p.m. If they cannot be delivered donors are asked to call the Chamber of Commerce and arrangements for a pick-up will be made.

Inboard Boat, House Contents Burned in Fire

PICTON — A spectacular fire last night destroyed a barn on Centre street in Picton. Owned by Chris Lockyer, the building contained an 18-foot inboard runabout owned by Dorelle Graham and household effects valued at $500 by John Girneau.

Picton firemen fought the blaze which got out of control several times due to breaks in the water lines. This is believed due to excessive pressure as the hose used was comparatively new. The breaks cut off the supply of water for brief intervals for on six occasions. Fortunately there was a strong breeze blowing away from the Lockyer house which has two apartments and away from a garage owned by Sig Brogden separated only by an alleyway. A change in the wind could have threatened a large residential area. Cause of the fire is not known.

Automobile Club Will Hold Rally in Belleville Area

Members of the St. Lawrence Automobile Club will be holding an automobile rally throughout the Belleville area the weekend of November 29th it was announced last night at the club's monthly meeting in Kingston. Several of the club's dozen-odd Belleville members are organizing the event which will finish in Belleville with a luncheon and social gathering for the members.

The event will be unique in that it is being organized so that effects may also compete for the final awards. Ordinarily the competitors' individual performance is marked and judged by the rally officials or marshals. On this event, which is ominously entitled "Marshal's Madcap," the competitor will have a chance to "get even" by marking the marshal's performance as an official as well.

A competitor's performance is marked on his ability to keep his vehicle at a constant average speed over a specified route, arriving at various known and unknown marshals' checkpoints not a minute too early nor a minute too late. Variations from the time he should arrive result in the competitor being penalized a point a minute for being late or two points a minute for being early. Discrepancies in mileage travelled is also penalized at a point for each tenth of a mile too much to too little re the official mileage. The competitor with the least number of points wins the event.

In the "Marshals' Madcap" the officials are going to be judged on their performance in the selection of the location of their checkpoints within a certain distance of the route. Points will be awarded for the time it takes for the competitor to find the marshal's location. The marshal with the greatest number of points wins the officials' award for the event.

The meeting, which was well attended by Belleville and Trenton members, was highlighted by motion picture color films taken by a club member while attending the Brussels World Fair and several European racing events this summer.

University W.C. Awards Scholarships

The University Women's Club of Belleville and district has presented two $100.00 scholarships at graduation exercises of district high schools at the recent fall convocations.

The first award, The University Women's Club scholarship was presented by Jane Townsend, of Quinte High School, as the girl who achieved the highest aggregate in any eight up-to-date papers, who is registered in a degree course at a Canadian university This award was presented by Mr. Macdonald, whose generous annual gift of a pennant to the local club has been the chief source of income for the scholarship fund.

The second award, The Manly Macdonald scholarship was won by Paula Mitias, also of Quinte High School. This award was presented by Mrs. J. E. McArthur. The Manly Macdonald scholarship was initiated last year to honor the well known and beloved Mr. Macdonald, whose generous annual gift of a pennant to the local club has been the chief source of income for the scholarship fund.

Miss Stapley of Stirling qualified for The Manly Macdonald scholarship but was unable to accept it due to the amount of previous scholarships she had already won. As a memento of her achievement the presentation of a French-English dictionary will be made to Miss Stapley at the Stirling High School presentation by her teacher Mrs. Gordon Bailey.

Mrs. Bailey was an active member of The University Women's Club for some time.

Holy Rosary CWL Holds Delightful Tea and Bazaar

The Catholic Women's League of Holy Rosary Church held a lovely autumn tea and bazaar in the church hall, Donald St., on Wednesday afternoon.

The hall was attractively decorated for the occasion, with seven booths featuring varied examples of needlecraft and culinary ability were covered with white cloths and decorated with blue and white streamers with a large bow and silver bells in the centre of each booth.

The "tea room" was quadrocored off by blue and white streamer "ropes." The "tea shoppe" was formed by two large white baskets filled with tinted leaves, berries and flowers, placed on tall stands. The stands were tied with large blue and white streamer bows.

The tea table covered with a beige colored net-wool table cloth, was centred with a large gold tinted wicker basket filled with tinted fall leaves, berries, gourds, wheat and evergreens. Two two-candle candelabra containing yellow and bronze tapers set in gold doilies, flanked the centrepiece.

The small quartet tables, covered with white cloths, were centred by miniature reproductions of the head table centrepiece, on gold doilies.

Guests were welcomed by bazaar convener, Mrs. E. McHugh, and co-convener, Mrs. J. Barrett. The treasurer, Mrs. F. Mulvihill, was in charge of tickets at the door.

The tea room convener was Mrs. W. Smith, and the tea room hostess was Mrs. M. Boyd, who graciously ushered the guests into the "tea room."

The delicacies booth, featuring all kinds of jams, jellies, relishes, pickles, chili sauces, salads and cooked chickens, was convened by Mrs. L. Farrell.

The Tot Shop, heaped with adorable doll outfits — dresses, coats, slacks, pyjamas and such, was convened by Mrs. E. Reed.

The apron booth, heaped with all kinds of aprons and pot holders was convened by Mrs. L. Donovan.

The candy booth, featuring a mouth-watering selection of chocolates, fudges, taffies, home made bread, cookies, and muffins, was convened by Mrs. J. Kingston.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, a newspaper editor, a women's editor and two writers. Each article is a summary of an actual case history. The Council reports on problems that have been dealt with by responsible agencies and counsellors.

Mr. H. D. — They only marry gold diggers and fortune hunters.

Alfred D. — Nothing's worse than marriage without love.

Mr. H. D. — I had very few advantages in my early life and worked hard ever since I can remember with one goal in mind. I wanted to give my children the things I didn't have.

Well, I've managed to build up a highly successful business with the result that it is just now standing in the ways I my children's happiness. My son is nearly 26 and my daughter is 30 and neither are married because wherever they go they meet gold diggers and fortune hunters.

Recently, my son met a fine young woman. I was very hopeful because I knew she couldn't be a gold digger. Her father happens to be very much more successful than I am, and she is an only child and will inherit the business. Now my son accuses me of mercenary motives in pushing this marriage.

Alfred D. — Anyone seeing my father's face light up when I told him I was going out with this particular girl would realize right away that his only thought was what a great thing it would be if married her and we could eventually amalgamate the two businesses.

I have nothing against this girl. She seems to be a nice person, but I am not in love with her and have no intention of marrying anyone I don't love.

My sister feels exactly as I do about the whole thing. Our parents seem to think everyone should be married, no matter what the cost. My sister and I feel that nothing is worse than an unhappy marriage, a marriage without love. We'll marry if and when we meet the right person — and that has nothing to do with material considerations.

The Council: We have the utmost sympathy for Alfred and his sister for having met nobody of the opposite sex who was not a gold digger or fortune hunter, but we can't help being just a bit skeptical. Surely nobody can be that rich and nobody can be that lacking in other qualities.

Alfred does not seem to recognize that he is really saying that he and his sister have absolutely nothing to offer but money. If they did, surely somebody would take some interest in their other assets.

On the other hand, when Alfred is presented with a woman who cannot possibly be interested in him for his money alone, he suspect his father of having mercenary motives. Therefore, he cannot allow himself to become interested in her.

It certainly appears that Alfred and his sister have erected an Iron Curtain coated with greenbacks against the possibility of any relationship that might lead to fondness for anyone of the opposite sex.

We won't undertake to analyze the reasons, but we would urge Alfred and his sister to recognize the fact that their appraisal of others and of their own situation is far from objective. It is colored with emotional undertones that have injured their lives and will have further harmful effects in the future. It is up to them, and not their parents, to decide what they want to do about this.

The shapely skirt is of yarn dyed worsted in dark green with a grosgrain ribbon yoke set on in darker and lighter green. Same plot is worked in blue and brown.

Some Hints on Cooking Venison Given by Forestry Experts

TORONTO — Hunters! Don't spoil your venison when you get it home, Ontario Department of Lands and Forests experts advise. They point out that deer meat can be cooked by the same methods used for beef of a similar grade.

Some prefer to remove the fat from venison before cooking, they say. Suet, pork fat or bacon may be mixed with ground venison or strips of bacon or salt pork may be placed over the outside of roasts to keep meat from becoming too dry.

Tender cuts of meat are cooked by dry heat and the less tender portions by moist heat. While young bucks and does furnish the more tender meat, the meat from an aged animal can be made appetizing and tender if cooked correctly.

Tomatoes, onions, spices and herbs often are added if the venison flavor is objectionable to anyone. A tablespoon of vinegar may help destroy the "wild" flavor.

Tender cuts, such as rib and loin chops, round steak and leg roasts, can be pan or oven-broiled or roasted. The less tender cuts such as neck, shanks, chuck and breast, should be cooked with moist heat or ground for hamburgers or meat loaf. They make particularly good mincemeat.

VENISON MINCEMEAT

Since Christmas is not too far off, here's a tried recipe for venison mincemeat:

Use two pounds of lean venison from the neck, one pound of beef suet, six pounds of apples, two pounds of currants, one pound of sultana raisins, 2 pounds of raisins, ½ pound citron, six cups brown sugar, two teaspoons nutmeg, one tablespoon allspice, one tablespoon cinnamon, one teaspoon ginger, one tablespoon salt, two oranges, eight cups cider or grape juice.

Bake the venison in the oven for 40 minutes, using moderate heat — about 350 degrees—then cool and chop. Mix with chopped suet, pared, cored and chopped apples, currants, raisins, citron. Add sugar, spices, juice two oranges, finely chopped rind of one orange and the cider or grape juice. Simmer for 30 minutes.

Pack hot into jars, seal and process — 60 minutes for a pint jar and 70 minutes for a quart jar at 15 pounds pressure, or three hours in a boiling water to 25 minutes to the pound.

Mother's Helper

ARE YOU tempted to cut your little girl's lovely long hair whenever it's shampoo time? That dreaded after-shampoo mess of tangles can be done away with if you use a no-called "creme" rinse as the final step. And its smoothing effect seems to last practically from one shampoo to the next.

both. The quantity shown makes enough for ten to 12 nine-inch pies.

For roast venison — the loin or round — the experts suggest that it be sprinkled with salt and pepper over all sides of the meat. Place on a rack in an uncovered shallow pan and put in a pre-heated, slow oven at 300 to 325 degrees. Do not add water and do not cover. (That is most important, they say.) Allow 20

Brown Sugar Angel Food From Surplus Egg Whites

by Mary Moore

On Wednesday I gave my much-labored-over Fruit Cake for 1958. If and when you make it you will have 16 egg whites left over. What to do with them. Make a big angel food cake — a brown sugar angel food cake thus time around some brown sugar meringues. My sisters were having house guests and a birthday party. The cake went to them, the meringues stayed home to be served with fruity ice cream for our Sunday dinner.

BROWN SUGAR ANGEL CAKE:

NOTE:

Sift brown sugar, measure it pushing it down but not packing. Then spread on wax paper in thin layer to dry out for an hour or two before making cake.

One and one-half cups sifted cake flour, 2 cups brown sugar, 1 1-2 cups egg whites, 1-2 teaspoon salt, 1 1-2 teaspoons each cream of tartar and vanilla. Sift flour and then sift again with one half of sugar, sifting four times. Sift the other half of the sugar 4 times keeping separate. Add salt to egg whites, beat until foamy, add cream of tartar and beat until it will form stiff peaks but is not dry. Add to the egg whites the separate sifted sugar, 2 tablespoons at a time beating well after each addition (use low speed on electric beater). Add flavorings. Fold in flour-sugar mixture into egg whites slowly a little at a time. Pour into freshly washed, ungreased tube pan. Cut through cake batter several times to eliminate any air bubbles. Bake at 325 deg. Fahr for about 65 minutes. Invert immediately on removing from oven and let hang for one hour. Remove after one hour.

If desired - dress it up with Chocolate Filling, for a party cake: In the top of a double boiler heat together 4 squares cooking chocolate, 1 cup each milk and sugar, until chocolate and sugar are melted. Remove from heat and stir well. Soak 2 tablespoons unflavored gelatine in 1 cup cold water 5 minutes then add to the hot chocolate mixture and stir to dissolve gelatine. Cool to room temperature but until it begins to thicken. Fold in 1-2 pint of heavy cream that has been whipped. Cut angel cake in two layers and frost between layers and top with chocolate filling. Sprinkle with shaved Brazils. Chill overnight or 4 hours.

BROWN SUGAR MERINGUES:

Two egg whites, 1-8 teaspoon cream of tartar, dash of salt, 1-3 cup each brown sugar and chopped nuts, 1-2 teaspoon vanilla. Beat egg whites with cream of tartar until stiff but not dry. Add sugar 1 tablespoon at a time beating after each addition. Fold in vanilla and nuts. Spoon in mounds or press through a pastry bag on to ungreased heavy paper that has been placed on a cookie sheet. Bake at 275 deg. Fahr. for 40 to 60 minutes or until lightly browned. Remove at once from paper. Makes 18 of the large meringues.

GOOD MANNERS

By Mrs. Beeckman

WHEN "MISS" IS USED BEFORE BRIDE'S NAME

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I have been an orphan since I was twenty, when my parents were both killed in an airplane accident. Since then I have made my own living, and a wonderful couple who were my parents' closest friends have been marvelous to me, in their friendship and counsel and guidance. Now I am to be married, and they are sponsoring the invitations. The engraver told them he is not quite sure whether or not "Miss" should be engraved before my name, as he has no sample of this form of invitation. Please tell us what is correct. — Bride-to-be

What wonderful friends indeed are this couple who are so delightfully good and kind to you.

In the invitations to be sponsored by them, the "Miss" should be engraved before your name. This situation is an exception to the usual rule about not using a title before the name of the bride. The invitation would read:

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Hall request the honor of your presence at the marriage of Miss Elizabeth Clark to

Mr. Gregory Robbins etc.

HOW TO PLACE FOLD-OVER PLACE CARDS

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

For a bridge prize I won a box of very handsome place cards; white, heavy paper, fold-over cards. I have never used or even seen fold-over places cards, and I am wondering if they should be laid on the dinner napkin, as are the flat ones. — Hostess

No. Fold-over place cards are placed standing above the place setting . . . that's why they s r e made "fold-over." And I'm sure you will enjoy using them, for in many settings they can be more convenient than the flat paper cards.

ALL-WHITE CHRISTENING DRESS FOR THE BABY

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I have been invited to be godmother for the new baby of dear friends of mine, and my husband is to be godfather. Together we are giving the child a christening present of a set of small silver — spoon, fork, knife. But I would also like to make the little girl's christening dress, and I have talked this over with her mother. I've been told that this dress should be all-white. So?

— Godmother

Yes . . . it is customary, a n d still considered the best taste, for the baby to wear an all-white christening dress.

WHAT DOES "BLUE" MEAN IN "SOMETHING BLUE"?

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Will you kindly settle a discussion we are having? "A" insists that in the saying

"Something old and something new,

Something borrowed and something blue"

the "something blue" means an article one has wept over. "B" says "blue" means the color, for example, the blue garter most brides wear on the wedding day. Who is right? — M. K.

I think "A" has been spending too much time "singing the blues" or at least listening to them! "B" is right . . . the "blue" in "something blue" means the color. As a matter of fact, in Biblical times both the bride and the groom wore a band of blue around the arm of their wedding costumes to symbolize fidelity and love.

SHOULD FIANCE'S OR FIANCEE'S FAMILY EXTEND FIRST INVITATION?

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I am a prospective bridegroom; and I hope you can solve a problem that has arisen. I have very recently become engaged, a n d there seems to be a very definite difference of opinion as to whether the fiance's family should invite the fiancee's family to dinner first, or vice versa. My mother refuses to be the first to do the inviting and my fiancee's mother refuses to be the first. I personally believe that the fiance's family (that is, my family) should perform this courtesy first. Would you be so kind as to print an answer to this in your column in order to enlighten everyone concered? Thank you. — Frank M.

There is no definite rule or regulation that says either family must invite the other family, and no rule either about which family extends the first invitation to the other family. The only formality that is a "must," and a very important must, is the welcome-into-the-family gesture the fiance's parents make to his fiancee, by calling on her and her parents or, if distance prevents this, by telephoning or writing to her. After that, his parents may, if they wish to, invite the girl and h e r parents to their house to dinner, tea, perhaps Sunday luncheon, or the girl's parents may be the first to do the inviting.

Naturally such invitations depend on the wishes and inclinations of those doing the inviting, and on whether or not they are in the habit of entertaining. If in any case this continues to be a family impasse about this invitation, I suggest it might be wiser to drop the whole idea until perhaps the invitation may come about naturally.

CUSTOMARY FOR NEW OWNERS TO GIVE OWN HOUSEWARMING

Mrs. Beeckman:

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Recently we purchased a house, and a friend of mine just asked me if we are going to give a housewarming. I told her that I really don't think it is proper for the owners of the new home to give their own housewarming. Is it? — E.

Indeed it is proper, customary too, for the new householders to give their own housewarming. Most owners of new homes prefer to plan and to give their o w n housewarming, because then they can give it when it is most convenient for them, can make plans they consider most appropriate, can issue their own invitations, can serve what they wish to. However, it is also proper for a group of intimate friends to give the housewarming, often as a "surprise" party.

Double Duty Jewelry

By ALICE ALDEN

Wear your pin as a pendant or your pendant as a pin in this season of topsy-turvy but impressive jeweling. So says Vendome, who has created for such dual doings this opulently jeweled necklace that drops an outsize pendant from a slender iridescent velvet ribbon. The pendant, heaped with pale and dark sapphire-blue stones and rich baroque pearls, is detachable for wear as a pin.

Many Dresses And Suits Can Be Salvaged

By PEGGY MASSIN

PARIS (Reuters) — The Paris winter fashion collections have drastically changed the silhouette, but there is still many a dress and suit that can be salvaged in every wardrobe.

The silver lining under the cloud of the fashion revolution which has enmeshed the sack, the chemise and the trapeze is that these very fashions are the easiest to change for a look in tune with the times.

When loose sway-from-the-body styles came in more than a year ago, no power on earth could transform a slim fitted sheath into a sack.

CAN BELT

Today, as Paris decrees once more a marked waistline, it is an easy trick for any professional or home dressmaker to belt or control the fullness of last year's loose silhouette.

If a woman intends to shorten her hemline to the scant inches from the ground featured by Balenciaga, Givenchy, Cardin and Lanvin - Castille, the extra fabric gained from the hem can be used to advantage to make a belt. Deep hems look bulky in any case.

The belt may be encrusted or slotted through the bodice under the bust to feature the Empire line, and the skirt mounted in gathers, or worn separately with the front and back of the dress folded into enormous pleats. A leather belt or obi sash in contrasting fabric such as satin or velvet would achieve the same effect.

A trapeze dress could be transformed by running a double row of ruching into the side seams and gathering the width on to a drawstring. Pyjama cord bells marking high waistlines are one of the newest trends in all collections.

SEPARATE TOP

If, on the other hand, women are going to reject the short hemline in favor of St. Laurent's length which drops to midcalf or 14 inches from the ground, there are also ways and means by which this can be done.

Cut off the bodice of the sack or trapeze at a line parallel with the underarm of the sleeves. Drop the skirt to the desired length and make a separate, new top. This can be a short-waisted bodice or overblouse in contrasting fabric. The theme in the Dior collection concentrates on these simple little "varnish" bodices in pastel-colored velvet, giving a mock two-piece effect.

Dior reveals high necklines, with Peter Pan or schoolgirl collars, give way for the winter to deep decolletes scooped in camisole or bustaline necklines. A new lease of life can be given to many an old dress by just opening up the neckline.

SEEK RUSSIAN CAVIAR

TORONTO (CP)—The Ontario lands and forests department hopes to get agreement to send to Russia to bring back caviar, spawn of the sturgeon, for use in Ontario fish hatcheries. Russian sturgeon are reported to live longer and grow larger than the Canadian counterparts, the department said.

Crown Attorney Speaks on 'Civil Defence'

The regular meeting of the Argyll Chapter of the I.O.D.E. was held in the Armouries on Tuesday evening.

The business portion of the meeting was curtailed to a few announcements. Members were asked to bring canned goods, good used clothing for children, and toys to the December meeting. These items are to be included in the Christmas baskets.

The guest speaker, Mr. John Pringle, well known Crown Attorney, addressed the meeting following an introduction by Mrs. O. Miller. His subject was Civil Defence, illustrated with two films. Both Mr. Pringle's talk and the films proved most informative.

During a question and answer period a number of interesting points were discussed.

The appreciation of the IODE was expressed in a gracious manner by Mrs. F. Burns.

Woman Director of London Jewelry Shop Well Versed

By SYLVIA HACK
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP) — Piling titaras on royalty and diamond pendants on ambassadors' wives is only part of the job for Lene Willis, a director of an exclusive London jewelry shop.

Miss Willis, who in the course of her day handles thousands of pounds of rare gems, also has to be included in the Christmas baskets. in insurance valuation and probate and spends time testing the authenticity of stones.

One of the few women to possess a diploma in gemology, the study of the science of gems, Miss Willis says: "Synthetic stone are so well made nowadays, it becomes increasingly difficult to detect the true from the false. We have to use special instruments for the job."

FIRST WOMAN

Miss Willis, 40, is the first woman to become a director in the century - old Hancocks Jewelry Company, a firm that has served every crowned head of Europe and still numbers royalty and aristocracy among its clients.

The company, the first and only jewelers to make the Victoria Cross since its inception in 1857, specializes in Edwardian and Victorian jewelry and in antique silver.

Occasionally, Miss Willis travels considerable distances to discuss transactions of silver plate which has been handed down through the ages.

"It sometimes seems very sad when these historic families have to part with things their forbears bought.

Miss Willis, who has grey hair, blue eyes and a gentle manner, first became interested in precious stones in her teens, when she worked as a secretary in a jewelry store.

"My mind kept wandering to the merchandise and when I was offered the chance to learn the artistic side, I was happy to do so."

CAREER HIGHLIGHT

She recalls the gold rush of 1931 as one of the highlights of her career.

"It was the busiest time of my life. In response to the exchequer's appeal for people to sell their gold to replenish the government's reserves, they actually queued up with bricks of it outside the shop. I spent weeks testing and valuing it."

Miss Willis, who has held her present job since 1945, became the director in 1950. Apart from artistic ability and judgment, a thorough knowledge of mathematics is necessary too, she says.

"I have my eyes tested regularly. Accuracy of vision and unbiased judgment are 'musts' in this profession, as it is impossible for a one-carat diamond to vary from £30 to £200 with only eyejudgment and maybe an ordinary magnifying lens to support one's knowledge."

Terming it a "terrific boon to the housewife," Mrs. Joan Trefethen, the 31-year-old mother of three, poses with the "sporty little airplane" she built in the kitchen and living-room of her home in Camilla, Calif. The black monoplane has a wing span of 22 feet and is 17 feet long. It cost Mrs. Trefethen about $1,000 to build the craft. It would cost about $3,000 from a manufacturer.

Rats and Mice Cause Millions in Damage

It costs at least five dollars a year to feed a rat, and the total cost of tolerating a rat for a year including loss from food spoilage and damage caused by the rat, may be around twenty dollars.

Not only do rats and mice eat and spoil large quantities of food and damage buildings, but they also damage clothing, house furnishings, furniture and other goods, both inside and outside of buildings. They are a menace to human health. They frequent garbage, manure piles, sewers, and other accumulations of refuse, and go from such places into homes, mills and other buildings, contaminating food and utensils.

Although our Canadian winters restrict the number of rats to some extent, the progeny of one pair of rats may exceed 500 individuals in a year if all the young, particularly females, survive and breed. A rough estimate of the number of rats around a farm may be taken from the following:

No rats seen — 0-20 present; 1 rat seen occasionally — 20-200 present; 1 rat (or more) seen frequently — 200-up present.

There are several control methods which can be used against rats and mice; trapping, poison baits, tracking poisons, poison gases, "clean-up" and, rodent proofing. All of these are discussed in detail in Ontario Department of Agriculture Bulletin 638, obtainable by residents of Ontario from the office of any county agricultural representative.

SPARK STARTS FIRE

DESERONTO — Quick response of the firemen on Thursday afternoon kept fire loss to a minimum at Newsmith's house and store on Dundas St. The alarm was about 4.15 p.m. when a neighbor saw smoke pouring from the roof. The fire which started from a spark on the wooden shingles had burned through the roof and would soon have caused extensive damage to the building. The fire department ran a small line to the roof and out to the stile, extinguishing the blaze in a few minutes. The main damage was a small hole in the roof which the firemen covered with a tarpaulin before leaving.

ARMISTICE DAY MARKED

Members of the Legion, accompanied by the Boy Scouts, Girl Guides, Cubs and Brownies, paraded to the Cenotaph on Tuesday morning to commemorate the Gallant Dead of the Two Great Wars. Headed by the color party the parade left the Legion hall at 10.40 and formed up on Main St. in time to observe the minute's silence at 11 o'clock.

The service was arranged by Canon Coleman of St. Mark's Church and assisting him were, the Rev. J. Stone of the Church of the Redeemer, and the Rev. C. W. Westlands, of the United Church.

Wreaths were placed by municipal officials and a number of local industries as well as a few individuals.

The "Last Post" was sounded by a member of the militia from Kingston.

Arrangements for the entire service were made by N. C. Desmill of the local branch of the Legion.

RED CROSS

The regular meeting of the Deseronto Red Cross Society took place at the home of Mrs. William Crabbe on November 5 with a fair attendance.

The president opened the meeting. Routine business followed.

The secretary read a letter from headquarters telling the group that there is free blood for the hospitals as far east as Belleville.

Mrs. D. Dawson, convener of the loan cupboard, answered 14 calls for the loan of equipment during the past month. Mrs. Dawson also impressed a need for canes. If anyone has a cane that is not needed the Red Cross would be happy to add it to their loan cupboard.

The president, Mrs. Gordon Walker, would like anyone interested in Red Cross work to attend the meetings.

There will be a blood donors' clinic in the municipal hall on November 19th from 7.30 to 9.00 p.m.

After the meeting adjourned refreshments were served by the hostess.

Mrs. N. Thomas invited the members to her home for the next meeting on December 10.

The Lions Club group committee for Scouting met at the Lions' hall on November 5th, under the chairman, K. Fraser, Jr. Also in attendance at the meeting were the Ladies' Auxiliary and the Scout and Cub leaders.

The main item for discussion was the banquet for the investors of the Queen Scouts.

It is worthy of note that the Deseronto Scouts are the smallest group to be honored with the appointing of two Queen's Scouts. The formation of a second Cub group was also approved. This move proves that Scouting is definitely progressing in the town of Deseronto.

Ontario Biologists to Study Sturgeon Industry in Russia

TORONTO — Arrangements for senior biologists of the Ontario Department of Lands and Forests to visit Russia to study the sturgeon fishing industry of that country are now under way for many years there has been a free exchange of scientific information between the Ontario Department and the Russian government and no difficulties are anticipated in having one or more of Ontario's top piscatorial scientists make the journey, probably by way of Moscow, to the main centres of the Russian industry.

The study, it is expected, will enable the Canadian scientists to further their knowledge of the propagation, feeding habits and life of one of the world's oldest fishes and it also is expected it may be possible to obtain some spawning stock in Russia to help increase the sturgeon yield in Ontario waters.

The sturgeon is a scientific oddity dating back to prehistoric times. Its flesh has always commanded a high price on Canadian and United States markets while the eggs or roe is the caviar which is gone over the world. Here the Indians set up isolated camps, use nets or reel infrequently "night lines" baited with pieces of raw pickerel or pike and haul their fish ashore.

Since the fish deteriorate rapidly when dead, the Indians keep them alive by tying them to stakes in the river bank until aircraft, which make almost daily flights, come in from centres such as Sioux Lookout to pick them up. The fish are partially processed there and then shipped to the American markets for the most part.

The sturgeon grows slowly, reaching an age of 50 or more years in Ontario and Quebec while on the west coast and in Russia, some have been "dated" as having lived for much longer. Not infrequently, there have been Russian reports of fish weighing more than a ton being taken from the Lena and other main rivers of the USSR.

Indicating its prehistoric origin the sturgeon is one of the few fishes found in fresh water which still carries its own armor, provided by a tough skin further protected by five rows of bony plates. The skeleton is cartilaginous.

It is a bottom-feeding fish, using a large mouth which sucks up quantities of bottom material from which the edible portions are separated. The mouth is of the "suckers" type and there's nothing very handsome about the general appearance of the largest of all fresh water fish. They are not classified as a "game fish," although residents of the Mattawa River area, north of North Bay, do catch them on hook and line occasionally.

BRINGS HIGH PRICES

The fish has long been known in England where, for many years, it was regarded as the private property of the reigning monarch and theoretically, anyone catching a sturgeon had to turn it over to the Royal cook.

The practice has, of course, died out in recent years, but even today the sturgeon commands very high prices, as does the roe, even in the raw state prior to the salting and curing which turns it into the caviar favored for hors d'oeuvres.

There are at least 30 varieties of the fish, including the Atlantic or sea sturgeon which occurs in the salt waters off the coast of Quebec, Labrador and the Maritime Provinces. There is also a Pacific variety frequently caught in British Columbia and the so-called "rock" sturgeon which sometimes landed in the Niagara River below the big falls.

B.C. Power Commission Head Says Bennett Juggled Debt To Make Show at Added Cost

VICTORIA (CP) — H. Leo Briggs, general manager of the British Columbia Power Commission, charged Wednesday that the provincial government is juggling its debt structure so as to present a "debt-free" picture to the people.

The accusation, made at a press conference, rocked the provincial capital. Premier W. A. C. Bennett declined comment but J. V. Fisher, the Social Credit government's economic adviser, said the statement "is not only incorrect but grossly misleading."

Mr. Briggs, a civil servant, said the premier had ordered a rearrangement of finances "to fulfill political promises."

The power commission is the largest of three major provincial agencies whose debts are listed in the public accounts as contingent liabilities.

The commission has borrowed $210,000,000, three times the Pacific Eastern Railway $100,000,000 and the toll highway and bridges authority $95,000,000.

REFINANCING ORDER

Mr. Briggs, general manager since February, 1955, said Mr. Bennett had ordered the commission to refinance original bond issues put out by the government in 1946 and 1952 to star the construction.

The borrowings were made by the government until the council created direct debt.

Mr. Briggs said the premier wanted the commission to "go through the motions" of paying off the $32,000,000 bonded debt at 3.1 per cent and refinance at 5.1 per cent.

The figure most often mentioned by Mr. Bennett as the balance of the provincial direct debt is $32,000,000.

ADDITIONAL COST CITED

Mr. Briggs said the rearrangement of financing would inflict an additional cost of $955,000 a year on the 80,000 power commission customers.

"Thus the direct obligation of the province for these bonds would be transferred on a full paid-up basis to the sinking fund trustees. The direct obligations of the province would thereby be extinguished now."

Mr. Briggs said he wouldn't resign because he was just doing his duty "in the customer's" as the commission. He said if he is fired he will stump the ridings of the province until the next election "to let the people know the rascals (they) put in are here in electric power matters."

In Vancouver Premier Bennett later produced a statement in the government's economic adviser did refused to make a statement himself.

BENNETT SURPRISED

The premier said he was "very surprised" to see Mr. Briggs' statement. "but I have not been in contact with the power commissioners of the power commission."

He gave reporters a 70-word statement from Dr. Fisher, whom he described as "the provincial government's economic adviser for 40 years, because of his qualifications." Mr. Fisher flew to Vancouver from Victoria to consult with the premier. Word of the announcement of plans to develop the Peace River.

He said whether the government would consider firing Mr. Briggs, "is entirely a matter for me."

"I'm sorry boys, that's all."

Mr. Bennett left for Victoria by air and returned to Victoria and might make a statement later.

LEGISLATURE URGE AUDIT

Arthur Laing, leader of the B.C. Liberal party, said the statement by Mr. Briggs "is a complete independent audit of the entire financial structure of the province."

CCF Leader Robert Strachan said the statement indicated the government is involved in "a grand plan to have the B.C. Electric Co. Ltd. take over and control the economic life of this province and leave the people with higher cost power."

Dean Finlayson, leader of the Liberal party, said the government is "

TWEED

Mrs. Pewtress Gives Talk to BPW Club

TWEED — Mrs. Marjory Pewtress, of Cobourg, an international vice-president of the Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs, spoke to a gathering of 45 B and P members from Tweed, Port Hope, Cobourg, Trenton and Belleville at an inter-club meeting in the Hotel Tweedmark, Tweed, last Thursday evening.

Two guests were present from Bancroft, where a new club may be organized shortly.

Miss Eva Blackburn, president of Tweed Club, was in charge of the meeting.

The tables were attractively arranged with table centres of flags, Canadian holly, and red lighted tapers, carrying out a patriotic theme, while the Remembrance Day tribute was also carried out in the place cards, the work of the past president, Mrs. Veronica Cadwell.

Mrs. Pewtress was introduced by Miss Madeline Rooney, of Cobourg, Ontario vice-president, District C. She enumerated the many offices in B and P that Mrs. Pewtress was now holding and had previously held, including the past presidency of Cobourg Club, regional adviser for Region 5, provincial president 1952-53, chairman of the committees on "jury service" and "equal pay" and on several committees on the National Federation executive.

In outlining the highlights of the national convention held in Edmonton this summer, Mrs. Pewtress noted that Canadian membership now stands at 7,241, with 143 clubs. The theme of the convocation was "Improving the Stature of Women," and during the sessions, the many achievements of the Federation in the promotion of women's capabilities in business and political life were brought to light.

"It will take many more years to completely break down all the barriers affecting women," she noted, "We still have no women in the Senate; there is still some degree of discrimination in business, although we have accomplished much in our efforts for equal pay for equal work."

The draw on the mantle radio and electric fry pan was made at the conclusion of the evening's agenda. The two winning tickets drawn by Mrs. Irene Haig, Belleville (Harriet Stevens), were held by Dorion Bosley, who won the radio, and Charles R. Porritt, the fry pan. Both are Tweed residents.

The Tweed club is most appreciative of the co-operation of those purchasing tickets, and the proceeds should make a substantial donation to Tweed rink and other philanthropic causes.

The winner of the door prize was Mrs. Pewtress, and of the Sunshine draw, for a gift donated by Mrs. Bernice McTague of Cobourg, was Mrs. Norman Dunham, who graciously turned it over to Mrs. Jordan of Trenton.

It was announced that the canvass for UNICEF among schools which was conducted by United Nations convener Mrs. T. E. Mosfett, netted a total of $79.44. The generosity and co-operation of both students and teachers were greatly appreciated in this initial canvass.

During the evening Mrs. Ethel Murray of Port Hope, adviser for Region 5, led in a singsong.

Kelowna Packers Beat Swedes 5-2, Durban Stars

STOCKHOLM (CP) — Coach Jack O'Reilly says his touring Kelowna Packers are just using their exhibition hockey games in Sweden as warmups for next week in Moscow.

In the warmup campaign last night the Canadians downed a Swedish provincial combination 5-2 for a 3-1 lead in games. The Packers play their fourth and last Swedish game today before packing up Friday for the trip to Moscow and five exhibition games.

Leading scorer in Wednesday night's game at Gavle, 100 miles north of here, was 28-year-old Mike Durban, a forward who graduated to Kelowna from the Brandon Wheat Kings of the Manitoba Junior League. He scored two goals, one in each of the first and second periods.

The 4,700 fans saw an exciting first period as the Packers took a 3-2 lead on goals by Durban, Clare Wakshinski and Greg Jablonski.

Durban's second goal in the middle period came before Tom Steeyk, loaned by Vernon Canadians of the Okanagan Senior League for the trip, found the mark.

There was no scoring in the final period which was marred by soft ice in the outdoor rink.

All three games here have been won by 5-2 scores. The Swedes took the first game Sunday. When the Packers avenged the loss Tuesday night, coach O'Reilly said he felt a lot better.

Although he considered the Swedish games just a warmup for the Russians, he added, "it's nice to win."

He's satisfied with the way most of his players are performing, he said, "but we're going to go even better."

Dutchmen Score Five Goals on Own Netminder

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Kitchener - Waterloo Dutchmen loaned Windsor Bulldogs their sub-goaltender Wednesday night, then scored five goals on him to break a second-place tie with Windsor in the OHA-NOHA.

In a second OHA-NOHA senior A series game, Sudbury Wolves ended a six-game string of losses with a 3-1 victory over North Bay Trappers.

Dutchmen's win gave them 11 points and put them within a point of the first-place Chatham Maroons and two points up on Windsor. Sudbury's victory over the last - place Trappers gave Wolves a fourth-place tie with Sault Ste. Marie royhounds.

No games were played in the OHA Senior A eastern series.

HIT ON NOSE

Bulldogs' goalie, Danny Gisevich, suffered a possible broken nose in the first period when hit by a shot from Jerry Theberge that tied the score at 1-1.

Kitchener standby Gary Millman went into the Bulldogs' net and had five goals scored on him.

Butch Martin scored two and Billy Flick, Ted Malt and Bob McKnight one each for Dutchmen while veteran defenceman Joe Klukay scored twice and Wally Maxwell and Lou Jerido once each for Windsor.

TAKE QUICK LEAD

Sudbury's Pete Pilote put the puck past Trapper goalie Bob Mitchell in the first minute of the period and Joe Malo made it 2-0 before the frame ended.

After a scoreless second, Cleland Morison made it 3-1 but Joe Zorica gave Sudbury its two-goal lead again with four minutes remaining.

The first Negro player in the OHA-NOHA league, John Reddale, on loan from Quebec Aces, played for Trappers but didn't figure in the scoring.

In the OHA-NOHA tonight Chatham plays at Sault Ste. Marie against the Greyhounds while Sudbury goes to North Bay. No games are scheduled in the OHA eastern division.

Russ Jackson Individual Hero Of Ottawa Win

By MARVEN MOSS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

MONTREAL (CP) — The jubilant Ottawa Rough Riders piled into their downtown hotel Wednesday night, a spirited crew with glowing acclaim for a rookie Canadian quarterback who steered them to the Big Four football league final.

Russ Jackson, a blood-haired, 23-year-old with a hitting jaw, accepted the shouts of congratulations and backslaps from his teammates with a happy grin and a murmur of thanks.

Ottawa, still clad in mud-smeared uniforms, rode to the hotel from McGill stadium in a chartered bus after downing Montreal Alouettes 26-12 in a sudden-death semi-final.

The victory moved the Roughies, into a two-game, total-points series with Hamilton Tiger-Cats.

THE GAME STAR

Jackson emerged the individual star of the piece. Playing only his fourth full game at the Ottawa helm he scored two touchdowns, passed with the poise of a veteran and piloted a ground attack that rolled up 338 yards.

A former collegiate star with McMaster University, he told The Canadian Press that coach Frank Clair of the Riders called but three plays for him during the game.

"And one of them was a pass play that Montreal broke up with an interception," chimed in a teammate laughing.

Gene Tierney, Mental Patient For 3 Years, Now Improved

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

WESTPORT, Conn. (AP) — When I was ill, I thought that my emotional life was over for good," says Gene Tierney. "That was not true. I'm well now, with plenty of hope and plenty of chance to find happiness."

For most of the last three years Gene Tierney has been a patient in two mental institutions. For six or seven years before that she had been ill and, because she determinedly ignored the symptoms, grew constantly worse.

But at the end of the summer she emerged from the Menninger Clinic in Topeka, Kan., ready and eager to return to her place on the motion picture and television screens and to pick up her functions as mother and breadwinner for her family: 10-year-old Daughter and mother.

20 YEARS OF TRAGEDY

Behind her are almost 20 years of personal tragedy. Ahead of her also feel strongly, lie the serene, productive years of her life. She's now 38.

Gene's sultry, exotic beauty shot her to stardom before she was 20. In the 16 years between 1940 and 1956 she made some 30 films. She was rated—and is—a sex symbol antedating Marilyn Monroe, one of Hollywood's top box office names.

"My doctor's say that my career had absolutely nothing to do with my illness," she says today.

Hollywood, however, provided the background against which Gene silently and secretly fought a losing battle against the steadily worsening illness.

Still under age, but an important film star, Gene met, fell in love and eloped to Las Vegas with Oleg Cassini, now a famous New York dressmaker but then a struggling studio designer. Cassini was notable for an obsolete White Russian title inherited from his mother's family and the fact he had briefly been the fourth husband of a rich patent medicine heiress.

The elopement precipitated a family crisis. The Tierneys had been a well-to-do New York and Connecticut family of some social standing. Slight, thin-faced and foreign-looking Cassini had not an acceptable background.

The marriage ended the guardianship of Tierney purse, and quarrels about this and other matters permanently alienated Gene from him.

Soon after Gene's own marriage, her parents were divorced after 25 years of marriage.

"I loved my father," says Gene, "So when I was disillusioned in him, I was heartbroken."

Two years later came a second, stunning blow: her daughter Daria was born mentally retarded due to a bout with German measles Gene suffered during her pregnancy.

Ernie Broglio, Former Toronto Hurler, Helps

SHIZUOKA, Japan (AP)—Ernie Broglio, a righthander acquired by St. Louis from San Francisco just before the Cards started their Japanese tour, Sunday up as a man who can help manager Solly Hemus's pitching staff.

Broglio, who played for Toronto Maple Leafs of the International League last season, teamed up with Sad Sam Jones to blist out the Japan All-Stars Wednesday with one hit while the Cards piled up an 8-0 margin.

The Cards took title to Broglio and the veteran Mary Grisson two days before they left home, giving up pitcher Billy Muffett, catcher Hobie Landrith and infielder Benny Valenzuela. Broglio had an 8-1 record at Phoenix and a 9-2 record at Toronto in 1958.

As this also is a test run for new manager Hemus, the performance of men like Broglio are particularly important to the 1959 plans of the Cardinals.

Broglio pitched seven innings

Eleven Movie Muscle Men All Want to Be New Tarzan

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Eleven movie muscle men are up a tree. They're fretting over which one will be elected the screen's new Tarzan.

And I mean literally up a tree. At least they were the other day when the 11 hopefuls reported to the world jungle compound at 1,000 oaks to pose for photos and movie tests.

Another fellow who's fretting is Sy Weintraub. He's the new producer of the longest - running movie series he has to decide which fellow wins the loin cloth.

These are Weintraub's qualifications for the 19th Tarzan:

"He's got to have the graceful movement of a Joe DiMaggio and the build of a Charles Atlas. He must be well-built but not muscle-bound; we want a man who is lithe and looks as though he lived in a jungle."

Among the previous Tarzans there have been many who have revolted at their contracts, which limited them to the jungle.

That's why Weintraub is looking for a new Tarzan. The most recent, Gordon Scott, a former lifeguard, asked for and was given his release because he wanted to get out of the jungle and pursue a broader acting career.

Will the new one be spared such contract ties?

"No," the producer said firmly. "The actor we choose will be Tarzan only. I don't think he will complain. He will be getting an excellent salary. And how else will he be able to become a world-famous star in only one picture?"

Here's a note for the jungle-type babes: No need to apply for the role of Tarzan's mate. Weintraub says there will be no Jane in the new picture.

"Tarzan was getting too suburban," he explained.

THE HOCKEY SCENE

Sports writers around the Eastern Senior "A" circuit seem to thrive on disagreeing with each other. But there is one statement on which we think there will be very little argument. The Whitby Dunlops will win the 1958-59 Allan Cup championship.

Wren Blair, the little man who runs the show, has once again collected a group of hockey players and turned them into a smooth working machine on ice.

He lost a key man when Charlie Burns turned pro with Detroit. But in a move that seems to prove Blair's magic with a hockey club, he has groomed Whitby Youngberg to fill Burns' shoes. And he's doing the job very nicely. Youngberg showed little with the Kingston CKLC's last year, but now, in a Whitby uniform, he is among the loop's top point men.

Another loss was Bus Gagnon. Many, and this department included, felt that Bobby Attersley would find the going very rough without the policeman Gagnon at his side. Gagnon, now with Kingston, has not scored a goal this season. Attersley is leading the league in total points and is tied for the top spot in both goals and assists columns. He is averaging better than two points a game and appears headed for another terrific year.

Still another case in point is Long John Henderson. He and Blair never saw eye to eye last year. Long John wanted more money. Blair refused. They argued. Henderson's play fell off a bit and he was benched during the Dunrics' final games in Canada and all during the world hockey tournament. And yet, this season, Henderson is once more the league's top goalie, apparently in Blair's good graces.

The Dunlops always seem to have that little something extra. You can tie up one line or even two as Cornwall did in Whitby last Saturday night, but Whitby's Attersley, Etcher and the other high scorers. So what happens? The third line of Sandy Ait, Pete Babando and Youngberg came through with 13 points, a couple of defencemen score, and the Dunlops win another.

Take last Friday's game against the Macs. Whitby played good hockey in the first period and so did Belleville. Then Whitby scored the first goal and they were away. Any time a club has three men like Dave Jeppson and Bart Bradley were right in on Henderson. He came through with the big saves on both and they must be classed as the most hot and cold goalie in the loop. The Macs had scored those two goals it would have been a different hockey game. Henderson, like his mates, had that something extra. It wins hockey games.

The general feeling this year was that the Macs would be able to handle the Dunlops. So far they have failed to do this. We think the Macs have the material and before they leave for Europe they will give Whitby a lesson or two.

* * *

There would be no better time to start than tomorrow night. As things stand now, no team will catch the Dunnies in the league standing. They defeat everyone while the other clubs take turns polishing each other off. Some team has to get a winning streak going and soon.

The next question is: are the McFarlands the team to do it? True, their scoring punch could not be better than it was Tuesday night. But it will take more to beat the Dunnies. Henderson will prove a much different goalie than Hullis young replacement. But the biggest factor will be back of the Macs' blueline.

As strong as the offensive was Tuesday, the Macs seemed a bit confused with hockey club in their own zone. They could not clear the puck from around the net and Gordie Bell was lucky on more than one occasion when a sloppy pass and failure to clear resulted in almost the Hull-Jr youngsters with opportunities which they did not capitalize upon. The Macs will not score 12 goals against Whitby but providing they play good two-way hockey it will not be necessary. The Whitby win string, now at nine games, will be stopped by some team. No matter how good a club is, it cannot win them all. The Macs are the team to do it. Friday could be the day.

Taking a quick look at the Belleville scoring list, we find "Wiener" Brown, Dave Jones and Johnny McLellan tied for the club point leadership with ten each.

Brown had only one assist until last week, but in four games he has scored eight goals and picked up another helper. Jones has four and six and McLellan two and eight.

Four players are tied for the next spot with nine points. Lou Semke has six goals and three assists, Ike Hildebrand has four and five, Paul Payette and Al Dewsbury two goals and seven assists apiece. Bradley follows with five and three for eight points. Baltgate has four and three for seven while Marinceu and Goegan each have a goal and five assists.

Clustered at four points are Benoit with three and one, Crawford with one and three, Menard and Raglan each with four helpers. Minnie still cannot "bet...a goal" but it's not from lack of trying. When the first one does come you can look for him to catch fire the way Brownie did. Bentley and MacDonald bring up the rear with an assist each, as has Gordie Bell.

The scoring records look better all the time. Now let's improve the defensive figures. The Macs have scored 43 goals in 11 games but have had 44 scored against them.

"That was one of the best shoestring catches I ever saw!"

On the Tracks

TORONTO (CP)—Eskimo Flyer for the racing team of Larkin Maloney and Conn Smythe, drove to his fourth successive win before 3,320 fans at New Woodbine Park Wednesday. He has become an autumn standout.

He clocked a flashy 1.10 1-5 time for three-quarters of a mile in beating highly-favored Master Bart H by almost two lengths.

Another horse, Buncha, owned by Sol Rotenberg, was also registering her fourth successive score, beating Lest Hale and Bonnie Flight in the sixth.

Racing ends its 196-day season in Ontario a week from today.

Ottawa Licks Five-Year Jinx To Beat Alouettes

Rough Riders Win 26-12, Will Advance Into Finals for Big Four Title Against Hamilton

By W.R. WHEATLEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

MONTREAL (CP) — Ottawa Rough Riders, the team that was supposed to be a stepping stone for Montreal Alouettes into the Big Four football final, licked the Als and a five-year Boston jinx in a faultless display of power.

The Riders, jolted once or twice but only momentarily, won 26-12 going away. Nobody could muster an excuse for the Als. From cold statistics to all ramifications of second-guessing, the answer came out the same: Russ Jackson.

This 23-year-old Hamilton-born boy, a freshman in pro company, called a well-nigh perfect game. The acclaim that rightly is Jackson's is also a tribute to Canadian football talent.

Jackson not only ran the club with the assuredness of a veteran in his fourth full season of play, he scored two of his team's touchdowns on option plays.

FOUND SOFT SPOTS

The fast-thinking Rider quarterback, graduate of McMaster University, quickly spotted Montreal's soft spots, calling on Bobby Judd, Dave Thelen and Don Pinhey repeatedly. Jackson directed play through a bewildering maze for tremendous yardage and occasionally skilled his passes to confuse the Montreal defence.

The victory was the first for the Riders in Montreal since the 1933 season.

The defiant Riders, who finished third in the league race behind the Als, came out of the sudden-death semi-final in good shape. They meet Hamilton Tiger-Cats, finished fourth in the final.

The finalists play in Ottawa this Saturday and in Hamilton the following Saturday, in the two-game, total-point final. The winner goes to Vancouver to represent the East in the Grey Cup game Nov. 22.

Against the Als, whose hopes seemingly rested in the passing of Sam Etcheverry, the Rough Riders jumped into a 9-0 lead in the first quarter and led 18-6 at half-time. They added a single in the third quarter and matched an Alouette touchdown in the final quarter.

THE SCORERS

Along with Jackson's two touchdowns, the Riders had a touchdown by Don Pinhey — another Canadian—two field goals and a convert by Mac Vaho and a single by Gerry Nesbitt.

Pat Abbruzzi and Joel Wells scored the Montreal touchdowns, both unconverted.

Coach Frank Clair of the Riders said he wasn't surprised at their strength along the ground because they had shown an aptitude for ground plays in practices during the week.

This ground attack, unfolded before 18,000 spectators, rolled up 238 yards, against only 72 by the Als.

Etcheverry tried to catch up by passing, carrying the Als for 217 yards through the air. Jackson's passes, just enough to vary the driving ground attack, picked up 198 yards.

The surprised Als found themselves trailing 9-0 on Vaho's field goal after five minutes of play.

ALOUETTE MISTAKE

The alert Riders grabbed an opportunity to increase the lead late in the quarter when Ed Learn fumbled Nesbitt's punt on the Montreal 15. There was a wild scramble and Jackson himself dashed up and pounced on the ball on the Montreal two. Jackson promptly flipped over left tackle for the touchdown.

Vaho's 40-yard field goal early in the second quarter set up a 12-0 lead at the half-time.

It was halved five minutes later following the game's only pass interception. Montreal's Jim Letford soared the ball on his 40 and ran to the 15. Etcheverry fired a pass to Red O'Quinn, Dick Hunter and Wells and a pass - interference call against Hunter put the Als to the Rider 16. Abbruzzi went over two plays later.

PITCHOUT WORKS

The Riders got it back in eight plays after the Als kicked off. At the Montreal 25 Pinhey took a Jackson pitchout on an option play and went all the way.

Nesbitt's punt went for a conceded rouge by Learn late in the third quarter.

In the last quarter Alouettes marched to a touchdown from the Montreal 40 in seven plays. Wells completed the goal over right tackle.

The Riders wrapped up the game by driving from the Montreal 34 to the six on ground plays. Jackson then carried over.

Junior Quarter Forced to Wear Glasses in Game

TORONTO (CP) — Talk about not knowing the players without a program — there's a football quarterback who can't spot downfield pass receivers without his glasses.

He's Bill Thachuk, 18 - year-old University of Toronto student who will lead North York Knights against Montreal's Notre Dame de Grace Maple Leafs Saturday in the Eastern Canada junior final.

The Knights had a dismal season in their Toronto area Big Four junior loop, with only two victories in six scheduled games.

But that was enough to get them into the sudden-death final in the three-team loop which struck to its old name although it isn't one club this year. Then team officials prevailed on Thachuk to wear his glasses on the field.

Lawyer Ken Gariepy, team general manager, was responsible for putting the spectacles back on the near-sighted quarterback.

"I noticed he hadn't been wearing them on the field and was wondering under which bush he'd quite a sight to see with those glasses under his helmet but it's made a big difference."

The underdog Knights, knocked off the powerful United Services Blues 13-9 to win the Big Four Junior playoff and then defeated Sarnia Knights, champions of the Ontario Rugby Football Union junior series, 20-13 last Saturday to qualify for the eastern final in Montreal.

Eddie Perkins Gives Ryff Real Boxing Lesson

CHICAGO (AP)—Nimble Eddie Perkins, 23-year-old comedian-actor, hammered out a unanimous 10-round decision over Paul Ryff in a lightweight scrap in Chicago Stadium Wednesday night.

Perkins, 21 - year - old Chicago veteran who gained his 19th victory in 16 starts, floored the veteran New Yorker with a short right in the third round. Ryff, making his second appearance under the sponsorship of the first time champion Barney Ross, was up at the count of two and took a mandatory eight.

Perkins landed an overhand right knockdown that was finished and made Ryff's nose bleed. In the fourth, he hurt Ryff with a right and in the fifth Ryff was bleeding from a gash on his left eyebrow.

Perkins also bled from the nose and from a slight cut under his left eye.

Each weighed 138 pounds.

Rico Brooks, 185, Chicago, took a split six-round decision over Dave Rent, 188, Toronto, in a drab preliminary match. Rent is managed by Al Weill, former pilot of heavyweight champion Rocky Marciano.

Promoter Warned To Comply With All Regulations

MONTREAL (CP) — The Montreal Athletic Commission has warned promoter Eddie Quinlan that if he doesn't comply with "certain regulations concerning boxing matches" in Montreal his permit for the Durelle - Moore fight Dec. 10 may be refused.

The warning was made known Wednesday when the commission released the text of two letters sent to Mr. Quinn, who heads Canadian Athletic Promotions arranging the big fight - heavyweight fight at Montreal Forum.

The world title fight matches British Empire champion Yvon Durelle of Belle Vue, Que., N.B., and Archie Moore, world light-heavyweight boxing titleholder.

Leopold Pigeon, commission chairman, said in one letter that Nov. 20 is the deadline for Mr. Quinn to send in copies of contracts for boxers, television agreements, a $10,000 deposit to guarantee the boxers' purses, plus a certified cheque for five per cent of the "total gross consideration of the television rights."

The letter also said that all boxers' contracts for preliminary and semi-final bouts must be submitted by Dec. 1.

Mr. Quinn was out of Montreal and not available for comment. But Louis DeZwirek, vice-president of the promoting group, said in his view the group has "complied with all the rules set down by the commission."

DETROIT (AP) — Kathy Sawchuk, 18-month daughter of Detroit Red Wings goalie Terry Sawchuk, is reported in satisfactory condition after eating some rat poison she found in her home Wednesday. Mrs. Sawchuk said the baby found the poison hidden behind a refrigerator.

BOSTON (AP) — Righthander Bob Turley of the New York Yankees has been named winner of the Cy Young Memorial Award as the major leagues outstanding pitcher in 1958.

Turley edges Warren Spahn of Milwaukee Braves by one vote and Lew Burdette of the Braves and Bob Friend of the Pittsburgh Pirates by two in balloting by members of the Baseball Writers' Association of America in each of the 15 major league cities.

The 28-year-old Turley had a 21-7 record and a 2.96 earned run average during the regular season. He finished in each of the last three world series games, winning two and saving one.

Spahn won 22 games, Burdette 20, and Friend, the major's big

Maple Leafs Pushed Little Deeper Into NHL Cellar as Canadiens Clip Them by 4-1

By BEN WARD
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Montreal Canadiens have been in a slump of late and whether they're out of it yet isn't certain.

They whacked the Maple Leafs 4-1 in Toronto Wednesday night and opened the National Hockey League leadership but it was hard to decide whether the win should be credited to Canadien rivival or a Leaf collapse.

Leafs, who had won their last two games on impressive displays, started out well against the Habs but quickly slowed to a crawl.

Toronto fans time and time again stamped their feet in disapproval and booked for action. It seemed to make Leafs worse.

SEE SAW WITH RRUINS

The pair with Canadiens one point up on Boston Bruins who shoved them out of first place 24 hours earlier, Bruins have a chance to reverse the situation tonight when they play host to Detroit Red Wings in the league's only scheduled action.

Canadiens got off to a 2-0 lead in the first period. Defenceman Tom Johnson beat Ed Chadwick on a blazing 30-footer during a power play while Leaf Tim Horton was serving a tripping penalty. Jean Beliveau got the picture goal of the night just before the period ended when he took a pass from Bernie Geoffrion, beat the Toronto defence cleanly and casually faked Chadwick out of the net.

Centre Phil Goyette made it 3-0 when he deflected Marcel Provost's 30-footer into a scoring direction early in the second period. A couple of minutes later Leaf Billy Harris got the home club's only goal of the night during a goalmouth scramble.

HORTON AGAIN

Horton was in the penalty box again when Geoffrion wound up the scoring with a hard drive from just inside the Leaf blueline which was too hot for Chadwick to handle. Habs took it easy the rest of the way, playing a tight defensive game that had Leafs running around in circles.

Geoffrion picked up an assist to go with his goal and moved into second place in the NHL scoring race. Bronco's goal gave him a third-place tie in the lifting alongside Andy Bathgate of New York Rangers.

The evening's statistics had no effect on Leafs, except to push them a little deeper into the NHL cellar.

Park Has New All-Weather Racing Strip

CHICAO (AP) — Washington Park has a new all-weather racing strip, thanks to discovery of a rare glacial soil adjacent to Interstate 57 at Homewood, Ill., plant.

Executive director Benjamin F. Lindheimer announced installation of the new strip which he said will eliminate all "heavy and holding" track conditions.

The glacial soil was discovered accidentally. After a heavy rain last spring, a track official noticed that a downfield on the Washington Park property appeared almost dry. A test showed no mud or ruts.

Some 30,000 tons of the material have been laid over the 1-mile main course and has survived intensive tests, officials said.

A chemical engineer company said the ancient glacial loam has a plastic element which has a molding quality and throws off excessive water rapidly.

HEADS SKI TEAM

MONTREAL (CP)—Rhoda Wurtele Eaves, an international skier in her heyday, is to lead Canada's women's ski team to Europe this year, leaving Nov. 30 for the Canadian ski camp at Kitzbuehel, Austria.

Foul in Race Obvious Says Track Official

LAUREL, Md. (AP) — The fouled-up finish of the International race is beyond control of the Laurel promoters, but they'll probably do something about the mess at the start next year.

Starter Eddie Blind says he is going to recommend use of a rubber band barrier to line up the field.

Blind and the Russians blamed each other. The Russians at first replied they were robbed. After cooling off, the jockeys expressed hope they could bring the horses back for the late race.

Amidst their disappointment over the poor start and fouling winner instead of Tudor Era, Laurel officials expressed concern privately also over the failure of famous Ballymoss to do better than third.

COMPLETE FAITH

Repercussions over the start were much louder than over the disqualification which removed the U.S.A.'s Tudor Era from first and gave the victory to Sailor's Guide from Australia. Trainer Sidney Jacobs of Tudor Era said he had complete faith that Maryland steward Lincoln F. Flanagan called it as he saw it in the movies.

"The foul was obvious," said Flanagan.

"The film patrol pictures plainly showed that Tudor Era had interfered with Sailor's Guide entering the stretch and forced him in a precarious position along the hedge."

Sailor's Guide will stay in Maryland and may race the same time in the $50,000 Pimlico special on Nov. 29.

Buffalo Bisons In Top Slot By Four Points

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

You would think a hockey team with 12 victories in 12 games would be far in front of rival clubs.

But that isn't true in the American Hockey League, where the once-beaten Buffalo Bisons lead Hershey's defending Bears by only four points.

The Bears, only members of the league within sight of the surprising Bisons, moved in closer Wednesday night by defeating the last place Cleveland Barons 4-2.

Ron Hurst tallied the tie-breaking goal at 9:30 of the third period. But the Bears added a final goal when Cleveland goaltender McNamara was withdrawn from the nets with a 45 seconds to play. Les Duff cleared the puck the length of the ice into the empty Cleveland net.

Hank Lalande and Lee Haley scored the other Hershey goals. Eddy Mazur and Bob Bailey counted for Cleveland.

Guard Suffers Fractured Arm In Tough Game

MONTREAL (CP)—Ken Jackson, Montreal Alouette import guard, suffered a compound fracture of the left arm Wednesday in the sudden-death Big Four semi-final between Alouettes and Ottawa Rough Riders.

He is no relation to Riders' quarterback Russ Jackson.

The Montreal guard, in his first year with Als, is expected to remain in hospital for a few days at least.

Interested centre Moe Bremner of the Als pulled a back muscle in the second quarter and was out for the rest of the game.

MONTREAL (CP) — Two Brampton horses were winners at Richelieu Park Wednesday night.

In the fifth race, a mile & race, Take Command did just that under Harold McKinley's guidance to win the $1,000 purse in a time of 2:07 4-5.

McKinley again took control in the seventh race, gulding Vital Victory home in 2:10 3-5 to win the mile & race for another $1,000 purse. The quinella of Vital Victory and Bea Colby paid $38.90.

DILLWOOD, Calif. (AP)—Stanley Wark, a top threat to win the $75,000 American pacing classic at Hollywood Park, continues on the lame side but probably will be able to race in the final leg of the race Saturday.

Joe O'Brien, Canada's veteran driver, said he would give the three-year-old horse a workout today before making a final decision.

Wednesday morning O'Brien had Shadow Wave out for a drill. After the first mile, the horse appeared to be still lame but later worked in good style.

Shadow wave won the second leg of the classic last Saturday in a track record time of 1:58 3-5. Widower Creed won the first leg the week before.

Quakers Move Into Second Place

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Seattle Totems, leaders of the coast division in the Western Hockey League, took a 7-3 beating Wednesday at the hands of Edmonton Flyers.

Victoria Cougars, right points behind Totems in third place and one point behind Vancouver Canucks, were edged 3-2 by Saskatoon Quakers.

Saskatoon moved into second place in the prairie division, one point ahead of Calgary Stampeders. Quakers are two points behind Edmonton.

Wrestler Chased By Irate Fans, One Slashed

SAN JOSE, Calif. (AP)—Fritz von Goering is a wrestler, the kind the fans like to boo.

But they did more than heckle Fritz in San Jose Civic Stadium Wednesday night. They chased him into the street.

Fellow grunt and groaner Clyde Steeves was slashed in the arm while protecting Fritz from an irate knife-wielding fan.

The troubles of Fritz began when von Goering and his good guy opponent, Nature Boy Rogers, started chasing the referee down an aisle.

Up strode an unidentified fan, a sneer on his face and a knife in his hand. Steeves, sitting in the audience, jumped up to block the knife thrust. He got it in the arm.

Then about 50 of the 2,000 or so spectators took out after von Goering, Nature Boy, taking no chances, decided to sprint too. Steeves trotted to a hospital.

Unable to catch the villain—or even the hero—fans started bashing each other in a melee in the parking lot. Police broke it up before any damage was done.

They are still looking for a man with a knife.

Red Schoendienst May Have TB

ST. LOUIS (AP)—A laboratory guinea pig is the key to the future of Red Schoendienst, brilliant second baseman of the pennant-winning Milwaukee Braves.

Schoendienst may have tuberculosis. A recent test of his sputum proved negative—indicating he doesn't have tuberculosis. But in a more sensitive test the guinea pig was injected with the sputum.

The injection was four weeks ago and it takes six weeks for the test to jell, so the final result won't be known for about two weeks or possibly a few days less.

Schoendienst, bothered on and off all season by a variety of minor ailments, including chest colds, entered hospital here Saturday. Red, who will be 36 in February, has a long history of chest ailments.

As streamlined as toothpicks, propeller-driven monorail trains may make this artist's conception a reality in the future. U.S. railroaders are studying plans for the radically designed streamliner, which would be slung from an overhead track and shoot along at more than 100 miles an hour. An airplane engine turning the massive three-blade propeller would provide the push.

CROFTON — The W.A. held its annual meeting on Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Victor Bongard. There was one change in the list of officers, Mrs. William Miller as vice-president replacing Mrs. E. Crook.

The highlight of the afternoon was a presentation of a leather handbag and travelling case to Mrs. B. Jones, who has moved from the community to reside in Belleville.

Mrs. M. M. Allan is convalescing at her home here after three weeks in Belleville Hospital, following surgery.

The Good Neighbors' club held its first euchre party of the season on Thursday evening at the school.

FARMERS

Canada should increase it.

There still were many people in the world starving. Canada should take a lead to get the United Nations to provide machinery for moving surpluses to those needing them.

The federal government, he added, had to strengthen farm earnings, make the best possible job on surplus disposal and restrain the rise in farm production costs.

Mr. Harkness said he would have to be a magician to do everything Mr. Nollet suggested.

H. H. Hannam, president of the Canadian Federation of Agriculture, said the federation would not advocate measures creating unmanageable surpluses. Canada should find international ways of using surpluses without ruining commercial markets, he said.

At the same time there should be stronger curbs on competing imports to protect Canadian farmers, he said. Mr. Harkness wondered how long Canada can go on restricting imports before her international relations reached the "breaking point."

Farm prices could be improved without danger of raising food costs to the consumer to excessive or unfair levels," Mr. Hannam said.

PLAN REJECTED

VANCOUVER (CP) — City council has rejected a plan to submit to voters a $2,500,000 by-law to build 10 swimming pools, after hearing a delegation from the Burrard Association.

SMALL PROPORTION

VANCOUVER (CP) — Only 10 per cent of those who serve terms in British Columbia penitentiaries receive any rehabilitation or aftercare, a panel discussion was told by John D. Rickaby of the Borstal Association.

Marmora

MARMORA — Mr. and Mrs. C. Van Dyck, of Paris, Ontario, spent a day last week with Mr. and Mrs. J. Coens, Marmora Township. The families were neighbors in Holland and had just recently learned their whereabouts.

Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Collins of Peterborough, visited the latter's sister, Mrs. L. Green and Mr. Green on Sunday. They also called on Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Burkitt of Bonarlaw, who is able to be out of hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack O'Hara of Toronto, were weekend visitors with Mrs. O'Hara's brother, Hogarth and Mrs. Sabine.

Mrs. J. Wilkes, of Belleville, spent the past week in Marmora with her daughter, Mrs. H. Sabine.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Hannah spent a few days in Whitney this week.

Mrs. Frank Hannah spent last week with her brother, Mr. John Bartlett and children in Trenton during his wife's illness.

FINE SKI-LIFT

VICTORIA (CP)—A $50,000 ski-lift will be built on Mount Seymour, facing Vancouver across Burrard Inlet. It will be 1,400 feet high, and of European design. There are two other lifts in the area.

Glen Miller

GLEN MILLER — Mr. and Mrs. Q. D. Avey were Sunday visitors at the homes of Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Avey and Mr. and Mrs. Harold Ralph of Peterborough.

Mr. Walter A. Munro, barber in Glen Miller, and his brother, Bill, are bunking this week in the Bancroft area.

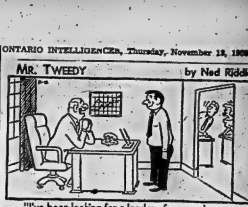
Mrs. Alice Duncsh and daughters Joanne and Carol, Frankford, were Sunday visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Davis.

Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Nichols and family of Woodstock, visited Mr. and Mrs. Ev Everson over the weekend.

Miss Ruth Gibson, who is teaching at Bowmanville this year, spent the weekend with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Clinton Gibson.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Winters have moved into their new home. Mr. Winters' home was destroyed by fire last spring.

The following pupils are attending high school in Trenton this term: Fred, Ireland, Sharon Ireland, Violet Collier, Joan Garrett, Dave Nivison, Roger Gibson, Shirley Knox, Nancy Knox, Leland Doyle, Larry Patrick, Bob Rupert, Gary Lawrence, Rosemary Bush, Rosemarie Ryan, Virginia Davis, Bill Ireland and Sak Venstra. Miss Caroline Peterson is attending St. Peter's.



Dolores Morey and Debbie Morden both celebrated their 11th birthday on November 11.

Returning this week from a hunting trip in the Dickie Lake country were Cecil and Larry Patrick, Bert Scoble, Vince Brennan, Jim Young and Ralph Barnes. One large deer and one bear was the total bag.

Average crowds have again been attending the euchre parties held in Glen Miller hall each Thursday night.

Mr. TWEEDY — by Ned Riddle

"I've been looking for a leader of men and women and I've finally decided on you."

STILL TICKING

LETHBRIDGE, Alta. (CP) — A seven-foot-high grandfather clock put in storage after the new city hall was opened in 1908, now ticks away steadily in the city clerk's office, where it not only tells the time but provides a conversation piece.

RAWDON

Organ Purchased by Legacy Dedicated to War Veterans

RAWDON—At Mount Pleasant - Rawdon United Church on Remembrance Sunday, November 9th, a Hammond electric organ, purchased from a legacy bequeathed the church by the late George F. Young, was dedicated by the pastor, W. G. Fletcher, to all those who served in two world wars.

While Mr. Herbert Smith read the names of those who served in two world wars, Mrs. Marserelle McMullan unveiled the bronze plaque.

Two memorial windows, also purchased from the $2,000 legacy, were installed and dedicated on October 26th.

Several relatives of the deceased attended the unveiling of the windows.

Previous to the dedication service, Mrs. Elwood Johnson, of Springbrook, read a tribute to the Young family, which she had prepared.

In her tribute Mrs. Johnson gave a brief history of the Young family and their life in the community.

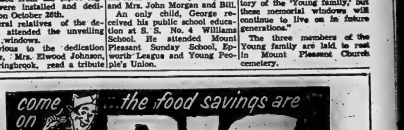
She said in part: "The Young family were loyal members of Mount Pleasant United Church where they attended services and held offices in two world wars.

While Mr. Young was living he named those of the congregation who served in the two world wars.

George Francis Young was born on October 12, 1910, the son of Frank Young and the former Margaret Slingsby, on the farm now occupied by Mr. and Mrs. John Morgan and Bill.

An only child, George received his public school education at S. S. No. 4 Williamstown School. He attended Mount Pleasant Sunday School, Epworth League and Young People's Union.

Interested in drama, he acted in several plays presented by the Y.P.U. and in many instances had the leading role.



As a special tribute to Sunday-School teachers who often feel they labor in vain, Mrs. Johnson passed on a special tribute to Mrs. Roy Thrasher. George often voiced his opinion that she was "one of his best teachers."

Mrs. Johnson felt that George must have obtained inspiration from both Sunday School and church and that he greatly respected his home community when he bequeathed the sum of of $2,000 as a gift to Mount Pleasant Church.

George died on January 30, 1952, at the age of 41.

In closing Mrs. Johnson said "George's early death in January 30, 1952, closed the life history of the Young family but these memorial windows will continue to live on in future generations."

The three members of the Young family are laid to rest in Mount Pleasant Church cemetery.

FEDERAL GOVT. PLANS CROP INSURANCE

Ontario Traffic Points System Details Outlined

Plan Goes Into Effect at Beginning of February

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario government today unveiled a traffic demerit system expected to bring immediate suspension of 11,000 motorists in its first two year of operation. The scheme goes into operation Feb. 1.

It will result in a three-month licence suspension for a motorist who collects 13 demerits in any two-year period and a six-month suspension if 15 points are collected within the following year.

Automatic suspension will result from convictions for drunk driving, impaired driving, criminal negligence of obtaining a licence by fraud. Each offence counts 12 points.

Nine demerits will be recorded for failing to remain at the scene of an accident and five for careless driving, racing or speeding at more than 30 miles an hour above the limit.

Three demerits will be recorded for exceeding the speed limit by more than 15 miles an hour, failing to yield the right of way, failure to obey a stop sign or traffic light and failure to report an accident.

The demerit will result from speeding 10 miles an hour or less over the speed limit and all other moving offences.

A motorist will start again with a clean slate after serving a suspension.

NOTIFIED AFTER 3/5 WEEK

Under the scheme motorists will be notified of their record after getting six points.

At nine points, they will be required to appear before a transport department official for a personal interview.

These interviews will be scheduled in various convenient centres throughout the province. The government announcement said:

"While a driver may have his licence following the interview it is expected that in most cases he will be placed on probation."

SIMILAR TO 29 OTHERS

The demerit system was authorized by the Ontario Legislature last April and approved by the cabinet on December 11. Thursday, will be similar to about 29 others in operation in North America.

"The system does not exist to take drivers off the road, but rather to correct those with bad driving habits and thereby make the roads safer," said Leslie Frost, minister traffic and pedestrians, the announcement said.

"Every life that is saved and every accident that is prevented represents a forward step in making Ontario a pleasant and safe place to walk and to drive."

ST. BONIFACE, Man. (CP)—A 14-year-old boy whose parents would not allow him to receive a blood transfusion because of religious beliefs died in hospital today.

Donald Holland, of Neepawa, Man., was accidentally shot on Nov. 4 with a 22-calibre rifle. The slug struck him in the thigh and severed an artery.

His parents, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Holland, approved an operation to tie the ends of the severed artery but refused to consent to blood transfusions. They are followers of Jehovah's Witnesses.

PROVINCE STEPPED IN

Death in the midst of a legal move by the Manitoba government to clear the way for transfusions. The government sought to become the boy's guardian under the Child Welfare Act.

A one-day adjournment was ordered at the request of Winnipeg lawyer Harry Walsh, appearing for the province. The Crown opposed the adjournment on the grounds that the boy's life was at issue in saving the boy's life.

Mr. Walsh contended that under the Child Welfare Act, a 14-day period was allowed the parents before a custody application could be heard.

Shoots Kid Brother Because He Was No Good Person to Be Around

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Eighteen-year-old Bruce Glinn, who has a history of mental illness, was booked today in the 14-year-old brother Ted because "he was no good person to be around."

Bruce has been booked on suspicion of murder.

Police said witnesses to Dortmund that "my brother was an inferior person."

"I couldn't stand the thought of Ted getting married and bringing kids into the world."

He said he ordered a pistol from a mail order catalogue several weeks ago and shot his brother on Wednesday as the younger boy stood in the bathroom after returning from school.

Bruce had quit high school some time ago. Detective Jim Wahlke said a psychiatrist treated. Bruce for a year and diagnosed his personality as schizophrenic with paranoid tendencies.

Their parents, Harry and Ruth Glinn, are leaders of a Pentecostal sect at the Community Church in suburban Alhambra.

Everything he did was bad," Bruce said. "Instead of sitting straight he'd slouch. When he sat in a chair he'd cross his legs.

"A good friend of mine came to see me once and Edward (Ted) kept working a yo-yo in front of him.

"I just knew he was never going any place and there was no use in his being around."

He quit talking to his brother two months ago "because he bore up some book covers. That was the end."

BRAND BULGANIN AS COMMUNIST PARTY'S ENEMY

Casually Mentioned As Member of Group

MOSCOW (AP) — Nikolai Bulganin today was publicly branded as enemy of the Communist party after serving in its high command almost since the 1917 revolution.

The former Soviet premier, already reduced to a minor provincial job, was expected to observers here to be stripped soon of membership in the party's central committee—his last claim to importance.

The denunciation of Bulganin was contained almost casually in a report on the Soviet seven-year economic plan of Premier Nikita Khrushchev, the Bulganin's comrade in government. The report was issued after a meeting Wednesday of the central committee.

FIVE LISTED

Moscow radio said the report mentioned the "exposure and defeat of the anti-party group of Malenkov, Kaganovich, Molotov, Bulganin and Shepilov who joined them." Khrushchev led the road to faction-splitting activity."

This was the first time that the name of the ailing, 63-year-old Bulganin had been included as a member of the anti - party group." The other four were dismissed from the leadership late June of 1957 on charges of collusion and intrigue.

The report also accused of trying to overthrow Khrushchev, then and now the party leader. Reports accepted abroad said Bulganin originally sided with the four but changed sides when Khrushchev brought up additional central committee support. Khrushchev obviously never forgot, although he kept Bulganin on until last March as a figurehead premier.)

Congress Demands Food Companies' Financial Data

OTTAWA (CP)—The Canadian Labor Congress pressed today for "detailed knowledge" of the financial status of Canada's big food corporations.

In a brief to the royal commission on price spreads of food products, the 1,000,000-member labor organization said wages in the food industry have always been low, while food dollars in the rapid turnover often have a "very substantial profit."

Figures for about 50 companies, including food chains, dairies and food processors, showed profits before taxes as a percentage of shareholders' equity averaged more than 20 per cent in 1957.

"After tax, profits averaged between 11 and 12 per cent," the brief said. "This is no mean profit, no matter what standard of measurement is adopted."

Lack of uniformity by companies in reporting financial assets often made it difficult to find out what the true position was.

In another brief, I.M. Pollock, Ltd. president of Nabisco Foods, Limited, of Niagara Falls, Ont., said his company is doing what it can to "hold the line" on prices and pledged that saving will be passed along to the consumer.

"Where raw materials costs do rise, and the drag on this will be set by increases in other costs, we do reduce prices," said Mr. Pollock.

The brief said the company's average hourly costs have increased from $1.11 an hour in 1949 to $1.74 an hour in 1957, an increase of 57 per cent. Prices of finished goods increased 45 per cent in the same period.

Mr. Pollock stressed the importance of promotion and advertising to producers of breakfast foods.

"Ready-to-eat cereals move out of the stores in what is commonly known as planned purchasing rather than impulse buying. This means that Mrs. consumer must be sold through entire advertising and promotion."

World Wide Boycott Planned Of Four 'Cheap Flag' Fleets

HAMBURG, Germany (AP) — The International Transport Workers Federation today called for a world-wide boycott of 1,200 "cheap flag" ships from Dec. 1 to Dec. 6.

The move went to affiliated unions around the world to order their men to refuse port facilities or to load or unload ships registered in Panama, Liberia, Honduras and Costa Rica.

Only the 175 ships of this registry—operated by companies whose union contracts will be accepted. They are under 1,200 ships now carrying certificates from the International Transport Workers Federation (ITWF) of valid union contracts.

The Greek Niarchos tanker group has announced it will fight the boycott with all legal means. The boycotted ships have about 75,000 men in their crews but they will not be called to strike.

The ITWF has 7,000,000 members in 63 countries.

The ITWF federation secretary-general, said four days was "unprecedented" for a major demonstration of the federation's determination to force owners of ships sailing under "flags of convenience" to complete union contracts.

Find 15 Bodies, 5 Still Missing In Montreal Fire

MONTREAL (CP) — A search for victims in the charred rubble of the Oldfield Apartments ended Thursday night with the death toll at 15 and five persons still listed as missing.

Firemen said there is virtually no possibility of finding bodies of the persons still missing in the fire that swept the midtown building last Sunday.

Officials continued to seek the identities of seven of the victims.

Still listed as missing: Mrs. Robert Long, Colin DeSouza, Bob Jenny Stewart and Bob Leveault.

The eight dead identified: John Sim, 25, and his wife, Carol, 22, of Westville, N.S.; Beryl Fowler, an Australian immigrant; Kenneth Smith, a Jamaican; Gary Richards, 21, Louis Dunn, 22, Leveault's brother, Ron, and the seven-month-old daughter of Mrs. Long, all of Montreal.

Meanwhile, an investigation continued to determine the cause of the inferno that razed the 46-unit building.

Federal Govt. Faces Problem At Springhill

OTTAWA (CP) — A problem foreseen last year by the Gordon royal commission—though not for the next season—is currently facing the doorstep of the federal government.

The Gordon commission on Canada's economic prospects said then that if Nova Scotia coal production did not increase some time in the 1960s the province would have to leave the industry in the next few years.

The current problem has been made acute by the upheaval in the Springhill coalfields and the consequent closure of the pit employing some 900 men. Springhill, a town of 7,000, has depended for its existence on coal mining.

It is known that the federal cabinet will discuss ways and means to be done and it will work closely with the Nova Scotia government.

There appear two alternatives: establishment of some new industry—above ground—at Springhill or relocation of the miners and their families.

It would appear, on the surface at least, that the latter course would scare from the Maritimes would favor the first course.

In either case, new industry or relocation—the government is specifically pledged to give "every wide direct assistance to the people of Springhill.

HALIFAX (CP) — The Nova Scotia government announced Thursday a program aimed at reviving the economy of Springhill, N.S.

Premier Stanfield said "special adjustments" will be offered to attract new industries to Springhill. He did not elaborate. A change had been made in the setup of Crown-owned Industrial Estates Limited to offer "exceptional inducements" to industry.

The provincial and federal government would co-operate as much as possible with any companies considering moving or renewing coal operations provided there were economically feasible.

DENY DRINKING STORY

LONDON (Reuters) — The Church of England information board denied Thursday that some bishops attending a London conference this summer were intoxicated while enjoying a boat trip on the Thames River. Colombo Plan Meet At Seattle Ends

SEATTLE (CP)—A co-operative alliance of 18 nations with no constitution, governing body or rules save helping the hungry of Asia, wound up a four-day conference Thursday night, confident of a progressive future despite setbacks in the immediate past.

The nations are those of the Colombo Plan, first conceived as a Commonwealth economic aid plan years ago for the economic development of the 700,000,000 people of South and Southeast Asia.

A commonique Thursday night echoed the same aspirations as those of the founding meeting of 1950.

"The economic development of the less developed areas is a major challenge of our times," said the communique.

SIX DONOR NATIONS

Since inception of the plan the challenge has been met by some 30 nations, six of them the U.S., Britain, Canada, Australia, New Zealand and Japan. The money has gone into railways, roads, ports, technical skills, agriculture and the like and many of the 18 signed to raise the living standard of the peoples of Asia.

Canada has contributed more than $230,000,000. Now she is boosting her annual contribution to $50,000,000 from $33,000,000 to keep major projects going in India, Pakistan and elsewhere.

External Affairs Minister Sidney Smith, who headed Canada's 10-man delegation to the ministerial consultative committee meetings, expressed confidence the plan's future.

PRESS CONFERENCE

At a press conference Thursday, the Canadian minister said all of global war, the governments of this day will be damned by generations to come if they neglect possible means to avoid war has been taken.

That was why, he said, Canada would favor a summit conference of the great powers, even including the presence of Red China's Mao Tse-tung. But he did not think prospects for a summit meeting looked promising.

Mr. Smith told the correspondents that the Western countries would not recognize Red China unless she was imposing a system of mass democracy. "600,000,000 mainland Chinese, a system which denies individuality and personality and values the human being only as a slave laborer for the state."

Today Mr. Smith heads a Canadian goodwill mission to Japan. Then on the 11-day visit. He will then fly to Mexico for another meeting before he returns to Canada for NATO meetings.

Will Also Seek Endorsement Of Easier Loan Plan

Harkness Says Farmers Must Raise Efficiency

OTTAWA (CP)—A federal plan to insure Canadian farmers against the misery that might result from loss of crops through drought, hail or other disasters is to be brought before Parliament in the session early in 1959.

At the same time, Parliament will be asked to endorse a government scheme to expand federal lending facilities to make it easier for farmers to get bigger loans, perhaps on easier terms, to enlarge their farms and make them more productive.

Agriculture Minister Harkness, announcing this Thursday before the closing session of the annual federal-provincial agricultural conference, emphasized that farmers must increase efficiency through research to boost sales and earnings.

PRODUCTION HELD DOWN

Production of certain products might have to be held down because of existing surpluses, but farmers generally must keep up their attitude. The world's population was increasing and in the long view, more production would be required.

"It would be "foolish" to say that farms should remain as they are," Mr. Harkness continued. He remain on submarginal land. Farms must be of a sufficient size to use improved power machinery if farmers were to make a reasonable living.

"The need for soil conservation and land use policies was "very much" on the government's mind. He hoped a preliminary federal-provincial conference on natural resources to open here next month would lead the way toward better land use under full federal-provincial co-operation.

NO DETAILS OFFERED

Mr. Harkness gave the conference no details on the farm credit and crop insurance legislation. But he told a reporter later that the government intends to have the insurance plan made available for all farmers. Producers will pay premiums in accordance with the value of their crop. The size of the premiums and investments would pitch in.

As for farm credit, loans currently are available up to periods of 30 years for a variety of purposes, including the purchase of new farms, livestock and machinery. The interest rate is five per cent.

However, farmers have asked for more flexible and more current lending conditions would mean a lower interest rate and these lending charges. They also have asked for larger individual loans and for longer repayment terms, up to 40 years.

Negro Boys, 8, 9, Kiss White Girl, Two Days Later in Kinston

MONROE, N.C. (AP) — Two Negro boys, one 8, the other 9, kissed a seven-year-old white girl as she walked home from school Nov. 1. Two days later the boys were in reform school. Their names are in a telegram of appeal to Negro leaders to President Eisenhower.

The telegram from Robert F. Williams says the boys lacked benefit of counsel and a chance to defend themselves in court.

"Please tell me, Mr. President," says Williams' telegram, "if the Negro people may expect your justice department to introduce the 14th amendment to the U.S. constitution to this social jungle called Dixie."

The 14th amendment says no state may deprive any person of life, liberty or property without due process of law, or deny to any person within its jurisdiction the equal protection of the laws.

James Hagerty, presidential press secretary, said the matter had been brought to his attention but there was no comment for publication.

Williams is president of the Union County chapter of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

The two boys, Hanover Thompson, 8, and Fuzzy Simpson, 8, were sentenced to indefinite terms at the Stonewall Jackson school for Negro boys. Judge Clarence Hinkle said the county Juvenile court would not disclose the trial testimony, saying that juvenile court proceedings are not public record.

Williams said he was told Price and Wilson wanted his counsel at the time of the incident but that he was not allowed in the courtroom for the trial. He acknowledged both boys had been "in trouble" before.

U.S. Will Deport Ottawa Teller As Undesirable

OTTAWA (CP)—Boyce Johnston is being deported from the United States as an undesirable alien, officials said here.

The method of transferring the branded Ottawa bank teller to Canadian custody was decided on to avoid the complications of extradition hearings.

Johnston, found slipping champagne Monday night in Denver's Chez Paree Club after a 17-day spending spree, is wanted in connection with the disappearance of $280,000 from the Imperial Bank of Canada here where he was employed.

Deportation meant a U.S. immigration officer would accompany two Ottawa policemen now in Denver to Chicago, where he would turn Johnston over as they boarded an aircraft for Ottawa. Johnston and his guard(s) were expected to arrive in Ottawa today.

WARNED OF CHICAGO

The $320,000 police said they recovered from Johnston included $20,000 in cash.

YMCA room is to be returned to Ottawa to trial after Deputy District Attorney Donold Kelly warned the Ottawa policemen could "almost certainly" be assaulted by gangsters if they tried to transport Johnston overland.

The job of moving the money has been put in the hands of a bonded express company specialist.

Detective J. A. Cavan and Gordon Gerow from Ottawa originally had planned to carry the money themselves.

Detective's Assistant Crown Attorney, Dan Chilcott, said Thursday Kelly's office in District Attorney Kelly heard of this plan he phoned the Canadian Embassy in Washington.

"There's a 95-per-cent chance of these desperadoes originally had as soon as they reach Chicago."

In Chicago, Police Commissioner Timothy O'Connor laughed at Kelly's remark.

"It's ridiculous," O'Connor said. "We've never had a detective held up in Chicago in my memory. Chicago rates as one of the safest large American cities. Someone ought to tell Mr. Kelly the facts."

Mayor Richard Daley said:

"I feel sorry for Mr. Kelly because he doesn't know more about Chicago."

Highest Living Standards in World Are Promised Russians by 1970

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet government today promised its people the highest living standards in the world by 1970.

The promise was made in a report on Premier Khrushchev's seven-year economic plan which was approved on Wednesday by the Communist party central committee.

The plan, for the years 1959-1965 calls for an 80-per-cent increase in Russian industrial production. This will enable the Communist bloc to produce more than half the world's industrial goods in 1965, compared with about one-third now, the report claimed.

This "will provide a real foundation for overtaking and outstripping per capita production in the United States" by 1970, the report says.

The seven-year plan was presented as part of a 15-year development program which provides the necessary conditions to be created for completing the transition to communism."

The report emphasized that the Soviet Union is engaged in peaceful competition with the capitalist world. It stressed the need for peace for completion of the seven-year plan.

IN MEMORIAM

LUCAS. — In loving memory of dear Grandfather, Alfred Lucas, Owen Wesley Lucas, who passed away November 15th, 1954.

There's an open gate at the end of my garden
Through which I often stand
And there's a light we cannot see,
Our Father holds in His hand.
Beyond the gate our loved one lies,
Folds hands and closes eyes
And there is comfort in the thought
That we shall meet in Paradise.
—Sadly missed, Mother, Frank, Diana, Doreen, Donna, Esther.

LUCAS. — In loving memory of our dear Father, Alfred Lucas, Owen Wesley Lucas, who passed away November 15th, 1954.

Memories are golden chains
Death tries to break, but all in vain;
For as long as life and love last
In the greatest sorrow of our past
We will remember many things
And think
But think they wipe out never;
Memories are our treasures here days.
When we were all together
Now we're parted by time.—Wife Sadie, Bernice, Austin and Heather.

LUCAS. — In loving memory of a dear Father, Alfred Lucas, who passed away November 15th, 1954.

He is gone but not forgotten.
And a dearly loved one from us taken
In our lonely hours of thinking
Thoughts of him we love
Days of sadness will come over us
Remembrance is sweet memory of him we love
But they little know the sorrow
That lies within a heart bereaved.
—Ever remembered by daughter Beatrice and son-in-law Rose.

Hunters Claim More Deer Than Last Season

Over the weekend of November 8th and 9th, Department of Lands and Forests personnel maintained three deer checking stations within the Tweed district. Originally speaking, these check points are necessary to obtain valuable information relative to deer management. For the time being, it is our only fact finding source where sentiment data can be collected directly from the hunter.

It is necessary in the management program to determine hunter success and the age composition of the deer kill. Over a period of years, this gives us the trend in numbers killed, the average life span and survival rate. Once a normal pattern has been established, we should be in better position to adjust or regulate the hunt in the best interest for all concerned.

Results obtained from the Kalalaer and Eldorado check points show that a greater number of hunters were successful in getting their venison throughout the first week of the hunt than in the last week. In the first week, 864 hunters were checked, showing a total of 246 deer, a hunter's success of 28.5%.

At Kalalaer, there were 811 hunters in the first week, a success rate of 33.0%.

To summarize the hunt for the first week — by far the majority of hunters contacted stated that they had seen more deer this last year. Of course there were some who did not get any and a few who did not see any.

During the early part of the week, the weather was dry with frosty mornings. This aided by the snow on the 8th and 9th hampered the hunt somewhat. Showers on Saturday helped the hunters, but the general mild weather was unfavorable to most parties.

Lost dogs were everywhere and were a source of much annoyance as much as were the deer. Hunters would be well advised to place a tag on their dogs with the owner's name, address and camp name marked there on.

Meanwhile, the rest of the market was having difficulty getting a definite trend started.

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Elizabeth Taylor's 15 - months - old daughter, Elizabeth Frances Todd, is in hospital with what is described as a respiratory ailment. Expect Report Next Month on 79-Death Crash

MONTREAL (CP)—A board of inquiry is expected to report next month on Canada's worst air disaster crash—the Ste. Thérèse, Que., crash of Aug. 11, 1957 in which 79 persons perished.

Lucien Beauregard, chairman of the special board set up by the transport department, indicated this to a reporter Thursday after Malcolm Sinclair testified he had advised an airline pilot to take a desk job.

The pilot concerned, Capt. Norman Ramsay, 37, who was involved in the Hamilton crash.

Dr. Bernard B. Ragingsky, 38, president of the Montreal Society of Clinical and Experimental Hypnosis, was summoned by the board to testify in its investigation into the cause of the crash of the Maritime Central Airways plane bound from Europe for Toronto.

His evidence at the one - day hearing dealt largely with a previous crash in which Ramsay was involved. This crash, in which no one was killed, involved a Trans-Canada Air Lines Superconstellation landing at Brampton in 1954. That accident was not the cause.

Dr. Ragingsky was followed on the stand by other medical experts.

PILOT SOUGHT HELP

The Montreal psychiatrist said Ramsay wrote him seeking help in trying to find out what happened in the "clouded" moments before the Brampton crash.

On the basis of the hypnotic revelations, Dr. Ragingsky said he found Ramsay obsessed with a pre - occupation to clear his name of any "guilt or negligence." He also found an underlying anxiety over different levels of intensity.

The psychiatrist testified that on several occasions he advised Ramsay to give up flying.

Dr. D. Ross Cameron, director of the Allan Memorial Institute of Psychiatry at the Royal Victoria Hospital here, testified later that he had examined Ramsay some time previously and had not found any sign of emotional disturbance sufficient to disqualify him from flying.

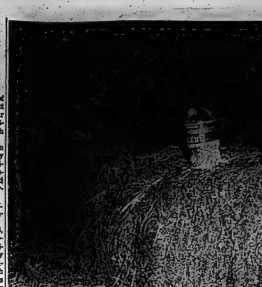
USED "TRUTH SERUM"

He said he had examined the "truth serum" which is supposed to draw out the subject's hidden and forgotten memories.

Other expert authorities, including Dr. D. O. Hebb, head of the department of psychology at McGill University, said Ramsay had examined Ramsay on behalf of the transport department and had been unable to find any reason to ground the flyer.

Vice-President Of Argentina Issues Dare

BUENOS AIRES (AP)—Vice-President Isidoro Gomez, accused of plotting an unsuccessful coup d'etat, has publicly declared Argentina's leaders to impeach him.



The impeachment proceedings against him "will be really historic," he told reporters Thursday night.

Early today the executive council of the Intransigent Radical party, to which both Gomez and President Arturo Frondizi belong, decided to expel Gomez from the party and ask him to resign from the government.

Leaders of the government charged Gomez attempted to engineer the ouster of Frondizi by claiming he had military support for a program of nationalistic policies, a charge Gomez denied. The dispute came to a head Wednesday night when the backing of the military and members of his cabinet.

The above pictured "bed of hay" is where young Wayne Menzie, 13, spent two nights and was found fast asleep on the third night after an extensive search of the area had been made for him yesterday afternoon. The lad was last seen by his parents on Tuesday noon and was located last night at about 9:30. The can of pork and beans shown represents "the dirty dishes" left from Wayne's supper last night. He had taken other canned goods with him into "hiding". He would not tell local police officers why he had run away from home.

Missing Boy, Wayne Menzie, Found Sleeping in Hay Mow Of Barn on Abandoned Farm

TRENTON — Wayne Menzie, on his paper route his only answer was, "No".

The boy told the police he had eaten well while away from home. He said he had taken some canned goods with him and had had the beans for supper and ate apples for dessert. For today he had a can of peas and corn on hand for his meals. The money he had with him was neatly stacked on one of the beams so he would not lose it in the hay.

He had slept in the barn on Tuesday night and on Wednesday night and had apparently been quite prepared to stay there last night. It was reported "as warm as toast" in the barn mow.

The barn is situated near the intersection of No. 2 Highway and what is known as the old Doug Hill Road.

The police felt there was something definitely upsetting the boy but he would not say what it was, he even refused to smile. He did, however, promise the police he would not run away again.

Finding the boy ended a search of the woods near Trenton by some 50 airmen, about 10 civilians and an Otter Search and Rescue aircraft from RCAF Station Trenton. Yesterday afternoon the airmen under Flight-Lieut. Al Vanderwater, who had been appointed Search Master, scoured the woods from Black's Road to the outskirts of Trenton. They worked about 20 feet apart and covered the entire section of the wood- north of the No. 2 Highway and through to the Wooler Road. While the airmen were on the ground searching, the Otter aircraft circled overhead and reported from time to time to the men on the ground via radio.

The entire searching party was under the command of Trenton's Police Chief Jack Taylor, who was assisted by Inspector Bob Rutherford and Constable Bruce Westfall. Chief Taylor was on the scene all afternoon and also directed the men searching for the boy within the town limits. Constable George French in Car 10 was keeping a close watch on wooded areas near the town's filtration plant on the east side of the Trent River as well as in the Hana Park woods. Another constable patrolled the woods around Mount Pelion.

At one time yesterday afternoon Mrs. Menzie, the mother of the boy, joined in the search for her son. She was accompanied by two other women.

With idle time on his hands when he went into "seclusion" for some 48 hours Wayne Menzie, 13, of Trenton carved his name in full and his age (above) on an old door in barn he was staying in. The owner of the farm had noted the freshly-carved name and alerted police. He informed Trenton Police, who went to the barn and found the lad sleeping in the hay-mow.

Fire Destroys Children's Hut, Cause Unknown

TRENTON — Fire last night destroyed a small shack, used by children for a playhouse, at the rear of the Nu-Way Dry Cleaners and on-Victoria Street. The cause of the fire is not known.

The call came in to the fire hall last night about 9:20 p. m. and was immediately transferred to the trunk which was stationed on the east side of the bridge. The fire was being closed down. On duty there, Frank Coleman rushed to the scene and was joined by Lieut. Gerald Lewis, who was off duty and at his home on Bay Street when the call came in.

The shack, about 10 by 10 and eight feet high, was a mass of flames when the fire truck arrived with the use of the booster pump and a half tank of water the flames were doused.

The shack was situated in a field and there was no danger of any other building catching fire. A new one is being built to start to burn but this was quickly put out.

It is believed to be the first fire of any extent on the east side of the river since the bridge was completely closed down to all traffic.

Firemen on the west side of the river were called out yesterday afternoon about 2:30 when the oil furnace under the Lobsse Store on Dundas Street West exploded. The explosion was believed to have been caused by a delayed action fuse and the blaze started running into the furnace room.

The force of the blast blew out any flame which may have been started and sent great columns of smoke and soot belching out of the store's chimney. The "boom" was heard by many and threw a fright into the men who were standing near the door to the furnace room.

The manager of the store called in the firemen to check and make sure there had been no fire started in the basement and, because of the smoke and fumes in the area, was thought they would have to use Scott Air Packs. However the firemen, Acting Chief Ellis and Engineer Mo Mitts, were able to check properly without the use of the air packs.

40 P.C. of Total Revenue Goes to Municipalities

WALLACEBURG, Ont. (CP)—Premier Frost said Thursday Ontario has embarked upon the greatest capital building program in its history, "a real government's support of local municipalities was one of the reasons.

Opening Wallaceburg's new $350,000 municipal building, he said the municipalities are often better able to provide public services than the province. The government has decided to take over such services, but to strengthen local administrations.

"In the last decade and a half the province has increased its assistance to the municipalities, school boards and other local agencies from about $30,000,000 to $260,000,000," the premier said. "It now provides $1 in grants for every $2 raised by the municipalities themselves by taxation."

MARE FUNDS AVAILABLE

He said the Ontario Water Resources Commission and the Ontario Municipal Improvement Corporation were established to make financial funds available to municipalities.

"This year we will transfer 40 per cent of our total revenue to the municipalities and local agencies.

"This is virtually all we receive from our three major direct tax fields—corporation and personal income from our three major direct tax fields—corporation and personal income taxes and succession duties.

"In the immediate future I see our responsibilities continuing to increase rather than diminish due to the expanding population."

Mr. Frost said there has been an improvement in the Ontario economy and there is evidence things are on the adjustment periods made necessary last winter have been passed.

"Industrial production, personal incomes, retail sales, employment and total employment have all edged upward in the province this year."

Badly-Mangled Body of Man Not Identified

ORILLIA (CP) — Police today sought to identify the badly-mangled body of a man who died beneath the wheels of a passenger train about 2:30 a.m. at levelcrossing between here and Jennerley.

Engineer Eugene Pilchett of Toronto and Fireman Roy MacGlobling of Minnico said they saw the man's body above the tracks with his head on a rail a few feet to one side of the crossing.

The brakes were applied but the train could not stop the man who made no attempt to escape. The body was dragged for almost 100 feet.

Police believe the man was a transient labourer and part-time resident of Orillia.

SOLVED - - - NO THANKS TO US

In another three years, Europe's misery camps may be a thing of the past - - - no thanks to Canada.

That about sums up the story, at the same time encouraging and disturbing, contained in an article in Stanley Burke which appeared in the Vancouver Sun.

Dr. Augusto Lindt of Switzerland, the UN high commissioner for refugees, told Burke that by 1961 the last refugee camp in Europe will close its gates.

In 1955, the year the UN refugee program started, there were 300,000 unsettled refugees in Europe. In the intervening three years 300,000 more refugees, mostly from Hungary, have moved into Western Europe. In spite of this, only 150,000 are still unsettled and only 40,000 of these are in camps.

That is the encouraging side of the picture.

The dark side is that ten years after the end of the Second Great War, which created most of these refugees, they should have shrunk to a mere handful - - - that last of them will not be settled until 16 years after the war's end, that some of the refugee camps today are former concentration camps and the same men of the same inmates remain, that a new generation has been raised which knows no other way of life but that of the refugee camps, that even the children whose earliest memories are of these camps have now started their own families, still in camp.

But what about Canada? It played its part, did it not, in taking refugees as immigrants? Remember the references here, too often slighting, to "DP's"?

Canada took refugees all right; the cream of the crop, the young and the healthy. Dr. Lindt would not criticize any country in his talk with Burke. But he did ask: "What would have happened if Austria had said that she would only accept Hungarian refugees with certain qualifications?" Lindt went on to say that many restrictions concerning tuberculosis were drawn up in the 19th century and were no longer necessary, and this official did praise Sweden for taking tubercular refugees, treating them and earning their everlasting gratitude.

Restrictive policies of the U.S. and Australia, for instance, while it has been left for the poorer countries of Europe to care for the problem cases, reports Burke.

But, of course, we do not need to bother our consciences about that now, since the end of this problem is in sight.

The end is in sight, that is, if we do not let our eyes stray past Europe. But in the Middle East there are almost a million refugees still in camps, ten years after the Palestine war which displaced them from their former homes.

FAUBUS - - - FAUX PAS

Last week was an important one for friends south of the border. It was the chance for the "average" American to elect the man or men of his choice to represent him in both the federal and state governments. Those elected are, presumably, a reflection of the views and needs of the electors. We can not help but think of a great American's words — "a government for the people, of the people, and by the people". This, we feel, is a pretty good summary of what a democratic government should be. But a government is only as good as the men who run it, who in turn are, presumably, only as good as the people who elected them.

With the re-election of Orville Faubus to the governorship of Arkansas we feel that something is amiss. A man who has built his election campaign platform on racial prejudice and fear, a man who follows the creed that there exists a "superior" race and that other races must be sacrificed to maintain the status of the "whites", (one could substitute Aryan, Roman, or Afrikaaner for white), a man who refuses to keep faith with the basic credo of America's forefathers — this is the type of man who has been selected by the "people" of Arkansas to head their state. We feel that this justice, the stability, the intangible fire that made up the American faith in humanity and in herself have been tarnished.

RATHER STAY HOME
BY EDGAR A. GUEST

Never so happy as when I'm at home;
I'm not so anxious to wander or roam;
Rat'er sit down with the folks who love me,
With nobody's youngster a stride of my knee,
And plop the off to the wonderful land
Where armies are waiting his word to command,
Than listen to speeches by eloquent men
Who shout for an hour and then sit down again.

Never so happy as when I'm at home;
Rather play tunes with a paper and comb;
Feel right at ease or the girl who guy drop in to call,
For there then that I shine, if I do shine at all;
Rather sing ditties to tots that I know
Than go to a party or go to a show;
Or listen to grownups with wisdom expound,
As their sense of humor the air and the tables they pound.

Never so happy as when I'm at home;
Don't care to journey to Naples or Rome;
Rather stay here with the folks who love me
Than run after strangers, wherever they be.
A nod from a king, or a smile from a lord
Wouldn't please me a bit. I'd be terribly bored.
Rather sit here where I'm loved and I'm known
Than get on my knees before anybody else on throne.

Liberty Ship Scrapped

New York Times

The first Liberty ship ever built is on her way to oblivion, the ship news columns of this paper noted recently. This event in reduction to scrap of the Patrick Henry, is one of those milestones that symbolizes our era. The Patrick Henry, of course, is not the first Liberty freighter to go. There is also the last. But her demise from the Baltimore yard, only 17 1/2 several years short of a ship's normal lifespan, will be sadder than most. It will be remembered when the hopes of a free world rode in the holds of Liberty freighters.

Salmon-like, the Patrick Henry has returned upstream to the Patapsco River, in Baltimore, to the spot where she was assembled, once a shipyard and now a scrapyard, to die and, in death, to have birth perhaps to newer vessels that will rise from her dismantled steel beams and plates.

The Patrick Henry, the first of the breed, had a life unlike most much different from the lives of her 2,500 sisters. Her keel was laid in 1941, she was launched Sept. 27, 1941. Just a few weeks after Pearl Harbor she took her maiden trip and put out to sea. Her voyages took her to forbidden ports. She went to Russia, commenced Alexandria, to the North Africa beachheads and the tropic isles of the Pacific. Emerging unscathed from the hell of war, she was given a position off Florida and joined the quiet reserve fleet. Liberty ships that anchored deep in memory off the side of the busy seaport.

The Liberty ship was a 7,100-tonner built for practical, immediate purposes. She was to be a workhorse of that she would be easier to build than ships designed for peacetime routes and cargoes. Second, she was designed to carry lots of cargo that could be easily loaded and unloaded. In the beginning, old - time shipyard hands, who had graduated from the decks of ancient Hog Islanders and West Coast ships would comment on how fiercely the new ships rolled. Misfortune men who had the misfortune to ship in a Liberty converted for troop service remember their voyage in heat glowing terms. They were welded ships, and they were welded at that. Mead had to be devised to strengthen their hulls for protection in rough seas that only unsteady stout riveted ships. They were fully slow ships, doing ten knots and not to be compared with the then new C-type ships that were the realization of the Maritime Commission to return as a competitive merchant-ship power. Yet the only thing the Liberty was good for was the job at hand. She carried ammunition, tanks, planes, trucks, locomotives, soda pop, chocolate bars, medical equipment, desperately needed relief items and everything of the sinews of war by which Liberty still remained as a bulk cargo carrier, plodding steaming on convoy schedule to one of outposts to pick up grain, coal, ore, manganese or other staples of commercial life.

Today the Liberty lives on. Her name may be in India, Chile, Greece, Italy or Japan. She is preferred Liberty in their independent families because she is a cargo vessels — or in any language at all. Her crew may be of any race, creed or color. They may think of the Liberty only as a ship that pays off, that enables them to glean a livelihood from the sea. But the Liberty was more than that. In all that she did, whether it was unloading a cargo of grain in a port or in spite of bureaucratic fumbling that kept her well away from cargo vessels — there is no higher praise than that she lived up to her name.

Hecklers Get Bounced

Ottawa Journal

Judging from letters to the London Times and articles in its British periodicals, a section of the United Kingdom public is upset at the rough handling given to those who heckled Prime Minister Macmillan recently in Scotland. According to a number of eye-witnesses, these hecklers were not only "bounced" from the meeting but were deliberately roughed up. One writer records that as Prime Minister Macmillan said as one heckler who was being bundled out of the hall: "Don't knock him about".

For decades, the heckling of political speakers provided one of the most interesting features of British public life. At times it has embarrassed party chieftains and lesser lights. At other times, however, sections have been the steel on which political speakers sharpened their wits, and it has been the hecklers themselves who suffered discomfiture.

Lloyd George, it is said, virtually made his political second best in a thrust-and-parry with hecklers. Once in Manchester he parried a heckler's strong-arm tactics. Conservatives at Blackpool learned that it was not so much a question of hecklers, but a determined attempt by members of the League of Empire Loyalists, a small group of extremists, to break up their meeting. They were looking for trouble say the apologists and they found it.

Here in Canada, heckling has never risen to the heights achieved in Britain, and it is the exception rather than the rule. It is our loss.

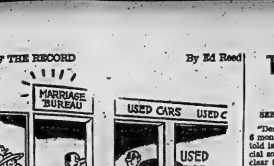
Bus Drivers Are Fastest

Toronto Star

Who are the fastest drivers on the highway? Buses, according to Prof. L. C. Marsh of Queen's university. A highway research program under his direction found that the average speeds of 8,499 motor vehicles on Ontario roads found that buses averaged 55.2 miles passenger cars over the same routes averaged 49.4 miles an hour.

The difference in speed is not no surprise to most motorists. Who of us bowling along at the speed limit hasn't at some time or other the sonorous blast of a highway coach startled us into action, and let the behemoth past? And maybe we've wondered how they got away with it.

Perhaps another section of Prof. Marsh's report provides the explanation. While the speed of buses is usually above the legal limit, it is not greatly above it, and it is consistent. The average is not more than a along at 70, or he may dawdle at 35. In either case he is a greater nuisance than a bus travelling an unvarying 55 under control by a driver. We don't condone breaking the speed limit. We sometimes feel that it is the explanation of why bus drivers are so seldom detected.



An interesting bit of information from the same report is that drivers are faster than Canadians, at least when they are visiting Canada. We would like to think it was because they want to see as much of Canada as they can on their short vacation, but a more probable reason is that they are trying to get to a motel before it's full up.

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FILES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

November 14th, 1938

Mrs. Langford and Miss Evelyn Langford of Batteaux are visiting friends here.

Members of the Anglican Young People's Association in connection with St. Thomas' Parish held a most enjoyable dance in the parish house last evening which was attended by a large number of the younger set. The assembly room was attractively decorated. Spot dances added interest to the dance program. The winners were Misses Pauline Coulson, Marjorie McLean, Mary Forster, and Mr. Bruce Lattimer. Supper was served at midnight after which dancing was resumed. The committee in charge of the enjoyable affair was composed of Mrs. Charles A. Payne, Miss Margaret Blakiston, Miss Frances Laidler and Messrs. Pat. Mac-rell, the president of the association; Bill Barry, David Payne and George Cowey.

From our file copy at this time in 1918 we learn that Miss Madoc was one hour late this morning; the delay was caused by the frequent stops at the stations for passengers coming to Belleville on business. Also from the same file copy: The street electric lights are not giving good service of late; many of them pass out at an early hour.

It Is Big a For Alaska

Berlington, Iowa, Hawk-Eye Gazette

Just to add to the problems of the day, consider now what would be the abbreviation for our new state — Alaska.

Some say an abbreviation is needed, just call it Alaska. This is a clear cut and lowa, with its even shorter name, which long has been reduced to Ia. It is even cuter to Usa, or U., and Alska, or O.

Alas, might be acceptable to Texans who are offering some hurt pride from now having t h e largest state, but the rest of the public wouldn't go with Alaskans. Ala, is out, having been preempted by Alabama.

Alks. is more fitting with the sourdough element, but not t h e dawn patrol group on the Yukon. Aka, and Ak, are awkward, and Ask would never do.

There is only one solution, the briefest. It is merely "A." Really, it's no problem at all.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEWS ADAMS

THE BOY WHO CAME BACK

One of the most human of stories is that known as "The Prodigal Son." In several interpretations of it done by etchers, but the one I love most is etched by Jean Millet. It is a dramatic picture, but full of human warmth. You see the little farm house in the distance. Then in the foreground is the father, his head bowed, about his boy, and the boy overcome with joy to be home and to receive forgiveness for his sins and the love of a home again.

Many a boy, his own home looked tame and unexciting, so he left and went to the big city. With his money gone and his friends getting tired of him, suddenly the boy cried that he had decided to give up life that gave no satisfaction. He said he was through with this kind of a life I will leave it and go to my father."

The father was waiting for his wayfaring figure.

To Your Good Health

By Joseph G. Molner, M.D.

SEBORRHEIC DERMATITIS CAN OCCUR AT ANY AGE

"Dear Dr. Molner: My son, 6 months old, has what I am told is 'cradle cap', and a special soap was recommended to clear this condition. After two months, it still exists. What causes 'cradle cap' and why can be done to remedy it? — Mrs. E. M."

"Cradle cap" is a term that is going out of use so far as the text books are concerned. The horrhelc dermatitis" is being used instead — a skin condition that can occur at any age. For ordinary use, however, the term "cradle cap" is still with us, and it tells well enough what we are talking about.

The reason for using the other term is that it is more descriptive from a medical standpoint. It comes from sebum, or oil, which comes from the sebaceous glands of the skin — in this case, from the scalp.

The oil, as it dries, forms a sort of scale which, in turn, irritates the skin underneath. There you have your cradle cap, with its scaly appearance, and redness from the irritation.

These oil glands are quite important to a great many of us. They begin their functioning at adolescence are one aspect — in that case, of course, the oil doesn't have to be removed by minute and dry, so you don't have the scaly appearance.

But to get back to babies, these oil glands are very active. Infant skin is the outgrowth of fetus, but naturally you would prefer a quicker way of meeting the problem.

Incidentally, the exact cause of seborrheic dermatitis is not known than the general explanation I have offered. Nobody knows just how and why it comes about in some and not in others. We have every reason, to find any germ involved in the condition, however.

KEEP THE SKIN CLEAN

The answer, then, to "cradle cap," is first of all to keep the skin clean, and prevent the scale of dried oil from accumulating.

Keeping baby's scalp clean isn't as easy as it may sound. Some youngsters are being scrubbed, others raise the roof when the soap is applied, and obediently got soap in their eyes and don't propose to let it happen again without a fight up a protest. Sensible little critters.

Another reason is that many mothers shy away from the "soft spot" in a baby's head. It should not be protected from blows or hard pressure but gentle massage with a soft brush will not be harmful.

The special soap you were told about is not probably was for medicinal and drying purposes. It may be that you depended too much on it, and not enough on gentle scrubbing, because the drying soap doesn't come off with a mere rinsing.

Keeping the skin oiled by application of baby oil may help. True, you'll say, "why add oil when the trouble is from oil?" It's a different type of oil, will help to add to the scale, but will, as noth.

Strength for The Day

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

HAVE YOU GROWN UP?

Hundreds of people are running off to the psychiatrist today in the hope that they can find a better way to solve their problems. Many are disappointed because the psychiatrist himself proves to be a failure to assure his patient that he never has solved anybody's problems and never can. What he does claim to be able to do is to show the patient how he himself is and to guide them as they attempt to solve their problems. Psychiatrists find that m o s t people have not grown up emotionally. They have grown in physical growth, are sometimes highly educated, but emotionally, but cannot get along with people, are unhappy in marriage, or live an unsatisfactory, unhappy existence. Their bodies h a v e a rule, help soften it and make it easier to remove.

If a baby is fat, reducing the amount of fat in his diet may help reduce the amount of oil from those infant oil glands. Of course I don't mean starving the tot; proper nutrition is more important than cradle cap, but if it has fat to spare, cutting down on his fat intake won't hurt him in any way, and will, indeed, bolster his health aside from perhaps curtailing the oil of the scalp.

Mrs. A. P.: Yes I commented that some harmless but annoying skin blemishes can be covered with various cosmetics. Rather than try to name them myself, I'd suggest you'd get better advice by going to a beautician or expert in cosmetics. It's a cosmetic, not a medical problem.

Mrs. R. H.: I have yet to be convinced that various cosmetics including the one you mention, can be of any real help in arteriosclerosis. On the other hand, I certainly suggest see how vitamin E in capsules of 100 U. strength or less. Larger amounts could harm you. Vitamin D in excess can be toxic.

Afflicted with arthritis? You may find relief if you follow the advice given in my pamphlet, "Arthritis Quiz Because of Arthritis." To receive your copy, write to me for it in care of Chicago Sun Times Office, Box 196, Dundee, Ill., and 5c in coin to cover handling.

Bees Ground Jet Airliner

Sudbury Star

Many politicians are said to go around with bees in their bonnets. But the bee in the bonnet of the politicians cannot be compared with the bees in Rhodesia.

There are bees and bees! The wildest and most vicious bees in the world. They are the two hours the buzzing, stinging swarms that grounded a Viscount airliner at Salisbury airport recently.

Along came a swarm. Fifty passengers — no baby — were quickly spent up to a week in the hospital. Veterinary specialists had to treat the dogs.

There is still more! Most famous exploit of the Rhodesian bees was to ground Central Africa Airways new Viscount airliner in fire days.

Let us be grateful for small mercies. We have only moose-eating black flies and cabin-hooking mosquitoes in Ontario's mid-north.

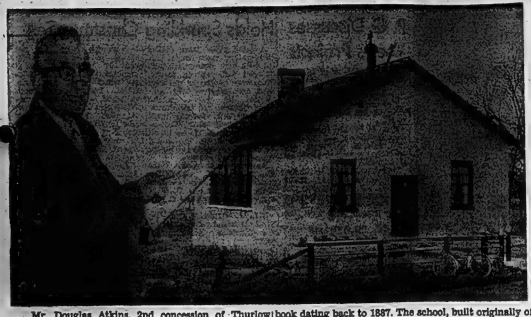
THE PACKSACK



By GREGORY CLARK

Only the old people will believe this: but in their youth, the shops and stores of a town began to show blinds or curtains which were always drawn Saturday night out of respect for the Sabbath, and were not drawn once again until Monday morning. It was considered indelicate to expose goods f o r sale on the Lord's Day. In some communities, I am told, this tradition still persists on the part of a few of the merchants. But in the large cities both in Canada and the United States, Sunday window shopping is one of the lively attractions, and the down-town shopping streets are better than Friday crowded with people w h o find window shopping much more exciting and comfortable. So Sunday that in the early hurly of week days.

Window shopping by car, which is difficult during the business hours, is another Sunday pastime. you is always hooting his horn, is popular on Sunday, especially now that the merchants are already getting into the Christmas spirit, decorating their windows with spectaculars. At sault's pace, stopping wherever anybody is likely to be gazing, the motor window shopper dawdles lavishly through the streets, on week days, are full of hypertension.

Sunday, naturally, is an important business day.

Mr. Douglas Atkins, 2nd concession of Thurlow Township, and member of the S.S. No. 3 Thurlow school board for the past half century, looks over school record book dating back to 1837. The school, built originally of brick and later given an exterior cement wall for "insulation" is now 100 years old.

Present school teacher at S.S. No. 3 Thurlow, which this week is observing it centennial, with two of her senior pupils Mary Clapp and John Grills hold placard indicating the 100 years which their school has been in use.

Thurlow Township School Built Hundred Years Ago; Will Observe Anniversary

An annual teacher's salary of $363 and an entire year's school operation on a budget of only $437, are entries in a school record book at S. S. No. 3 Thurlow shown, which this week is observing its 100th anniversary.

The school section is much older than 100 years but the present school house was built just a century ago and for the first ninety years of existence had just two secretary-treasurers.

First secretary for the school was the late R. D. Watson, who held the post for half a century, while Mr. Douglas Atkins took over the books in 1906 and kept the position for the next 46 years. Mr. Atkins is still a member of the area school board.

Originally a brick school house, S. S. No. 3 Thurlow is on the second concession of the township just a short distance east of the C.N.R. coal chutes. It was built on land donated by Mr. Harry Atkins, father of Douglas Atkins.

A school house built at an earlier date was on the south side of the road opposite the present building but this was abandoned when the Grand Trunk Railway was extended through the Belleville district.

Although the physical aspects of the 100 - year - old school house are the same, school equipment has been completely changed. The school has also been remodelled with a cement wall being put around the building in 1918 when the present window set-up was also added. Originally there were windows on both sides of the building.

TAUGHT AROUND 1900

One of the oldest teachers of the school still alive is Miss Bessie Snell, who still lives on North James Street. Mr. Atkins recalls Miss Snell being his teacher around 1900.

Present teacher at S.S. No. 3 is Miss Joan Campbell of Belleville now in her second term at the school.

With the passing of the years modern facilities were added at the school.

In 1933 a gasoline stove was purchased for household science work and for preparing hot dinners for the pupils, while the same year cupboards for dishes and other supplies were built. A chemical toilet system was installed in 1952 replacing the outdoor facilities.

In 1943 hydro was installed and the then oil burning stove was replaced with a wood and coal furnace.

The present Thurlow township school area was formed in 1948 with trustees being A. Mitchell, D. Atkins, C. Reid, H. McPherson, H. O'Neill. Later trustees were C. Weyrauch, J. Parrott, H. Grills, H. Cameron and Alf Wickett.

Present board members are Doug McLean, chairman; A. Mitchell, vice chairman; Doug Atkins, Ken Greatrix, B. Henderson with Ross Bailey as secretary-treasurer.

Tonight centennial celebrations are being held at the 100 year-old-school. All former students and teachers are invited to attend. Main speaker at the celebration will be Mr. A. Cummins, present inspector.

HEATED BY BOX STOVE

As a former pupil of the school, Mr. Atkins recalls the building before the turn of the century when it was heated by a large wood burning box stove in the centre of the room.

"In extremely cold weather the west wind blew the heat to the east side with result that pupils along the west wall had a hard time keeping warm", Mr. Atkins recalls.

In 1915 the cement exterior wall was added to improve insulation against the cold, the softwood floor was replaced by one of maple and steel roof was added. Years ago the large double desks were replaced by more modern single desks.

Earliest records of the school appear to be missing but it is known there have been six school inspectors.- First inspector was Mr. Rowes who acted until 1872; then Mr. J. Johnston took over until 1907 when the late H. J. Clarke became inspector. Inspectors of later years have been J. K. Pickering, R. H. Merklent and the present inspector, Mr: A. Cumming.

The record of early teachers also appears to have been lost, but one record book dating back to 1887 lists a Miss Graham as teacher whose salary for a quarter term was $65.50. That same year the entire school budget was but $437.21 and they even had something over $20 to carry over into the next year.

The legislative grant for the school was listed as being $26.

Wedding

CAMPBELL — RUNCIMAN

CAMPBELLFORD — St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, Campbellford, was the scene, at a pretty fall wedding on Saturday, when Dorothy Heidi, daughter of Mrs. Ina Runciman, of Warkworth, and the late James Runciman, became the bride of William Keith Campbell, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Campbell, Seymour West. The Rev. A. E. Toombs performed the double ring ceremony.

Given in marriage by her brother, Earl, the bride looked lovely in a floor – length gown of white nylon lace with a bouffant skirt and rose over taffeta. Her fingertip veil of scalloped lace was caught to a tiara of bugle-beads and seed pearls. She wore elbow – length lace mits and carried red Sweetheart roses.

Miss Marie Fisher, of Campbellford, attended the bride, wearing a gown of midnight blue nylon chiffon with a floating panel, matching shoulder length mitts. She carried white 'mums.

Mr. Neil Nicholas was groomsman.

For a reception at Warkworth Town Hall, the bride's mother wore a navy crepe dress with a necklace of white lace, and hat and gloves of deep pink. Her corsage was of white carnations. The bridegroom's mother also received, wearing a turquoise benglaine faille sheath, with matching jacket and pink and black accessories. Her corsage was pink roses.

For a wedding trip to the Southern States, the bride chose a two – piece box style suit of tweed with orange and black accessories, and corsage of white carnations. Upon their return the couple will live in Campbellford.

Out – of – town guests were present from the United States, Hamilton, Toronto, Burlington, Swansea, Scarborough, Brighton, Codrington and Campbellford.

Receptionists at yesterday's Curling Stone Tea held at the Belleville Curling Club were (left to right) Mrs. William Gault, wife of the men's club president, Mrs. Cleo Colling, president of the ladies' curling club, and Mrs. Arnold Wolfenden, tea convener.

Christ Church P. G. Discusses Year's Projects

A large number of members attended the monthly meeting of the Parish Guild in Christ Church Hall last Tuesday.

The meeting was called to order by the president, Mrs. R. Beeby.

Mrs. N. Wright conducted a short devotional, and the secretary, Mrs. E. Colborne, read some correspondence which had been received.

Following reports by various committee chairwomen, several projects for the coming year were discussed. This concluded Mrs. Beeby's vocal solo, "This is My Task," sung by Mrs. A. W. Jordan.

Mrs. A. Bongard, president of the Evening Branch of the W.A., gave an interesting talk on the work being done by her group among the ladies at the County Home. She advised there will be a table of stuffed toys made by these ladies at their forthcoming tea and bazaar. Some of the toys were shown by Mrs. Bongard and were most attractively and cleverly made.

Mrs. E. Hickey spoke on the excellent work being done by the Women's Christian Association who operated the Mercy Hospital in this city and operated it until it was given to the city a number of years ago. Since June 1955 the new Women's Christian Association Residence for older ladies has been in operation on Highland Avenue.

PROJECTS FOR HOSPITAL

Mrs. F. Beeby outlined some of the work being done to aid the hospital by the local Hospital Auxiliary. They do much to make things easier for the patients, nurses and public.

Among the services offered are the Coffee Shop in the Nurses' Home, and the Opportunity Shop in the City Hall. Books are also offered to several student nurses and the latest accomplishment has been seeing to the furnishing of the chapel in the hospital. Also, projects are made by members of the auxiliary and given to each child patient spending any length of time in the hospital.

Mrs. Beeby suggested any members who would like to be a part of this organization would be welcome.

Mrs. F. Leiper graciously thanked the speakers and assistants.

Mrs. I. R. Slavin and Mrs. C. Ashton were tea hostesses for the afternoon.

Bridge St. United Church W.A. Holds Sparkling Christmas Tea

A white picket fence decked with trailing green boughs dotted with holly berries; windows trimmed with greens, frosted white bells backed by red satin bows and sprigs of holly, sentinelled by a jovial, round-eyed Santa Clause, and tall Christmas trees with gleaming lights, formed a lovely setting Wednesday afternoon in Bridge Street United Church for the annual tea and bazaar sponsored by the Women's Association.

Receiving the guests were Mrs. H. M. Davis, wife of the pastor, Mrs. W. Dellabough, president of the W. A. and Mrs. R. Sherwin, wife of the assistant pastor.

Mrs. H. McBurney and Mrs. W. G. Anderson presided at the seat of custom receiving the dues.

LOVELY TEA TABLES

The two tea tables, were pictures of loveliness with their white, lace-edged Madeira cloths centred by a silver container of red and white carnations, sprays of red cedar, mingled with clusters of silver grapes, flanked by tall branched silver candelabra with red and white candles rising from lacey, white collars.

The little guest tables were each covered with white linen centred by an apple Santa Claus with white snowballed arms, and legs, and black gum-drop hands and feet, sitting at ease in a silver sleigh filled with candy cane runners over sprays of fragrant cedar.

Those pouring tea included Mesdames: F. Adsett and R. Morden; H. Easterman; W. Finkle; Sherwin; Dr. Elizabeth Scott; E. Fairman; Wray; F. S. Deacon; A. Clare, H. Rollins, and C. Burr.

The tea room hostesses were: Miss Ivy Dickens; Mrs. H. Pecker, and Mrs. H. Seldon.

Dinner Menus

FRIDAY

Poached Finnan Haddie in Milk; Delicate Mashed Turnip with Potatoes; Spinach with Lemon Butter; Lettuce, Tomato and Green Pepper Salad; Canned Peaches; Brown Sugar Meringues (see Thursday); Coffee.

I wonder if you could help me trace the recipe for a cookie I have and enjoy but never at a time when I knew who had provided them or could ask for the recipe. I tasted one at a tea I attended yesterday and that is what prompted me to write to you. The cookies are short, but not crumbly, and from the texture I wonder if they would contain icing sugar in part, and from the taste they may have had a bit of cream of tartar in them. The one I tasted yesterday was made sandwich style with a bit of icing between and are larger than a "quarter". They are so good and so dainty. From Elizabeth, C.

ANSWER:

I will give you two cookie dough's and methods for shaping and baking them and interesting frosting fillings. From these you can decide which is most like the dainty cookie you remember.

TEA COOKIES:

Two and one-quarter cups all-purpose flour, 1-2 teaspoon salt, 1 cup sifted confectioners' sugar, 1 cup soft butter, 1 egg beaten until light, 2 tablespoons vanilla. Sift together flour, salt and sugar into bowl. Cut in butter until it looks like coarse meal, then add 2 tablespoons beaten egg (save remainder) and 2 teaspoons vanilla. Blend well and form into a ball. Divide into three portions. Roll one portion at a time on a lightly floured board to 1-8" thickness. Cut into 1 1-2 or 2" circles. Place on ungreased baking sheet, brush with the egg remaining and bake at 400 deg. Fahr. for 5 to 7 minutes. When cooled put together in pairs with Butter Frosting: Two cups sifted icing sugar, 3 tablespoons butter, about 1 or tablespoons hot or cold milk. Lemon flavoring is popular (a few drops). Beat until of spreading consistency.

SANDWICH COOKIES:

One cup butter, 3-4 cups flour sifted together twice, 1 egg yolk, 2 1-4 cups all-purpose flour. Cream butter until light and fluffy. Gradually add sugar until all is light. Blend in egg yolk. Combine and add flour so that has been sifted. Stir well with dough floured. Chill. Pinch off dough and roll into balls about size of marble. Place on ungreased baking sheet and flatten with the hand or the base of a glass that has been dipped in flour. To make a design on cookies mark with the tines of a fork. Bake in oven at 325 deg. Fahr. for 9 to 12 minutes, removing when they are just slightly tinged. Remove from cookie sheet immediately. Put two cookies together sandwich style with Browned Butter Frosting: Brown 2 tablespoons butter slightly in a small saucepan. Remove from heat and blend in 1 1-4 cups sifted confectioners' sugar until smooth. Add 1-2 teaspoon vanilla along with 4 to 5 teaspoons of rich milk or cream until frosting will spread. Frost cookies and put together in pairs.

GOOD MANNERS

OLDER BRIDE PLANS HER WEDDING TO MINISTER

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I am 35 years old, and soon will be married for the first time. My mother is deceased, my father is very elderly, and I have lived away from home since I was 17 years old. My bridegroom-to-be is a minister, a widower with a family. Our wedding is to take place in his church. I preferred to have a small, simple wedding, was making plans for this, but now it is certainly growing.

All the members of my fiance's church expect to be invited to the wedding, and also many ministers and their wives in our area, and these with our friends will bring the list of guests to approximately 175. Therefore I now realize I must do much more than I had planned, and also I am not sure about the proper procedure for the wedding of an older bride. Can you, Mrs. Beeckman, will you please help me?

1. I do not wish to wear a wedding gown. Would you approve of my wearing a beige lace dress with brown accessories?

2. Do I need to walk up the aisle? (I had thought of stepping up from the front pew.) Also, since I've been on my own so long, what would be the proper procedure about "giving the bride in marriage"?

3. Do I need to have the white runner on the aisle?

4. And most important: Will you please tell me how to word the invitations to the wedding? I can't very well say that my father requests their presence, for he has nothing to do with the wedding and with the plans.

— Reader

1. It would be in excellent taste for you to wear a beige lace dress, very simply designed, street-length perhaps; pumps; a small, simple hat, perhaps made of the same lace as your dress, or anyway in a match ing or contrasting color (in a brown, I advise). And wouldn't you like to wear short white gloves and carry a white Bible (perhaps a wedding gift from your bridegroom) instead of wearing or carrying flowers? If the Bible may be white, or may be slip-covered in white, perhaps white mitrel

2. Your bridegroom-to-be is the perfect authority to answer these questions . . . consult with him, of course.

3. No.

4. To your informal wedding you may, if you wish, invite close friends informally or by telephone, and if it is not too much of a task, write notes to others. If you prefer to send formal, engraved invitations, this form, in the circumstances you name, is correct:

The honor of your presence is requested at the marriage of Miss Katherine Blake to The Reverend Paul Wright on Tuesday, the sixteenth of December at four o'clock Christ Church

Mother's Helper

NOW THAT the novelty of going back to school is wearing off, I see you may need an interest in feeding next each day. You might point out that school is the "coffee," learning is his "job." The Experts Say

Try to Get Housewives To Shop Carefully for Meat

By EDNA USHER
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO (CP) — The Canadian Association of Consumers is boning up on bones.

It's part of an education program aimed at housewives, to persuade them to shop carefully for meat.

In its latest bulletin, the CAC warns housewives to know about the amount of waste in each cut of meat.

"A shoulder pot roast may be very inexpensive and still be poor economy because of the large amount of bone present," it says.

WASTE FACTOR

"Flank steak and round steak may appear proportionately expensive compared with other less tender cuts — but there is little waste to them."

The CAC says housewives should study meat charts which show the shape and amount of bone in each of the retail cuts.

To make the most of your meat dollar, select carefully, order by cut, understand grade labelling, cook correctly, and consult the butcher.

If you select meat carefully you can take advantage of price variations. Prices of types of meat vary from year to year and season to season, depending on supply.

Regardless of the kind of meat, it is high in proteins.

On grading, red ribbon beef commands a premium price because it comes from a carcass excellent in size and shape, is of fine-grained meat with a good finish as shown by the wide layer of exterior fat and the fat marbling the meat fibres.

"These desirable qualities may be less important than the additional cost when food costs must be considered" advises the CAC.

Low temperature cookery is recommended for meats, as for other protein foods, and only tender cuts should be cooked by dry heat. Less tender cuts require slow cooking in steam or liquid to make the meat tender. Thin cuts of pork and veal are best cooked with moisture (braised) to avoid drying out.

Final culinary wrinkle: "Avoid overcooking because that means greater shrinkage and therefore higher cost per serving."

And let the butcher in on your meal plans, pleads the CAC. "It is his business to satisfy you, and a complaint from you if you are dissatisfied with a purchase may be of help both to him and to future consumers."

The CAC reminds housewives: "Canada's food rules suggest that for healthful eating, one serving of meat, fish or poultry should be eaten frequently because of its excellent nutritional value."

Maria R. — My husband loses his temper with his boss.

Walter R. — I can't be a yes man.

Maria R. — My husband and I are in our mid-30's and have been married two years. We are trying to put away some savings before we start a family, but at the rate we are going we'll never get there.

The reason is that my husband keeps losing his jobs. Walter has a good education and is very intelligent and personable, but he can't keep his temper with his boss. Something will get under his skin and bother him for days or weeks and even months. He'll hold it in for a while, but suddenly he'll explode and that's that.

I have been in the same job since I got out of high school and I never had any trouble with any one. I tell Walter to be more like me. I say, "Yes, sir," and keep my mouth shut, no matter what I think.

Walter R. — It's all very well for Maria to talk as she does. She is a woman and doesn't know how it feels to be a man and have to take orders from another man who doesn't know half what you know. Can't think I'm conceited. I have my faults, but I have really had some stupid bosses in my day.

The way I see it, I'll never be able to be a yes man the way Maria wants me to be. I had a rough time in the service because of this, and I made up my mind back then that once I'm a civilian again, I'm going to be my own boss.

I want to go into business for myself, but this will call for some sacrifices from Maria. We'll have to go into debt and put off having a family for some time. Maria doesn't like doing it and that's why she's all for paying the boss.

The Council: Walter appears rather casual about thinking up sacrifices for Maria to make, but seems closed to the possibility of making a small sacrifice himself — namely, learning to get along with a boss.

Saying, "Yes," is easier for some individuals than others, but usually the exercise of knowing more or less than the boss is not the determining factor. The individuals who have the greatest difficulty taking orders are those with the poorest opinions of themselves. Some finally train themselves to "take it" from their bosses, but underneath they suffer it not being in a position to assert their own importance.

A person of this type naturally wants to be his own boss, and many are successful at it. It is doubtful, however, whether such a person is in the best position to create a measure of success if she does, more often than not, end up deeply self-devaluating person has to belong to save in and lose his head at signs of possible failure.

Walter also appears to wrongly confuse an inability to accept authority with masculinity. In our society true manliness is usually connected with the ability to have authority, but it is understood that each man must serve his apprenticeship. Power is not handed over to him. He must fight to win it and part of the fight has much to do with curbing the emotions sufficiently to be able to see the other fellow's point of view. The man who constantly has hassles with his boss certainly is blind to a lot that is going on.

O.S.S.T.F. Meets at Quinte Secondary for Annual Business

On November 8, high school teachers from all of district 23 of the Ontario Secondary School Teachers' Federation gathered at Quinte Secondary School in Belleville for the annual business meeting of the district organization. District 23 included all secondary schools from Stella to Colborne and from Bad Heiton to Marmora, Madoc and Plainton.

The most important item on the agenda was a report by Mr. K. T. Pherrill of Northview Heights Collegiate Institute on the certification of teachers according to academic qualifications and professional courses completed. Mr. Pherrill was chairman of an O.S.S.T.F. provincial committee on certification which was set up at the annual assembly in December of 1957 to encourage high school teachers to improve their qualifications and to provide a means whereby teachers may improve their professional standing through the gaining of higher certificates.

For seven months the committee heard delegation; representing many teacher groups and weighed the various courses available for teachers of various subjects. By September they had drawn up a chart of four classifications in all fields beginning with the basic High School Assistant Certificate, Type B, and outlining the steps by which a teacher can progress from this point to the highest category of specialist.

Mr. Pherrill admitted that the chart was not perfect but pointed out that it provided a starting point from which the O.S.S.T.F. could go on. He hoped that this chart, with a number of amendments would be accepted by the annual assembly this year, after which certification board would be elected to rule on all cases. A number of resolutions regarding certification were presented to the meeting and most of them forwarded to the annual assembly in Toronto

HOSPITALIZATION PLAN

Mr. J. M. Robb, field secretary of O.S.S.T.F., spoke to the meeting about the hospitalization plan operated by the federation for the benefit of its members. In view of the entrance of the provincial government into the field of hospital insurance, the O.S.S.T.F. Hospitalization Fund will offer, effective January 1, 1959, a supplementary plan, to pay the difference between the ward rates paid by the province and semi-private rates. Mr. Robb also outlined briefly the new optional medical plan which is being offered this year to cover non-surgical illness.

Officers of district 23 who reported on their activities were, John Hayman of Q.S.S., president; George Elson of Prince Edward Collegiate, first vice-president; Miss A.C. Johnston of Trenton, secretary-treasurer; R. E. Dale, of Napanee, district public relations officer; N. Hill of Prince Edward Collegiate, salary chairman and Miss E. Stuart of Q.S.S., chairman of professional development committees.

Since district 23 was organized only last May, no election of officers was necessary. However, Mr. J. Frost of the nomination committee submitted the name of Mr. Thorne W. Spears, of Trenton, to represent district 23 on the provincial Board of Regents.

LAMP OF LEARNING AWARD

The meeting nominated Mr. George Wishart, an alderman of the City of Belleville, for the annual Lamp of Learning award given by the O.S.S.T.F. to the non-professional person who is deemed to have contributed most to Secondary Education in Ontario.

At the annual banquet, held on the cafeteria of Quinte Secondary School, Mr. J. J. Truscott, chairman of the Bay of Quinte district high school board, welcomed the delegates before the gathering was addressed by Mr. W. J. Killough, information officer of The Hydro Electric Power Commission of Ontario.

Using colored slides Mr. Killough spoke of the building of Ontario's largest project ever undertaken in North America. In reality, it is two projects involving four governments. The tremendous expense of the power phase of the project, the chief interest of the Hydro Electric Power Commission, is justified by the ever-increasing demands for power in Ontario and already the engineers and planners are busy seeking new sources. Mr. Killough gave a glimpse into the future when he saw, by 1977, over a hundred appliances for every house, reducing housework to next to nothing.

The speaker was introduced by Mr. G. Elson of Picton, and thanked by Mr. J. Musgrove of Belleville.

Barrage of Loaded Questions On India, Pakistan Greets Prime Minister at Karachi

KARACHI (CP)—Prime Minister Diefenbaker said today Canadian recognition of Red China "might be considered approbation of communism" by Asian countries now standing together against communism.

"We do not say recognition will never be given," the world-touring Canadian leader told a press conference on the first full day of a three-week tour of Asian Commonwealth members.

"But we do say we must take into consideration reactions that recognition would have on those who have stood against the march of communism in countries adjacent to Red China."

Both Pakistan and India recognize the Peiping regime.

QUERIED ON KASHMIR

Reporters also fired a barrage of questions — many of them loaded—about the Kashmir problem, where India and Pakistan have been at loggerheads for 11 years.

Diefenbaker declined to go beyond expressing hope "that in the community of Commonwealth a mutually agreeable settlement can be reached."

He said Canada is concerned at the continuation of a dispute between two members of the Commonwealth but that no problem is beyond solution.

Asked whether he would volunteer Canada's good offices, he replied Canada always has been shown willingness to conciliate but "sometimes volunteering is considered presumption."

NEXT STOP INDIA

In view of the fact that Diefenbaker will hold talks with Indian leaders next week following Saturday's conference with the new Pakistan prime minister, Firoz Khan Khan, he declined to be drawn into comments that might appear to favor either side.

Tonight the prime minister will be the guest of Gen. Ayub at a formal dinner. On Saturday, after talks, he leaves for Lahore, the Punjab's major centre of Moslem culture and education.

Mr. and Mrs. Diefenbaker are staying at the president's palace but their host is not due to arrive from the north until tonight. In the meantime the prime minister was guest at a luncheon held today by Foreign Affairs Minister Manzoor Qadir.

VISITEN REFUGEES

The morning sightseeing tour of this capital, which only 90 years ago was an Arabian Gulf fishing village, took the Canadians past two works of the Pakistani refugees who pour across the country's major domestic problem.

He stopped to a perspective looking a valley filled with the ramshackle huts of thousands of refugees who have come to the nation 11 years ago.

Pakistan has toured a refugee camp, one of 32 in the country in which the government was helped to resettle displaced from India build modest but clean homes or two-room shacks of plaster.

Pakistan has 7,000,000 refugees in its 80,000,000 population and is the most densely populated area placed in the new camps.

Dies of Injuries

LINDSAY, Ont. (CP) — John Thompson, 39, died in hospital here early today of injuries suffered Thursday night in a traffic accident that took the life of his 65-year-old mother.

Mrs. Melissa Thompson was killed when their car collided with a truck at the intersection of Highway 7 and 35 just south of here. The Thompsons lived in nearby Burketon.

Willis Egan, 40, of Uxbridge, Ont., driver of the truck was not injured. The truck was loaded with chicken feed.

U.S. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge, left, looks at Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Valerian Zorin, lower right, as he replies to Zorin's charge that the U.S. has "slightsarah" plans to set up rocket bases on the moon. Lodge, who makes an American policy statement on outer space today, used his right of reply immediately after Zorin spoke to promptly brand the attack as a mis-representation of the facts. Sons of Freedom Have Great Faith In Their Leader

VANCOUVER (CP) — Leaders of the radical Sons of Freedom Doukhobors in a letter to The Sun say their spiritual leader, Stefan Sorokin, "has never let us down."

The letter is the answer to a series of articles carried by The Sun after a staff reporter Simma Milner Holt visited the 56-year-old Sorokin at his home in Uruguay.

He was pictured as living a life of luxury, supported by funds sent by his 2,500 followers in British Columbia.

"We know we send Sorokin money, and we are not concerned about it," the letter published by the Sun.

The letter is signed by members of the Freedomites emergency committee headed by J. Podovinkoff.

SOUGHT LAND

Sorokin, spiritual leader of the Freedomites since 1924, went to Uruguay in a land-seeking mission in 1949.

The Sun estimated that in the last six years he has received more than $200,000 from the religious sect members in B.C

The letter says Sorokin has sacrificed "his health, energy and life for a society abandoned and despised by the whole world."

"When we chose Sorokin as our leader we entrusted not only our money, but our flesh, blood and souls as to our guardian who, to this day, has never let us down."

Doukhobors as a religious group are just as entitled to have their "hope" as anyone else and to give him their gifts and donations with no questions asked."

The Sons of Freedom want to return to Russia, and the committee has been negotiating with the federal and provincial governments on a financial assistance plan. Representatives have offered to aid their departure.

Western Allies Study Moves In Manoeuvring Over Berlin

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Western Allies expect to decide in the next few days on moves to counter Russia's campaign to upset Western positions in Germany.

Preliminary discussions already are under way with the governments of Britain, France, West Germany and other interested countries.

Premier Khrushchev announced in a speech Monday that the Soviet government would hand over to East Germany authorities the functions now performed by the Russian military authorities in East Berlin. He demanded that the United States, Britain and France abandon West Berlin and let the East German regime take over the whole city.

The Western powers have issued public statements rejecting the Soviet demand and making clear they plan to permit no change in the status of West Berlin.

NEED STRONGER ACTION

Officials here feel, however, that actions of a stronger and more official nature are required.

One possibility is a new formula three-power declaration reaffirming intentions to maintain their positions in West Berlin and their use of access routes from the West.

Another is a declaration of NATO policy, which could be drawn up and approved at a scheduled meeting of NATO foreign ministers next month.

Officials here say privately that there is nothing the West can do to prevent the Russians from pulling out of East Berlin if they want to.

Such a move is feared, however, as opening up a new period of troubles and tensions. It would put the East Germans in a position to interfere with the traffic flow into Berlin and would also raise difficult political questions because the West refuses to recognize the East German regime.

Highways Dept. Is Under Fire Over Hiring

TORONTO (CP)—The Ontario Civil Service Association criticized the provincial highways department Thursday for its selection in hiring workmen.

Campbell FFraser, Toronto district engineer, told the association's annual convention: "Out of every 100 men hired on a trial basis, 25 are crackerjacks, 50 do a good job and the rest are trash."

Mr. Fraser said there are "many people" not good enough to join the permanent staff. The subject arose during discussion of a committee recommendation that temporary help be switched to the permanent staff after a year's service.

James Pogue, department personnel director, said it was hard to find men until about a year ago but "now we can be a little more choosy." He said the department has 12,000 employees, of whom 4,000 are permanent staff and the remainder equally divided between temporary and hourly-rated help.

Delegates also said personnel brought to Toronto for training courses are paid only $3.50 a day for meals, and said it is hard to find places where a person could eat for that much money were the sort they'd wouldn't take a dog to eat."

BUILDING CONTRACT

WATERLOO (CP) — Foundation Company of Canada has been awarded a $1,882,000 contract for construction at Waterloo College's physics and mathematics building. The Montreal firm's tender was the lowest of seven.

Evidence Heard On Gas Dangers At Ottawa Probe

OTTAWA (CP)—Further testimony was to be heard today by a coroner's jury on the distribution of natural gas in the capital of where an unexplained explosion Oct. 25 claimed one life and caused millions of dollars damage in the centre-town area.

William M. Kelly, superintendent of distribution for Consumers Gas Company, Toronto, which owns the gas distributing system here, was to conclude testimony begun Thursday, second day of an inquiry into the death of William Anderson, 65, and into the explosion's cause.

Mr. Kelly told the jury he believes natural gas in an untreated state could make more leaks in pipe joints than manufactured gas. Natural gas is not considered to dry out pipe joints in lines formerly used for manufactured gas.

STEAM ADDED

He gave this evidence in explaining that natural gas distributed here since last January over lines originally built for manufactured gas has been modified by passing steam through it to raise the temperature.

He said the gas system in Ottawa was "built in excellent shape by an engineering firm hired to examine it before Consumers purchased it in 1956.

John Spence, Ottawa area manager of Ottawa Gas Company, said the gas company does daily inspections for safety of gas mains and leaks.

NO PUBLIC INSPECTION

Inspector Phil Larkin of the Ottawa fire prevention bureau testified he has never made inspection of gas main installations are made by the fire department or Ontario Fuel Board. Inspections were confined to appliances, chimneys and similar units installed in basements.

Frank Ahern, city planning and works director, said complaints of gas leaks to the city complaint bureau had been received since natural gas was piped in last January. He said safety inspection of gas lines outside buildings and homes were regarded as the gas company's responsibility.

Board Hearing Collapses After Ten Minutes

TORONTO (CP)—A conciliation board hearing into a contract dispute between the Ford Motor Company of Canada Limited and 8,500 members of the United Auto Workers (CLC) collapsed after 10 minutes Thursday.

The three-man board began hearings are scheduled but company-union meetings will resume Monday.

George Burt, Canadian UAW director, said the conciliation board he felt it was serving no useful purpose.

John King, Ford's industrial relations director, said "it would be to the advantage of both parties to the board to continue efforts doomed to failure."

The union, representing Ford workers in Oakville, Windsor and Toronto, is seeking a general 20-cent-an-hour wage increase, six-week vacation after 25 years and for skilled trades, improved vacations, supplementary unemployment benefits, insurance and pensions.

The company in a brief to the conciliation board offered an average 5% increase in wages in a two-year contract. It said any further wage increases would depend on the outcome of the company and its employees."

1,700 Workers Sent Home From Oshawa Plant

OSHAWA (CP)—Seventeen hundred General Motors assembly line employees were sent home Thursday when 800 night shift workers refused to work two hours overtime and walked off the job.

Assembly lines were also shut down early Wednesday when the day and night shift workers refused overtime.

A company spokesman at the Oshawa plant said GM was informed by Toronto regional, national and local leaders of the United Auto Workers of America (CLC) are opposed to walkouts in the Oshawa plant.

The union leaders are in Toronto for talks on a new master agreement.

The company spokesman said union leaders advised management they would ask local union leaders in Oshawa to persuade workers to work all scheduled hours.

Canada Bankrupting Itself Trying to Prepare Defence Beyond Reach, Says Macklin

MONTREAL (CP) — Maj.-Gen. W. H. S. Macklin says Canada is bankrupting itself trying to prepare a defence beyond the reach of military or physical science.

"All the missiles and all the anti - missile missile ever built will not stop the Russians from dropping a bomb on this city if they decide to do so," said Gen. Macklin, 58, retired adjutant-general of the Canadian Army.

"It's not jet fighters that will defend us, but the striking power of the United States Strategic Air Command."

The blunt old soldier's opinion took the spotlight at a panel discussion Thursday night on American-Canadian relations, theme of the second McGill conference on world affairs.

CROSS-SWORDS

On some of the issues he raised Gen. Macklin crossed words with the other panellists: Toronto economist Gilbert Jackson, Montreal Daniell, Ottawa correspondent of the New York Times, and historian Hanne Hemmer of the Canadian studies at the University of Rochester, N.Y.

But he stuck to his point that Canada was paying for more defence than it got.

"When Russia exploded its atomic bomb in 1949 our military immunity of North America disappeared, and since then we could can do to restore it," he said.

The Russians recognized the immunity brought on by atomic weapons, and were not arming themselves for atomic conflict alone. They were building a mobile fighting system that included 160 army divisions, 20,000 tanks, lines and 30,000 aircraft.

"We are simply running around trying to catch up."

FEARS IDENTITY LOSS

Canada's crushing defence bills could lead to the country's subsidiarity to the United States, nuclear war or bankruptcy, the general said.

Here Mr. Jackson disagreed.

"I deplore alarmists who say we are driving ourselves bankrupt for defence," he said. Such an approach led to self pity and demoralization.

During the period heaviest defence spending since the Second World War, Mr. Jackson said, "our standard of comforts had risen at the fastest rate in our history."

At another point, Mr. Jackson said Canada had to accept legal safeguards against the influence of American unions.

He said some Canadian union members could act in no more than a "branch office" manner because threatened by clubs.

"This is not the case of the Canadian worker needs legal safeguards to preserve his independence."

WAS JUST SICK

BOMBAY, India (AP)—A ship's radio officer who sent out a call for medical help, saying an ocean-wide flurry of alarm, was "lovesick and seasick," his skipper said Thursday. The ship is the Greek tanker Chloe put in sea again from here, but the Greek radio officer, 30-year-old John Karalis, behind. Earlier this week Karalis' mushy message sent ships and planes scouring the Indian Ocean for the ship.

Will Discuss New Contract On November 27

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP)—Chrysler Corporation of Canada and the United Automobile Workers (CLC) will meet a conciliation board here Nov. 27 to discuss a new contract.

The company is the last of the big three Canadian automobile producers to meet the union via the conciliation route in an effort to end stalemated contract talks.

Little hope exists that the conciliation services will provide a complete solution. Last week General Motors and the union met in Toronto and observers said the session was concluded in four minutes.

The UAW and Ford of Canada met in Toronto Thursday, and after a 10-minute meeting it was over.

The position of the UAW is that compulsory arbitration services are not helpful. The sooner they can be dispensed with, the sooner direct union - company negotiations can be resumed, the union contends.

Ford and the UAW also are scheduled to resume direct negotiations Nov. 19.

It is expected the meeting here with Chrysler and the UAW will follow the Toronto pattern, in effect rejecting conciliation services for direct negotiations.

Liberal Leader Encouraged Over Party Prospects

OTTAWA (CP) — Liberal leader Lester B. Pearson has completed a five-week cross-country-look "vastly encouraged" by the prospects of the Liberal party.

"I have found a great revival in the party, a new spirit of energy and enthusiasm," said the former diplomat whose followers went down to a stunning defeat in the general election.

"There still is a lot of hard organizational work to do but I've had some wonderful and stimulating meetings across the country," he told the Ottawa Journal.

"We have a future."

He said Canada's 360-member advisory council meets here Monday to prepare more groundwork for the next election, expected in three years.

Indications are that, instead of selecting just a new president to succeed George Marler, Quebec Tory, now retiring, the federation may select two men, one to be the chairman of the board and another as party director or president.

CHIEF TO RETIRE

RENFREW (CP)—Renfrew Police Chief Cecil Cowan, 60, will retire Nov. 30. He took over the post a year ago after serving 35 years with the provincial police, 24 years as an inspector in London and later in Perth.

Anglicans Open Doors to New Talks With United Church

TORONTO (CP)—The Anglican Church of Canada wound up its executive session Thursday and reaffirming a "firm intention and desire" for unity with the United Church of Canada.

The Anglican churchmen agreed to hold a two-day conference on union, probably in February, and to approach the United Church on the question of renewed unity talks.

"But," explained Rt. Rev. Kenneth Evans, Bishop of Ontario, "we want the word of union—not the United Church had in 1925." He and other speakers indicated Anglican view was that the move towards union must be slow and cautious.

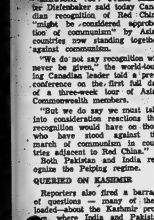
Commenting on reports that the United Church felt Anglicans were too slow in deciding about amalgamation, Bishop Evans told the closing session of the general synod's executive council: "After the 1925 union the United Church there were continuing churches, such as Presbyterians. We want a union which is complete and perfect."

Rt. Rev. G. N. Luxton, Bishop of Huron, said the Anglican Church is the busiest church in Christendom in moves toward unity, with unions being studied all over the world.

"The United Church perhaps does not realize we belong to a great family of churches and must move slowly," he said.

Rt. Rev. H. H. Clark, Bishop of Edmonton, suggested that other churches should join discussions on reunion.

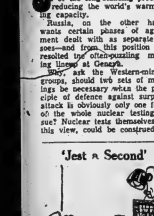
More than 100 bishops, priests and laymen at the conference called on the federal government to admit immigrants from the West Indies federation and all other parts of the Commonwealth and said considerations of color, race or sex should not influence Canada's immigration policy.



Abolition of the death penalty will be urged on the federal government, it was decided by a vote of 54 to 40.

Rt. Rev. E. S. Reed, Bishop of Moosonee, said:

"The time has come for Canada to follow the lead taken by other countries of the world and several of the United States, and countries where capital punishment has been abolished, there has been no appreciable change for the worse in crime."



Archdeacon C. P. Crostwaite of Toronto called the downtown area of Canadian cities the new missionary areas of the church.

The council recommended a conference on downtown areas be convened "without de-

"Fancy making such a fuss about having a little piece of adhesive tape removed."

New CNR Yards Planned Says Toronto Paper

TORONTO (CP) — The Globe and Mail says the CNR is planning a multi-million dollar Toronto - area development which would include a new 2,000-acre railway yard and a railway bypass north of Metropolitan Toronto boundary.

The plan is designed to remove the railway tracks of rail freight from the Toronto waterfront, encourage suburban industrial development and decentralize Toronto operations of the railway.

It would be aimed at meeting the increased railway traffic and industrial line buildup expected after the opening of the St. Lawrence Seaway.

The rail yard would likely be in the Thornhill district at about the half-way point on the new railway bypass.

FOX WAS RABID

KITCHENER (CP) — A fox found last week on the farm of Norman Sherman in the Breslau area was rabid, the family was informed Thursday. Examination of the animal's head in Hull, Que., confirmed the preliminary diagnosis.

Jean Vicky, a Haitian who has been in Canada since 1951, will protest the order of the immigration department to have him deported. In 1957 he married a Haitian girl who was in Montreal with a dance troupe. Under the deportation order, he and his wife must leave Canada but their child cannot be taken.

This year's extravaganza will have 18 giant fairy tale floats, 19 smaller hand - pulled floats, 2,000 majorettes, bandsmen, clowns and paintpots, 4 dozen bands and, somewhere along the way, Santa himself.

SPORT SNAPSHOTS STANDUP
By RON ANDREWS

Canadian Press Staff Writer

A bundle of money and a lot of patience—those two things appear to be keeping Chicago Black Hawks alive in the National Hockey League.

Since 1954 owner Jim Norris has poured out more than $600,000 on the Hawk team. All he's got back in returns are mediocre crowds in Chicago Stadium and three straight years outside the playoffs.

Norris, however, is beginning to think along the lines of many other people around the league. The general comment about Hawks is that they are starting to show signs of coming to life; maybe even finishing high up in the standings.

To say that Norris' money had been wasted would be wrong. Hawks own some good hockey talent now and they also have a farm system which is producing some major-league players.

PAYING DIVIDENDS

So far this season Hawks have been anything but a disappointment. After a month they were pressing the leaders for first place. The $105,000 Norris spent last summer in buying eight new faces was paying dividends.

Tod Sloan, whom Hawks grabbed last summer for $15,000 from Toronto Maple Leafs, was right up with the scoring leaders and Eddie Litzenberger, purchased from Montreal Canadiens in the 1954-55 season, was leading the league in scoring after the first month. Since joining Hawks, he's been their big gun, the leader-type of player whom Chicago needed so badly.

Norris is one NHL owner who knows he has to spend money to make money. Chicago Stadium is the biggest in the league. A winning Hawk team could be the biggest money - maker in the NHL. Norris hopes this is the year the starts getting some of that $600,000 back.

BIG BUSINESS

Clarence Campbell, president of the NHL, told The (Montreal Star) Fisher recently that an NHL team must gross $700,000 each season to break even.

"Expansion of the league would be fine," he said. "But there are important facets of the problem that must be studied in every minute detail. It's inconceivable for us to consider expansion of any kind in the numerical structure of our league before we can be guaranteed that our teams are in a position to show a profit."

Incidentally, for Canada's nine professional clubs to collectively show a profit each year they must gross at least $500,000. They have only eight home games in western Canada and seven in the east. The NHL teams have 35 home games each.

LEAF CHORUS

Should Leaf coach Billy Reay get the axe one of these days, don't be surprised if Turk Broda becomes the new coach of the Toronto NHL club.

Although there has been no thought of firing Reay, it is often the coach who goes if the team doesn't get in a winning way. Stafford Smythe, who heads a seven-man committee which operates Leafs, says Reay isn't to blame for Toronto's poor start this season.

"My experience with Reay, "that he will argue a point," Smythe says. "But if the decision goes against him he will do everything he can to carry out that decision, just as if he had been for it in the first place.

"He and Punch (assistant general manager Punch Imlach) work well together but when they disagree there's got to be some deciding voice from now on, "I'm going to make those decisions. The only thing that may change on a change of coaches would be for Billy to realize that kind of authority, if he took that attitude — and I'm sure he won't—the fat m—ff (Broda) would be in."

Gene's Romance With Aly Khan Had Little to Do With Collapse

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

WESTPORT, Conn. (AP) — "Where there is no hope, there is no despair," says beautiful Gene Tierney. "But it took a long time after my child's birth to come to know this."

Daria, first child of actress Tierney and her dress-designer husband, Oleg Cassini, was born in 1943. It was soon evident that the curly-haired child, who resembled her mother, was mentally retarded. The tragedy was one of the several blows that later contributed to Miss Tierney's collapse and a long period of treatment in sanatoriums.

"I kept hoping and hoping that something could be done, that some miracle would make her whole," says Gene. "And as long as I held that hope, they was agony. It was only later—much later—that I faced the fact there was nothing to be done. When I lost the hope, the despair began to leave me, too."

NOW PICKS UP THREADS

Well now and told by her doctors to pick up the threads of normal living nipped off three years ago, Gene has reached the point where she can face the situation and, more important, even talk about her firstborn.

Early in her pregnancy, Gene entertained troops at the Hollywood Canteen. The two were later came down with German measles. Daria was born so retarded mentally her lifetime must be spent in an institution.

Her marriage to Cassini was not working out well.

Cassini is an expensive European, and pyrotechnics were frequent in the Cassini household.

SECOND CHILD HEALTHY

After one separation and reconciliation their second child, Christina, was born, a healthy, bright and dark-haired girl now 18. But despite Gene's stubborn determination to make a go of her marriage, the problems continued. Finally, in 1952 she divorced Cassini.

Today Gene knows that the healing of those difficult years led slowly but inevitably to breakdown.

Later came her celebrated romance with Aly Khan. But its ending had little to do with her collapse.

WEST GERMAN LOAN

BONN (Reuters) — The West German government announced Wednesday that it will lend Greece 200,000,000 marks ($48,000,000) to develop the Greek economy. The announcement came at the end of an official visit by Greek Prime Minister Constantine Karamanlis.

"Get in there, Blitzkweik! And after your first tackle I wanna hear that ambulance siren!"

Maroons Widen Margin for First Place

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Chatham Maroons clipped Sault St. Marie Greyhounds 8-3 Thursday night to widen their first-place margin to three points over their threatening Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen in OHA-NOHA Senior 'A' action.

In the only other Ontario senior game of the night, Sudbury Wolves were edged 6-4 by the last-place North Bay Trappers whose only other victory of the season also was over Wolves.

At the Sault, Gary Sarlo scored twice for Maroons. Ted Power, John Bailey, Jim Connelly and Jack Douglas got the others. Jim McBurney nailed a pair for the Greyhounds and Johnny Lumley registered the third.

Team captain Stan Maxwell led the North Bay attack with three goals. The rest were divided among Tony Poeta, John Uniedale and Leland Mortson. It was Uiendale's first OHA-NOHA goal since joining the team Thursday from Quebec Aces.

Jim Logan and Hank Marczak did most of the damage for Wolves with two goals apiece. Gord Beale got the fifth.

Maroons led the circuit with 14 points, followed by Kitchener with 11. Windsor has nine, the Soo and Sudbury six, and North Bay 4.

Jimmy Wilson Requests Release From White Sox

CHICAGO (AP) — Jim Wilson, who overcame a fractured skull and went on to a noteworthy major league pitching career, Thursday was placed on Chicago White Sox voluntary retired list.

Wilson, 36, last Sept. 29, requested his release to spend more time with his family in San Diego, Calif. The Sox tried to dissuade him, without success, and the baseball commissioner's office Thursday approved the retirement, effective Sept. 29. Wilson pitched for seven big league clubs.

The courageous righthander, who hat a 9-9 record last season, nearly had his career ended when skulled by a liner off Hank Greenberg's bat in 1945. Wilson then was pitching for Boston Red Sox.

Nine years and four major league clubs later, Wilson pitched a no-hitter for Milwaukee Braves against the Phillies June 12, 1954. Wilson has a 6-year league career record of 86-80.

TOUGH SCHEDULE

Eight games are scheduled in the Eastern Senior "A" circuit in the next six nights, beginning this evening and the MacFarlands find themselves involved in no less than five of those games.

The Macs meet Whitby's powerful Dunlops here tonight at nine o'clock and tomorrow evening the same clubs back up in Dunnville. Following Saturday night's fixture, Canada's representatives in the World Hockey Tournament will leave for a Sunday afternoon encounter in Cornwall.

Monday the boys will get a "brief rest. Needless to say they will not practice. On Tuesday evening the Hull-Ottawa Canadiens will pay another visit here and you can bet Sammy Pollock's youngsters will be out for revenge. And on Wednesday the 19th, Ike will lead his boys into the Limestone City to battle Bus Gagnon's Merchants.

Five games in six nights and if you want to take it farther, it amounts to seven in ten. For after the Macs rest Thursday next, those Whitby Dunlops are here again Friday and the Macs travel to Cornwall again on Sunday.

It's slightly ridiculous, but with 48 games to play and 88 days to play them in, that's the way it has to be. While it's not quite that rugged all the way, there are few rest periods for the Macs between now and January 30.

This seven-in-ten schedule could be the turning point for the Macs. They could climb right up with Whitby but to do so they must beat the Dunlops themselves, since three of the games are against the same club.

So far, things have been pretty miserable for Belleville when these two clubs hook up. They have clashed twice with the Dunnies winning both, 5-1 and 7-1. The Macs will be out to make a drastic change in that 2-13 goal total against record.

Cornwall Chevies will provide the opposition in two games, both being played in the Seaway City. The Macs are even with them on wins, each club having taken two points at home. The Macs won here 3-1 while Chevies blanked our side 4-0 down east, thus holding a 5-3 edge in goals. Despite the fact the Macs have a much stronger club than the Chevies on paper, they have yet to prove it on ice. Now is the time.

Hull, which the McFarlands have met four times to date, is the only club over which they hold a margin, both in games won and goals. Belleville took a 6-4 win in Hull, then 5-3 at home, and then a 9-2 win to close out the Baby Habs here Tuesday 12-3. It adds up to two victories, a tie and a loss and a 22-13 spread in goals.

Kingston Merchants have taken two wins in three games with Belleville and all three games have been high scoring affairs. Merchants took a 6-4 win here, lost 6-0 again on Belleville ice and finally won a free-wheeling 8-6 decision in Kingston. This adds up to a 16-14 goals edge for Ken Mac. Lynn Davis in the nets has had a rough season so far, as has Gordie Bell. Davis has allowed 25 goals in the last four games and a total of 41 in eight contests.

While on the subject of goalies, it is interesting to note that all across the circuit, with the exception of in Whitby, the goalies' averages are running rather high.

Whitby's Henderson has a fine 2.22 mark, allowing 30 goals in 13 games. Cornwall's Gerry Devaney is second, permitting 31 goals in nine games for 3.44 average. He has been better than his average indicates, especially against Belleville.

Third is Claude Cyr of Hull, 38 goals in eight games for a 3.75 mark. O'Hearn has allowed 12 in his lone start and with the exception of that game and one against Whitby, when Cyr gave up 10, Hull's scoreboking has been rather quiet.

The Macs' Gordie Bell has been scored upon 44 times in 11 contests, giving him an even 4.00 average. Davis has the high mark of 5.13 with 41 in eight.

Three shutouts have been recorded to date. Henderson blanked Cornwall 4-0, Bell whitewashed Kingston for the same score and Devaney shutout Belleville 4-0.

It could be that the forwards are a little sharper this season but we look for improvements in the goaltending in most cases as the schedule continues.

BOXING BANTER

Heavyweight Lamar Clark of Cedar City, Utah, named prospect of the month by the National Boxing Association, certainly lived up to the honour earlier this week when he knocked out three men in one night. He put Ken Howard down for the full count at 1.35 of the first round, was awarded a TKO over Dick Tanner at the end of the second round and knocked Manuel Lentano cold after 2.11 of the first round in his third fight. He will bear watching.

On December 10th, World's Light Heavyweight champ Archie Moore will defend his crown against British Empire champ Yvon Durelle in the Montreal Forum. The fight will be telecast and marks the first world's title bout to be beamed to the U.S. from out of the country. That will be a regular "Wednesday Night Fights" feature.

Rocky Marciano has no intention of joining the long line of fighters who end up as bums. He is making sports show appearances and his newest venture is a travel agency in Miami, aimed at developing Latin-American business.

Remember Paddy Young, the popular slugger of a few years back? Word has it that he is considering a comeback, moving up to the light-heavy division. . . . A California boxer should do well if he lives up to his name. He fights under the billing of Joe Louis III.

Detroit Goalie Blows His Top When McArthur Allows Goal, Claims Puck Hit Goalpost

By BEN WARD,
Canadian Press Staff Writer

It has been a rough midweek for National Hockey League referees.

Goalie Terry Sawchuk of Detroit Red Wings provided the trouble Thursday night as his mates clipped Bruins 3-1 at Boston.

Sawchuk blew his top when the red light went on to signal Don McKenney's goal at 10:31 of the second period. He stormed at the goal judge and hatcheted out to centre ice to argue loudly with referee Dalton McArthur.

Sawchuk insisted the puck, which had bounced out quickly, had hit the goalpost. The officials wouldn't listen.

MORE TROUBLE

Teammates stepped calm Terry down and get him back in the net. Then the loudspeaker announced a Bentleigh misconduct against him and he burst out again, this time against Another Cheer Length of the rink to bump hard against him.

McArthur managed to keep his balance and ignored Terry. The incident ended there.

Tuesday night Chicago winger Ted Sloan of Black Hawks, also enraged by a goal call, clipped referee Frank Sauvelli on the side of the head with his stick. He was tossed out of the game.

HOWE LINE SUPERB

The Detroit-Boston contest took the spotlight off a rousing performance by Detroit's ace line of Gordie Howe, Norm Ullman and Alex Delvecchio. The trio scored a goal apiece and picked up four of the five Wing assists.

The win moved Wings into a third-place tie with Black Hawks and prevented Bruins from bouncing back into first place.

Earlier this week Bruins and Montreal Canadiens played unusual doings with the league leadership. Canadiens, early season leaders, slipped to second when Bruins beat Toronto Thursday, then regained it by whipping Toronto Maple Leafs Wednesday night.

Takes Exception To Story in London Times

LAUREL, Md. (AP)—John D. Scheatzle, originator of the Washington, D.C., International race, has taken exception to speculation in London that the loss by the favorite Ballymoss Thursday jeopardized future overseas participation.

Today Era was first in the starting gate in front of Sailor's Guide Tuesday, but was disqualified and placed second. Ballymoss was third.

Schapiro commended Thursday on a story in the Times, which said: "If Ballymoss could fall there must be a risk of, and, dimensions for all future champions making the journey and their owners will think long and hard before taking the plunge."

"The London Times correspondent," said Schapiro, "seems to be completely unaware of the fact that in seven runnings of the Washington, D.C. International five of the winners have been foreign entries."

Commenting on Witwyn won the first, and his time of 2:30 4-5 is still the best. Sailor's Guide came from Australia.

Anti-Monopoly Decree Hitting Boxing Hard

WASHINGTON (AP)—The International Boxing Club told the Supreme Court Thursday it thought it so hard by an anti-monopoly decree that even its twice-a-week nationally-televised fight series is in jeopardy.

Kenneth C. Royall, IBC lawyer called federal judge Sylvester J. Ryan in New York imposed punitive, oppressive and unnecessary penalties after finding the IBC guilty of violating the Sherman Anti-Trust Act.

Philip Elman of the justice department defended Ryan's judgment. He said it was intended to restore conditions as they were before James D. Norris and Arthur M. Wirtz constructed their boxing empire in 1949, and to encourage independent promoters to compete. Norris and Wirtz control IBC of New York and Chicago as well as the Garden and Chicago Stadium.

Royall asked the high court to absolve the defendants of monopoly charges or, at least, to soften the decree.

Harness Racing

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (CP)—Shadow Wave, one of the co-favorites Thursday was withdrawn from the final leg of the $75,000 American pacing classic at Hollywood Park Saturday.

Joe O'Brien, the trotter's veteran Canadian trainer and driver, examined Shadow Wave's lame leg and said:

"I'm terribly disappointed that Shadow Wave is unable to make it up to the race but he just isn't fit enough to tackle those tough, older horses."

Shadow Wave, owned by the S. A. Camp Farm, became lame after winning the second mile leg of the classic last week in a track record time of 1:56 3-5. The three-year-old has a history of lameness.

Tony Anthony Takes on Sharp One in Sunny Ray

NEW YORK (AP)—One "hot" home prospect will be cooled off tonight when favored Tony Anthony takes on Sunny Ray of Chicago in a 10-round match.

Anthony, top - ranking light heavyweight contender, has won six straight fights this year, five by knockouts. Ray, ranked sixth by Ring Magazine and 10th by the National Boxing Association among the 175 - pounders, has swept nine in a row in the last 16 months. Tony is a 5-to-4 choice to keep his streak alive.

It's a risky fight for the 23-year-old Ray tonight. He will collect about $5,000 just "to keep busy." A defeat by the compact, slinky character Ray would be damaging to Tony's light-heavyweight position and his heavyweight ambitions. A victory would add nothing to his prestige.

It is a big one for the 22-year old Ray. He hit the top ten rankings by stopping Jesse Bowdry in the ninth round last Sept. 24. Ray has an 18-5-6 record including seven knockouts. He has been stopped twice, Anthony has a 36-5-1 record, including 28 knockouts. His five defeats were by knockouts of technical knockouts.

Rookie Quarter, Jackson, New Golden Boy in Ottawa

OTTAWA (CP)—Rookie quarterback Russ Jackson is this town's new Golden Boy.

And the name may not be entirely inappropriate for the 22-year-old Jackson, one of the most exciting Ottawa ball players in years, was unsuspected as the Big Four Rough Riders by the club's original talent scouts, the Globe.

Golish, jealous plunging half of the 1950s, now is an RCAF officer, all spotted Jackson last year when he led Queen's University to a 58-0 romp over Royal Military College in Thursday's game.

The unassuming Jackson, nursing a slight charleyhorse when interviewed in Thursday's locker room, accepted congratulations for his superb quarterbacking Wednesday when Ottawa ousted Montreal from the Big Four playoffs, 21-14, to meet Toronto in the finals.

Jackson blocked for him in Montreal on Taylor's effective option play or end run.

"The guys on the line really blocked and it made all the difference in the world," he said.

How did it feel to be playing against Hamilton, his old hometown team?

SWELL TO WIN

"Real swell, especially when we win, because if you lose you get razzed when you go home. It's a lot more fun to win and do the razzing yourself."

Jackson, a handsome, six-foot blond with an easy smile, is only his second game as Riders' No. 1 quarterback, led Ottawa to its first victory over Toronto in five meetings during the regular schedule, a 40 yard win here two days ago. Before he won the starting assignment over import quarters, Jim Trimble, Jackson slowly by coach Frank Clair, being used in short spells when Ottawa were well ahead or hopelessly beaten.

Coach Clair, is mighty enthusiastic about Jackson, whom he describes as "the most promising Canadian player I have seen."

REGULAR NEXT YEAR

"He seems to have everything," Clair said. The coach appears to have settled on Jackson as his regular quarterback for next year and his talked in terms of finding the playoffs in their respective leagues, both Jackson was a good enough scholar at McMaster—where he majored in mathematics—to be nominated by his school for a Rhodes scholarship.

"I declined the offer because I wanted to play pro football and figured I could do my graduate work in Canada just as well," he said.

Jackson now is attending Ontario College of Education in Toronto, pursuing a grade 13 high school teacher's certificate.

He has been commuting back and forth, usually skipping the week's first three days of practice in Ottawa, but keeping in shape by private workouts at home. Next year he will teach in Ottawa.

Third Major Baseball Loop In Talking Stage Since Giants And Dodgers Left N.Y. Area

NEW YORK (AP) — For the first time since the Federal League set nearly 40 years ago organized baseball was confronted today with the threat of an independent third major league.

New York City, virtually abandoning hopes of obtaining a National League franchise, set in motion the drive for a new league.

Baseball officials already faced such problems as controlling television, anti-trust inquiries and enlarging minor leagues, meet the services move with general skepticism and comment. Even baseball minded people in major-minor minor league cities viewed the proposed warfare.

Baseball commissioner Ford Frick said: "Baseball is not going to be sledge-hammered."

WHERE WILL THEY FISH?

Frank Lane, general manager of Cleveland Indians, quipped: "First I think they have to find one team before they can catch eight."

But it was this inability of New York to catch a team to replace the Giants and Dodgers that spelled off the latest bomb.

William Shea, chairman of Mayor Robert Wagner's committee on baseball, announced at a press conference Thursday that the committee, convinced it is getting nowhere in its bid to lure a National League franchise, will start negotiations for a third major league with an unidentified National League executive.

Shea said the committee would like to see the league formed with the co-operation of the current majors.

GILES EVASIVE

He accused National League President Warren Giles of evasive action in New York's bid for a franchise.

Shea said groups in Toronto, Houston, Dallas-Fort Worth, Atlanta, Denver, Miami, Minneapolis-St. Paul, Detroit and several other cities on the continent are interested in a new league.

"If New York is in we have received assurances from these other cities that they will be in."

(In Washington Rudie Schaffer, general manager of the International League Maple Leafs, said the New York announcement "sounds fantastic.")

"Naturally we'd like to have major league baseball in Toronto, but I don't think we can do anything else than await developments out of New York.

"We'd be very willing to be part of a major-league organization. But it would be difficult for me, operating under the regulations of organized baseball, to help foster any movement outside of organized baseball.

"Anyway, there will be plenty of talk on the subject at the winter meetings in Washington next month."

NOT ENOUGH PLAYERS

The concept of a third major league is not new. Frick is for it. Most of the club owners favor it. But the general feeling is that the time is not ripe and there are not sufficient players or adequate playing sites available.

Shea would not say where the players would come from. He said the cities mentioned were ready to put up from $5,000,000 to $5,000,000 to start a team.

He also said the possibility of raiding established baseball cities' teams for players would be considered.

Congressman Emanuel Cellar, Democrat for New York and chairman of the House judiciary committee, said of the proposed league: "It's as welcomed as ice cool breeze in summer. It would break up the monopoly now held by the two old leagues."

GOALIE FINED

HERSHEY, Pa. (AP)—Hershey Bears of the American Hockey League Thursday fined goalie Gil Mayer $300 for refusing to report to Edmonton of the Western Hockey League. Mayer was to be sent to the Canadian team as an emergency replacement. Lloyd Gilmour, Bears' general manager, said Mayer is the first player on the team he has fined.

Barrie Flyers Break 7-Game Losing Slump

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Barrie Flyers broke out of a seven-game losing slump Thursday night to spend the Toronto Marlboros 7-3 and cling to a third-place tie with Guelph Biltmores.

The Bilts, meanwhile, were busy beating the Peterborough Petes 8-1. In a third game Toronto St. Michael's and the Hamilton Cubs, in last place with a 4-11 record, were idle.

Before leaving he said the Toronto would unveil a new offensive pattern against the Rough Riders when they beat in four of their five meetings in the regular schedule.

Second game of the two-game series was scheduled here Nov. 28 with the series winner going to Vancouver to play for the Grey Cup.

RADICAL CHANGES

"I don't know you'll find a radical change in our offence," Trimble said. "Our attack will be a blend of the plain and fancy. We won with the 'plain' last year. We had good success with the fancy this season. We'll have to have both if we hope to win next Saturday.

"Had Montreal won (the semi-final) we would have had to expect something fancy. As it is, we'll be facing the plain but rugged Rough Riders."

Trimble said his club was in fine shape physically after the layoff "but of course we won't know how we are mentally until game time."

WEEK OF WORK

Ticats have had a full schedule of workouts this week, apparently studying new patterns Trimble had cooked up for the final series. Monday they worked on goal-line plays to meet the Mont-real offence. Tuesday switched to anti-Ottawa tactics. When Ottawa won the sudden-death semi-final, the Tigers went full speed ahead on the Ottawa plays.

Defensive Dan Paquette, who played in the last three league games, and Leo Chandler have been left behind by the club. Paul Dekker will probably replace Paquette on defence Saturday. Tommy Grant went along but a chest injury is expected to keep him out of the lineup.

Bombers Now in Edmonton To Tackle Eskys in Finals

EDMONTON (CP) — Winnipeg Blue Bombers arrive by plane here today for the Western Interprovincial Football Union finals opener, and coach Bud Grant says he is looking for one of the best finals ever.

Both Bombers and Edmonton Eskimos plan brief workouts before resting for Saturday's game at 2 p.m. EST. Second of the best-of-three series will be Nov. 22 and Winnipeg Wednesday night and the third, if necessary, in Winnipeg Nov. 26.

Grant, after studying films of Eskimos' performance here, said he expects the playoff to be one of the best ever. "If it is possible to beat last year's three - game series."

Winnipeg won the first game of last year's series in Winnipeg, dropped the next in Edmonton, then defeated the Eskimos for the title by defeating Edmonton in a knotted game that went into overtime.

EXPECT COLD WEATHER

The teams will be banging heads Saturday in cold and cloudy weather, with temperatures in the low, about five or 10 degrees below the seasonal normal. Some snow flurries are forecast, but winds will be light.

Eskimos have played two games since defeating Saskatchewan Roughriders 36-13 in a two-game, total-point series. Bombers have the club with halfback troubles.

There is talk that Lyle will throw in Don Getty, a Montreal native who came to Eskimos from the University of Western Ontario, as quarterback and shift Jackie Parker to half.

Getty gained prominence in professional football when he played 1956 in the 1956 western playoffs. He also was used as Zak's first-string quarter that year against Montreal throughout the Grey Cup game, won easily by Edmonton.

TWO HALVES OUT

Weakness in the halfback position then brought Getty into play, but he was used sparingly until this year as Lyle goes into the final with one regular injured, and another away because of a death in his family.

Both are expected back Nov. 7. Fynn has injured ribs that may keep him on the bench. Saturday and Ralph Pfeifer, who came to Edmonton from Detroit Lions, left Tuesday when informed his father was killed in a car accident. Pfeifer will be back for the second game.

Bombers hold a brief meeting in Winnipeg Thursday night, then looked at films of Edmonton games, then worked on defending Eskimo plays.

Winnipeg safety Gerry Vincent suffered a neck injury. All-star tackle Buddy Tinsley has just come out of hospital after a bout with a virus infection but will dress for the game.

Hamilton TiCats Head for Ottawa And Big Game

HAMILTON (CP)—Coach Jim Trimble and his Hamilton Tiger-Cats football club headed for Ottawa Thursday night ahead of schedule with plans for a brief workout and a good rest before the opening of the Big Four finals Saturday against Ottawa Rough Riders.

Trimble, who had originally planned to fly the club to Ottawa today, put his 29 members on berths after deciding uncertain weather might mar the flight plans.

Before leaving he said the Tiger-cats would unveil a new offensive pattern against the Rough Riders when they beat in four of their five meetings in the regular schedule.

Second game of the two-game series was scheduled here Nov. 28 with the series winner going to Vancouver to play for the Grey Cup.

RADICAL CHANGES

"I don't know you'll find a radical change in our offence," Trimble said. "Our attack will be a blend of the plain and fancy. We won with the 'plain' last year. We had good success with the fancy this season. We'll have to have both if we hope to win next Saturday.

Toronto Blues Fill Half Of Berths on All-Star Team

By RON ANDREWS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO (CP)—The title-winning University of Toronto Blues filled half the berths on the 1958 Intercollegiate Senior all - star football team announced today. Two of their all-stars, halfbacks Tim Reid and Peter Joyce were the only unanimous selections for the team.

Four players from the runner up University of Western Ontario Mustangs, 1957 college champions were chosen along with two from McGill University Redmen, who finished in a third-place tie with Queen's University Golden Gaels. Queen's also started a rebuilding program this season under coach Frank Tindall, didn't get an all-star selection.

The team was selected by the Canadian Press by coaches, sports-writers and sportscasters in the four union cities. Voting was weighted to give equal balloting strength to each city in the league—Toronto, London, Montreal and Kingston.

THE TEAM

Flying wing—Wally Bulchak, McGill.

Half—Tim Reid, Toronto
Half—Peter Joyce, Toronto
Quarterback—Terry Loncaster, Jr., Western.

Quarter—Brian Aston, Toronto
Centre—Ed Meade, Western Guard—Curt Russell, Toronto
Guard—Bill Mitchell, Western Tackle—Ted Roman, Western Tackle—Santo Marotta, Toronto
End—Joe Poirier, McGill
End—Doug Baird, Queen's

Five players—Reid, Meade, Roman, Russell and Poirier—were holdovers from the 1957 team. It was the third year on the team for Reid and Russell and two years for Roman.

The 21-year-old Reid won the Yates championship with 68 points off 11 touchdowns and two singles. One of the writers voted for him in the flying wing spot. That's the position to which he was named last year following a 1957 halfback berth. During the 1957 season with the Blues Reid scored 101 points.

Joyce, a converted end, Reid sparked the powerful Blues' backfield as Toronto went through the season undefeated and untied. Joyce was the league's leading punter, rambling for 900 yards. He also scored 54 points from nine touchdowns to finish second in the scoring.

Choice of Aston, 22, Toronto, as quarterback ended a three-year reign by McGill's Dick Carr.

Bulchak got starting nod after a half but also led the balloting for the flying wing position. Coaches rounded out the backfield. Both men became all-stars for the first time.

It was the third straight year for Russell, a native of Ballinamore, Ont.

DEFENSIVE TERROR

Baird won his berth strictly on defensive ability. The 180-pounder was a terror to opposing quarterbacks.

Roman, a native of Kirkland Lake, Mitchell and Meade were the anchor men on Western's line. Meade, like Russell, is a former American player, having captained University of Michigan Wolverines. He was born in Oxford, Mich.

Poirier, 21, Verdun, Que., was one of the best pass catchers in the league.

Hamilton's Bench Strength Worries Ottawa Coach

By BERNARD DUFRESNE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP)—Coach Frank Clair, a frown on his brow and hope in his heart, is more than slightly worried by Hamilton Tiger-Cats' bench strength.

"What all they finished first in the standings, they have many reserves and they'll be fresh Saturday," he said last night after sending his Ottawa Rough Riders through a light workout.

The two teams meet tomorrow at 1 p.m. EST in the first round of a two-game, total-points series to decide the eastern champion and representative in the Grey Cup final in Vancouver Nov. 30. Second game of the series will be in Hamilton next Saturday.

Clair spent hours Thursday with his coach Bill Smyth going over films of Cats' performance in action, trying to figure ways of piercing the Tigers' tough defence and of containing their strong offence.

SOME NEW PLAYS

Then, after a conference with the players, he had them combining through "some new plays and variations of old ones, to loosen up some of the jitters left over from Riders' semi-final victory in Montreal Wednesday. They walloped Alouettes 26-12 in the sudden-death playoff.

Ticket sales for season subscribers were heavy, with a lineup of as many as 300 at the club's ticket office.

Overall, perhaps 12,000 is expected if the weather is good, but many may elect to watch the game on television locally.

The players were in high spirits for the practice, still basking on the exultation from having broken a five-year jinx in Montreal stadium, their home grounds.

MANY LIMPING

"Everybody's fine but everybody's limping," said Smyth, Clair's inseparable sidekick. There are no serious injuries.

"Those stiff legs will be okay by tomorrow," Clair said, adding that the team will hold another light drill tonight.

His only worries Clair is that Hamilton will have had a week's rest while his team will have had only three days.

Ticats were scheduled to arrive in Ottawa today and practise in the early afternoon.

In five meetings this year, Hamilton defeated Riders four times, losing the only two Saturday days at Ottawa's last scheduled home game.

Wellington

WELLINGTON — The regular meeting of St. Andrew's Guild was held at the home of Mrs. B. A. Evans with a good attendance.

The president, Mrs. D. Harrington, presided and opened the meeting.

In the absence of Mrs. Gray, the secretary, the minutes were taken by Mrs. T. Boyle. The treasurer, Mrs. Lane, gave her report showing a good balance on hand.

Arrangements were made for the annual bazaar to be held Thursday, Nov. 27th, in the town hall. All plans were completed.

The December meeting is to be held in the town hall in the form of a pot - luck supper, after which election of officers for next year will be held.

The president closed the meeting and Mrs. Evans served refreshments. All enjoyed a social half-hour.

TWEED

Stoco District Honors Couple With Party

TWEED — Friends and neighbors in the Stoco district planned a surprise farewell party for Mr. and Mrs. Fred Healey on an evening recently, prior to their moving to Tweed. Mr. Healey, a well-known farmer in the Stoco area all his life on his retirement a few months ago, purchased a new home on Biven Street, in Tweed, where they moved recently.

During the evening an address of appreciation was read to Josephine and Fred expressing the esteem in which they are held by their friends and neighbors. It also expressed the hope that their new acquaintances in Tweed will "learn to love and appreciate you for your many good qualities," and that much sun of happiness may shine upon you always.

They were then presented with a large mirror on behalf of the community.

The evening was spent in cards and dancing which were much enjoyed.

FRANKFORD

To Open New Water System November 15

FRANKFORD — Tentative date for the opening of Frankford's new water and sewage system is November 15th.

While the date may be somewhat later due to the necessity of ensuring that all phases of the system are in good working order, Reeve George Spencer anticipates the system will open close to that date.

The system will not be declared officially open until the Ontario Water Resources Commissioners exhibit has approved and financed the project, approves it completely.

Water for the system comes from the springs on the west side of Frankford. Near the stand pipe is a pumping station which supplies the village. The sewage disposal plant is located on North Trent St. Sewers and water mains are installed on Mill St., North Trent St., Victoria St., King St., Scott St., Elgin St. and Bridge St. Over one hundred and ten individual services have been installed.

Total cost of the system will be $215,000. The present system supplies only the central portion of Frankford. No immediate plans have been made to extend it to the rest of the community. A 30-year debenture will cover the costs. This will be repaid out of operating revenue as it matures.

Work on the project started in May. It will be in use, as predicted well before Christmas.

It will be operated at first by the Ontario Water Resources Commission. Later, when it is operating successfully, the system will be turned over to the village council, who will be responsible for its operation. Ceremonies are planned in connection with the official opening.

Construction of the sewage disposal plant will eliminate the present septic tanks in common use in the area now being served by the plant.

Its treated waste will not in any way contaminate the Trent River.

Sunday School Lesson

The Healing Power of Faith

By ROY L. SMITH

It is the almost universal testimony of the psychiatrist that three of their patients who have a substantial religious faith seem to enjoy a better chance of recovery from their mental maladjustments. Dr. Carl Jung, one of the most famous, has said that at least 95% of those who came to him for professional care were people who either had never had, or had lost, their faith.

FAITH AN ATTITUDE

Many religious people pray for faith as though it were some kind of a gift divinely bestowed. Jesus seems to have treated it as though it were an attitude that any man could assume. In fact, he commended the faith of pagans on numerous occasions that attitude of receptivity which made it possible for him to work with healing power.

The Uniform Sunday School Lesson for November 16: "JESUS' HEALING MINISTRY." Matthew 8:1-17; Mark 1:29-34.

Faith is an attitude that any of us can choose. It is not a "talent," such as an aptitude for music, mechanics, or scientific research. It is not every man who can sing tenor. For that matter, it is not every man who can sing. But any man can have faith, if he chooses.

SCIENTIFIC FAITH

If often happens that credulity is confused with faith. We believe a thing is true, and can be depended upon, because it is ginned into our ears by the propagandists day after day. There was a time during which the German people believed Hitler's big lies, and went out to bear arms under his orders without asking questions. About the same time other people were putting equal trust in Josef Stalin who used much the same technique. Today literally millions will say of both dictators, "We did not know the facts."

A scientific faith is that quality of mind that stands ready to act on the facts as soon as they are known to be facts. And, once that they have arrived at the outer edge of the known, they are willing to go forward on the basis of the probable unknown.

Long before Louis Pasteur had isolated the bacillus that causes rabies (it has not yet been isolated) he administered the anti-toxin which he believed would cure the afflicted boy. But he knew he was working along the line of a dependable principle.

FAITH MUST TAKE ACTION

The automobile mechanic who had come out on the highway to get our car started made a careful examination of the engine under the hood. He tested the tumer, the spark, and the gasoline line. Then, having made one or two minor adjustments he dropped the hood and said, "Now it will go."

"How do you know it will go?" we asked him.

"It has gas, and spark, and everything. I adjusted the timer and the carburetor and it has to go."

He knew where was a law which operated inside the piston of an internal combustion engine. When he had met the conditions, the gas would fire and produce the power. It had to go.

There are rules designed for the living of life. Meet the conditions of those rules, and then proceed as if it has to go. There is no question about that.

Faith, to be faith, must be aggressive and take action.

Expect U.S. Will Test Soviets With Another Convoy

Russian Soldiers Block One for 8½ Hours

BERLIN (AP) — The U.S. Army is expected to send another truck convoy West Sunday in a test of Russian demands that the West quit Berlin.

Russian soldiers Friday blocked a routine three - truck convoy at the Helmstedt - Marienborn checkpoint between West Germany and East Germany for eight hours. The U.S. army said the Russians broke established procedures by making unauthorized demands to inspect the trucks.

Civilian highway traffic was moving West today without hindrance. Traffic and air traffic also was normal. The U.S., British and French military garrisons in Berlin get most of their supplies by rail, making little supply use of the 110-mile autobahn through the Soviet zone.

Soviet Premier Khrushchev declared in Moscow Friday that military forces be withdrawn from Berlin. All Western allies say they are here by right of conquest and will use force if necessary to remain.

Khrushchev said Friday night that Soviet - U.S. relations will be normalized if it would fight the idea of war propaganda.

"The Soviet government is preparing an appropriate document and will submit it shortly," Khrushchev said in a speech reported by Tass news agency. "We intend to make definite proposals to the countries that took part in the Geneva conference on Germany and fascis Italy."

FIRST INCIDENT

The Friday incident was the first harassment of Western forces in Berlin since Khrushchev opened his campaign. But the Soviet demand to inspect U.S. Army trucks crossing East Germany is an old issue. The Allies say the Russians are entitled only to examine truck manifest papers.

There has been speculation here that the Russians might block the communications link the West or turn control points over to the East Germans. The Allies have vowed to deal only with the East German regime on the ground that it is a recognized government.

There would be little the Allies could do if the East Germans take over traffic controls but to refuse to deal with the Communist aric.

An airlift to supply Allied garrisons would be more dangerous than in the 1948-49 surface blockade. There is now a higher ceiling on duty in the four-power Air Safety Center here, and controls the three aerial corridors to the West.

Without this Russian participation there would be no requirement of safe air travel in Berlin.

Soviet jamming of radio challenge planes flying over East Germany would permit the Allied flights to be construed by the East Germans as a trespass, and Khrushchev has said the Soviet would back up the East German regime if it is attacked.

Tyrone Power Dies Suddenly Of Heart Attack

MADRID (AP)—American actor Tyrone Power died today of a heart attack. He was stricken while playing the role of King Solomon.

Power, 45, was stricken after shooting a scene in the Biblical film Solomon and Sheba in which he was starring with Gina Lollobrigida, George Sanders and Marisa Pavan.

The veteran actor virtually abandoned Hollywood at the height of his movie fame and went back to the stage in 1952. He returned to Hollywood only for an occasional film.

While he maintained a home in Hollywood, he spent a great deal of his time in Mexico and Europe.

TOP MOVIE HEARTS

Power was one of the top money-making stars in the movies in 1938, 1939 and 1940.

Born in Cincinnati, Ohio, May 5, 1913, he was the third in a line of actors named Tyrone Power. His great grandfather was an Irish comedian and his father a Shakespearean actor.

Power enrolled in the U.S. Marines in August 1942 at San Diego. He flew with the Marine Transport Command in the Pacific.

THRICE MARRIED

Power was married to French actress Annabella (Suzanne Georget Charpentier) in 1939. They were divorced on Jan. 30, 1948 — a year later, on the day the divorce became final in California, Power was married to Linda Christian in Rome in a ceremony that movie fans turned into a near riot.

They had two daughters, Miss Christian obtained a divorce in 1955. She received a $1,000,000 settlement.

Power was married to Mrs. Deborha Minardos, 36-year-old divorcee, in a ceremony at Tucson, Miss., last May 8.

She is expecting a baby in February.

STANDOUT FILMS

His movies included such standouts as Lloyds of London, In Old Chicago, Alexander's Ragtime Band, Marie Antoinette, Rose of Washington Square, Jesse James, The Black Camel, Brigham Young, The Mark of Zorro, Blood and Sand, Johnny Grey Lost Eddy Duchin Story, The Sun Also Rises and Witness for the Prosecution.

On the stage, Power toured in John Brown's Body in 1952. He was on Broadway opposite Katherine Cornell in The Dark is Light Enough in 1955 and in Mister Roberts.

This year he made an 11-week tour of cities in the eastern states in George Bernard Shaw's Back to Methuselah. ..

Diefenbaker Asked to Aid Pakistan Set up Atomic Research Reactor

KARACHI (CP)—The new Pakistan government today asked Canadian aid under the Colombo Plan for an atomic research reactor, it was learned today.

This was one of the major proposals presented to President Ayub Khan in talks with Prime Minister Diefenbaker that lasted almost two hours — about twice the time their conference was expected to last.

It is understood that Diefenbaker, who is on a world tour, advocated that an in - service course of Canadian Colombo Plan facilities be made available to the new government.

Immediate Canadian reaction to the atomic reactor proposal could not be learned. However, it is doubtful whether a start on such a project could be considered before completion of the giant Warsak power-irrigation project in northern Pakistan — the largest single Canadian Colombo Plan project. Until last spring Canada's contributions to it totalled

EX-MINISTER, COMPANY HEAD GIVEN 5 YEARS

Guilty of Bribery And Conspiracy

VANCOUVER (CP)—Robert E. Sommers and H. Wilson Gray were sentenced Friday to five years in prison for bribery and conspiracy.

Sommers, 47, is former lands and forests minister of British Columbia. Gray, 52, is a former father of six children, heads a timber company. He was convicted of passing $100,000 worth of bribes to Sommers in return for consideration in granting timber licenses.

Mr. Justice J. O. Wilson of the B.C. Supreme Court also ordered Sommers to pay $125 in fines or spend a further five weeks in jail. Gray was fined $300 with an alternative of an additional eight weeks. Two firms controlled by Gray were fined more than $1,000.

Sommers was convicted last week on one charge of conspiracy and two charges of bribery. Gray was found guilty on eight charges. Mr. Justice Wilson referred to them as "scoundrels."

MAY APPEAL

Counsel said the possibility of an appeal is under consideration. It could be launched anytime before Dec. 15. The two men were released on Oakalla prison farm in suburban Burnaby to undergo classification.

First offenders normally are sent from the prison to the new minimum security institution at Haney, B.C., or the "prison without bars" at Gold Creek, B.C.

Mr. Justice Wilson said evidence showed Sommers and Gray "deluded the political and moral standards of the province over a period of many years, resorting to every sort and shape of device to conceal your iniquities."

Agriculture Says Big Firms Try to Control Food Industry

OTTAWA (CP) — Organized agriculture says a few corporate enterprises, "in their utter ruthlessness," are out to dictate to the Canadian way of life to gain control of the food industry.

The Interprovincial Farm Union Council, representing farm unions in Ontario and the four western provinces, made the charge in a brief submitted Friday to the royal commission on price spread of food products.

"It is a matter of grave concern to us that the food industry is falling completely into the hands of a very few individuals," the brief said, pointing to a year of recession in agriculture with the retailer's increasing profit of passing $100,000 worth of bribes to Sommers in return for consideration in granting timber licenses.

Mr. Justice J. O. Wilson of the B.C. Supreme Court also ordered Sommers to pay $125 in fines or spend a further five weeks in jail. Gray was fined $300 with an alternative of an additional eight weeks. Two firms controlled by Gray were fined more than $1,000.

Sommers was convicted last week on one charge of conspiracy and two charges of bribery. Gray was found guilty on eight charges. Mr. Justice Wilson referred to them as "scoundrels."

MAY APPEAL

Counsel said the possibility of an appeal is under consideration. It could be launched anytime before Dec. 15. The two men were released on Oakalla prison farm in suburban Burnaby to undergo classification.

First offenders normally are sent from the prison to the new minimum security institution at Haney, B.C., or the "prison without bars" at Gold Creek, B.C.

Mr. Justice Wilson said evidence showed Sommers and Gray "deluded the political and moral standards of the province over a period of many years, resorting to every sort and shape of device to conceal your iniquities."

May Be Tough Job Imposing Anti-Dumping Rules on Goods

OTTAWA (CP) — Trade skirmishes between Canada and the United States appear to indicate that Canada will have a tough time trying to impose anti-dumping regulations on American goods.

The U.S., which charged that Canada's new anti-dumping laws violate international agreements, has announced countervailing duties if a freer hand in the disposal of surplus wheat and other food through barter deals.

The Canadian government now fears the U.S. may use these barter deals to dump surplus wheat in traditional markets overseas, including Canadian "shares" for sales.

Acting prime minister Green said in the Commons Friday the government received assurances that the U.S. will not try to beat Canada in these barter deals, yet he expressed regret that American sales could not be suspended.

Despite there has not yet been time to judge the full implications for Canadian trade of these deals, it is clear that the new foreshadow an increase in the volume of U.S. surplus disposal at the expense of ordinary commercial sales which would be a matter of concern to the Canadian government."

In the first two months of the current crop year, Canada's wheat exports dropped to 44,500,000 bushels from 51,600,000 last year. Wheat stocks in the U.S. increased to 70,300,000 from 68,100,000.

The U.S. has a huge wheat surplus. Competition for markets is increasing. While Canada has developed of some wheat through grits and long - term loans, she has also developed a reputation as a big chunk of her exports.

The U.S. has its largest treasury, has a larger giveaway program. It also barters surplus food for strategic materials, such as tin and zinc, which it stores for defence.

A few months ago the U.S. lodged sharp protests against the European Common Market's new anti-dumping regulations, which it said were aimed particularly at low-priced American textiles.

Under these laws, which brought protests not only from the U.S. but also other exporting countries the government can collect duties on imports if it finds the price of the imported product does not include a "reasonable" profit margin.

The U.S. charged both that these violations of Canada's obligations under the multi-country General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade. Canada replied coolly that it was not. So far the law has not been applied against any specific product.

B.C. Power Commission Head Fired for Verbal Attacks

VICTORIA (CP)—One of British Columbia's top civil servants has been fired for verbal attacks on the provincial government, a Liberal MLA charged today as head of B.C.'s best known enterprises.

H. Lee Briggs, 53, general manager of the publicly-owned B.C. Power Commission, said Friday he was dismissed as chairman of the province's three-man board. He is a professional electrical engineer who was formerly general manager of the City Hydro Power Commission in Winnipeg before coming to B.C. in 1953.

The fade started last Wednesday when Mr. Briggs who joined the commission three years ago, criticized the failure of provincial premises to have the province share of the power debt by 1965.

Other developments followed and on Friday:

1. Mr. Briggs issued another statement, his third, containing a scathing attack on the B.C. Electric Company.

2. Mr. Briggs was fired.

3. He issued his fourth statement criticizing government dealings with the Wenner-Gren group planning to develop part of B.C.'s north.

4. Premier Bennett, president of B.C. Electric, denied Mr. Briggs' claims concerning B.C. Hydro.

Mr. Briggs' first statement accused Mr. Bennett of forcing the power commission to issue a $20,000,000 bond issue floated by the government to finance the commission's some years ago.

He said the rearrangement of B.C. Hydro's financial affairs failed to fulfil the premier's promise to eliminate provincial debt by 1965.

Mr. Briggs issued a second statement on Thursday, criticizing three "high offices" held by Einar M. Gunderson, former minister of finance for B.C. and a close friend of the premier's.

The offices: executive vice - president of Pacific Great Eastern Railway, director of the Western Canada Steamship Co. and chairman of the Canadian Overseas Telecommunications Corp.

Four Of Hunting Party Drowned; Boat Overturns

Woman Sole Survivor Of North Bay Tragedy

NORTH BAY (CP) — Four Southern Ontario hunters were drowned Friday night when a loaded motorboat overturned in Angus Lake 45 miles north of here.

The sole survivor, Mrs. Marion Stewart, 39, of Wallaceburg, was rescued clinging to the overturned craft. Her husband was among the drowned.

Provincial Const. Fred Gonyou, also of Wallaceburg, hauled another boat and motor across a 40-foot portage to get to the scene.

Dragged under by their hunting boots and heavy clothing were Edward Hunt, 36, and his brother Gerald, 47, both of Wallaceburg, and Lorne Williams, 31, and Murray McGugan, about 30, both of St. Thomas.

BOAT FLIPPED OVER

Mrs. Stewart said she believes one of them overloaded the outboard engine pushed it to the "fast" position in error during a turn. The roaring engine flipped the boat over and tossed all five out.

The woman had to swim 25 feet to reach the shore of Bear Island in Sloman's, who had stayed behind at a deer-hunting camp, said: "If I'd left them I wouldn't for help. We had to run across the portage and get up a fire and then go back for the motor. Only my wife, who is not a powerful swimmer, and myself are still at the boat."

Earlier the party had killed two deer in the bush near Jumping Caribou Lake. They were hunting Caribou Lake, they were hunting Caribou and Agnus and then decided the five should go ahead to a cottage.

Subway Costs Up a Million Says Paper

TORONTO (CP) — The Telegram says cost of the proposed east-west subway in Toronto has increased by $1,000,000 since last September because of delays and legal wrangling.

The last official subway cost estimate was $200,948,000.

The newspaper says part of the increase is due to recent wage increases and the higher cost of money, which the paper says is expected to result in a $3-a-ton increase in steel prices.

The subway cost increase due this to delays totals $1,000,000, The Telegram says, while opposition to the subway by some residents has added $1,000,000 more. Council foodstuffs from certif negotiations with its European associates.

Argentine Vice-President Appeals To Rival for Protection From Mob

BUENOS AIRES (AP) — Vice-President Alejandro Gomez, accused of attempting a palace coup in Argentina, held onto his job today despite a mob attack on his headquarters.

Gomez appealed by telegram to President Arturo Frondizi that his life was threatened by a mob that stormed his headquarters, forced himself and family Friday night to flee with their wives and young men and girls broke into his office shouting, "Resign traitor." Gomez said a gun was held to his head.

Frondizi at the time, making a recording for radio broadcast, and Gomez kept the attackers at bay until five vice-president could escape to strike.

The mob smashed into the outer office with clubs, and then stormed about for 30 minutes, wrecking furniture, breaking windows and destroying papers before some senators persuaded them to leave.

Gomez appealed for protection when the attack was reported. He told to seek help from the interior ministry, which supervises police, Police later threw a guard around the Gomez home and announced extra police would be on duty at the building for the seven-day period.

The government meanwhile took additional precautions to defend itself. Military guards with machine guns were increased at Government House and at strategic points.

The war ministry announced it was drawing up orders to put Argentina under martial law if the situation worsened. Frondizi ordered the arrest Friday night of siege and rounded up hundreds of Peronists. His friends, Peronists and nationalists to cope with a threatened oilworkers strike.

Many of those arrested were released later, but about 70 have been sent to a navy prison.

Pressure on Gomez to resign mounted in the wake of charges he had proposed that Frondizi resign and had suggested he had military support for formation of a coalition government.

Gomez denied that his gunmen, declaring he has done nothing

Large Transport Made to Back Off Town Bridge

Town Police also had troubles on the town bridge last night when a large transport tried to get across and was stopped by the cruiser and mail, back off.

According to the police report the big truck, driven by Daniel Reddick of Edmonton, Alberta, approached the bridge from the east side and had made an attempt to get across.

To make matters worse the truck hit the sidewalk on the east approach when backing up and damaged it. Repairs were required before the heavy traffic began this morning.

Rev. M. Putnam To Speak at St. Andrew's

The Rev. Max V. Putnam, of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, Kingston, will be guest minister on Sunday at one of St. Andrew's oldest churches, to celebrate its 127th anniversary.

A native of Smiths Falls, Ont., Mr. Putnam served with the Canadian Army overseas during the Second World War. In 1948 he graduated in Arts from Queen's College and three years later in Theology from Knox College, Toronto. Before going to Kingston Mr. Putnam served churches in Toronto and Lindsay. He was re-instated loss of income to Belleville at five million dollars. Mr. Ashmall explains how freight work has been handled, likewise why the company wants to change this situation and presents an alternative plan for achieving the desired improvement if petitioners withhold objection to affecting Belleville's position.

In order to dispel certain rumors in connection with this issue with which we are presently faced, and to bring to the public a true picture of the facts, the undersigned, as the elected representatives of the municipality, deem it advisable to state the true facts as we know them and outline our position in this very important matter.

What the issue is about:—

The Canadian National Railway has advised that because of work being enjoyed by men living at Belleville is to be taken away from them and relocated to Mimico, Cabooses to be put on at Mimico and changed in the Mimico yard. Men to be home terminalled at Mimico instead of Belleville or Smiths Falls, Brockville. Westward trains to operate in the same manner with through loose rest of Montreal in Mimico.

This is directly affected:—

At present this will affect 36 men, brakemen and conductors. As the C.N.R. has stated that the anticipated changes it will make in the Cargo Analysis will be successful in forcing this on us, until all the train crews, engine crews, yard crews and other personnel numbering several hundreds would be affected.

What it would mean to those directly affected:—

It would be necessary for them to move from Belleville to other points where they stood for work, disposing of their homes and leaving all their friends and pleasant friendships of long standing.

What it would mean to the city of Belleville and residents:

Most importantly would be the loss of income to Belleville of some five million dollars yearly. It is not difficult to visualize the drastic effect this would have on a city of this size. The loss would be seriously felt by businessmen, merchants and their employees and would seriously deflate the value of property, thereby affecting the property owners in the city. Belleville is presently faced with a serious unemployment situation, and if this plan were to be effected, many industries such as sales help, clerks, route delivery men, services of many employees and others other workers too numerous to mention, would join the ranks of the unemployed. Virtually every business and industry in the city would be affected by the loss of income and this in term would have a drastic reduction on the working force. Looking at it in this light it can be plainly seen that this would be a fatal blow to the economy of the citizens of Belleville.

How the freight work has been handled on the Belleville Division up to now:

In this Belleville was designated as home terminal for all freight work east of Toronto to Brockville, Ont., and all such work west of Brockville, Ont., to the Montreal east station on the Division. Men were employed here and did this was where they would work from. At that time Belleville was but a growing thriving community of about eight thousand. With the establishment of the railway here the town grew and prospered to what it is today. All present and prospective conductor and brakemen work together as a team and assigned a caboose, which they retain and in which they carry the various articles of clothing necessary to cope with the weather conditions, and other equipment required in their work, and this caboose is home to them at the other end of the run, and they in turn bring their crew to return to Belleville. Our crews run from Belleville to Mimico and from Belleville to Brockville. For example a train may take a train from here to Mimico, lays over there until required to move another train back to Belleville. This train is down work on arrival at Belleville. Cabooses are changed and another crew takes over for Belleville, Brockville or Montreal crew takes over and cabooses are again changed.

Why the Company wants to change this system?

To effect the abolition of fast freight trains and save money by forcing men to maintain so many cabooses.

What we are prepared to do:

We fully realize that we must co-operate in every way possible to make these proposals acceptable to ourselves to go along with the company's proposal in the interest of economy which would be put on at Mimico. We are willing to go to Montreal vice versa. This would mean that we would have to carry a change of clothing and be served with us and would also mean considerable hardship for us to be away from our home and other accommodation.

This concession alone would be of considerable benefit in saving in operation and save countless thousands in maintaining cabooses. This can be arranged without uprooting the men in Belleville as there are alternative methods which would be acceptable to the company, for the company, which would be acceptable to our men, even though it means an objection for the company, which would be acceptable to our men, even though it means an objection for the company, which would be acceptable to our men, even though it means an objection

Miss Gwetholyne Cathers, Bleecker Ave., and Ian Finnigan, Frankford, who escaped injury last night when their car crashed through sidewalk barricade at the corner of Front and Bridge Streets.

Car Rams Through Barricade At Downtown Intersection

A nineteen-year-old Frankford youth and his young companion narrowly escaped injury shortly before midnight last night when their car rammed through a sidewalk barricade at Belleville's main downtown intersection and came to rest in what is to be the new Toronto-Dominion Bank.

Driver of the car was Ian Finnigan with Gwetholyne Cathers, Bleecker avenue, as his passenger.

Police said the couple were driving south on Front street and in attempting to make a right hand turn onto Bridge street nicked a station wagon.

The car then veered out of control, swung back to the north side of Bridge street, mounted the sidewalk and crashed through the wooden sidewalk barricade protecting the bank property during reconstruction.

The accident happened about 11:30 just after the arena crowd leaving the night's hockey game had cleared away. Fortunately nobody was on the sidewalk as the car rammed through the barricade.

Also fortunate was the fact that only the day before workmen had filled the bank basement with sand preparatory to installing a new floor. If the basement had been empty the car would have dropped ten feet down from the sidewalk and possibly pinned its occupants in. As it was the couple escaped with only a good scare.

Damage to the station wagon driven by Marvin Millard of Dundas street, was negligible and to the Finnigan car about $200.

A Frankford owned car which late last night crashed through the sidewalk barricade and into the basement of the new Toronto-Dominion bank building now under construction, is shown about to be hauled away. Driver of the car, Ian Finnigan, age 19, and his passenger Gwethelyne Cathers, Belleville, escaped with a scare.

A MEAL IN THIRTY MINUTES?

We would not advise Mr. Leon Miller, president of General Foods Ltd., to pay a visit to Belleville today.

Appearing before the Royal Commission on Price Spreads of Food Products at Ottawa on Thursday, Mr. Miller said that the average Canadian housewife spends about 90 minutes daily preparing the usual three meals for her family.

That works out to 30 minutes a meal. We are reluctant to believe that Belleville Housewives subject their families to such hastily concocted repasts. And that is why we advise Mr. Miller to stay away from Belleville for a while. He might be met by an indignant group of home makers.

Come to think of it, though, if there is any basis in fact for Mr. Miller's estimate, he might be even less welcome elsewhere. If the Canadian average is 90 minutes, and Belleville housewives spend much longer, then it follows that in some cities meals must be prepared even faster. There is only one person more annoyed than a man who has to wait for a meal—and that is a person who is justly accused.

Mr. Miller, though, may have earned the gratitude of housewives throughout the country for another remark. He says that the Canadian consumer "is spending more for her family's food than she did 10 years ago", not just paying out more dollars from a larger income but actually spending a greater percentage of this income. That may help housewives who are juging that they need more money to keep the table.

t may — if Pop does not read about the reason for his increased expenditure, which if we interpret Mr. Miller's testimony right, is that, in his opinion, the consumer wishes more services and less of the farmer's product before she purchases it from the grocery store's shelf."

This demand for more services is the reason the farmer is receiving, (Mr. Miller says "appears" to be receiving), a smaller share of increased expenditures for food.

This, of course, makes the farmer unhappy, so that may make him Pop's ally in the battle over the food budget.

Mr. Miller, on the other hand, seems quite happy about this increased expenditure, which makes him Mom's ally. ~

The alliance might have been happier if he had not mentioned that only 90 minutes were needed daily to prepare three meals.

AMBASSADORS TO GEORGIA

When the Governor of Georgia invited the survivors of the Springhill mine disaster to visit that state for an all-expenses-paid holiday it was a heart-warming gesture.

Canadians were proud when the miners declined the offer because one of their number, a mulatto, would have been segregated from them under Georgia laws.

The mulatto, though, made a decision which, in our opinion, matched the courage he had shown during those dark days of entombment. Maurice Ruddicks said he and his family would make the trip, accept segregation, so that his comrades could enjoy the holiday they deserved.

Some people, though, are not satisfied with this arrangement.

They think Mr. Ruddick's decision, and that of his comrades, is wrong. They think that this acceptance of segregation is playing into the hands of the segregationists, that an opportunity to get publicity for the case against segregation is being lost.

We disagree.

We doubt whether any amount of unfavorable publicity would result in any segregationist changing his opinions.

We think it just possible, though, that if Maurice Ruddick goes to Georgia with his white comrades, and if during that visit these white miners have the opportunity to demonstrate in public their affection and respect for Ruddick, some doubts regarding segregation may be raised in the minds of some natives of Georgia to whom the segregation of the races has been a fact of every day life. At least they will have brought home to them that there are brave white men who recognize a brave colored man as their equal in every way.

ROAD OF SORROW

By EDGAR A. GUEST

long the Road of Sorrow
All the fairest roses bloom,
And it's there the glad Innocence
Smiles a welcome through the gloom.
On the Road of Heartache only
Can you find the way to rest;
All the other paths are lonely,
But the Road of Grief is blest.

It is there words are consoling,
And the pressure of a hand
Has a way beyond controlling,
For it makes you understand
That the broken who comes cheering

Knows the meshing of your woe.
Though his skies, perhaps, are clearing,
He has suffered what you know.

Yes, along the Road of Sorrow
There the fairest roses sway,
And the brave hearts seek the morrow
As a brighter, better day.
It is there you find believing,
And the truest comfort known;
For along the Road of Grieving
No one ever plods alone.

Containers Should Open

Hamilton Spectator

We note with considerable satisfaction the remarks made the other day by Mrs. R. W. Morrisgatar, national chairman of the food committee of the Canadian Consumers Association. Housewives, she said, want containers that are handy and easy to open, and are beginning to suspect that elaborate and expensive packages are provided at the expense of the foodstuff contained therein.

We agree. We are becoming tired of a little tired of boxes gaudy with labels, tinsel and fancy fripperies, tired of the interminable layers of wax paper and aluminum foil, tired of "fancy-packs", "triple-wrapt", "sealed-this" and "sealed-that". Sometimes we almost wish we could find a box that is just a box, cracker-barrel again, when all we bought was a biscuit and the grocer got fifty cents back on the returned barrel.

It's time, too, that somebody reminded the packaging people that their products have to be opened. Despite the dainty little tabs, the cunningly devised slotted lines, and instructions to push or pull here or there, many of today's boxes seem to have been designed purely to frustrate and baffle the housewife.

Let's have a little less nonsense and a lot more common sense in food packaging. Let's make our grocery a place to find food, and leave the baubles and the gew-gaws to the novelty store!

Every Man Has Own Pace

Detroit Free Press

Time, the news magazine, recently took up the subject of energetic advanced age. It presented a long list of widely known Americans who, in their 60s and late 70s, are enjoyers of life and doers of tasks that call for a vitality commonly ascribed to youth and the middle years.

What struck us about all these people was the broad range of individuality and to what manner of living accounted for their mentality, physique and activities. No two of them seemed to prescribe exactly the same regimen. Altogether, they gave strong support to a theory we've always had: that what's good for the one fellow may not suit the next one at all, and in fact perhaps hurt him. The way for a man to live long and usefully, it would seem, is to find his particular best pace and keep to it.

Bus Drivers of Mons

A. McIntyre Hood writing from London, England, in the Sarnia Observer

A small group of men as semi-formal as a dinner in the Connaught Rooms, or Holborn the other evening for a sentimental reunion. There was not them all and told. It was, the 46th successive year in which they have met on October to recall past days which were both glorious and tragic. There 36 men were the survivors of the London bus drivers who took their buses over to Belgium and France in the disastrous fall of 1914 to join the ghastly retreat from Mons of the Old Contemptibles of the British Army.

Each year the members of the Auxiliary Omnibus Comrades' Association. At their first reunion dinner, there were 250 of them. Down through the years the number has shrunk until only 36 are left. They paid a weekly subscription of about 25 cents. The money went to help in the relief of those in distress, and to provide the annual dinner. But this year's may be the last. The surviving drivers do not think it likely that their funds will be up to the dinner. Of the 36 who are left, there are still working as bus drivers.

Dean of the group is William Morton, now 80 years old and living in Hampstead. He was one of the 90 bus drivers who went to Belgium with the Royal Naval Division in August, 1914. They landed at Dunkirk, and drove to Antwerp, where they were greeted by Sir Winston Churchill, then

Mr. Churchill, First Lord of the Admiralty.

Twenty four hours later, they were in the midst of the great retreat. Mr. Morton recalls that he was one of a number of men given the job of blowing their buses up to prevent them falling into the hands of the enemy.

A further contingent of 150 bus drivers joined the Corps two months later, and Mr. Wine of these who was at the reunion dinner the other night was Archibald Smith, of Wellington Road, London. He, too, had vivid memories of their campaign of war service. "So urgently were we needed" he said, "That we had no time to stop for meals, but were given the advertising signs before embarking."

Considering who served in the CEF in France and Belgium in the early year of the First World War will well remember some buses and their drivers. How often they were taken up to work the lines in these old London transport units.

The Canadian Pacific Railways acters, fall of all the wt and regrets included every farm in an area of close to two thousand acres. They then invited a group of city businessmen and sportsmen to lease the shooting rights on the property. Wine and wire there are no trespassers. The warden also rears a quantity of privately purchased pheasants to liberate in the syndicate, as additional targets for the guns.

Everybody by happy except the literary reporters, who brought on themselves by arrogant, sometimes mischievous and unseasonable behavior.

No Job This For a Robot

Minneapolis Tribune

We are aware that robot calculator, Univac, now is busily mimicing whether men and women will be elected. Sixteen are mailed to each other.

We think this is carrying mechanical prognosis too far. Let Univac stick to forecasting by-laws and leave the turning out payroll cheques and performing monumental feats of calculation.

But let it keep its gears out of the human heart business. It seems in distinctly poor taste to feed statistics concerning love into a machine in the same impersonal manner that one would feed data on political candidates.

Besides we are confident that romance, which defies human analysis will also prove too much for a mechanical brain.

Organization Breaks Down

New York Times

The state of disorganization in which this over-organized civilization of ours is falling down itself in bits as well as in big ones.

New York City, for example, is probably the most highly developed and complex urban organization in the world, and futuristic structures we have built is getting to the point that it is beginning to look as though complete breakdown could come about almost any time, no matter how trivial or accidental, probably, the wail of a horseshoe nail.

The other day — and it is the sort of thing that happens every time that the extraordinary phenomenon of a passenger-less megalopolis — it took a traveller who had made a scheduled flight from Virginia to Idlewild in an hour and a half exactly one hour and a half to get from the airport to mid-Manhattan. Why? Because the wonderfully organized airlines have a wonderfully organized airport are so disorganized that effective use by any passenger of his own luggage from the plane he arrived on is impossible, and so is the problem. Because an airless-terminal bus becomes available, he was illegally parked cars and cannot get away from the curb. Because at the moment Airlines Terminal the only means of getting a taxi is to stand in the way of all the other people trying to get a taxi too — some of the latter quite often there is a surplus of people and a shortage of cabs, as a matter of fact, but when it rains. The same chaotic condition exists at the Grand Central railroad city. Even so simple a device for preserving order as a ticket system — a numbered ticket with a number, thereby informing the dispatcher when to open the last-loading platform, has not penetrated the jungles of New York.

We spend money for flags on Fifth Avenue, for chrome on cars, for high-pressured public relations at our airports; but we do not spend a penny at all living with the monster our mechanical and industrial genius has created.

Generals Only In This War

Sudbury Star

The Second World War is being fought out over again by retired military personnel, college professors, and armchair generals. Oh, it's a lovely war!

As the published barbs provide the occasion for the chuckles, general minivies we are reminded of something which Lt. United States poet, John Greenleaf Whittier, He said:

"For all sad words of tongue or pen,
The saddest are these: 'It might have been!'"

It is all very well to sit in the easy comfort of hindsight and speak of the might-have-been. Under the pressure of shot and shell, severed lines of communication, unknown strength and positions of the enemy, and a thousand-one human factors, the war leaders must do what they believe to be the course of action most likely to succeed. In the fight of hindsight it is always found that mistakes are made. The most successful war leader is the winning of the war. This objective was gained.

We have to leave the arm-chair war to the retired generals. It is no doubt a fascinating field for professors. The professional soldiers may be in disagreement, but it is a technical field for laymen who were not in the thick of things and who are by no right qualified to build theories from their armchairs.

The conflicting points of view are interesting. But we know that the important thing at the last war fell have no place in the next war. Better, we would think, that all this mental effort be expended in directing world thought to a world at peace.

To Your Good Health

By Joseph G Molner, M.D.

HEART OPERATIONS ARE BECOMING LESS RISKY

"Dear Dr. Molner: In your column, you wrote about Mrs. ——, who asked about heart surgery. Perhaps my experience will help reassure her to do what is best for her baby.

"I was one of those 'doomed' babies to be crippled for life, years. After much prayer, I had a mitral valve operation.

"Now, five years after the surgery, I live a normal life. As a charter member of the 'Mended Hearts Club' I have met and talked to many people of all ages who have had their lives prolonged by this modern miracle of heart surgery. Good doctors, faith and prayers work wonders. — C.G."

Thank you. I print your letter as typical of many others I have received on the same vein.

Let's be candid. I have also received one letter from a mother whose child had a similar operation but did not survive.

The mother, poor grieving soul, was extremely bitter. In her youngster's case, she told me, the doctors felt that the child had a 50-50 chance if the operation was performed, but would live only a few years if the surgery was not done.

The mother's logic concluded, "He was such a fine little boy, and if they had not operated, I felt sure I would have had him with me for several years."

I think we must look at these things clearly. If the operations are honestly prescostic as 50-50 chances, some patients will overcome well and strong, and some will die.

We also must remember that not all heart operations are the same. We must remember that a man who is not in the same kind of operation is being performed by a surgeon who has the greatest heart varies widely. For the same type of operation one surgeon may be a 10-50 chance, while another patient runs a risk of only, say, 5 per cent.

With a growing number of cases, the 50 per cent risk figure is close to the truth. Less and less often it is necessary to tell patients (or mothers) with the 50-50 chance.

I am deeply sorry for the mother who lost her child — and for other mothers in her. Yet I wonder? is her heartache any worse than it would have been if she had not taken that 50-50 chance and inevitably would have seen the child pine away to early death?

The gamble, taken and lost, is bitter. But it is better, as the gamble refused — when the alternative is the same loss, definite.

The point I wish to make, however is that heart operations are no longer are very often found to be in that 50-50 bracket. In the case of many cases, the odds are much better, and in the mitral valve operation, the prospect of success is now nine out of 10 or better.

Foresight Is Rewarded

By Daniel Boorstin in 'The Americans'

Japanese painter Foujita, who has lived nearly all his life in Paris, was puzzled when one of his pictures came up for auction in London. He undoubtedly was his own work, but he could not remember painting it, let alone selling it. Finally, he tracked down an elderly man who had put it up for sale and asked: "Where did you get it?"

"From you", was the reply. "Forty years ago I was the janitor of the apartment house where you lived with Modigliani."

"When you weren't satisfied with a picture, you would sometimes throw it out of the window into the courtyard.

"I used to clean out the courtyard, and I picked up several of those pictures that way. I never threw them away and now they have brought me enough to keep me in wine and tobacco the rest of my life."

HAPPY MARRIAGE

Recently an article appeared in which bore the title "Happy Marriages Still Made in Heaven." Many things in life involve considerable uncertainty. Doesn't everyone experience elements of uncertainty also? Ask the people who are married.

But what does assure happiness in marriage? Love? Yes, but love is collapsed, too. For some people love is just a sentiment w h i c h is swept away by the winds of time and place. And some people are naive enough to believe that the glowing romance of teen-age will continue to light up a marriage over a number of years. In marriage, like everything else that is living and vital, grows and changes with the passing years. Married happiness on the twenty-fifty anniversary is different from married happiness

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

HEAVEN — HERE AND NOW

Nearly thirty years ago I wrote this: I never worry about what is to become of me, after my work on earth is ended. I know I shall make a lot of mistakes and know I try to do a lot of good, but my theory and belief are that Heaven is here and now. It's the Kingdom of Heaven is what you make it right here on earth. Beyond we know nothing, though we can look forward with strength and hope and faith.

There are Kingdoms of Heaven in many places, even in newspaper offices, banks, and grocery stores. Everywhere we can locate heaven, if we have eyes to see and hearts to feel it. We can even create our own heaven, and take it with us to wherever we may go. We don't have to die to experience heaven — our Heaven! Heaven is here and now. We have to keep giving ourselves to others.

This we may well believe: Our previously Heavenly Father wrinches of heart of the man who worship him as a Father, who guides the destiny of Nations, as well as the humblest of His earth. We can look to Him, and trend to H i s Heaven which is here and now. We can even help others to build a heaven of their own right now. I know that there is a Heaven here and now for I know so many who are so deserving of it. A grateful heart is the key to the Stories of Famous Hymns

by HORACE B. POWELL

"NOT ALONE FOR MIGHTY EMPIRE"

Not alone for mighty empire,
Stretching far o'er land and sea;
Not alone for fourteen harvests
Lift we up our hearts to Thee,
Standing in the living present,
Memory and hope between,
Lord, we would with deep thanksgiving
Praise Thee most for things unseen.

For the armies of the faithful,
Souls that passed and left no name;
For the glory that illumines
Patriot lives of deathless fame;
For our prophets and apostles,
Loyal to the living Word;
For all heroes of the Spirit,
Give we thanks to Thee, O Lord.

Not for battleship and fortress,
Not for conquests of the sword,
But for conquests of the spirit
Give we thanks to Thee, O Lord;
For the priceless gift of freedom,
For the home, the church, the school;
For the open door to manhood
In a land the people rule.
God of justice, save the people
From the clash of race and creed,
From the strife of class and faction,
Bind
Make our nation free indeed:
Keep her faith in simple manhood
Strong as when her life began,
Till it finds its full fruition
In the brotherhood of man.

What makes a nation truly great? Not military victories, the amassing of battleships and fortresses, Not even bounteous harvests and other material gains. Real cause for thankgiving is to be found in "things unseen", the "conquests of the spirit", the priceless gift of freedom, the home, the church, the school, the opportunities which abound for all "in a land the people rule".

These are the things which the Rev. William Pierson Merrill, D. D. was trying to say when he wrote the verses of his magnificent hymn, "Not Alone For a Mighty Empire", back in 1911. In the years that followed he authored several books promoting the idea of world brotherhood . . . a brotherhood to be achieved and undergirded by Christian ideals.

Dr. Merrill was born in 1867 in Orange, New Jersey. After being graduated from Rutgers College and from Union Theological Seminary, he was ordained to the Presbyterian ministry in 1892. His first pastorates were in Philadelphia and Chicago. But his most distinguished terms of service began in 1911 when he was called to the Park Presbyterian Church in New York City. It was while serving here that he wrote his hymn, "Mighty Empire" hymn.

The hymn tune, Hyfrydol, is precious to Welsh men and women the world around. It was composed by Rowland Hugh Prichard of Holywell, Wales. Mr. Prichard collected a number of his tunes and published them in "The Singer's Friend" which he brought out in 1844. Later, he published a book of songs and hymns for children.

A Lift for Living

Choosing Your Road of Life

By DR. RALPH W. SOCKMAN

We all desire to be thought broad-minded. We resent being called narrow or bigoted. We are almost as afraid of getting into a rut as into the grave. But how do we keep our minds broad and open? Suppose we start out with an easygoing mental attitude, just going along with the crowd's thinking, but not giving much creative thought to our own beliefs. We repeat what we hear at this side of us and on that side. We may get quite a wide collection of secondhand ideas. But that does not make us broadminded. Some people fool themselves by thinking they are broadminded merely because they are scatterbrained. Listen to some of the conversations on trains or at dinner tables, and see how many people just repeat the prejudices which they have picked up. We human beings so easily become like sheep. We browse along with our heads down, nibbling at the little ideas next to us. And then we come together on Sunday and repeat the prayer of general confession, "We have erred and strayed from Thy ways like lost sheep. We have followed too much the devices and desires of our own hearts." When our minds just go along with the crowd, we usually drift into the blind alleys of narrow prejudice or into the dangers of perverted desire.

In "Main Street," Sinclair Lewis described the religious state of mind into which one of the town's leaders had drifted. He had gone along as a conventional member of the church, without taking it seriously. When his wife finally rebelled at the rut into which their church life had fallen, the husband was flustered and confused. The author says of him: "He believed in the church but seldom attended its services. He believed in Christianity but never thought about it. He was worried over his wife's lack of faith, but was not sure just what the lack-ed."

WALLED BY PREJUDICE

Yes, when we let our minds not, seem like fettering and narrowing my mind?

But wait a minute. Professor Harry Overstreet has pointed out that a student who would get at the truth must an object must surrender himself to it and identify himself with it. That is the way our great scientists reached their discoveries. They really gave themselves to their subjects. The paradoxical law of life is that if we want to get the real truth about a subject we have to give ourselves to it. If we wish to find out the truth, we must be willing to follow it out.

Turn now from the mental to the moral realm, and behold how the Master Teacher's principle works. The road to fulness of life in any sphere starts through a narrow gate. The athlete who would make his college team must go through the discipline of self-denial. Thereby he develops the full free use of his body.

"STRAIT AND NARROW"

The artist who becomes really great goes through almost unbelievable restrictions and exercise. Paderewski once said, "Before I was a master, I was a slave." In business the normal road of advance is through strenuous application and application to duty. It is this law of life which Jesus was expressing when He said, "Strait is the gate and narrow is the way that leadeth unto life."

In the handling of life we take one of two roads. We can begin in the broad, easy, self-indulgent fashion, doing whatever we like, denying ourselves no pleasure. But that road, so delightful at first, becomes narrower the farther we go, until we find ourselves bending into the blind alleys of impaired health, exhausted thrills, reduced income, and shackling sinful habits. Or the other hand, we can start through the narrow gate of discipline, streamlining our self-indulgences, training our tastes to like the really good things of life, bowing to the straight line of truth as best we can see it — and then we find the road growing broader and life becoming richer the farther we go.

We of the American continent do not want to be "fenced in." We prize our freedom. But at the laying of the cornerstone at the Interchurch Centre in New York, President Eisenhower recently quoted a definition worth pondering: "Liberty is the priceless opportunity for self-discipline." If we do not learn to discipline ourselves, some dictator will eventually fence us in.

The first meeting of November by the Women of the Moose was held in the Moose Hall on Victoria Avenue on Thursday.

The meeting was opened with Sr. Regent Gladys Ritch presiding.

A letter was read thanking the women for serving lunch at a special meeting for the men on October 26. There is to be a miniature euchre at Clare Seaman's home on November 20th.

Plans were made for a pie social to be held at the Moose Hall later this month.

The meeting closed with a penny sale and penny bingo sponsored by Olive Hansen Library Committee. Refreshments were enjoyed by the members.

Kingston WMS Meets at St. Andrew's

The executive committee of the Kingston Presbyterial, Women's Missionary Society of the Presbyterian Church in Canada, met in the ladies' parlor of St. Andrew's Church, Kingston, on November 10, with the president, Mrs. Smart, in the chair. Members were present from Belleville; Cananoque; Kingston; and Trenton.

After devotional exercises, led by Mrs. Smart, and the reading of minutes by Mrs. Fenwarden, Miss Mary McFarlane gave a report of the Training School at Belleville in July.

Mrs. Keefer presented an interim report of the nominating committee, which was discussed. Miss Nesbitt, treasurer, reported receipts up to that date. Mrs. Carson's invitation to have the Presbyterial annual meeting in Belleville in January was gratefully accepted. It was agreed to have the morning session at 11 a.m., preceded by a meeting of the executive committee at 10:15 a.m. The program was discussed and arrangements made.

After a cup of tea, and a few words from Rev. Mr. McIntosh, of Strathcona Park Church, the members adjourned.

'Alaska' Topic At Eastminster United W. F.

The Woman's Federation of Eastminster United Church held its November meeting Monday night in the church. The president, Mrs. J. Williams, welcomed those present, and opened the meeting.

Mrs. R. Booth thanked everyone for their assistance in making the Fall tea and bazaar, which was held, recently, such a success.

Mrs. D. Lamb, who is in charge of the Canada Packer Labels which the members are collecting reported the W. F. far short of its objective of 6,000 so it is hoped everyone will put forth a greater effort in order to get the new coffee maker so urgently needed.

A minutes silence followed by prayer was observed in memory of Mrs. M. Richard.

Mrs. G. Hutchinson took charge of the worship service. Mrs. R. Irvine read the Scripture and Mrs. G. Maybee the meditation with Mrs Hanna following with world prayer.

A musical number consisting of Messrs. M. Irvin, G. Maybee, G. Hutchinson, A. McDowell, W. Kwaid with Mrs. T. Riley accompanying on the piano, was much enjoyed.

Mrs. R. Knowlton introduced the W.M.S. Study Book "Concerns of a Continent" and gave a brief outline of each area to be studied this year.

GUEST SPEAKER

The guest speaker, Mrs. G. Coulter, of Holloway St. United Church, who is the treasurer of the Kingston Presbyterial, spoke on "Alaska," the first portion of the Study Book, giving an interesting talk on the people, industries as well as the social problems of Alaska. Colored slides were also known.

Mrs. A. Hotchkiss thanked Mrs. Coulter for getting the group started on the Study Book and a fine meeting.

At the conclusion, Mrs. Hutchinson and group served refreshments.

Red Cross Here Needs More Help in Sewing

On Tuesday evening a regular meeting of the Belleville Branch of the Canadian Red Cross Society was held in the Red Cross Rooms, Mr. A. S. Lewis, presiding.

Chairmen of the committees of the various services presented their reports. A wheel chair, donated by the Belleville Collegiate Junior Red Cross, has been loaned for use in the city.

The women's work committee has knitters and quilters busy on projects at the workroom but is experiencing difficulty recruiting a sufficient number of persons to sew articles of children's clothing from materials supplied. The Red Cross will be happy to hear from any one who can spare any time to assist in this work, either in the Red Cross Rooms on Tuesday afternoons, if this is convenient, or at home.

Further test results were filed covering activities of the water safety committee during the past season. Three seniors and six beginners in water safety received badges of qualification.

Mr. Lewis stated that Plan A of the National Blood Transfusion Service had been inaugurated in the Belleville General Hospital on October 13. This means that blood donations will be made free of any charge to all patients in the future. Instead of weekly local clinics, as has been the practice, four to six clinics will be held annually by a mobile clinic to secure the blood supply to meet this demand. Eventually it is expected that this service will be extended to all hospitals in Ontario.

The great need in this work is an adequate panel of donors to be available when the mobile clinic visits Belleville. The first clinic is planned for Monday, November 24, at the Kiwanis Centre, Dundas Street East, from 2-5 p.m. and from 7-10 p.m. To insure a successful clinic, anyone wishing to make a donation of blood should contact the local Red Cross without delay.

First plans for the annual meeting were discussed and it was decided that this meeting would be held on Friday, January 16. Committees were appointed to arrange details of the program.

Other routine business matters were occupied the attention of the members for the duration of the meeting.

This - - - and That

By HARRIET STEVENS

Apparently Hastings county people are just beginning to rebound from the sudden and unexpected news about the court house. T and T has been approached many times concerning the news. Unfortunately, T and T is not qualified to speak architecturally concerning this matter but, from the number of people who have spoken to us, it does seem abundantly clear that many interested citizens in Trenton, in the county and in Belleville would like to be better informed. One party mentioned that the only two prizes given are the cost of a new building and the cost of restoring the old. This person would like to know how much the cost of demolition would be, how much it would cost to move, install and pay rental on equipment, files, etc., during the time the old building was being demolished. Another party wanted to know why it was good business to pay thousands more gross on a new building simply because the per square foot was higher than renovation. Another wanted to know if the old building was proven beyond all sensible consideration to be unsafe, to be dirty beyond repair or to be, beyond question, not worth restoration. Still another advised us that an authority has said that he is the only public building in the city of Belleville that ought to be preserved and is worth preservation from a historical and architectural point of view. The house is apparently a closely contested one even in council and someone asked T and T if we had any idea if the desires and wishes of Trenton and Belleville will contribute a large percentage have been solicited.

Most of these matters are beyond our scope or knowledge, but T and T has learned that this beautiful old building was originally built in the year 1837-1838. We have been advised that this building within 5 months of that should be preserved if it is feasible, if it is feasible, it is not a burden on the taxpayer. We have been advised that once it is destroyed not only Belleville and the county, but all of the part of Ontario will have lost a wonderful landmark in the history of the development of this country and, indeed, since the early days of Upper Canada. It is our information that the president of the Hastings County Historical Society is in receipt of letters from Toronto, Hastings and groups interested in the preservation of historical sites throughout the province.

The only opinion T and T wishes to throw out is that if our county councillors, in a considerable public disturbance over this matter, then those who can answer their questions intelligently might do so in a public meeting or forum or panel discussion. This column cannot enter a controversial matter when it is unqualified to do so, therefore T and T, in the interest of our many enquirers, throws out this impartial and unprejudiced suggestion.

In view of the public concern over the future of the court house T and T quotes the following lines for its weekend thought:

"Yes, yes; I am old. In me appears
The history of a hundred years."

We came across two items pertaining to music that might interest readers who like to hear unusual facts and songs. In a recent release of the Daily Indiagram, it was announced that Dr. Rose Madeleine Renshaw, a distinguished music critic of Canada, is visiting India for a period of about one year to make a comparative study of Western and Indian music under UNESCO grant for regional cultural studies, supplemented by financial assistance from the cultural activities program of the government of India. Miss Renshaw will have arrived by now in New Delhi. A few minutes later, we came across an article in the Caravan of India about Indian music. Apparently music in India is individualistic. Orchestras as we, know and appreciate them have come to India only within the past few years. There is a serious attempt being made to introduce music in the field of orchestration. It is proving to be a slow process, but progress is being made and the experiment is promising, although still very much in the stage of evolution. They say music is international and the experiment should be worth while and fascinating.

Paris the City of Women Is in a Class by Itself

By SHIRLEY AND BOB SLOANE

It has been said that Paris is a city, but that it lives up to it.

Everything you've heard is true, from the French post cards (not the filthy) sold in front of Notre Dame, to the bookstalls along the Seine and the beautiful artists painting and peddling their pictures on the ancient winding streets of Montmartre.

There is the preoccupation with wine, women and lots de vivre; the three-hour lunches in the sidewalk cafes where it really is fun to watch the world go by; the ladies of the night who chatter, as legend has it, bolder than flies and accost you with determination on the street; the unbelievably broad, tree-shaded boulevards with their views of the Eiffel Tower and the Arch of Triumph from every intersection; the fact that names like Rue de la Paix and Champs Elysees evoke waves of nostalgia from Americans who have never been within half a world of Paris; and there are the picturesque girls in the spectacle Lido night club show who come out nekkid as jaybirds and twice as large.

But the weariest cliche of all is undoubtedly the truest: La Paris c'est une belle femme.

Were Paris not, above all, a beautiful woman, it would have to stand comparison with New York and other great cities that can claim to be veritable cesspools of culture, class, sex, and beauty.

WOMEN'S WORLD HEADQUARTERS

Women put Paris in a class by itself because they exist as a breed apart, as well unto themselves. The difference between Paris and any other city, gentlemen, is that this is where women were invented, their aboriginal home and world headquarters. Glittering, aromatic, and hypnotic, they dominate it. Some three million of them dwell in this city. Half of them are prostitutes, but not one of that sex did we notice. If men survive, they are mere hangers on, dimly perceptible only in the shadows.

There are a hundred boutiques, parfumeries, and couturiers for every necktie shop, and it is obvious the women are the most smartly-dressed and groomed in the world. You can get drunk standing on the sidewalk in front of your motel just sniffing them as they go by. But to know what truly distinguishes them, you must look into their faces and talk to them.

You've heard the expression "innocent sentiment" applied to French women. What you actually see in them is neither innocent nor sexy. It is just a sensuousness that makes American women, in paraphrase Phil Silvers, look like boys. Being female — as distinguished from being studiedly feminine — is a lifelong, natural-born profession with French women that can be neither taught nor learned.

Shopping for France's wonderful perfumes, gloves, handbags and fashions is, of course, a wife's treat. But probably the most breathless sight a husband will ever see ahead who cannot enjoy himself is Rue de la Paix watching them exude the inner freshness and warmth that seem to render every Parisienne a Brigitte Bardot. A consciousness of "vive la difference" results that is enough to make a man blush.

We may think of the Paris of Hemingway, Balzac, and Victor Hugo, but where would Paris have been without Mme. Dubarry, Mme. Pompadour, and Marie Antoinette . . . ?

Or in one final cliche, eat-ex possible, pet-ere, that Paris is a state of mind!

ORIGINS IN ANTIQUITY

It is an infinite city, its original lost in antiquity and its mystical being a hodgepodge of ancient villages and towns that in the heyday of modern business and residential sections. To discover it you have to walk, and it is a task that requires a life time.

Living the cliches, you can take in everything from the art treasures of the Louvre to the galleries of the Rue St. Honore, where you may spot an original Utrillo or Picasso in a window; you may stroll in the Bois de Boulogne, possibly the buiest park in the world, where everyone seems to have time for horseplay or rowing with his children; sip an aperitif

Quinte Lady Barbershoppers Hold Meeting

A most successful meeting of the Lady Barbershoppers was held recently in the Army and Navy Hall. They were pleased to have Mary Boddington, Doris Lidbetter and Doris Brady, of the "Sweet Adelines" of Toronto present, and who gave an interesting talk of the code of ethics of the club.

Another meeting was held on November 11 at the home of Mrs. Andrene Moorman, with Mr. Phil Squire, directing the choral group.

The women of the Quinte district are cordially invited to attend, and anyone wishing to do so, call Mrs. Joan Kaye, WO 2-4485. The meetings will be held in the Army and Navy Hall.

It is bistro in a cave-like old building on a steep hill in Montparnasse watch the dashingly-taped bartenders were prattle along with their white sticks; or buy a beret and walking stick to promenade the Champs Elysees like a bootlewirdler.

Stop for lunch at Maxim's, perhaps the world's most famous restaurant, celebrated by everyone from Rudolph Friml to Toulouse-Lautrec, an elegant mirrored palace, but at least as famous for its unchanging surroundings as for its food gape at the bugs old public buildings and residences, whose characteristically neglected exteriors belie exquisite interiors; or take a boat ride on the Seine at night and see why Paris is called the City of Lights.

In time as well as space, Paris is large, we have no end. At four in the morning the streets are full of taxis and people going places or just sitting on benches.

But always there are the women, and without the women, there is neither hour nor place for a man alone.

Toronto and Montreal Authors Given Medals for Best Books

OTTAWA (CP) — The "books of the year" medals for the best Canadian books for children, one in English and one in French, were announced tonight by the Canadian Library Association.

John F. Hayes of Toronto is given the English language award for "The Dangerous Cove" (Copp Clark).

Mrs. Helene Flamme of Montreal wins the French language medal for "Un drole de Petit Cheval" (Editions Lemeac.)

MARK BOOK WEEK

The awards coincide with the opening Nov. 16 of Young Canada's Book Week and are determined by a vote of the 171 members of the Canadian Association of Children's Librarians across Canada.

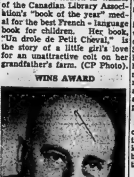
These medals, given only in those years when a book is deemed worthy, are "to encourage the writing and publishing in Canada of good books for boys and girls by Canadian authors."

Mr. Hayes, a editor of the Southam Company Limited, previously twice won the Governor-General's award for two historical adventure stories—"A Land Divided," in 1953, and "Rebel Ride at Night," in 1954. Some of his books have been adapted for radio transitation by the CBC, and his stories have appeared in school books both in Canada and the United States.

EXCITING DAYS

"The Dangerous Cove" tells of the adventures of two boys in Newfoundland during the exciting days when pirates were raiding the settlements.

Born in Dryden, Ont., 53 years ago, Mr. Hayes was educated in Winnipeg and had a variety of occupations including garage mechanic, clothing salesman, steelmill worker, advertising salesman and boat worker before beginning the staff of the Southam newspapers in Toronto. He had studied art under Franz Johnston and from the Southam Company was transferred to the Southam Printing Company, of which he now is vice-president and managing director.



Mrs. Flamme, a native of Oshawa, was educated in Montreal and her first book "Claude et Claudine" was published in 1954. This was followed by three illustrated children's stories. Herself the mother of a young boy, Mrs. Flamme's award-winning book is the story of a little girl's love for an unattractive colt on her grandfather's farm.

Days and Customs of All Faiths

The Christian Way of Life

By DR. HOWARD V. HARPER

Monday, Nov. 17 — Do you want to know why people flocked to the Christian Church in the early days and why it "turned the world upside down?" Well, it wasn't the preaching; it wasn't any organized evangelistic program; and it wasn't house-to-house doorbell-pushing missionary campaigns. Listen to what St. Dionysius said in one of his letters written after the great plague that struck Alexandria, where he was bishop, in the year 259:

"Most of our brethren did not spare themselves and held together in the closest love of their neighbors. They were not afraid to visit the sick, to minister to them, to take care of them for Christ's sake, and to die joyfully with them. But the heathen did exactly the opposite. They cast out any who began to fall, deserted those dearest to them, threw the sick half-dead into the streets, and left the dead unburied."

Imagine the power of that contrast! It made obvious the fact that to be a Christian was to be long, to care and be cared about. Eloquence, organization, and programs look pretty pale beside that. That is the answer to every man's deepest, most pathetic yearnings. It works today, too, where a congregation is the family of God rather than a remote dignified institution.

Today is St. Dionysius' day. He was the head of the church in Alexandria at those stormy days when no one knew what was coming next. While he was bishop there were two great persecutions, a civil war, and the above-mentioned plague. In all these upheavals, the difference between Christians and pagans stood out. You cannot say Dionysius created this atmosphere of caring relationship that distinguished the Christians from the others, but there lived in it, he led it, and he understood its value and gave us the picture of it that still shows us the very difference between real, potent "saving" Christian community life and our present formalized version of the dynamic that changed the world.

MUSIC-LOVERS' SAINT

Saturday, Nov. 22 — There are still a great many of us who can remember when every public town in America had its St. Cecilia Society, made up of music-lovers many of whom, being thoroughgoing Protestants, probably would have vigorously repudiated a saint.

Cecilia, who is remembered today with special honor on her day in the Christian calendar, gave her reputation as patroness of music and musicians in a somewhat dubious way. She was a Christian in the early days of Christianity. The story is that she had pledged her virginity to Christ, but her parents had pledged her to a nice young pagan named Valerian. There was nothing she could do to prevent the wedding, but she could still hope to prevent the marriage from being consummated. So, at the service she "sang in her heart to the Lord," praying that she might somehow be able to keep her vow.

A mistake in either translation or interpretation brought about the idea that she sang aloud at her wedding. This led on to a legend that she was so accomplished musically that an angel fell in love with her and visited her continually. Both Pope and Dryden, the English poets, represent her as having charmed an angel by her music.

The whole story has what Cecilia would have considered a happy ending. The marriage was not consummated; the husband was converted to Christianity, he secreted his bedriver; and all three were martyred.

I Like Dependability, So...

I heat with oil

Never a worry about the winter weather when you heat with oil. Your personal fuel supply is right in your own basement.

Buying a new home? Be sure it has oil heat . . . because oil heat indicates a quality home. And you save money when you heat with oil . . . lots of heat for every dollar. Just as important, your fuel costs will stay low because you are dealing with a dependable supplier in your own neighbourhood who competes for your business.

Yes, safe, clean, comfortable oil heat is your best choice for a new home or furnace conversion. Ask your neighbour for his opinion. More people, by far, heat automatically with oil than with any other fuel.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

ENTOR'S NOTE: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, a newspaper woman's editor and two writers. Each article is a summary of an actual case history. The Council reports on problems that have been dealt with by responsible agencies.

Gerard J. — The girl will get over it.

Elaine S. — I want to make it up to her, . . .

Gerard J. — I am a widower in my 40's. I have no children. About a year ago I met a woman of my own age who was separated from her husband because of his unfaithfulness.

We were both very lonely and unhappy at that time, and we immediately started to have an affair. We soon realized that this was no mere escapade. We were very much in love and wanted to get married.

Around this time, Elaine's teenage daughter began to realize what was going on and she ran off to her grandmother's home. She says she won't come back unless her mother swears that she'll have nothing more to do with me. She says if we marry she'll never look at her mother again. I am very fond of my child as well and we should go ahead with our plans.

Elaine S. — I don't know what came over me to do something that is so much against my own ideals and upbringing. I can't blame it all on my husband for his terrible hurting he did to me.

I realize that two wrongs don't make a right and that's why I don't blame my daughter's desire for running off like that and hating me. She is still a child as she could not understand how I felt when my husband treated me like that. All she knew was that her mother was just as bad as her father.

I love Gerard and feel that we could have been happy together if he had not been so impulsive. The way I feel now I don't want anything or anyone to get in the way of my doing my duty as a mother. I want to make it up to Linda, even if I have to sacrifice my happiness.

The Council: It is quite true that her parents' marital misconduct was an injustice to this teenage girl, but to hand her a moral whip with which to tyrannize her mother would be worse than foolish.

Elaine's guilt feelings about her misconduct go so deep that she seems to enjoy the chance to make a "sacrifice" of her happiness for her daughter. She should realize that in the long run this kind of "sacrifice" and sincerity any good. The momentary relief of Elaine's guilt feelings will quickly pass, and she will rather resent her daughter's having deprived her of happiness. Then it will be the daughter's turn to feel guilty. It would be an nasty a vicious cycle as we've ever seen.

If Elaine is sincere about her feeling of "regret" and not simply using her daughter as an "out" from a relationship she no longer desires, her path is very simple. She must tell the whole truth to her daughter. A teenage girl will understand if her mother explains about her deep love and shows that she recognizes and regrets her error. Elaine can explain that she is now looking forward to making a real home for her family — and that a husband is a vital ingredient.

If Linda still says she'll have nothing to do with her mother, she should be allowed to sulk it out. She can't fail to recognize that she is in the wrong unless she is determined to carry that chip for the rest of her life. In that case, giving in to her would do no good.

QUESTION:

Do you have a recipe for 100% whole wheat muffins? . . . Audrey C.

Cleaned 10 average-sized muffin tins. Sift dry ingredients into mixing bowl (including bran). Mix together all wet ingredients. Make a well in centre of flour mix, pour in wet mix and stir barely enough to mix. Do not overmix. Batter should be lumpy. Two-thirds fill muffin tins and bake at 400 deg. F. 25 minutes. These should be served warm.

HOW SHOULD SHE WEAR HER TWO CLASS RINGS?

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I have a problem concerning my class rings. When I graduated from elementary school, I, the members of my class were given the chance to purchase a very lovely ring. I cherish mind very much. In a sterling silver ring with a black background and a silver design on top of the black. Very soon after graduation from the high school I now attend will be given a ring. This ring is yellow gold with a design engraved on it. The first ring is worn on the third finger of the left hand; and I would like to know on which finger you think I should wear the second ring. I really don't like the idea of wearing either ring on the third finger of my left hand because I want to save this finger for a "very special ring."— Reader

Garden Notes

Plants That Withstand Hardships

By FLORA M. SAVILLE

The block long rock garden on Windsor's river front is made up of hundreds of hardy plants. Most of them are perennials with groups of annuals and shrubs. The plants for the most part have this habit in common: they are l o w and spreading.

The parks gardener tells me they expect all but the annuals to winter over without protection.

The shrubs are dwarf, lough and colorful. They include euonymus, English laurel, which is Armeria, or sea pink is there too and several kinds of sedum, Geum, Mrs. Bradshaw, that plant with the thin-as-wire stems and lovely double orange-red rosettes of bloom.

There are handsome low spreading purple chrysanthemums and many more perennials all subject to the hot drying winds, the dry soil of the sloping bank, the dust and fumes of the city. All through the winter there will be the fearing winds off the river and t h e low temperatures and these plants will live through all of this and thrive.

GROWN FROM SEED

Some of the shrubs are bought from nurseries but most of t h e perennials are grown from seed or propagated from cuttings, or divisions taken in August a n d September.

Another garden which is proving the hardiness of perennial plants is the flower-garden of Mrs. Gilbey, wife of the gar—ener established Canada's farthest north experimental farm. At Fort Simpson she cultivates a wide variety which includes peonies. The long days of the Arctic are not to the liking of some plants such as the chrysanthemum, which refuses to set buds in the prolonged light of the Arctic summer.

Among the plants that can take it we find many are grey leaved plants, and these are often low spreading type plants or form cushiony mounds. Both the color and the shape of the plants offer pleasing contrast to the other green plants. They make excellent accent plants good edgers and rock garden subjects. Here are two good ones — herisacum of battawed. It has broad attractive leaves radiating from a central woody stem and forms a loose rosette. The long flower stem produces a few insignificant blooms which can be pinched out. It is about nine inches across. Anthemis-cupeziana is the other plant. It makes a lovely mound of silver and for six weeks dozens of glistening white daisy-like blooms add further beauty.

Pig Parlor in full operation on the farm of Burrows Bros., R.R.2, Stouffville, Ont.

Purina Pig Parlors prove Economical, Efficient, Practical and Profitable!

A 250-hog Pig Parlor nears completion for Ralph Ferguson, near Alvinston, Ont. It was purposely built under overhanging trees, for shade and coolness in hot weather. Note that Mr. Ferguson, like Burrows Bros., increases capacity by providing outside runs on a concrete slab.

High Bros., R.R.2, Markham, Ont., have just put their first lot of 240 through this 80 x 30-foot Pig Parlor. They too have provided extra capacity and room for exercise by extending the concrete slab beyond the overhang of the roof.

THE PURINA PIG PARLOR PLAN is the practical application of many years of Purina Research Farm experience to the problem of cutting costs, time and work in market hog production.

The Pig Parlor is hog housing reduced to its simplest, most economical and most efficient essentials — a concrete slab, sloped for drainage and easy cleaning, with a fence around it and a roof over it, plus self-feeders and automatic waterers. The idea and the plans are often easily and cheaply adapted to existing buildings.

Farmers using the Pig Parlor plan find that they can — market more hogs for a very low investment of time and money.

— get fast low-cost gains and fast turnover of investment, both in building and in pigs.

— control sanitary conditions more quickly and easily.

— get the advantages of assembly line production and a regular source of added income.

Ask your Purina dealer or district sales manager where you can see a Purina Pig Parlor in operation. Ask him to look over your existing buildings with you, with an eye to conversion, and check into the costs of both converting and being the first in your community to build a specialized Pig Parlor. He knows the score, has the plans, and can give you a lot of useful pointers.

Answers to your Questions about Purina Pig Parlors

Q. I am pretty well equipped already. Do you expect me to tear down my buildings and re-build according to your plans?

A. Certainly not. Chances are you can convert your present buildings.

Q. Do Pig Parlors fit this part of the country? What about cold weather?

A. Yes, Pig Parlors can be adapted to any climate where hogs are grown. Hogs can stand cold if they have plenty of dry bedding. But they are sensitive to drafts and damp — be sure they are protected from drafts and keep the bedding dry by good ventilation.

Q. Will widespread interest in Pig Parlors encourage overproduction?

A. No — supply and demand will control production as they always have. But raising hogs the year round in Pig Parlors will tend to even out marketing peaks.

Q. Is this Pig Parlor idea designed to make the hog business a "packaged deal" such as is happening in the broiler business?

A. No. It is simply a way to help the hog man put his business on a modern assembly line basis and to take advantage of better management practices.

Q. Does Purina furnish pigs on shares to fill Pig Parlors?

A. Absolutely no. Purina is not in competition with farmers. Pig Parlors and pigs for Parlors are financed in the same way as any other hog operation — by the owner himself, or by the local bank, or in some cases by the dealer.

Q. How much does it cost to build a Pig Parlor?

A. That varies with the locality, the availability of materials, whether or not you hire the labor, and of course the size, which ranges from 50 to 300-pig capacity. If a man furnishes his own labor, a Pig Parlor and equipment will cost about $20 per hog. Converting existing buildings varies with the materials and work necessary to do the job, but runs about $10 per hog if you do the work yourself. (Some building firms erect Pig Parlors on contract.)

Q. How much labor does it take to operate a Pig Parlor?

A. Most hog men using Parlors figure that it takes less than two hours a day to feed and keep a 100-pig Parlor clean.

Q. At what weight should pigs be put into a Pig Parlor?

A. Recommended weights are 40 to 60 lbs.

Q. Is uniform size important?

A. Yes. If not, the larger pigs will crowd and fight the smaller ones. If there is a wide variation it will pay to partition the Parlor and sort the pigs.

Q. How do you prevent the hogs from getting lame on concrete?

A. Proper rations and dry bedding in the cold weather. At the Purina Research Farm we have been raising hogs on concrete for over 20 years without trouble from lameness.

Q. Will hogs get enough exercise in a Pig Parlor?

A. Yes, if proper space is allowed. Each hog should have about 13 square feet.

Q. Where can I get more information on Purina Pig Parlors?

A. Ask your local Purina dealer or Purina district manager.

Pinch Hitting

By Garry Alexander

THE BELLEVILLE JUNIORS

"I won't predict a championship club, it's too early to judge how good they will be, but I think they will hold their own and will provide the fans with an entertaining brand of hockey."

The gentleman speaking was Brian Mulvihill, former Senior "B" hockey star in Belleville for a number of years, now coach of this city's entry in the Central Ontario Junior "B" League.

Naturally he was talking about his club, the Belleville Lambert-Kellins. It was after the practice session Thursday night and the coach had just called out the names of the players who would play Monday night in the team's first game.

There were grunts of disappointment around the dressing room as some of the boys failed to hear their names called. There were 25 players at the workout; The rule book says you can dress only 15 and a spare goalie for a game.

Mulvihill put at least some of the minds at ease by announcing that none of the boys had been cut. The players he had named were to start Monday against Peterboro but here but the club was a long way from being set. "There will be changes. Every player will give his best or he won't be in the lineup for long. We have had only a couple of workouts and I'm not sure of all of my players. But there are still 23 out there trying for a spot and it's hard to tell so soon how some of them will turn out" Mulvihill explained.

"I'm not worried about the team or the players' ability. They will come along fine. But they need encouragement. After all, not a player receives one cent on this club, and surely it's not too much to ask that they at least get a little applause from the seats when they score a goal or make a good play", he said as the boys filed out of the dressing room.

He continued: "I hope the fans will give the kids their support. We don't expect to make money at the gate on the team's operations but it will be nice to see fair crowds out for our home games. The boys will play better hockey and the men who are sponsoring and helping out with the club will certainly be encouraged to continue. After all, they are running the team to give the fellows a place to play hockey. If these men can give their money and time, surely the citizens should get behind and offer some once a week to help out and to see their own kids play."

Satisfied that he had got his point across, Brian went about taking off his skates.

Looking down at the sheet of paper with the prospects' names scribbled across it, we noticed some redeyerans from last years Juniors, a number of boys up from midget and juvenile, plus a couple of unfamiliar names altogether.

Three names were listed under "goalie", two well known here from previous junior and minor league days, and one new man. Mulvihill disclosed that the goalie Monday night would be Lerry DiPietro, the newcomer. DePietro has looked sharp in practice to date. He played last winter with the Lakeshore Bruins in the Toronto Metro Junior "B" league.

The other two netminders were Harold Carr, who shared the goals for Belleville last year with Jack Giffey, and Billy Mozzan. Mozzan is from Belleville but played last season with Trenton Juniors. Carr will be listed as the spare goalie for the opener here.

Battling for defence spots are no less than nine players. The coach selected Barry Chambers, a returnee, Brian Dierk, another new boy who played hockey last winter with an Intermediate club at Whitehorse, Yukon, Bob Letchford, Ralph Plaus and Gary Bowerman.

The latter trio has played minor and Industrial League hockey here for the past few years. Others looking for rearguard spots were Ronnie Archer, Larry Mavety, who was playing with a cast on a broken wrist, Gary Lewis and and Larry Gerow?

Up front the first two lines are fairly well established. One trio has Ab Wright in the pivot spot between Gary Rowbotham and Gordie St. Louis. They are veterans of junior hockey here. Wright, the hard-working little centre, appears completely recovered from a fractured skull he suffered last winter but he will sport a head guard this season. Rowbotham was last year's top scorer for Belleville with 31. Louis sitterzsaed between the wing and defence last winter. These players should click well together, they have the talent.

The second line has Gary Goyer making the plays between Jack Elliott and Dennis Kerrquish. This unit also played with last season's club and with Goyer's year's experience under their collective belts should make for a strong line. Goyer is the smoothie sending the net and an excellent stickhandler. Elliott and Kerrquish are both strong skaters with good shots from the wings.

Mulvihill debated before choosing his third line for the opener. He finally decided upon Bucky Kibler for the centre spot with Bernie Boulier on one flank and Larry Hall on the other. Kibler is small but a good playmaker and smart. Boulier is a speedster with a lot of potential. Both have been all-stars in OMHA playdowns up through the minor systems. Hull is the rugged policeman on the line.

Among other players who are still working out with the team but will not dress Monday, according to Mulvihill, are Bobby Wannamaker, Dave Coe, Doug Moreau and Gerd Fuller.

As of so the juniors start another season with the hope that fan interest will be higher than in past years,

Monday's game here against Peterborough Laton's, last year's group champs, will start at 8:30. Let's give the kids some support.

Toronto Maple Leafs Far Behind Pace Of Year Ago

Forwards Have Appalling Record of Only 27 Goals So Far to Keep Them in Cellar

By BEN WARD
Canadian Press Staff Writer

All last season Toronto Maple Leafs had the two biggest problems in the National Hockey League: Opposing teams were scoring too many goals; Leafs weren't scoring enough.

With one-fifth of the 1958 season gone Leafs appeared to have problem No. 1 solved. Goalies Johnny Bower and Ed Chadwick have allowed only 27 goals in 14 games, second best in the league.

At the 14-game mark last season 44 goals had popped into the Leaf net.

NO. 2 GROWS WORSE

But problem No. 2 is growing steadily worse. Toronto forwards have an appalling record of 27 goals so far — less than two a game — and are far behind their pace of a year ago when they fired 58 in the first 14 outings. As a result, Leafs are solidly in last place.

For coach Billy Reay has been juggling his lines to try to find the winning power but it sure is there. He'll probably have some new combinations tonight when Leafs play host to Detroit Red Wings. A lone win surely cannot end the shuffling Sunday night when Leafs visit the Bruins in Boston.

OTHER ACTION

In other NHL weekend action Montreal Canadiens are in Chicago Black Hawks this afternoon and Bruins visit New York Rangers in the evening. Sunday night Montreal goes to New York and Detroit to Chicago.

The Leafs scoring problem is best summed up in the case of Frank Mahovlich, 1957 rookie of the year and today one of the best-looking forwards in the league. He had 20 goals last season.

This season Frankie has been at centre, right wing and left wing. He has performed with speed and skill at all positions. But he hasn't scored a goal since the opening game of the season.

World's Biggest Goose Hunt On At Horseshoe L.

CAIRO, Ill. (AP)—The world's biggest goose hunt is in full swing. And it's big business.

Thousands of hunters have swarmed into Cairo, this community of 13,000 population looks like an armed camp. Hotels and motels are crowded. The hunters jam restaurants and crowd five deep at bars.

Harry Weeks, executive secretary of the Cairo Chamber of Commerce, estimates in the 30-day goose season they will spend about $1,000,000.

Owners of the commercial goose grounds, clubs, hotels and taverns are the biggest winners financially.

RARE ATTRACTIONS

The hunters have been drawn by about the same thing that attracts the geese — instinct and Big Horseshoe Lake.

The lake is a government preserve and the geese like to interrupt their long flight down the Mississippi flyway from Canada to the south with rest on Horseshoe and raid the nearby corn and bean fields.

Some 200,000 geese may blanket the lake when Cairo is a single day. The Mississippi and Ohio rivers meet here and the hunters are attracted to the hundreds of acres of the swampy lake with its tall grassy trees and its shallow, quiet water.

Shooting on the lake is prohibited, but the birds fly daily from it to the feeding grounds or the Mississippi River. So in between, the hunters crouch in pits.

WANT BAD WEATHER

Goose hunters probably are the only people in the world who for 30 days consistently hope for bad weather.

If the day is balmy, the geese fly so high that it's a lucky hunter who manages to scratch one down.

But with a bad day of rain, sleet, snow and wind, the seven to 20-pound honkers swing low, sure after very little time to see armada of war planes attacking their target.

The hunter's battlecry is: "Don't shoot till you see the whites of their feet." Oldtimers say when you can see the bird's feet it is in range.

Even so, the big, speedy birds are hard to bring down and a day's bag limit of two comes hard.

On the Tracks

—SAN RUFINO, Calif. (AP) — A three-horse spill in the first race at Tanforan Friday knocked jockeys Manuel Yzaza and Harry Powell unconscious and gave apprentice Marvin Green a violent shaking up.

At Peninsula Hospital Yzaza, sensational Filipino-born Mexican rider, was found to have skull, chest and shoulder injuries severe enough to require continual hospital treatment.

He and Powell, 27, Newhall, Calif., both revived by the time the ambulance got them to Burlingame Hospital. Powell had back injuries.

TORONTO (CP) — Unstar, wearing the colors of the Calumet farm and carrying jockey Don Errico, won the featured Evans Purse at seven-eighths of a mile at New Woodbine Friday.

Unstar drove through the stop to beat Sun and Wind and Bulleteo. Unstar was better than 10-to-one and returned $41.20.

Coupled with Sun and Wind in the quinella wagering, the winner brought off a $211.40 payoff.

Mel Ott, Former Ace Giant, Critically Hurt in Crash

BAY ST. LOUIS, Miss (AP)— Mel Ott, 49-year-old member of baseball's hall of fame, lay critically injured in hospital today, the victim of a two-car crash.

The Friday night wreck also severely injured Ott's wife and killed the driver of the other car, Leslie S. Curry Sr., 50, of Bay St. Louis.

Ott, former ace fielder and batter for New York Giants who still holds the National League career home run record of 511, was in shock suffering multiple injuries.

Physicians said Ott had internal injuries, both legs broken and cuts about the head and arms. Mrs. Ott had a bone concussion, a broken arm and cuts.

DETAILS OBSCURE

Police said they were unable to determine how the accident happened. Ott and his wife were unable to talk. There were no other known witnesses to the crash.

A coroner's jury returned a verdict of accidental death in Curry's case.

Ott and his wife had just pulled out of a roadside cafe where they had dinner. Police said the point of impact was in Ott's lane. Heavy moisture was in the air, which made a foggy mist cloud windshields, could have reduced visibility, they added.

Ott, a resident of Metairie, La. near New Orleans, broke into major league baseball when he was 17 and retired in 1953. He then went into the building construction business. But baseball remained his first love. In 1935 he took up as a baseball announcer on Detroit Tiger games.

Ott was an established major league star before he was 20. He went up in 1926 without minor league experience.

He played 22 seasons and four times he was home run leader in the National League. He played 2,730 games and had a lifetime batting average of .304.

MANAGER 1942-48

Ott was named Giants manager in 1942. He managed the club for six years before resigning in 1948. The best finish he received was in 1942 when the Giants were third.

Jimmy Foxx. He made the National League all-star team 21 times.

Ott broke innumerable records while in baseball. His hall of fame citation praises him as always an all-out player who was unselfish and co-operative.

Whitby Dunlops Register Tenth Win 5-1 Over Macs

Smith, Attersley Spark Win As Penalties Weaken Macs; 'Wiener' Brown Pots Loner

By GARRY ALEXANDER

Whitby Dunlops continued to make a shambles out of the OHA Eastern Senior "A" league race last night as the biggest crowd of ground 2,300 here last night when they downed the McFarlands 5-1 for their tenth consecutive victory without a setback.

The Dunlops, marching to a record season, are in a division by themselves with 20 points. The runner up McFarlands are far below with nine points, compiled from four wins and one tie against seven losses.

The Macs will make another attempt to halt the runaway in Whitby tonight and then do combat with Cornwall Cheviies in Cornwall tomorrow afternoon.

Last night's fixture, following somewhat along the lines of a week prior, saw the clubs battle on fairly even terms for 17 minutes of the initial period. Whitby charged the pioneers quickly with a pair of goals just before the period's close. They made it 3-0 in the middle stanza and outscored Belleville 2-1 in the final twenty minutes.

INCREASE MARGINS

Centre ice star Bobby Attersley and playing coach Sid Smith running wide and close to the league scoring race, increased their margin to key a lead in style with the Whitby habit.

Attersley scored one goal and picked up a pair of assists to raise his point total for the season to 34. Smith collected a pair of goals for his 18th and 19th points of the year. He also lugged the log in goal and was given a one better than Attersley.

Whitby Dunlopsgrey also gathered two points for the victors with a goal and assist while defenceman Jack Chasomeski also triggered the other goal. Pete Babanda and Bob O'Connor each had a brace of assists and Jack Kane one.

Warren "Wiener" Brown was the lone Belleville marksman, scoring in his fifth consecutive game, and bringing his goal total to nine. Flort Goegan and Eddie Shelton received assists on the goal.

Penalties played a major part in the McFarland loss as the Dunlops scored three of their first period goals while the Macs' Jim Dewsbury was serving a major penalty for slashing Harry Sloan. Penalties hurt in the third period too, when shortly after Brown had scored to cut the margin to 3-1, Bodley and Ragan went off, filling all hopes for a third-period rally.

Belleville appeared to get away to a flying start when Menard, Hildebrand and McLellan teed off on John Bodley and Goegan with three good shots in the first minute of play. Both teams came up with fast end-to-end plays after that as Whitby slowly took over the edge.

Gordie Bell stopped Smith on clean breakaway from centre ice while Brown shot into the outside rigging on a break for the Macs but Bell parallels took over the spotlight.

Hugo Ragan was thumbed for elbowing at 15:30 and exactly a minute later Crawford gave Whitby a two-man advantage when he went away for hooking. Dewsbury made the third Belleville player in the sin-bin when he drew his major for slashing Brown early in the period at 17:12.

McFARLANDS STUNNED

The first two sinners were back but Dewsbury was still serving his five minute sentence when the Dunlop power house went into high gear. Smith drilled the rubber by Bell after Attersley and Ted O'Connor had teed him. The clock read 19:15. Just 24 seconds later Attersley stunned the Macs with a hard blast from inside the bluelines to make it 3-0.

The McFarlands had been short manpower from 15:30 to 2117 of the second and before they could get rolling Youngberg had made it 3-0. He took Babanda's pass going around the Mac defence and flicked it home from the goalmouth at 4:35.

Brown came close to beating Henderson when his blast bounced over Long John's shoulder only to have the goalie reach back and catch the puck before it could drop into the net.

Belleville had a great chance with O'Connor off at 11:57 and Treen and 12:41 but they could not hit the twine. Both goalies came through with several good saves but Bell appeared sharper in all phases of the game.

"Wiener" Brown gave the fans some hope at 4:34 of the third when he slapped the disc home through a mass of players after Bell had made a fine save on Goegan and Mickman. Then came the penalties to Bodley and Ragan and Jim Dunnup took over the play. Bell was forced to make two very sharp saves on Goegan and Mickman in close at the eight-minute mark.

Smith got the insurance goal, taking a quick pass from the side of the net at 18:53, from Jack Kane. John Chasomeski bulled his way along the right boards and fed to Smith for the 5-1 score at 17:35.

Belleville drew seven minor penalties and one lone major on the night's play. Referee Art Skov apparently worked out six to Whitby.

SPORT IN BRIEF

TO OFFER CONTRACTS

SYDNEY (AP)—Connie Kramer says he will make offers to four Australians after the Davis Cup challenge round in Brisbane next month. The professional tennis promoter said he does not know yet who the two players will be. Kramer mentioned Aussie Ashley Cooper, Neale Fraser and Mervyn Rose, Colombia Stroia of Italy and Bob Mackie Brichant as players he could be interested in.

CHRISTINE TOPS

LONDON (AP) — Christine Truman, 17, who defeated Althea Gibson in Wightman Cup tennis matches, was named Britain's top woman player Friday by the Lawn Tennis Association. Angela Davies of Wales was ranked No. 1 among British men players.

Yvon Durelle Training Hard For Moore Fight

MONCTON, N.B. (CP) — Manager Chris Shaban and trainer Paddy Calavello are enthusiastic about the work being put into the training grind by Yvon Durelle, the Edle Bay, Nova Scotian who has left his lobster traps to the fish and take the light heavyweight crown from Archie Moore.

Dec. 10, in Montreal, Durelle will try to add the world title to his Canadian and British Empire lightheavy crowns.

"Yvon will probably hit his training peak around the end of this month," says Shaban.

"He has improved his defence. He's left hand is sharper is up a bit more for Moore."

"All he's hard work will down here," said Calavio. "When we move to Montreal, all Yvon will have to concentrate on will be sharpness and weight."

Durelle has been moving after such a clip in training here, that Shaban and Calavio have told him to taper off against sparring mates Nat Dixon, a mauling, slugging middleweight, and Marcel Cloutier.

Durelle says "it will take me a couple more weeks to get in A-1 shape."

"I feel strong and healthy. I like nothing happens to alter that."

Tony Anthony Given Rough Ride by Ray

NEW YORK — Tony Anthony, the top-ranking lightheavyweight contender, has to go all out Friday night to whip surprisingly tough Sony Ray of Chicago in a 10-round fight.

Anthony, the 4-to-1 favorite, won by unanimous decision in scoring his seventh straight victory.

Ray, who had a winning streak of nine broken, gave the heavily favored New Yorker a tough tussle until late in the fight. Then Anthony turned the tide by staggering his rival with a blistering barrage in the closing seconds.

The muscular Chicagoan was never floored but Tony couldn't get in the finishing blow. Anthony kept up his rousing rally in the last round to win with a flourish.

Anthony weighed 177½, Ray 173½.

No Intention of Working Outside Organized Baseball

NEW YORK (AP) — William A. Shea, who shocked baseball brass with his talk of a third major league, resumed his headline-making Friday by denying reports of "not playing square with us."

Shea, chairman of the mayor's committee to bring another major league to New York, also said his group intended to operate within the framework of organized baseball.

"We never intended to mention anything about an outlaw league," said Shea. "We merely said that if organized baseball refused to accept our package plan once we had it worked out we'd then work outside baseball.

WHO ARE OUTLAWS?

"But that isn't our intention and will not be necessary unless we were forced, to operate an independent league. Who is to say we are the outlaws and organized baseball isn't? Since when does it make you an outlaw to go into competitive business?"

Shea declined to name the cities with which he was doing business. But there are several.

For example, Jack Kent Cooke,

Minor Hockey

The peewee section of the Belleville Minor Hockey Association opened its 1958-59 schedule at Memorial Arena this morning with ten teams seeing action.

Bruins got off to a flying start by blanking the Canadiens 7-0. Fraser Ritchie sparked the win with two goals and one assist while Ted Carlisle had one of each. Other scorers were Verbeke, Miller, Gary Rutherford, Peter Paris and Mike Brennan.

The Maple Leafs and Browns battled to a 1-1 deadlock. Gregory Chambers scored for the Leafs with Ken Rowlston assisting while Ian Bunnett fired the lone goal on a pass from Skinner.

Rangers shaded the Macs 3-1 in another close fixture. David Rowbotham and Bob Pursley netted the Ranger goals unassisted. Gregory Moore scored for the Macs.

Red Wings and Barons played to a 2-2 tie with Wing marksmen were Larry Stewart and Warren Wallenden with Stuart McIntosh drawing one helper. Doug MacGillivary and Paul Stinson were Baron scorers.

Black Hawks scored a 4-3 victory over Quints. The winners division their goals between Albert Lenihue, Roy Clements, Jim Bell, Dennis Hamilton, Wayne Mahood, Michael Hume, Allan Daley and Jerry Muldoon had assists. Stewart Fletcher and Peter Soulis had the Quinte goals. Rickey Law drew an assist.

Harness Racing

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (CP) — Veteran sulky driver Joe O'Brien is the early choice, Saturday, to pilot Diamond Hal in the third and possibly final heat of the $75,000 American Pacing classic at Hollywood Park.

O'Brien made the switch when the highly regarded Shadow Wave was declared out of the running for the second heat because of the preceding boats. Bass (Ian Bass) was to drive Shadow Wave but (by virtue of his driving) was not permitted to drive two horses in the same heat. Yet, the two fellows, catching nothing of importance, continue to cast an unproductive and misty fishing line, evidently giving no thought to the cares of the world above the waves.

The same is true, in somewhat similar fashion, of ringneck shooting. Most groups of gunners simply wander along, all in a group, hoping for a shot. They have no plan, no method — they simply hunt and hope.

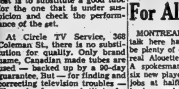
To be sure, on opening day, before the first shot is fired, every fellow can find some shooting that is quite close to his heart. But after the first few minutes of the season, if he continues to hunt with that same lack of method, he will soon be back to square one, day.

In South Dakota, where there are plenty of birds which are pretty well spaced each day, the hunters don't simply trust to luck. They plan their drives carefully, with a line of men and every swale is hunted according to plan.

When hunting on sight, for example, always one or two "headers" are placed at the far end of the strip before the drive starts. "Flankers" are then located, one on each side of the strip and 30 or 40 yards ahead of the driving line. The balance of the group line up, spaced, and at a signal all move along with the headers. The flankers, being well ahead, keep the birds from running out and around the drive; the headers keep the birds from running out at the end of the strip. Eventually, caught between two fires, the pheasants start to take to the air.

In a large corn field, too wide to be hunted as explained, the gunners form a diagonal line, thus forcing the birds over toward the corner next to open ground such as a plowed field or a grass field. With, say, five guns a diagonal line can be at least 100 yards long, the forward end being 70 or 80 yards ahead of the anchor man. As always, headers are used to keep the birds from leaving the field at the front end. Also to keep the birds from leaving the field at the front end. Also to keep the birds from leaving the field at the front end. Also

T-V TIPS



by JOHN WETTLAUFER

The average television set is literally jammed with an assortment of tubes (between 18 and 20) all of which must be functioning perfectly for peak performance of the set. Sooner or later these tubes lose their efficiency or fail completely — usually just when your favorite program is starting.

Finding a faulty tube isn't always easy, for the filament may still light and give the appearance of normal operation. Quite frequently a tube may test O.K. in a tube tester but fail to perform in the set — or, apparently work well in the set and test bad in the tester. The only true test is to substitute a good tube for the one that is under suspicion and check the performance of the set.

At Circle TV Service, 368 Coleman St., there is no substitution for quality. Only brand name, Canadian made tubes are used — backed up by a 90-day guarantee. But — for finding and correcting television troubles — There is also no substitute for the experience of our trained technicians. Phone WO 8-6791— in Trenton EX 2-7669 for prompt service.

Plenty of Changes Coming Up For Alouettes

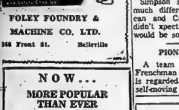
MONTREAL (CP) — Football talk here has it that there will be plenty of changes in the Montreal Alouettes team next season.

A spokesman for the club says six new players will be sought for jobs at halfback, fullback, wingback, guard, tackle and end.

The Als, shuffled out of the Big Four playoffs Wednesday by Ottawa Rough Riders, began a rebuilding program this year. It has been aimed at developing Canadian talent and snaring imports.

If six players presumably imports—of the 1958 team are to be dispensed with, there was no hint as to who they might be. Best guesses on six to be retained were Sam Etcheverry, Hal Patterson, Earl Wells, Tom Hugo, Red O'Quinn and Jacki Simpson.

Of Det group, Simpson was the only newcomer this season and turned out to be the find of the year for the Als.



After graduation from University of Mississippi, Simpson was drafted by Washington Redskins of the National Football League but had a desire to play in Canada. He was on the negotiation list of Saskatchewan Roughriders but came to Alouettes in an agreement between the teams.

Simpson said he doesn't find much difference between American and Canadian football but didn't expect the Big Four league would be so tough.

Lucille Ball Out of Character When She Plays K. O. Kitty

By BOB THOMAS

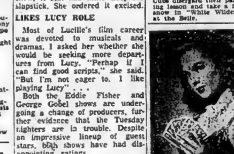
HOLLYWOOD (AP)—TV topics: Lucille Ball makes her first departure from Lucy Ricardo in more than five years when she plays K.O. Kitty Monday night. But she doesn't plan to make it a habit.

On Desilu Playhouse she'll be a girl who inherits a boxer (Alex Rey) from an uncle. She describes the role thusly: "I play Lucy with the stops out; this is Lucy with the stops in."

The story is actually an elaboration of a sequence once planned for Do I Love Lucy series. When it was shortened for the hour - long anthology show, it still had some Lucy-like slapstick. She retired it existed.

LIKES LUCY ROLE

Most of Lucille's film career was devoted to musicals and dramas. I asked her whether she would be seeking more departures from Lucy. "Perhaps if I can find good scripts," she said. "But I'm not eager to. I like playing Lucy."



Both the Eddie Fisher and George Gobel shows are suddenly going a change of producers, further evidence that the Tuesday ratchers are in trouble. Despite an impressive lineup of guest stars, Skip shows have had disappointing ratings.

If Eddie is worried about the show, he doesn't show it. I watched him glide happily through a rehearsal, pausing to take a phone call from "Mrs. Todd".

When will the networks abandon the crazy competition for Sunday night? This week Maverick, Steve Allen and Ed Sullivan all had superior shows. It drove the set - switchers wild trying to avoid missing Jim Garner, Harry Belafonte and the Friars' roast of Sullivan.

AT THE PARK — Two Polar Bear Cubs stargaze their parents' hunting image and take a frolic in the snow in "White Wilderness", now at the Belle.

AT THE McCARTHY — Marooned on a desert island, the cards and needs in "Once Upon a Horse", the Universal - International CinemaScope Wild West comedy in which TV comic sensations Dan Rowan and Dick Martin make their screen debuts. Leif Erickson, Joanne Dru, Jack Elam and Richard Erdman also are featured in the Gene MacCutchan production along with "Appointment with a Shadow", suspense-packed action drama also filmed in CinemaScope and featuring George Nader and Joanne Moore.

Harness Racing

MONTREAL (CP) — Marcel L'Heurex drove Casanova, a 10-year-old brown stallion from Richmouski, Que., to victory in the feature $1,800 B pace at Richelieu Park Friday.

Casanova did the mile in 2:11-3.

W. W. Chef of Collingwood, driven by Keith Wagies, won the fifth race, a mile C pace for a purse of $1,200.

Regina Extends Contracts For Two Coaches

REGINA (CP) — Saskatchewan Roughriders of the Western interprovincial Football Union have extended the contracts of head coach George Terlep and assistant Tony Maddock.

Club officials announced that Terlep and Maddock have been signed for the next two years.

Terlep, 35, former backfield coach with the Grey Cup champion Hamilton Tiger-Cats, succeeded Frank Filchock, whom Riders fired after finishing in last place in the 1957 season.

Under Terlep, the club finished third place this season, but lost out to second-place Edmonton Eskimos in the WIFU semi-finals.

Son of Nearco and Lady Angela, the horse set a record in the Fort Erie opening when it ran five furlongs in :58 1-5 and last months set a mark at Toronto's New Woodbine track with six furlongs in 1:09 1-5 carrying 130 pounds in the Seaway Handicap.

The poll, made by the Daily Racing Form, includes 19 editors, turf writers, handicappers and columnists in Toronto and Buffalo.

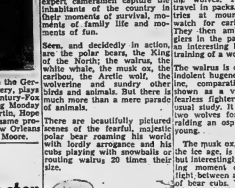
"White Wilderness", Another Fabulous Disney Picture



The Arctic regions of Canada and Alaska are the subject of "White Wilderness", a Walt Disney True-Life adventure that opened yesterday at the Belle Theatre.

Full praise is due the intrepid crew of nature photographers who for many months stalked the animals of the north in their native habitat for they have emerged with material which is always interesting, occasionally exciting and often amusing.

Struggle for existence is savage and cruel in the icy wastes. The expert camera-men capture the inhabitants of the country in their moments of survival, moments of family life and moments of fun.

There are beautifully pictured scenes of the fearful, majestic polar bear roaming his world with loedly arrogance and his cubs playing with snowballs in the rousling walrus; 20 times their size.

We see the seal in graceful water games and the white whales resembling ghosts as they travel in formation. Then there's the strange phenomenon of the lemming, a small rodent-like creature which every so often every eight years over-populates it, and begins a mass migration that ends in suicide for most of them.

Strange, Too, are the customs of the wolves. These marauders travel in packs. They post sentries at main passes to watch for caribou migrations. They then ambush the stragglers in the pack. There's also an interesting bit detailing the training of a wolf cub.

The walrus is caught in all his indolent hugeness. The Wolverine, comparatively small, is shown as a vicious, terrible, fearless fighter in several unusual study. It is seen battling with a wolvey for their kill and raiding an osprey's nest of its young.

The musk ox, sole survivor of the ice age, is glimpsed briefly but interestingly. A really exciting moment comes during a fight between a loon and a pair of bear cubs, but never know who is going to win such battles in a true adventure. There are no villains, just creatures trying to survive.

All these and much more have been shown in color photography that is both magnificent and amazing.

The musical background and the commentary are presented in a restrained fashion, matching the action perfectly. Careful editing is the various sequences together. "White Wilderness" is a fascinating screen experience that often outdoes its astonishing predecessors.

B. C. POWER

ber-Gren (Canada) Company and financial manager of the Social Credit party.

Mr. Gunderson said there was nothing unusual about his offices and suggested Mr. Briggs "see a doctor."

Mr. Briggs said on Friday that B.C. Electric is earning about 13% per cent when the 6% per cent allowed under regulation is due to the public utilities commission.

A. Bruce Robertson, vice-president of BCE, said the claim was "completely untrue." He said the company's profit is about 6½ per cent less than the allowed figure last year.

Mr. Gracey said: "The method by which Mr. Briggs figures out that there was a 13-per-cent return . . . shows an almost unbelievable lack of acquaintance with financial matters.

"He has carefully chosen for comparison rate classes where the BCE suffers by comparison with the BCPC and implies that this picture is true of all rate schedules of these organizations.

Mr. Bennett said the charges made Wednesday about "planned buildup of political propaganda." He said the attack centres around federal loans totalling $23,000,000 which were made by the government on behalf of the power commission and are being repaid by the commission.

Mr. Bennett said he has nothing to do with the net debt. The repayments, he pointed out, have no effect on his promise to free the province of debt by 1960.

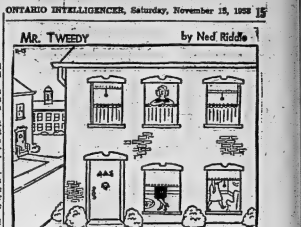
Mr. Briggs said he was told he was fired because he released information not approved by commission members. Then he issued a fourth statement.

RENEWABLE RESOURCES

He spoke harshly of the government's dealings with the Wenner-Gren interests and said the government "is about to dispose of another 4,000,000 horsepower in the Peace River canyon which . . . within less than a single generation will be worth more than a King Solomon's mines."

The horsepower total he spoke of is the estimated initial output of a huge dam to be built on the Peace as part of the northern B.C. major-industrial plan announced by Swedish financier Axel Wenner-Gren.

"At this very moment the people of this province seem to be permitting a single man, without more than the token surveillance of the legislature, to make this commitment. If the people of this province permit such an act, it will be the final criminal detriment."



Mr. Briggs also said there is a fortune in timber in the 40,000 square miles under reserve to Wenner-Gren.

Hammarskjold Turns Down Bid by Jordan

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) Secretary - General Dag Hammarskjold was reported today to have turned down appeals by Jordan to bring before the UN Security Council charges that Syrian jets intercepted a plane carrying King Hussein and chased it back across the Jordanian frontier.

Hammarskjold is said to have told Amman that he sympathized with her complaint but feels the incident last Monday was an isolated one that did not endanger Middle East peace.

Officials have pointed out that Jordan did not use Hammarskjold's special representative in Amman, Pier Spinelli, to get clearance from the United Arab Republic for Hussein's flight.

Thus they feel it is not up to the secretary-general, but Jordan herself, to seek any Security Council action. Officials in Damascus and Cairo have asserted they did not know Hussein was aboard the plane.

PACIFICATION AIM

Since he undertook his Middle East peace mission in the wake of last summer's crisis over Iraq, Lebanon and Jordan, Hammarskjold has been trying to screen out isolated incidents that would touch off another blitzer UN Middle and revive the whole dispute.

Diplomats wonder how long he can keep his finger in the dike. They believe Jordan, embroiled in a mounting exchange of insults with the United Arab Republic, probably will bring the Hussein incident before the UN if it thinks it can establish a good case.

The U.A.R. has been adding fuel to the fire, predicting in its press that Hussein will be thrown out or killed.

Your Car

Car's Engine Needs Proper Grade of Gas

By EUGENE MILMOE

Do you assume that the best grade of gas is naturally best for your car — will make it run better — and will minimize engine troubles? Well, you may be a little wrong.

Gasoline is graded according to octane rating. This refers to it s knock resistance. The octain requirements of any engine, h ow ever, depend on its design and condition. Thus, one car will run perfectly on regular gas while another has a tendency to knock unless premium is used.

Using premium gas when the engine doesn't require it is just a waste of money. But it's worse to try pinching pennies with regular if a higher octane grade is needed. Engine damage and repair bills are inevitable.

If your car is new, use the octane grade specified in the manufacturer's manual. With an older engine, ask your dealer or experiment with the different grades.

Q. M. asks: "Is it necessary to have the wheel bearings changed automatically, or just inspected at the 10,000 mile mark?"

(A) This maintenance refers to a change of grease but, in fact, the bearings themselves. They should be freshly repacked every 10,000 miles.

From D. K.: "Deteriorated head gaskets were responsible for some trouble we had with our '58 V-8 model. One man's theory is that leaving anti freeze in from one winter to the next will rot the gaskets."

(A) Research experts are pretty unanimous about the fact that anti-freeze, when left in the system, eventually produces a corrosive action which affects cooling system, engine, and gaskets.

Mrs. N. R. writes: "When the street is icy or slick with snow what is the best way to get started. I drive a '57 with automatic shift."

(A) Put the selector in "Low" then feed gas slowly and easily until you are definitely under way.

S. G. asks: "Preparing t h e battery for winter is a standard rule, but no one mentions t h e generator regulator. Shouldn't it be examined, too?"

(A) It's a wise idea, since t h e regulator's job is to see that the battery is kept adequately charged and thus also to meet the great demands on it in winter.

BULLETINS FROM BIRDLAND

By WINIFRED WILSON

HELP FROM BIRDS

Nearly everybody thinks of birds as being merely ornamental or pleasing to the ear — that is, if any thought at all is given to them. But scientists know that it would be hard for us to get along without them. Very, very few are in the least destructive, and the large majority help to make our world a better place to live in. All year round their job is to rid our farmlands of weeds and kill off injurious insects and rodents.

Even at this late date thousands of little feathered creatures are working for mankind. Curiously, weed seeds are actually preferred to other seeds. S o n e rously and red-winged blackbirds are still passing through in migration, and when they stop to rest they choose a restaurant where weed seeds are served. Many goldfinches stay throughout t h e cold season in southern Canada and, fortunately for us, live on weed seeds, especially enjoying ragweed. Snow buntings will be coming down from their summer home in the treeless tundra a winter with us, feeding on the weed seeds that protrude above the snow.

Summer is not the only season when trees get protection. Wood peckers are forever peering into crevices in bark to capture insects which, if left unmolested, would ruin the trees. The large pileated eats boring beetles in all stages. The most important food of the hairy is their larvae. These are extracted from deep down by means of the hairy's wonderful tongue, which can be extended to an almost unbelievable length and has a tip like a fish-hook. In winter the little downy eats wood borers and gall insects. All these birds are here throughout the year.

NIGHT SQUAD

Owls also are Canadian residents for the most part, and make up our night protection squad. They are well equipped for their duties. Their unusually soft feathers cling together; there are no cracks left between through which air may whistle. T h i s makes their flight noiseless. Their talons are hooked for capturing and holding their prey.

Nearly all owls prefer rodents to any other form of food. Between them, the barred, long-eared, short-eared, and saw-whet, with plenty of assistance from the rest, keep down the mouse population. Some may be found in the hearts of our large cities all winter; and every few years, w h e n lemmings are scarce in the far north, big snowy owls come down and take up residence near o u r garbage dumps where they discover good substitutes.

EX-MINISTER,

To Sommers, he said: "The harm you, Sommers, have done to our traditional respect for government will, I hope, be slight because, thank God, the sort of behavior of which you have been convicted is not just exceptional but unique in our political history."

LONGEST CRIMINAL TRIAL

Sentence was then passed and the books were closed on the longest criminal case in Canadian history. The trial lasted 82 days. The jury deliberated 75 hours after hearing more than 2,000,000 words of testimony.

Sommers was given five consecutive one-year terms on five charges of accepting bribes—a $677 rug, $3,500 in cash and $2,000 in bonds. A one-year sentence for conspiracy was made concurrent.

Gray, convicted of giving the rug, $3,000 in bonds and $5,500 in cash, was given eight one-year terms for bribery—five of them consecutive and three concurrent. There was an additional concurrent year for conspiracy.

Fines totalling more than $19,000 were imposed on Pacific Coast Services and Evergreen Lumber Sales, also charged in the case.

Attorney-General Robert Bonner told newspaper men Friday he had been "personally painful" to order the arrest and prosecution of a fellow cabinet member. He denied there was an unjustified delay in laying charges.

"The government has dealt with this matter firmly and conscientiously," he said. There was "no evidence that any timber company has improperly obtained forestry management licence."

THE GOLDEN YEARS

Disregard Retired Folks' Stories And Find the Facts for Yourself

By THOMAS COLLINS

If I were retiring tomorrow on a pension of $170 a month, I think I would be inclined to tell my neighbors I was getting about $325. Or, at least, that figure.

And if I had tried for the last 12 months to get a job after I retired, I would have been turned down cold. I would be inclined to t e l l those that I was sitting on a couple of attractive offers but didn't think I wanted to work.

We live in a world where that sort of thing makes folks look up to you. Most people by age 65 — especially men — have enough savvy to know that sort of thing makes folks look up to you.

So most people in the retirement years — especially men — add a little embroidery to t h e truth.

I have no argument with it, I think that with so many cards stacked against you at retirement time it is excusable. But this column is not to defend it. It is to caution you against believing it when it comes from somebody else.

Too many people coming up to retirement are being swept off their feet, and into a mess, by believing what their contemporaries are telling them.

This week I interviewed a nice, inventive fellow who was 65 years old. He said he was making $9,100 a year, could retire now on $312 pension, could get $425 if he waited until 68, didn't like his job and wondered if he could make it if he told his boss to go stick his head in a barrel.

Unfortunately, I hapsen to know his boss. The fellow makes $6,700 a year. He can retire now on $141 pension, and can get $174 if he waits to 65. He wants to tell his boss to go stick his head, etc., because the boss has just pinned his back.

Why he wanted to kill me I don't know. What he's telling his friends I can't imagine.

Here, in brief, are the types of tales from retiremenage people you should take with a cellar full of salt:

1. Anything they say about how much they've got or how much they've made. Anything. I get an average of 25 letters a week from people who want me to print, please how they can get by in retirement with $50,000 or more. Letters often written in pencil, on lined paper, with misspelled words. Why pretend? And if you do, what else?

2. Anything they say about how wonderful things are in the place where they've settled in retirement. Retired people who have found their places a paradise, and those who have found them horrible, describe it all in about the same phrases. I can't detect the difference. You make your choice. Go have a look for yourself.

3. Anything they say about how attentive their children are, and how often they write and phone. I don't want to go into detail on this. I just want to say most children of retired folks aren't attentive, and don't write or phone much. And you shouldn't think your children are ingrates if they don't.

4. Anything you read in the company's employee magazine about how hilariously happy Old George is with his pension. Old George may be. But he's n o t writing to write back to the company that he's not. He doesn't know that the company can't cut that $78 pension down to 78 cents.

5. Anything. Period. If you're past 60 you have the writ to fig ure life out for yourself. A n d everybody's case is different.

$250,000 Loss As Madoc Block Burns

38 Persons Living In Apts. Over Stores Homeless

All Forced to Flee In Their Night Attire

An early morning fire starting in the kitchen of a Chinese restaurant, swept through a combined business and apartment block in Madoc today causing an estimated $250,000 damage and leaving 38 persons homeless.

The blaze which completely levelled the Maynes' Block on Durham St., south of the main intersection of the town, destroyed the Richards' Restaurant, the Maynes' 5c to $1.00 store, along with a heavy stock of Christmas merchandise.

There were 13 different apartments on the two floors above the stores and the occupants were forced to flee in night attire, many of them having to escape by jumping through heavy smoke after they were aroused from their sleep.

Thirty-eight people were made homeless and $250,000 in property loss resulted at Madoc early today when the Maynes Block was razed by fire. The building contained a restaurant, 5c to $1 store, and 13 apartments. Picture shows firemen pouring water into the rubble.

Credit for rousing the many families sleeping in the different apartments went to Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Johnston, who smelled smoke and spread the alarm, and to O.P.P. Constable Harry Ashley who roused occupants of the third floor apartment.

Also assisting to spread the alarm was Tom Swift, elderly Madoc workman, who heard several explosions in the rear as he was laying tile in the front of the restaurant.

Unable to make his way back through the kitchen after the explosion, Mr. Swift attempted to get out through the front door, but found it locked.

SHOUTED FOR HELP

He shouted as loud as he could for several minutes, but did not know if anyone heard.

Minutes later Mr. and Mrs. Johnston, living in a second floor apartment smelled smoke. Mrs. Johnston roused her families, while Mr. Johnston pounded on the door of Albert Maynes, owner of the destroyed business and apartment block.

"I was awake when I heard pounding on my door," later related Mr. Maynes. "My dog had been restless and had wakened me earlier. I think the dog knew there was something wrong."

Only smoke was visible in the upstairs halls when the sleeping apartment dwellers were roused but so quickly did the flames spread that people were forced to flee in their night clothes. Parents carried young children to safety.

SOMETHING SAVED

No household or personal possessions of tenants were saved, and fleeing apartment tenants in some cases left their false teeth.

Losing everything in the fire were Mr. and Mrs. Charles Yew and family; Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Johnston with two children; Mr. and Mrs. Fred Jones and children; Mrs. Emma Reid and two sons; Lake Allman, O.P.P. Mr. and Mrs. Frank Downey and family of three children who escaped but had been sleeping in another room.

Mrs. Hill was not in the house when gathered, as she was arrested shortly afterward on a nearby road.

OTHERS FORCED OUT

Tenants in apartment blocks on both sides of the Maynes block were also forced to get out due to heavy smoke but fortunately firewalls prevented the

Charge Indian Mother Axed Two Children

BRANTFORD (CP)—A mother of five has been charged with murder following the axe-slaying of two or her children on the Six Nations Indian reserve near here.

Mrs. Alice Vivan Hill, 39, a widow, was charged following the death of her children, Hola Joy and Cecilia 3.

Two other children, Christine, 16, and John, 11, ran from the house screaming. They ran to the home of Elijah Hill, no relation, who sent them to phone police while he went back to the Hill home.

Hill found another child, Margaret Rose, 8, asleep. The body of one child was found in the cellar on the living room floor.

ANOTHER ROOM

Inspector E. A. Moss of the provincial police, said the children who escaped had been sleeping in another room.

Mrs. Hill was not in the house when police arrived, as she arrested shortly afterward on a nearby road.

THE WEATHER

TORONTO (CP) Synopsis: An intense storm centred over Nebraska, Dakota, Saskatchewan is causing a variety of unusual weather across the continent. Near-blizzard conditions are reported from the parts of the Dakotas and the southeastern prairies with six to 12 inches of snow accumulated on the ground. As a result of this same storm, cold air has spread southward to the Mexican border bringing snow as far south as Texas, Arizona and New Mexico."

At the same time this large Dakota storm is pumping unusually warm and moist air northward across the central and eastern United States. This milder weather approached Ontario this morning causing overcast skies and periods of rain and drizzle. These unseasonably mild and unsettled conditions will persist in all parts of the province Tuesday.

SUDANESE ARMY COMMANDER HAS SEIZED CONTROL

Will Seek Agreement With Nasser on Nile

CAIRO (AP)—Another Middle Eastern parliamentary democracy went into eclipse today when army commander Gen. Ibrahim Abboud seized power in military coup in Sudan.

The government radio in Khartoum, the Sudanese capital, broadcast a declaration in the name of Abboud promising to do his best to achieve good relations with President Nasser of United Arab Republic.

Abboud also ordered immediate dissolution of all political parties, supervision of all newspapers and prohibition of any demonstrations or political meetings.

The general seized power from the pro-Western government of Prime Minister Abdullah Khalil.

The overthrow of the Khalil regime came as Nasser and the Sudanese government were trying to patch up long-standing differences over division of the Nile waters, their frontiers, and trade matters.

The Cairo press today carried predictions that Khalil would arrive in Cairo Thursday at the head of a delegation for official talks to settle these differences. Both Egyptian and Sudanese sources in Cairo were predicting success for the talks.

The Sudan declared independence from joint British-Egyptian rule on Jan. 1, 1956, and since then had maintained a parliamentary system.

Khalil became prime minister in July, 1956, when his Umma

Freight Rate Increase Will Be Protested Strongly by Maritimes

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Officials of the Maritime provinces said today they will protest the general freight rate increase of 17 per cent authorized by the board of transport commissioners.

Acting Premier J. George MacKay of Prince Edward Island said the increase will be "protested strongly" by the province.

Nova Scotia Premier Stanfield and Acting Premier A. E. Skaling of New Brunswick said their provinces will act on the increase before the Maritime Transportation Commission.

"This is obviously a matter of great concern to the people of the Atlantic provinces," Mr. Stanfield said.

"We who live in the Maritimes will pay double to have our products sold in this market," said Mr. MacKay. "Of what value are special grants to the Atlantic provinces if they are going to be siphoned away by action such as this?

"I have been informed that freight increases since 1947 are in excess of 100 per cent. How can the Atlantic provinces continue to exist with increases such as these?"

Pope John Calls Consistory Dec. 15 to Create 23 Cardinals

VATICAN CITY (CP) — Pope John XXIII today called a consistory for Dec. 15 to create 19 non-Italian and 13 Italian cardinals of the Roman Catholic Church. The consistory will increase the membership of the College of Cardinals for the first time in almost four centuries, to 75 from 70.

The Vatican said the present members of the college will meet in secret consistory Dec. 15 to confirm the Pope's nominations. The pontiff will present the red hats of their rank to the new cardinals in a private ceremony Dec. 17, and a public consistory honoring them will be held Dec. 18.

Two cardinals-designate were named from the United States for a total of four and one from Britain. The Canadian representation of two was unchanged. There were 18 vacancies in the college's previous full complement of 70.

Throughout the 19-year-reign of the late Pope Pius there had been speculation that he might increase the size of the College of Cardinals to cope with the increasing administrative problems of the expanding church. Many of the present 52 cardinals are aged and infirm, and their average age is 72.

The new cardinals were notified of their designation by mail several days ago, the Vatican said. Those nominated to be priests of the church include Msgr. Richard Jerue Cushing, 61, Archbishop of Boston, Msgr. John O'Hara D., Archbishop of Philadelphia, and Msgr. William Godfrey, Archbishop of Westminster.

Amleto Cicognani, apostolic delegate to the United States, also was nominated.

Pope John nominated 10 non-Italian and 13 Italians. That would keep Italians a minority in the Pope's senate of cardinals as they have been since the mass consistories which Pius XII called in 1946 and 1953.

Britain and Austria, both now without cardinals, will now have members on the sacred college.

Mexico will have her first cardinal in history.

Spain and France each got another cardinal.

Uruguay was the only South American country to have a cardinal-designate on the new list. Germany also will have a new cardinal.

Prominent among the Italians named was Msgr. Tardini, 70, whom the Pope announced earlier

RUSSIA OFFERS TWO PACTS ON NUCLEAR TESTS

One Would Be Ban, Another on Control

GENEVA (AP)—Russia offered today to negotiate two separate treaties for banning nuclear tests and for controlling the ban—and suggested the agreements be signed simultaneously.

Soviet delegate Semyon Tsarapkin made the proposal at three-power talks on nuclear test suspension.

His proposal failed to meet a basic requirement in these talks—the linking of test suspension to a control system in one treaty.

The two-treaty approach advanced by the Russians raises the danger that the United States, Britain and the Soviet Union would commit themselves to a document promising to end tests but never be able to get a control system functioning, Western sources said.

SAYS REDS READY

An Eastern source said Tsarapkin told the delegates the Soviet Union is prepared to accept an international control system.

The Western side maintains

Pope Pius Dies; Was Ill Since Oct. 5

VATICAN CITY (CP) — Pope Pius XII died today at 3:52 a.m. (9:52 p.m. Sunday EST) in his private apartment in the Vatican Palace.

Diefenbaker Says Asians, Africans Give Commonwealth New Meaning

LAHORE, West Pakistan (CP) Prime Minister Diefenbaker said today the new Asian and African members of the Commonwealth have given an unique contribution to the Commonwealth, making it a bridge of understanding between continents.

The Canadian leader, in the first speech of his Asian tour, also said there can be "no thought of economic or political subordination" in such an association of partners and friends.

He spoke at a special convocation at the University of the Punjab which awarded him an honorary degree of laws degree.

"I think it is sometimes forgotten uniquely these Commonwealth countries in Asia and Africa have contributed to the evolution of the concept of the Commonwealth as we know it today," he said.

Pakistan and others, though not sharing common British ancestry, choose to remain in the Commonwealth "because you and they valued our common heritage of free institutions and our common recognition of the worth of man."

The Commonwealth thus had become "a bridge of understanding" between peoples of every race, creed and colour, not only in the Commonwealth but in the entire free world.

The struggle to realize the vision of an expanding and vital Commonwealth was not easy, he faced by forces of cynicism and disillusionment, those who plot to divide the free world.

Diefenbaker, who trimmed his schedule slightly during the week-end to combat a touch of travel tiredness, was due later in the day to be interviewed by Akhtar Hussian, governor of West Pakistan who also is chancellor of the University.

The prime minister's sightseeing tour of Pakistani splendor was curtailed slightly Sunday by the touch of fatigue he described as a slight headache. He enjoyed a Punjab tribal dance and a visit to the Shalimar Gardens and rested for a rigorous programme scheduled this week in Pakistan and India.

A spokesman said he was not ill but that it was felt advisable that he rest after a week of travel that began last Monday in West Germany.

Want NATO Earth Satellite For Outer Space Research

PARIS (AP)—A committee of aim at designing an advanced parliamentarians proposed today that NATO launch an earth satellite for peaceful outer space research by 1960.

The satellite, which would bear the emblem of the North Atlantic alliance, is the first point in a proposed program of "peaceful scientific and technical co-operation in upper atmosphere and outer space research, development and exploration."

The program was recommended by the scientific and technical committee of the fourth NATO parliamentarians' conference.

The committee chairman, U.S. Senator Henry M. Jackson of Washington, suggested in a speech prepared for delivery to the conference that scientists from the 15 NATO powers be invited to meet at an early date to draft a co-operative research effort.

He said the scientists "might peaceful research satellite which combines the best ideas of our scientists and which satisfies the world's best interests."

"I affirm that an economic assault upon one of us is an economic assault upon all of us.

"2. Really our creative talents in economics and political science and put them to work on a joint economic strategy, and

"3. Use NATO-wide arrangements for economic consultations and economic diplomacy."

Jackson said the Russians already have upset world timber, iron and aluminum markets by cut-rate sales.

'Interim Relief' May Mean Strike Will Be Averted

Increase of 17 Per Cent Short of CNR Needs

OTTAWA (CP) — A general freight rate increase of 17 per cent was authorized today by the board of transport commissioners, indicating possibility of settlement of the general rail strike called for Dec. 1.

The railways had asked for 19 per cent.

The increase, worth some $60,000,000 a year to the major railways, will be permitted under board order to go into effect on the exact date set for the strike of 135,000 non-operating employees.

But while the permitted boost appears enough to take care of union wage demands on the railways and allow a settlement, this could be blown out by one of two factors.

First, the cabinet could toss out the board increase. The cabinet is almost certain to have on its hands, in the next couple of days, an appeal against the increase from eight provinces—all except Ontario and Quebec.

Second, there is some speculation that the railways will not settle up before Dec. 1 because of unwillingness to sign a wage contract of this magnitude without having the freight increases actually in effect.

HAVE AGREED

The 15 unions representing the non-operating workers have agreed to accept the report of a federal conciliation board recommending wage increase of about 14 cents an hour.

The railways have accepted, but only conditionally on getting enough out of a freight increase to handle the wage increase of some $80,000,000. The unions initially rejected contract recommending to some $140,000,000.

Likelihood is that the transport board's decision will bring the disputants into new negotiations. These have been in abeyance for weeks while the parties awaited the board's verdict.

The board stepped away from precedent in awarding a big freight rate boost in the face of expected—rather than actual—railroad costs. But it warned in its 69-page decision that this will not necessarily happen in the future.

"It cannot be anticipated," the decision said, "that the board will accede in future to applications for rate increases based upon the railways by completion of the usual processes of labor negotiation."

Going into effect Dec. 1, the boost was calculated by the board to yield the Canadian Pacific—the "standard"—some about $25,500,000 between then and the end of 1959, the amount the CPR considered adequate to cover the added costs of the wage hike.

MONTREAL (CP) — Frank Hall, spokesman for 14 unions representing 130,000 non-operating railway workers, said today that strike orders for Dec. 1 can be "rescinded" if and when an agreement on wages is reached with the major railways.

He said his negotiating team representing the 15 non-op unions is ready to meet railway officials "anytime" to discuss a settlement of their dispute.

But he said that any negotiations would have to be on the basis of a majority recommendation of a federal conciliation board proposing a wage increase amounting to about 14-cents an hour.

He made the statements after officials of the CPR and CNR here prepared to meet to discuss the implications of a 17-per-cent freight rate increase authorized in Ottawa today.

Strike notices have already gone out to "some areas," said Mr. Hall. But they could be rescinded up to the night before the 12:01 a.m. Dec. 1 strike deadline if an agreement is reached in time.

He said the "quite evident" that the Board of Transport Commissioners considered a 17-per-cent freight rate increase as an appropriate amount to meet the conciliation board's recommended wage boost.

Today's railway conference was expected to produce an invitation to Mr. Hall to meet with railway representatives as soon as possible—likely within the next few days. Mr. Hall said there was no immediate railway comment on the freight rate increase or the possible outcome of the railway conference today.

PICTON — Picton Corps of the Salvation Army marked its 74th anniversary with special services and programs over the weekend. Featured at Saturday and Sunday events was the Shawna Citadel band.

Two Arrested After Woman Killed in Crash

PICTON — Mrs. Elsie Maracle, 48, of this town was instantly killed about six o'clock Saturday night when she suffered a broken neck and a fractured skull in a car accident. She was a passenger in a car with her husband, Frederick Maracle and Stan White, Church Street, Picton. Both men suffered lacerations but were not hospitalized.

The group was proceeding in a car west on Mary Street when the vehicle went out of control. It struck a hydro pole and was jammed between the pole and a fire shop operated by Roger Blakely. The car, a 44 model sedan, was a complete wreck. Both men were lodged in the county goal, pending the laying of charges.

RESCUES TERRIFIED SON

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — David Moffatt groped on hands and knees above his flame-filled kitchen Sunday to find and rescue his son Patrick, 10, who lay whimpering and paralyzed with fear under a table. Earlier he roused his wife and son Charles, 12, who made their way to safety. Patrick suffered only minor burns over much of his body.

This morning about 11.00 o'clock a load of reinforced concrete beams broke loose from its moorings when a securing chain apparently snapped on a Wilson Concrete Products truck just as the driver, Mac Huddlestone, was negotiating the north-east turn off Foxboro Road onto Highway 401. No other vehicles were involved in the mishap, although the load landing on the surface of the opposite lane caused a minor traffic difficulty until it was cleared away. A crane from the W. Finkle Machine Co. was brought to the scene to load the fallen beams onto another truck for removal from the area. Constable J. C. Shanks of the OPP investigated the incident. The above photo shows the crew removing distinguished with Constable Shanks directing traffic during the operation.

PUC Accepts CGE Bid To Install Area Sub-station

CAMPBELLFORD — At a special meeting of the Public Utilities Commission, the tender of the Canadian General Electric Company for the supply of materials and installation of a substation of 5,000 K. V. A. capacity, including transformer, switchgear, at a firm price of $40,018, was accepted.

A local contractor will be employed to do the installation and P. U. C. will erect the necessary building, light and low tension feeder lines, fencing, and other equipment.

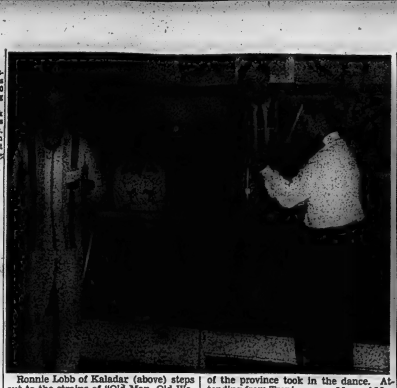
The original tender of the C. G. E. Co was $42,000; that of Mr. DeCarrol, $38,000, and a Port Hope firm, $38,000. The C.G.E. tender was the only one which stated the bid was a firm bid and it could therefore be assumed that there would be no extras.

A committee was named on Monday to review the tenders as received. The committee comprising the manager, A. Evans and Commissioners A. C. Newman and H. MacArthur, could bring no unanimous recommendations to the Commission except that C. G. E. equipment be used.

Commissioner MacArthur moved that the C. G. E. tender be accepted. After asking the chairman if the seconder of a motion must vote for it, and the chairman replying to the negative, Commissioner McGregor seconded the motion. The motion passed on a polled vote, the vote being Commissioner MacArthur, Reeve Rutherford (who filled Mayor Mayhew's place in his absence) and chairman Comm. McGregor and Newman voted nay.

Having accepted the C. G. E. tender, it was revealed that the Canadian General Electric Co. were prepared to allow a discount of more than $2500 on their price, bringing the cost to $40,015.

This price was accepted, subject to the approval of the Municipal Board.



At the regular meeting of the commission, a committee of Commissioner MacArthur, Newman and Reeve Rutherford was named to assist the manager in arranging for the necessary work in proceeding with the building, fencing and other installations to be done by the P.U.C.

that if the Russians are sincere on this point they will ultimately agree to an all-inclusive single treaty.

Basically the disagreement in the conference now has boiled down to this point: Shall the three powers negotiate one treaty or two?

Also Soviet Russia today proposed an international treaty to prevent planes from carrying nuclear weapons over the territory of other countries and the high seas.

The treaty proposal was submitted by Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Vassily V. Kuznetsov to the 10-power conference on prevention of surprise attack.

Western officials said the proposal was completely outside the scope of the present talks. But its submission obviously took them by surprise, because the meeting was interrupted for 20 minutes to permit the Western delegations to consult among themselves.

Legion Expects To Pass Target Of 850 Members

TRENTON — Tonight the local Branch of the Canadian Legion will surpass its 1958 membership target of 355 paid up members.

With 846 members already enrolled and approximately 23 candidates for the Initiated Monday night, the 850th member will certainly be acquired this Branch membership that evening.

That lucky Legionnaire and the member who proposed him for membership will each be suitably rewarded during the evening's proceedings by the Branch president and the Branch chairman of membership, Carman Livingstone.

Already the largest Branch in Canada for any town of comparable size, the Branch's membership target for next year, while not yet definitely established is expected to be in the vicinity of 1,000 members.

Dog Is Blamed As Cars, Pole House Damaged

TRENTON — Two cars, a telephone pole and a house were damaged Saturday night when one of the cars involved went out of control as the driver tried to miss a dog.

James B. Garrow, 22, of the Skyview Trailer Camp, told police officers he was proceeding along Dundas Street East in a westerly direction and was approaching the intersection of Dundas and Herman Street when a dog ran out on the path of his car. He said he applied the brakes and when he did so the car went out of control and into a skid.

He skidded to the curb on the south side of the street where it side-swiped a parked car owned by Joseph T. Train, 30 Bay Street, slammed into the side of a telephone pole and careened off the pole, turned around and ran backwards into the front porch of a house at 189 Dundas Street East, which is owned by Mrs. Thos Headrick.

Damages to the moving car was estimated at $450 and was to the entire right side of the vehicle. It was a 1949 model and considered a complete write-off.

The parked car suffered an estimated $60 damage to the left front fender and side. No estimate of the damage to the pole was given as it was only scraped and not broken off.

The house had the front door and a wall smashed in on the sun porch and damage was estimated at $100.

The accident was investigated by Constables Jack Graham and Larry Martin.

There were six other minor mishaps on Trenton Streets on Saturday and Sunday but none of them was serious or had damages amounting to over a few dollars.

Legion Curling Finals May Be Played Here

TRENTON — The new curling, built by the Trenton Country Club and scheduled to open in approximately two weeks time, will possibly be the location of one of of Ontario's largest bonspiels in February of next year.

The choice of the location for the Canadian Legion Ontario Curling Finals, which is expected to be announced within the next few days, has now been reduced to two places, one being Trenton and the local Legion Branch is confident that this tournament will be awarded to "The Best Branch in Ontario".

More than forty rinks are expected to participate and teams representing Legion Branches from Port Arthur to Ontario's easterly border are already entered.

The influx of more than 200 outside Legionnaires for a two or three day period would obviously be a considerable boost to the local economy and would be of particular benefit to local hotels and hostels at a time when their business would be at a seasonal low ebb.

In addition, such an outstanding provincial event would certainly aid in establishing the new curling club and officials of the club and Branch 110 are keeping their fingers crossed pending the official announcement of the locality selected.

'INTERIM RELIEF'

The larger publicly-owned Canadian National Railways had stated it needed $41,500,000.

The board indicated the freight rate increase will not meet this CNR amount fully.

However, the five-man panel headed by Assistant Chief Commissioner Rod Kerr made clear that this is just an interim increase and that an application for a new one from the railways will be entertained shortly.

Expectations now that the railways will ask for one of around 10 per cent to cover additional costs beyond those of the immediate increase.

WILL APPLY LATER

The application was being dealt with on the basis of "interim relief".

The percentage increase does not apply to coal and coke, on which the board authorized a rise of 22 cents per ton in line with the practice of applying this type of increase to these fuels. The railways had asked for 25 cents.

EQUAL TO COSTS

The board said the increase should be sufficient to yield 193.9 revenue "approximately equivalent to the amount of Canadian Pacific's additional labor costs . . . and Canadian Pacific is being used as the yardstick railway and CP's additional labor costs the specific yardstick for the purpose of determining interim relief.

"Such rate increases will provide Canadian National with a substantial amount of additional revenue and in that extent will help it also to meet its additional labor costs."

Dealing with the question of justifying a freight rate increase before the offsetting expenses have come into effect, the board said that it is:

"Satisfied that the probability of payment (of the wage increases) by CNR and CPR is so strong that it should take them into consideration and include and count them as payable expenses in appraising the financial position of the railways for the immediate future."

BEFORE ARBITRATION

The question is likely to come before the cabinet. It is a precedent for the board, which never before has awarded a rate hold on the basis of future costs.

The board added:

The protracted wage negotiations, the report of the federal conciliation board, and acceptance of the conciliation board's recommendations by the non-operating unions, the qualified acceptance of such recommendations of other railway employees, past experience of settling other wage disputes . . . and the board to conclude that the railways will pay the wage increased wages and other labor expenses in 1958 and 1959."

MR. CHURCHILL'S ADVICE

Interesting reading, indeed, are the eight points which Hon. Gordon Churchill, Canadian minister of trade and commerce, listed when he gave "friendly advice" to U.S. companies with Canadian subsidiaries.

None of the suggestions advanced by Mr. Churchill, at a Canadian-American trade and industry conference in Chicago, was entirely new. All had been made before by Canadians, perhaps all by some one Canadian, some had been made by Canadians of comparable stature to that of Mr. Churchill, but never before, as far as we know, all these sentiments been endorsed by a man placed so fortunately as Mr. Churchill to give them force and meaning.

It is worth noting that, although Mr. Churchill was said to be making these suggestions "in a spirit of friendly advice," there are some of them on which Mr. Churchill has the right, perhaps even the duty, to act if this advice is disregarded.

For instance, Mr. Churchill advised U.S. firms to promote exports from Canadian subsidiaries. Now Mr. Churchill cannot force these firms to follow his advice, but he certainly could, if he wished, take some action to prevent U.S. firms from following policies which, it has been alleged, some of them have adopted in the past. For instance, it has been charged that some firms have let their subsidiaries get information on markets from Canadian trade officials but have refused to let these subsidiaries seek orders in these markets and have had the parent firms in the U.S. go after the opportunities uncovered by the work of a Canadian official paid with Canadian taxpayers' money.

Indeed, there are only one or two points of the eight raised by Mr. Churchill which could not be made subject of legislation. We do suggest that in many cases legislation would be inadvisable. With respect to others, though, we should not be surprised if the coming years did not see government action unless U.S. firms with subsidiaries here take Mr. Churchill's advice to heart. For instance, it is certainly feasible to require that there be more processing of Canadian materials before export. There can be no question, though, but that the better solution would be for U.S. firms to heed Mr. Churchill and voluntarily take action to remedy those defects to which he referred in his speech.

MIGHT TRY CROSSWALKS

Toronto's Deputy Police Chief Robert Kerr says that pedestrian fatalities, injuries and accidents generally have all been substantially reduced since Sept. 15, when pedestrian crosswalks were established there.

Those who recall the furore when a couple of fatalities occurred at crosswalks immediately after they were established will find this interesting. Many may have foreseen, at that time, that the crosswalks would prove effective once they had been given a fair test.

Perhaps now, with these figures in, consideration might be given to establishing similar crosswalks here.

Belleville traffic is, of course, in nowhere near as heavy as that in Toronto. Still, there are a couple of places in the main business district where crosswalks, plainly marked, would be a great convenience to pedestrians. One is at the junction of Campbell Street and Front Street, the other on Front Street opposite the city hall. In these areas across the road, but the only motorists who ever slow down are a few from south of the border.

Crosswalks properly marked might also prove useful at crossings much used by school children. Even where there are guards, there are times when the conscientious lookout whether or not going to slow down sufficiently to permit the guards to get their charges across the street safely. Some day some child will stumble and an oncoming motorist, who had expected to pass safely to the rear of the crossing children, will find himself faced with a sudden emergency. This danger is present where crosswalks are on hills since the incline would increase the distance needed to bring a car descending the grade to a halt.

Talking to a railroad man he said the auto industry is rapidly becoming the railroad's best friend. He explained that if auto prices keep going higher and higher, it will drive people back to travelling on the trains. They will soon not be able to afford a car.—W. L. Clarke, in the Windsor Star.

This Doctor Also Priest

Brantford Expositor

As head of the anatomy department at the medical school of the University of Louisville, in Kentucky, Dr. William B. Atkinson often wears a surgeon's white coat, particularly on week-days. But on Sundays, as Rev. William B. Atkinson, he wears a black cassock as he officiates at the altar of his church permission in the Episcopal Church.

Dr. Atkinson finds no conflict or contradiction between his two callings. He has no tendency to feel severed by a split personality or leading a double life.

As he explains it: "Although the scientific method is devoted to tracing, step by step, why it is that we look forward to many great things, it is the avenue to the realm of abstract thought. . . The parallel in religion is t h e 'knowable' from the world as an experience and the celebration of the Mass provide the religious man with a method of that limited mystical experience: faith."

Dr. Atkinson, anatomist, and Father Atkinson, curate at Louisville's Grace Church, t h i s rather unusual combination, lives in two and, indeed, many more than two worlds.

We say "rather remarkable," because, despite the fact that the average scientific-clergyman has found his story in the newspapers and magazines of late, there are other clergymen, many of them, who are not at all convinced. Considerable interest in the mission-ary field, for instance. There are other clergymen who are psychologists and psychiatrists. Mendel was a scientist as well as a monk. And come to think of it was n o t Saint Luke a physician?

Making Folks Feel at Home

Oshawa Times

Barbers in Niagara Falls, according to the report, are considering raising the price of haircuts to $1.50, because "U.S. tourists are used to higher prices."

We are proud to know that there are such thoughtful and considerate people in the Canadian community. They want the American visitors to feel at home, to realize that they are not slumming in a dollar colony, to feel that they Canadians too can recognize a fast buck when they see it.

As a gesture of international good will, the barbers' idea can scarcely be bettered. The price hike would tend to bring the two countries closer together, bound by ties of mutual sufferance. As the price clipped, the Americans will be able to ponder the warming thought that Canadians are simply people just like themselves.

With such positive motives to inspire them, we doubt very much if the Niagara barbers' thought ever they thought at all to the extra income they will be collecting. Maybe they will donate it to some worthy cause, such as the erection on the Rainbow Bridge of a plaque showing intertwined shears and razors, symbolic of the great benefits of mutual exchange between friendly nations.

There is only one disturbing thought in the minds of the Niagara barbers may be misunderstood. Some American tourists who have been accustomed to paying considerably less than $1.50 for a haircut.

He Should Know

"Uneasy lies the head that ignores a telephone call in the dead of night," says a subject paraphrasing Shakespeare. Well, why worry? Could be that it's merely dialing. Anyway, as the inventor of the gadget, Alexander Graham Bell, said here, in Brantford, "I wouldn't have one of the damned things in the house!"

Letter To The Editor

Teacher Defends Mathematics Book

Editor:
Ontario Intelligencer:

Now I am not one to defend a member, or even a group of my own profession, merely because he is a member of my profession, nor would I suggest that "all for one" is a right and moral motto. But I would suggest that criticism is healthy and welcome when one knows what he is talking about. Further and in specific reference, I would suggest that criticism of mathematics text book be left to the hands of mathematicians.

This paper saw fit to publish an editorial condemning the mathematics text book "Intermediate Mathematics" and at the risk of being termed to be glib" as the editorial suggests, I emphatically state that more "picayune" (petty) errors are not found in quite some time. Also as one of the "poor" mathematics teachers who uses this text, let me also emphatically state that this is one of the best texts ever printed to aid in the teaching of mathematics.

To be specific, there is actually no error in the answers which will occur in the answers which will occur in the answers which will occur

Northern Plant Has Been Here For 10 Years

By E. F. Smith in Northern News

The year 1958 marks the tenth anniversary of the opening of our (Northern Electric) Belleville plant. The original building covered about two and a quarter acres of the Company's 23-acre plot on the west side of the city, 11 Dacred Sidney Street.

In 1951 this building was extended by 50 per cent. At that time, a 100,000 gallon emergency water tank, a cell - contained guardhouse, and a security fence around the plant were constructed.

Another 21,000 square feet of floor space was added in 1954. With this warehouse addition, the plant covered some four acres, all floored with armoured concrete.

The factory represents the largest industrial unit in the Belleville area, and employs about 1,000 people. It has appreciably boosted the city's economy, as shown by the new homes, stores and public buildings which have mushroomed in the last decade.

During the plant's ten years of operation, a number of diverse and interesting products have been manufactured. These include domestic and commercial radio and electronic receiving organs, disc recorders, public address and intercommunication equipment, telewriter and telephone apparatus, radar units and aircraft and marine instruments.

Adequate parking facilities are provided on the company property, and sports fields have been laid out. Soccer and baseball matches have been played for a number of seasons, and tennis courts are planned as a future development.

The plant cafeteria has a seating capacity of 300. This takes care of mid-day meals for out-of-town employees. Most employees live within ten minutes distance of the plant. With the excellent parking conditions, they are able to get home for the noon-hour break.

Although the factory is somewhat distant from the company's other manufacturing units, the city of Belleville is served by excellent highways, and by the C.N. and C.P. Railways, while harbor facilities encourage the docking of the freighters of medium tonnage.

N.E. employees, most of whom can get home more than their city counterparts, take full advantage of their surrounding countryside. Here they find some of the best hunting and fishing grounds, and it is ideal for camping, sailing, swimming and all other forms of outdoor recreation.

Film Festival To Be Held by District Council

Tuesday evening the Belleville and District Film Council will be holding the first part of their annual Film Festival at Prince Charles School on Ritchie Avenue at 8.00 p.m. An excellent program of eight films, some in color and some in monochrome, will be shown. These films come from many different countries including Japan, Denmark, Poland, Australia and Canada. The films, which run about twenty minutes each, include such topics as the Klondike Gold Rush, Polish manual arts, winter time activities in Japan, water skiing, and the Royal Ballet in Denmark.

Wednesday evening the second part of the Film Festival will be shown, in the Queen Elizabeth School on McDonald Street at 8.00 p.m. Films featured will be "And There Was No More Sea" from Holland; "Fisher Folk of Kalk Bay" from South Africa; "Wildlife in the Rockies" by the National Film Board; "Israel and Adventure" from Israel; "Tokyo Today" from Japan; "Spirit of Algonquin" by Ashley and Crippen of Toronto; and "Energetically Yours", a story of man's uses of oil, by Imperial Oil Limited.

The film festival is but one of the many activities of the Film Council which is endeavouring to provide for adult enjoyment, entertainment, and education. Churches, schools, small groups,

Historian Will Be Speaker At UEL Meeting

This Wednesday evening the local United Empire Loyalists' Association will have Mr. Edwin Clarence Guillet, research historian of the Department of Public Records and Archives of the Province of Ontario, as their guest speaker.

Mr. Guillet is also historian of the Ontario Educational Association, past president Toronto Secondary Schoolmasters' Association, and a teacher and author. Born in Cobourg, Ontario, he graduated in economics and political science from University of Toronto in 1922. He also earned a B.A. in English and History from U. of T. in 1926 and a Master's degree in history from McMaster University the following year.

Over the past 25 years Mr. Guillet has written many historical works, thirteen in all, several of which are used by educationists in primary, secondary and advanced institutions. Of these "The Pathfinders of North America", which was written in collaboration with his wife, Mary Elizabeth, has sold over forty thousand copies for use in schools.

The Shire Hall should be well-filled at eight o'clock on Wednesday evening to hear Mr. Guillet's address on "Highlights of Thirty Years in Historical Work".

and service clubs can obtain films from the Council's permanent library or from their moving stock of films received every month. Films are obtained at the Corby Public Library.

High School Activities

On Wednesday, November 26, the 34 members of the BCIVS Keyette Club will leave the school at 4 p.m. and travel by bus to Toronto to see Rogers and Hammerstein's great musical "South Pacific." Directly after the performance the bus will return arriving in Belleville shortly after 12.30 a.m.

All BCIVS students were given an opportunity of donating a few cents to the Poppy Fund and wearing a poppy on Monday and Tuesday of last week. Contributions exceeded the cost of the wreath by $71.51. On Tuesday the wreath was placed at the Cenotaph by the Cadets. This extra money is being turned over to the Poppy Fund.

On Thursday evening November 20, Dr. W. S. Turner, district inspector, and Mr. Wallace and Mr. Stewart of the Department of Education will assist with the workshop of teachers being conducted at QSS.

The BCIVS girls' volleyball teams challenged staff members to a game with the result being one loss and one win. On Tuesday Nov. 6 the senior team played the men's staff team — score 24-16 for the staff. Mr. Johnson was high scorer with 10 points to his credit. Enid Cooper was high scorer for the girls. Although the girls played well, the men were at their bouncing best.

On Wednesday, November 12 the lady staff members were soundly defeated in a spirited game by the Junior girls' team. Despite the one-sided score it appeared that a lot of practice by the staff could result in a closer game.

Hunting Course For Auto Rally Is Hazardous

Organizers of the "Marshals' Madcap" automobile rally, which is being held in the Belleville area the last weekend of the month, are apparently attacking the problem of laying out the course with more than usual zeal. Mr. and Mrs. Ray Hockall, local enthusiasts in charge of finding a suitable course over area roads, obviously found one that would be difficult for entrants. In fact the surface along one stretch was so gruelling that the rear spring in the small English sports car broke under the strain. The intrepid planners managed to wedge a block of wood 'twixt their car's rear axle and the frame, securing this unusual suspension arrangement with fence wiring and slowly found their way home.

The course, it has been reported, will not include the above mentioned road section. It is expected that the remainder of the course will be laid out shortly after suitable repairs have been made; over much smoother road surfaces than was originally anticipated.

Approximately a dozen local automobile enthusiasts are expected to enter the event, which is under the sponsorship of the St. Lawrence Automobile Club, with several entrants coming from Trenton and a dozen more from Kingston.

YOUNG CANADA'S BOOK WEEK

This is the tenth year that the Canadian Library Association has sponsored Young Canada's Book Week. During this time progress has been made toward providing Canadian children with more and better books, both in French and English. Young Canada's Book Week also has aroused in children a greater interest in good books, but much more remains to be done before all Canadian children have an equal chance to enjoy these privileges.

Young Canada's Book Week will be celebrated in Canada from Nov. 15 to 22. The CBC network will carry programs in both French and English. Newspapers and magazines, through special features, will provide a national background to the local community celebrations.

The object of Book Week is to arouse interest in good literature for boys and girls and to stimulate pleasure in reading. Good books can give children enjoyment and fun, knowledge, a true sense of values, and understanding of themselves and others.

A special display of children's books will be held in the Corby Public Library and all parents are invited to visit the library with their children. If they haven't a library card one will be supplied so that they, too, may experience the pleasures of reading.

The Patroness of Young Canada's Book Week 1958 is Senator Muriel McQueen Fergusson.

St. Margaret's Guild Holds Successful Yule Tea, Bazaar

Heavy rain during the afternoon failed to dampen the warm, cheery atmosphere in St. Margaret's-on-the-Hill Church hall Saturday when St. Margaret's Evening Guild branch held its Kris Kringle tea and bazaar.

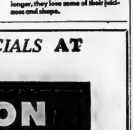
Wedding



LISTER—FLUREY

Tall vases of white chrysanthemums adorned the altar in the Bridge Street United Church, Arnagel, Belleville, on Saturday, November 8, at 11 a.m. when Honora Katherine Flurey, of Belleville, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas James Flurey, became the bride of Flying Officer Ernest James Lister, of Toronto, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lenwood Albert Lister of Halifax, Nova Scotia. The Reverend R. J. Flurey of Kingston, brother of the bride, officiated.

The church organist, Miss Dorothy Grant, presided at the console of the organ and accompanied the soloist, Mr. Robert Burke.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was charming in her bridal gown fashioned on princess lines of ivory peau de soie with fitted bodice and full skirt, accented by appliques of Alencon lace on the bodice, sleeves and skirt, which cascaded into a chapel train. She wore a finger-tip veil of illusion tulle held by a crown of sequins and seeds pearls and carried a cascade of ivory roses mingled with white stephanotis, and trailing ivy.

Mrs. A. Morrison, her sister, was matron of honor, and Mrs. D. O'Brien, her bridesmaid. Mrs. Morrison was attired in a floor length sheath dress of yellow satin taffeta, with matching mitts, T. H. Dolan as co-hostesses for two dinner parties at Hotel Quinte held by Mrs. E. S. Lally and Mr. and Mrs. Godfrey Dowding, and at a presentation by the staff of the Bakelite Company of which the bride was a valued member.

Cannifton United Church W.A. Holds Most Successful Tea

A pretty autumn tea and bazaar was held in the Sunday School rooms of Cannifton United Church by the W.A. on Wednesday afternoon. Mrs. R. J. McCrea gave the opening prayer, and Mrs. Donald Baxter, of Prince Edward and Hastings Presbyterial congratulated the ladies on their fine showing of women's work in the many articles displayed, and declared the bazaar open for business.

The color scheme throughout was in bronze and gold.

Mrs. A. Boyd, president of the W.A. and Mrs. McCrea, wife of the pastor, extended a warm welcome to the many visitors. Mrs. A. Holgate and Mrs. F. Windsor acted as treasurers for the afternoon.

The apron booth was in charge of Mrs. D. Lywood and Mrs. D. Brenton, while Mrs. Roy Pound led her Christmas cards at the same booth. Mrs. Pound states these would go to the W.M.S. work. There was also a variety of aprons for sale in all colors of the rainbow, in all sizes and styles.

Mrs. Ralph Stewart was in charge of the home-cooked table, delicious creams; chocolate fudge and other goodies, which were sold.

The touch and take was in charge of Mrs. Bligh, where large and small parcels soon found eager purchasers.

INVITING HOMECOOKING

The homecooking booth looked inviting with pumpkin and other delicious pies, mouth-rolls; large and small cakes; eggs and canned fruits. A brisk business was done here by Mrs. T. Howard; Mrs. H. Brenton, and Mrs. Bolton in charge.

The booth of vegetables and small plants looked more like spring with its bronze violets, ferns and other flowers. Mrs. H. Pound was in charge.

The fancy work and novelties was most attractive with embroidered pillow slips, mostly in pretty colors; luncheon cloths, and babies' wear, which was convened by Mrs. Belling-Steele and Mrs. W. Brenton.

At four o'clock one fish pond did a rushing business when the lovely children were under the supervision of Mrs. F. Furnidge and Mrs. G. Pope.

LOVELY TEA TABLE

The tea room was a bower of loveliness with its pretty arrangement in gold and bronze, and attractive which the guests entered, graciously invited by Mrs. R. Pingsten.

The tea table with its rich, sequin-edged cloth was intriguely centred by a large green squash, filled with bronze and gold 'mums and a blaze of pine, and at each side tall, gold tapers in gold candelabra, complemented by the gleaming silver services, made a most attractive picture.

Those pouring were: Mrs. S. Thrush and Mrs. Howard Hunter; Mrs. O. Roblin and Mrs. E. Empson; Mrs. H. Farnham and Mrs. R. J. McCrea.

The small guest tables were prettily appointed with white and gold covers, centred with little half squash filled with tiny bronze and gold 'mums on a cluster of pine sprays.

Much credit goes to Mrs. G. Empson and Mrs. C. Bird, conveners of the tea room, and to Mrs. Carl Ellsworth, who decorated the archway.

SERVING

Those serving were: Mrs. R. Bowyer, Mrs. Ross Pound, Mrs. L. Urch; Mrs. H. Putman; Mrs. D. Graham; Mrs. R. Putman; Mrs. Stanley Mitchell; Mrs. Stone and Mrs. E. Walsh did a fine job replenishing.

Mrs. W. Cole and Mrs. R. MacMurter who made the delicious tea and old Man Weather who favored with sunshine, and the many attending guests, all contributed to a most successful bazaar and tea.

St. Michael's CWL Finalizes Bazaar Plans

With a high objective for the bazaar in Very Rev. L. B. Mc-Garvin, in his talk to the ladies of the Catholic Women's League meeting, plans were finalized. The director spoke on the new building which it is hoped will be started in the near future. Everyone was urged to help a little more than usual to make the bazaar a huge success.

Mrs. K. Bland reported a good response to calls for booths. Anyone who can contribute to the auditorium at the Academy on the evening of November 17th to help put up booths and decorating will be most welcome.

The meeting was held Monday, November 10th, in St. Michael's Academy with a large attendance. Mrs. E. Logan welcomed the ladies. The regular reports were read. Mrs. Rorabeck reported 432 paid-up members.

Mrs. B. Burley, diocesan president, spoke briefly regarding her trip to Vancouver to attend the convention. She said it was an honor to be representing one of the oldest diocese in the Dominion. At the December meeting Mrs. Burley will go into detail with her trip, showing pictures which should be most interesting.

The president read sub-division letters and handed them out to conveners.

In Catholic Action work the rosary will be said at one meeting for priests, religious, and those studying for the religious life. Mrs. Logan would like another study club started before Lent, which begins early in February.

Everyone is asked to write a letter to the TV station when they like the literature which was handed out.

Mrs. Ferrell and her Samson Ward committee were thanked for the delicious refreshments which followed a enthusiastic game of court whist.

Two minutes of silence was observed.

ST. ANDREW'S W.M.S.

St. Andrew's W.M.S. held its November meeting in the church on Tuesday. As this was Armistice Day, the devotional part was fittingly chosen.

Mrs. Parson presided, and after opening the meeting told that Mrs. Vernon Weir was elected as the new Presbyterial president.

Cards of thanks were read and the Welcome and Welfare Committee reported 30 calls to the sick and shut-ins of the church.

Mrs. Vera Rollins sang a solo with Mrs. Allen at the piano, which was much enjoyed.

Mrs. Adams read the Scripture and Mrs. Eggleton led in prayer.

Mrs. Carmichael had the topic with Mrs. Weir and Mrs. Craig as helpers. Her study was the "Indians of the Western Synod."

Mrs. Carmichael called first on Mrs. Weir to tell something of the education of the Indians in Canada today — and their problems.

Mrs. Weir said, "From early records of Canadian history at the time Canada was being explored by Columbus, Cartier and Champlain, have come hair-raising incidents of the cruel killings by the Indians. History books taught us the Indians, (Iroquois, Hurons and Algonkins) were a treacherous race. It is true many white people fell before their arrows but were the white people not trying to steal the Indians' land? History books have been written by their enemies. Did the writers of the history books give the Indian any credit for what he has done for the white man in guiding his inland explorations, in trapping furs which were sold by the traders for a good price. Also the Indian showed the white man the best fishing grounds.

"More than 151,000 Indians in Canada today are suffering because of what the history books taught. They have been represented as cruel savages. But that is only when they were at war — then when all nations show their ruthless sides."

The Rev. D. C. Hill, Superintendent of Missions for Manitoba, visited the Lake of the Woods Indian Reserve, and was giving the introduction to the Service of Baptism prior to the Sacrament itself. The Indian witch doctor asked if he might say a word. Speaking through an interpreter he said, "any Indian who receives Christian baptism will never be fit for the Happy Hunting Ground's (Indian heaven). If he failed to live up to the duties of the Indian, and he would be cut off from the tribe." He asked them to think it over before they would leave the Indian faith.

Dr. Hill said if they cared to continue with the baptism. They agreed and in the evening received the Sacrament of the Lord's Supper. This was the result of the Cecelia Jeffery Residential School.

Mrs. Craig also gave a profitable talk on the Indian of today.

Lunch was served.

GOOD MANNERS

By Mrs. Beeckman

BRIDE'S EXCELLENT PLANS

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1. My parents aren't able to help with the expenses for my wedding, and I'm paying for everything myself. I'm concentrating on the church wedding and our minister has been wonderful in his advice and co-operation. I'm to have only a few white flowers on the altar, our church organist to play the wedding marches. To the church wedding we're inviting (by telephone or by notes) all the relatives and friends. Then, to a very small and informal reception at our house, we're inviting only the members of our two families, our two attendants, and just a few of our most intimate friends. Do you approve of these plans so far?

2. What is the very minimum number of items we must serve at this small reception? Must we serve sandwiches of any kind, and must we serve ice cream? — T. L.

1. I emphatically and most enthusiastically approve of your whole plan . . . and I'm so happy that you are to have your wedding in your church. What a good friend and understanding guide is your wonderful minister! I'd like to make one suggestion: Since you are to have such a small reception, an excellent plan, too, why not, after the recessional, receive the greetings and good wishes of your relatives and friends in the vestibule of the church? I'm sure everyone would be delighted at this plan, which can be very appealing and memorable.

2. The only two items you need to serve are: (a) the Wedding Cake (the first slice of which is cut by you, with the help of your groom's right hand on your hand, and to be shared together as a sign of your always-sharing); and (b) a cold drink (perhaps a simple fruit punch) with which to drink the toasts. No sandwiches necessary, no ice cream necessary. (You may, if you wish, serve coffee.)

KEHOE — HUNT

TWEED — The marriage of Miss Nora Mary (Noreen) Hunt, Reg. N., daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Hunt of Newburgh, to Mr. Frederick John Kehoe, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Kehoe of Actinolite, was solemnized recently in St. Anthony of Padua Church, in Newburgh, Ontario. Standards of large white chrysanthemums decorated the altar, and the Rev. R. J. Agnew officiated at the double-ring ceremony.

Traditional wedding music was played by Mrs. Stafford Murphy, and Mr. Ronald Cassidy of Tweed was the soloist.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was attended by her two sisters, Miss Maria Hunt as maid of honor, and Miss Eileen Hunt as bridesmaid, both of Kingston. The bride's little sister, Theresa, was flower girl, and her young brother, Master Kevin Hunt, was ring bearer.

The bride took her vows in a floor-length gown of embroidered taffeta, made on princess lines, with layers of net forming a bouffant skirt, and a matching bolero jacket having lily-point sleeves. Her fingertip veil of French tulle fell from a crown of seed pearls, and her bouquet was a cascade of red Hippiness roses and stephanotis with sprays of baby roses.

Her senior attendants wore princess gowns of ballerina-length brocaded satin, cut with empire waistlines, in colors of bronze and green respectively, and matching feather headdresses. Their bouquets were cascades of bronze and yellow mums. The flower girl wore a mint green nylon frock with matching feathered headdress, and carried a basket of bronze and yellow mums.

The bridegroom was attended by his brother, Mr. Leon Kehoe, of Richmond Hill, Ontario, and also by his cousin, Mr. Kenneth Kehoe, of Kingston.

The ushers were Mr. Desmond Courtenay, of Belleville, the bridegroom's cousin, and Mr. Anthony Hunt, junior, of Newburgh, brother of the bride.

A dinner for the immediate families was held at the Superior Restaurant in Napanee, and later a reception for friends and relatives took place at the bride's home. Mrs. Hunt received, wearing a crepe dress of medium blue, silk, with black accessories, and a corsage of deep pink Sweetheart roses. Mrs. Kehoe, the bridegroom's mother, chose a crepe dress of dusty-rose with beige accessories and a corsage of Token roses.

The couple left for a trip to points in Northern Ontario and to Detroit. For travelling the bride chose a brown suit with green and brown accessories and a corsage of green Cymbidium orchids. On their return Mr. and Mrs. Kehoe took up residence in Picton.

Out-of-town guests who attended the wedding were from Actinolite, Tweed, Madoc, Kingston, Merlin, St. Catharines, Toronto, Belleville, Sioco, Moscow and Oshawa.

LEMMERMEYER — GRANT

A pretty fall wedding was solemnized recently in the Church of St. Michael the Archangel, Belleville, by the Reverend Michael Simson, when Patricia Eileen Grant, of Belleville, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William G. Grant, became bride of Gregor Lemmermeyer, of Unterwilflingen, Germany, son of Mrs. Therese Lemmermeyer, of Unterwilflingen, and the late Mr. Lemmermeyer. White and pink gladioli adorned the altar.

Miss Dorothy Grant, organist, rendered the wedding music, and accompanied the soloist, Mrs. Helen (Grant) Gaffney, sister of the bride, in her rendition of Gounod's "Ave Maria," "Mother, At Thy Feet Is Kneeling," and "On This Day, O Beautiful Mother."

Given in marriage by her father, Mr. William R. Grant, the bride was lovely in her full-length bridal gown of white net and lace. She wore a finger - tip veil of tulle illusion and Juliet cap encrusted with seed pearls and carried a white prayer book crested with red Sweetheart roses, and white satin streamers.

Her matron of honor was Mrs. J. J. V. Hayes, of Peterborough, sister of the bride, gowned in her orange net in ankle length with matching headdress of net, blending with the gown, and carrying a cascade of Shasta daisies.

Mr. Hermann Lemmermeyer, of Toronto, attended the bridegroom, while Mr. Gerard Lemman, of Belleville, and Mr. Jack Hayes, of Peterborough, were ushers.

Following the ceremony, the reception with wedding breakfast was held at Club Canara, Station Street, where the bride's mother, wearing Dior blue with crystal clasp, matching hat, elbow length white gloves, and corsage of pink Sweetheart roses, received. The bridegroom's mother was unable to attend due to distance.

The bride's table was appointed with a four - tiered wedding cake, resting on the white damask cloth, and flanked by silver candelabra with long, white tapers. Bouquets of bronze and white mums added a lovely autumn accent to the nuptial scene.

For the wedding trip to Ste. Zoline, Quebec, and Toronto, the bride chose a teal blue two-piece ensemble with pink feathered hat, navy shoes - bag - gloves and white gardenia corsage. Mr. and Mrs. Lemmermeyer will reside in Belleville.

The bride was honored at shower given by Mrs. Ronald Crawford, of Trenton with Mrs. C. Murphy as co-hostess; also at a shower held at the home of Mrs. Richard Barrett, of Belleville.

Guests were present from Smiths Falls; Detroit, Michigan; Toronto, Trenton, Campbellford, Havelock, Brighton, and Ottawa.

Black and Gold Ball Plans Finalized

The regular meeting of the Alpha Alpha Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi was held recently at the home of Mrs. M. Johnson.

Mrs. D. Howe and Mrs. R. Howe opened the meeting with the topic, "Self Analysis." They showed a film called "Who is Sylvia," that told the problems of a teenager growing from girlhood to womanhood.

Mrs. Johnson read the minutes and took the roll call.

The treasurer's report was given by Mrs. D. Coleman and Mrs. J. Snetsinger reported for the service committee.

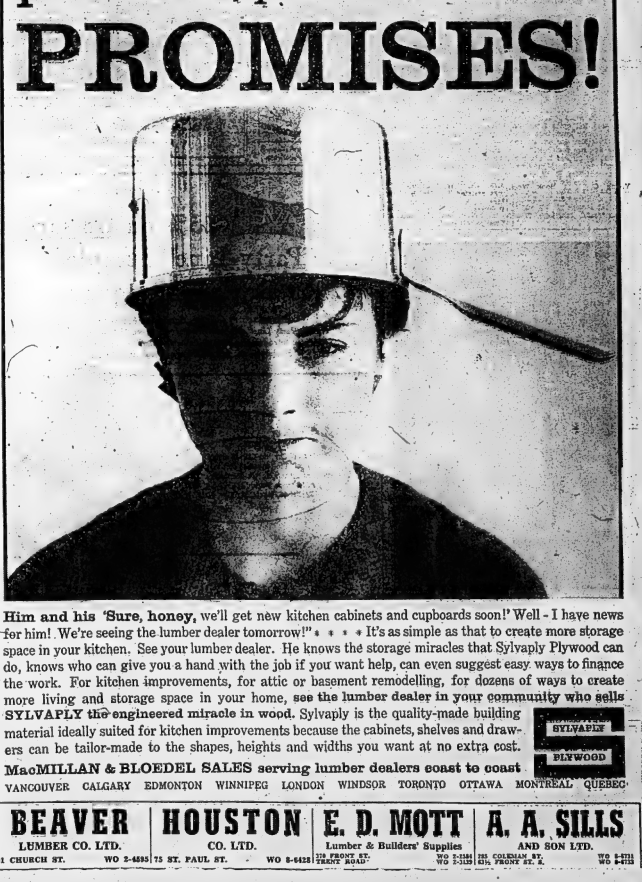
Great Demand By Designers For Thai Silk



BANGKOK (Reuters) — Thai silk, in great demand by fashion designers and interior decorators throughout the world, is reaping big profits for Bangkok's home silk-weaving industries.

Looms rattle away merrily in teak houses crowded together on stilts along a picturesque canal in northern Bangkok.

Here, in turn out rolls of shiny, gorgeously-colored silks destined for the fashion houses of Paris, London, and New York.

Most of the Thai silk makers are Moslems who came to Thailand from Malaya and Cambodia in the reign of King Mongkut in the middle of the last century. But for years, they made only enough to supply their immediate families.

The industry was revived after the Second World War by Jim Thompson, an American who saw the worldwide marketing possibilities of this attractively rough-textured silk, provided that due-ti

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

Editor's Note: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, a newspaper editor, a women's editor and two writers. Each article is a summary of an actual case history. The Council reports on problems that have been dealt with by responsible agencies and counsellors.

Evelyn W. — I want to marry again.

Mrs. R. W. — She's still too young to know men.

Evelyn W. — I was married at 17 and divorced a year later. Now I am nearly 19 and I want to get married again, but my mother is trying to get me to wait.

I understand now that there is good reason for long courtships, but I don't think my mother understands all the problems I am up against. Because I am a young divorcee men just have no respect for me. All the dates I have had since my divorce have wound up in tussles. It is impossible for me to date as I did before I was married and I don't want to go into seclusion.

The man I want to marry is a stable kind of guy. He courted me before I married my first husband so it's not as though I'm getting involved with someone I know nothing about.

* * *

Mrs. R. W. — Six months after she was married Evelyn came home crying and told me she was sorry she didn't listen to me and that she would never again go against what I tell her. Now here it is, only a year later, and she's ready to do it again.

I keep telling Evelyn that she is still too young to know men. The guy she wants to marry treats her very nicely now, but she doesn't know what he'll turn out to be after they're married. It was the same way with the first one.

I do understand Evelyn's problems with her dates because I have been through the same kind of thing. I am also a divorcee. It is not easy, but if you ever want to get married again you've got to fight off the wolves.

* * *

The Council: In spite of the fact that she now considers herself an experienced woman, Evelyn seems to have learned sadly little from her first marriage. She has come around full cycle from the position, "Mother knew best after all" to "Mother doesn't understand me and my problems."

Unfortunately Mother is very poorly equipped to help matters. We gather that Mrs. R. W. wants very much to protect her daughter from further harm, but seems to have very little knowledge beyond of what factors go into making a successful marriage relationship.

Evelyn states quite openly that she wants to get married because she cannot cope with the disturbing situation. But she has these real problems, she maintains, because she leaped out of marriage. She seems to be doing fairly quick-tempoed dance between the frying pan and the fire.

Both Evelyn and her mother need to do a lot of maturing mentally and emotionally before they can think in terms of making successful marriages. Mrs. R. W. should recognize that the problem is not so much to "know men" and to be mistrustful of them as it is to know oneself and to have the firm resolve to create a satisfying family life. The women who think in these terms will automatically attract men with similar aspirations. Women who are confused about their own aims attract and are attracted to wolves and at the same time are resentful and frightened of them. Despite their big bad exteriors, these wolves feel just about the same way about women.

We'll hazard a guess that Evelyn could profit much more right now from an educational job and group social program than from dating. If she develops some other abilities and learns to socialize with a variety of individuals, she'll learn to discriminate and will gain self-confidence.

Tinka Rings The Bell

by Mary. Moore

My sister's home was the scene of one of those rollicking carefree weekends that can never be contrived or planned — nor indeed recaptured.

The occasion was Tinka's visit from Windsor on Doris' birthday — and Tinka looked the part.

There were seven of us in all. Dinner was set for 7 p.m. It was a little late but you can't put the pressure on genius-at-work-in-the-kitchen. When we were summoned to the lovely dinner table it was to a memorable meal.

Dinner Menus

MONDAY

Lamb Hash (leftover from Sunday); Gherkins; Creamed Broccoli; Mashed Turnips; Carrot Strips; Ice Cream Canape with Sliced Straw. berries (thawed, frozen); Coffee.

Basically the Gemuese Rostbraten (beef with vegetables) is braised and vaguely similar to our simplified Swiss steak. I thought it would entertain you to compare the two and spur you on to try them both.

TINKA'S GEMUESE ROSTBRATEN:

(Braised beef with vegetables). I will pass it on to you as Tinka did it and told it to me. To serve twelve buy 3 1-2 to 4 lbs. of beefsteak from "between sirloin part and round" cut into slices 1-4 to 1-2 inch thick" pounded by the butcher through his machine" Using the large roasting pan with lid or Dutch oven, melt 1 tablespoon butter in it and remove from heat. Put in the bottom of it 1-3 of the slices of beefsteak. Sprinkle them with salt and pepper and paprika. Now prepare this pile of vegetables: three medium onions sliced, 1 lb. Frenched green beans, 1-2 lb. mushroom halves, 'little roses' from a medium-small cauliflower, 1 cup turnip cubes, 3 medium-small parsnips sliced, 4 medium carrots sliced, 1-2 lb. Brussels sprouts halved lengthwise, 1-2 green peppe: sliced, 1 cup canned or fresh peeled tomatoes. Spread half of these mixed up raw vegetables over the layer of meat in the pan and cover with another layer of meat slices. Repeat using all the vegetables up and covering with remaining meat. Add little "knobs" of butter and season again. Add about 1-2 cup boiling water slowly around the sides (not on the top) and, slowly heat through. The minute you hear it bubbling reduce heat to simmer for about 1 1-2 to 2 hours. From time to time baste the meat with vegetable liquors that accumulate. After that you have two choices: you may thicken the liquid with a flour paste, or do as Tinka did and take the meat from the sauce to the middle of a deep platter. She artfully arranged the vegetables around the meat in a colorful border. Outside that was a border of fluffy white rice to which Tinka had added a tin of small peas drained and mixed carefully into the rice with a fork.

Now would you like to compare it with:

SWISS STEAK CANADIAN STYLE:

Buy a 1 1-2 or 2-lb. slice of round or flank steak cut 1-2 or 1-4-inch thick. With scissors snip fat edge of steak, then pound it on both sides with a steak mallet or edge of a plate to break down the heavy coarse fibres. Cut the meat. Brown steak in heavy frying pan, both sides over high heat. To pan add 1 cup onion and sprinkle meat both sides with salt, pepper and 1-2 cup flour, using 1 teaspoon salt, 1-8 teaspoon pepper and 2 tablespoons flour. Turn steak 2 or 3 times after this. Add 1 1-2 to 2 cups tomato juice or canned tomatoes, 1 teaspoon Worchestershire sauce, 1 tablespoon each chopped celery and green pepper. Cover tightly and cook slowly for 1 1-2 hours or until meat is tender. May also be baked at 300 Deg. Fahr. for 2 hours if desired.

TO PRESSURE COOK:

Follow above recipe but reduce flour to 1 tablespoon and tomatoes to 1 cup. Cook at 15 lbs. pressure 15 minutes. Flank steak 18 minutes.

6th SIDNEY

'Conservation' Topic at Farm Forum

6TH SIDNEY — Eleven members of the Brookdale Farm Forum met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Carman Frost on Monday evening. The subject, "Conservation Or Else," proved intensely interesting.

The forum thought that good farm land should not be used for housing projects or industry when so much land is not fit for agriculture. There should be a good balance of tilled land and pasture land on the farm. Forests must be preserved to prevent water shortage. For each tree cut plant two.

In this area the farmers practise crop rotation such as: corn, oats, hay, pasture. They fertilize to put back what is taken out of the soil. One man uses phosphate in the stable, thus fertilizing the manure and making a good fertilizer.

Sometimes special problems come up and help from the Agricultural Representative or O.A.C. will be quite acceptable to those who want it.

If a farmer wants something done along conservation lines, he should look after it himself; but if it concerns a number of farms the government should give some assistance.

The forum takes exception to using top-soil from fields to add sides of highways and around bridges.

Most of the 74 miners who died in the Springhill colliery disaster are buried in this quiet hillside cemetery near the Nova Scotia mining town. In this photo the burial service for one of the mine dead is taking place. During the two weeks following the October 23 mine accident, scenes such as this were repeated five to seven times a day in Springhill.

Tragic and Heroic Story Of Springhill Mine Disaster Told by CP Correspondent

In the early evening of Oct. 23 quaking earth shook Springhill. To people in that Nova Scotia town it meant one thing: a giant "bump" or shift of rocks in the depths of No. 2, where 174 men were caught in a welter of rock and coal. That night 81 reached the surface. Hope for 83 was gone. But six days later rescue crews heard voices. Twelve survivors were brought out. Another three days, and seven more were found alive. Here Dal Warrington, Canadian Press staff writer, rounds up the tragic and heroic story.

By DAL WARRINGTON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

SPRINGHILL, N. S. (CP)—When it happened most of Springhill had settled down for a quiet evening at home.

People were watching television. Kids were doing their homework. Women were mending their husbands' socks or putting babies to bed.

Some miners were having a game of darts at the club. Young mod girls were walking down Main Street under the street lights. It was a warm autumn night.

Levi Milley, 46, was putting up timber props in the Cumberland Railway and Coal Company's No. 2 mine. Maurice Boudick, also 46, was digging coal.

LONG-HELD HOBBY

Levi likes to raise chickens. He's always had some since he was a boy, but with a wife and daughter to support he couldn't live on a few chickens. Mining was about the only work a man could get in this town.

Maurice has a wife and 12 children. He's been a miner 17 years and—well, what else was there to do? If it weren't for coal most of Springhill's 6,000 people wouldn't be here.

It was Thursday, Oct. 23, Maurice's wife was just back from hospital with a baby. He had got up at 7:30, fixed the kids some breakfast and sent them off to school.

Levi had got up about 8, fed his chickens and driven his daughter Judy, 17, to high school.

At noon Maurice had lunch—bacon, egg, bread and a couple cups of coffee. He remembered it clearly later. Colleen, 12, his oldest girl, packed his lunch can. A little before 3 p.m. he left for work.

He didn't have far to go because he lives within sight of the mine.

Levi lives away over on the other side of town. After he had his dinner and did some odd jobs around the place he said good-bye to his wife and drove to the mine.

HAPPY WORKERS

"We jumped on the trolleys and went down the slope the same as usual," Maurice said. "We laughed and joked and I hummed a tune or two." He likes singing and has sung in a quartet.

"I was hungry when I got down there so before I started work I ate a sandwich. Then a little after 4 I knocked off for lunch and had two more sandwiches and a piece of cake."

Levi and Maurice worked on the 13,000-foot wall. The wall is the place where they actually cut the coal. To get there they took a long underground drive to the face and an auxiliary slope for about 2½ miles. Then they walked along a horizontal side passage, called a level, to the wall or coal face. Each wall extends from one level to the next.

The miners pull the coal off the face with compressed - air chipper picks and load it on a conveyer. The conveyer takes the coal down the wall to the level where it is loaded into mine cars, called boxes, that run on rails. Other men run rope haulage engines that pull trains of boxes, called trips, out of the level up the slope to the surface.

No. 2 is a bituminous mine. That means they dig soft coal there. It's also the deepest mine in North America — 4,250 feet straight down to the lowest level of workings. The 174 men underground on the 9 o'clock shift that night were expected to get off at 11 but it didn't turn out that way.

"I turned on my light but I couldn't see anything for dust. I could still hear one of my buddies hollering. After the dust settled a little I could see where the floor had come up only about five feet from me.

"I was able to crawl out and some of us helped each other out. I wasn't hurt except for some bruises but Percy Parsons got caught by the arm between two timbers. We tried to get him loose but we had no tools.

"He was in terrible pain so we got together all the aspirins we had and gave them to him. That seemed to help.

"One man looked at his watch and it was 25 minutes after 9. We looked around. We were up a hole about 30 feet long and four feet wide and high enough to stand up in.

"There were seven of us there. I said, 'Well, fellows, we are trapped.' We wrote our names on some timber with chalk. We thought somebody would come after us if we decided to wait. So we set out and laid down on the pavement. (Story Page 2)

CROWD AT PITHEAD

By this time hundreds of people crowded around the pithead. Wives and mothers and daughters stood there, hoping and praying to see their men folk come alive.

Mr. Calder said, "I told them to clear the slopes—to stop the coal boats, get the men out and put trolleys on to bring the men out.

"After I got what information I could and did what was possible on the surface I left Underground, it was about 8:45.

"Twenty rescue men went with me. They were in self-contained, bare-faced men wearing no gas masks."

Before he went down Mr. Calder told Fred Stevens, the mine rescue superintendent, to get his dragerman ready. They might be hard at it. Dragermen are called that from the inventor of the breathing apparatus they use. They carry a two-hour oxygen supply. Their work is to clear coal gas from the tunnels.

Most of the miners were working on the face adjacent to the 12,000, 13,000 and 13,300-foot levels. About 82 of them were on the coal face between the 12,800 and 13,300-foot levels.

The levels are horizontal passages running off the main slope or shaft. Between each level is a huge block of coal. The miners cut the coal, working towards the shaft. Behind is the waste, debris left after the coal is extracted.

Rescuers dug and clawed their way through the debris-filled tunnels to reach the trapped men. Twelve were found alive near the 13,000-foot level on Oct. 29, almost six days after the bump.

On Nov. 1, the ninth day, rescuers found seven more men alive. One was in a coffin-sized opening between the 12,600 and 13,000-foot levels. Six fellow miners were found alive nearby. (CP Newsmap.)

Some got out unaided. Charlie Bird got himself out of a pile of rock after four-hours. The rescue men dug out others.

"The 13,800 - foot level was badly choked," Mr. Calder said, "but we managed to get through after about three hours' work." They found 13 men there alive and unharmed.

Donald Ferguson, 45, father of three children, said: "This is the worst thing I've been in. Another miner helped me out."

Bob Jewkes, dazed, crawled out of the 13,800 level. "All the time the mine was falling in," he said.

Rescue man Bill James said, "We could hear some other boys moaning in there but we just couldn't get to them."

James Cameron had been blinding coal lower at the 13,800-foot level. He said, "It seemed like still hell broke loose."

Calder's men dug out Archie White and Percy Hunter on the 13,400 level after tunnelling up the wall from the 13,800.

RESCUERS RUSH TO PIT

When they heard that 151 men were missing rescue and welfare people started coming from all over the Maritimes. One of them was Harold Gordon, the 39-year-old coal miner for Dosco (Dominion Steel and Coal Corporation), which controls the Cumberland company.

Mr. Gordon drove 300 miles from Sydney to direct the rescue. In 1956 he had helped bring out 12 men after a bump. He did it again!

At 3 a.m. Friday 81 men had walked or been carried to the surface, 15 of them injured. Rescuers had found seven men at the 13,400 and 13,200 levels. There were 74 men missing. Ninety-three men were missing.

By 3 p.m. Friday 82 were found the first of the dead. Harry Hallday, 52, a miner 18 years, had been killed by rock.

In mid - morning, after nine hours underground, Mr. Calder came out of the mine. His voice choked and there were tears in his eyes as he told reporters all the missing 93 must be presumed dead.

No more men lived on the 13,400 and 13,200 levels. The mine was cut off by tremendous piles of debris in every direction.

"For the men in there," he said, "we have done everything we possibly because we haven't seen them." Then he returned to the mine.

For the next six days only the rescue men went into the depths. The funerals began Sunday.

RESCUERS RISK LIVES

Rescue men worked in three shifts around the clock. Seventy men in each shift—digging, clawing, crawling through tunnels "more like gopher holes," sending back the coal they dug in bucket brigades, risking their lives to save others.

Harold Gordon said, "It sounds simple in the telling but it wasn't. We had to use backsaws, chisels, picks and shovels. They had to use their hands."

Bill Nolen, a miner 27 years, was one of them. He escaped from the 13,400-foot level and helped rescue the six men trapped there.

"You can't imagine what it's like," he said. "It's like this. 'Crawling through a little hole just big enough to push through.' Then a drop over the edge. Every time there's a rumble or a stone fall you think it's another bump. That would finish us.

"The heat in there was terrific digging out those bodies. It's awful. When you get home you can't sleep. You just can't keep at it."

The men tunnelled toward the 13,000 wall from three directions. Dragermen worked through debris-choked, clearing gas that was there. Bare-faced men bored through 400 feet of debris on the 13,000-foot level. Others dug upward from the wall from the 12,400 level.

HARD WORK AND SLOW

It was slow work. Sometimes they had to chisel through timbers packed so tight they could not saw. They often made as little as a foot an hour.

No one knew if but drawn under the debris there was life. Maurice Boudick and six companions were trapped in their 50-foot prison near the top of the 13,000-foot wall.

Levi Milley and 11 others lived in a hole 40 feet long, 15 feet wide and about high near the centre—end of the wall.

"I was working in the top of the coal when the bump packs under the roof," Levi said. Packs are underground walls they put in as they cut the coal away.

"When the bump came I was thrown down and bruised some, but when the shock wore off I found I was still on my feet around me.

"Then McDonald's leg was caught. We tried to move him but it hurt too much so we just propped him up. He was in pain like that for six days. His leg was broken.

"There were 12 of us there and the roof was so low we couldn't stand up.

"I'd left my lunch can about 250 feet away and I couldn't get to it so I had no food or water. Some of the others had a little and we shared that."

FOUND INVENTORY

The men in Maurice Boudick's group took stock of things too.

"We gathered up the cans," he said, "to see how much food and water we had.

"We drank quite a bit of water at first, but when time passed and no one came we started to ration it. We found some chewing tobacco and we pooled that.

"Friday night we heard pounding. We rapped and banged on the pipe all night. We believed 'help' all together, but we never got an answer. We yelled so much we got weak.

"Some of us tried to get out and worked out way about 200 feet but we couldn't make a big enough farther. That's when they found Barney Martin. He was alone in a hole just big enough for him. He seemed to be unconscious and we didn't think he would last long.

"Every day we heard pounding but they didn't answer us. We had watches and kept track of the time. Saturday night we set out watches back an hour from daylight to standard time.

"Someone found a chocolate bar Sunday. We divided that up.

"Monday was Garnet Clarke's birthday. That's the day we cut a sandwich into seven little pieces and a quarter of an inch wide and ate them and sang 'Happy Birthday' for him."

AGONIZING DEATH

Percy Rector died Tuesday, his body still pinned between the timbers. He'd pleaded with the others to cut his arm off but they had no knife. Death ended his agony.

They sang a few hymns now and then." Maurice said, "songs like 'The Lord is Good to You.' Most of the time the boys seemed to be sleeping. Our lights were low and we were in darkness after the first day or so.

"Then our tea and water was gone. The water was the worst. We tried to eat bark off the timbers but it was so dry and there wasn't much nourishment in it."

Levi Milley's group sang hymns too sometimes and prayed. Joe McDonald said, "Calvin Rushton was leading the group of us. We weren't too used to praying but we tried."

They sang "The Old Rugged Cross," "Rock of Ages" and "Glory Hallelujah" and other hymns.

After more than five days the crowd at the pithead had melted away. Bodies and more bodies came out—81 by Wednesday, Oct. 29. Then, about 2 p.m., the news came that brought the crowd back.

WEDNESDAY MIRACLE

Blair Phillips, a mine engineer, heard Levi Milley get at a broken air pipe near the end of the 13,000-foot level. He heard words come from the pipe.

It was Gorley Kempt, one of Levi's fellow prisoners, on the other end saying, "We're alive in here. How about rescuing us?"

Joe McDonald recalls, "I heard a voice on the other side and I knew we were saved. I guess we all cried a little then. I know I did."

There was laughter and joking. The long wait was over.

Doctors fed them water, coffee and soup by a copper tube passed through the air pipe. Sixty feet of rubble still separated the trapped men from freedom. The rescue men dug through it in record time—12:30 a.m. Thursday. They broke through to release 13 men entombed for 6½ days.

Dr. J. R. Ryan said Levi's first words were, "I've got to get home and tend my chickens. Do you want to buy any?"

Later that morning Levi sat up on his stretcher as they carried him from the mine to an ambulance. He waved to the crowd.

In hospital he turned to his wife and said, "Well, honey, you won't have to worry about money for awhile. I'll be getting compensation."

"Who cares about money?" she said. "Judy and I have you back."

Friday night, Oct. 31, Prince Philip visited Springhill. He talked to Levi and the others in hospital and to the rescue men at the mine. But underground the men kept on digging. Four more miners were still buried—dead or alive.

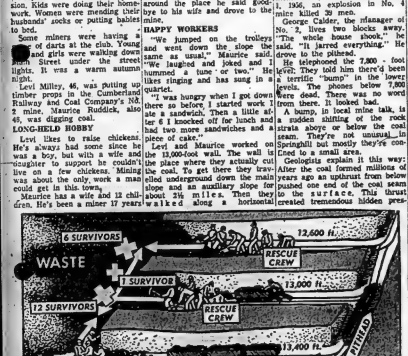
SECOND MIRACLE

Saturday, Nov. 1, was the ninth day. It was also the second anniversary of the 1956 explosion. In the cold hours before dawn the pithead was all but deserted.

At 4:45 a.m. rescuers were digging their way up the 13,000 level about 350 feet from where the 12 were found. Leonard Boss thought he heard something.

"We listened and heard three taps on a broken air pipe, then a lot more of them. We knew there must be somebody alive on the other end and we went to work like crazy men."

Maurice Ruddick said, "We'd heard noises now and then but we were getting pretty desperate. Our food and water were gone days ago. Nobody seemed to hear all our pounding and hollering.



"I decided we'd have to make one last attempt to make ourselves heard Saturday afternoon about 5 o'clock. We thought the rescue boys would probably knock off for the weekend. But it didn't matter to that."

They found Barney Martin dead, drawn by his scratching and moaning. He was still semi-conscious, lying in the fetal position.

"God must have saved the little bole for me," he said.

Then they reached the others.

"We'd just finished a session of pounding and it made us weak," Maurice said. "We were lying resting. Currie Smith started to pound on the pipe chicken business.

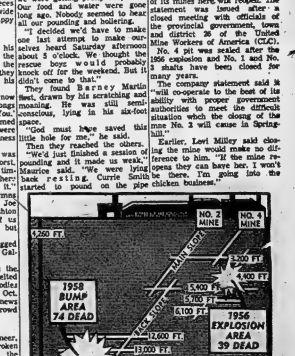
This artist's sketch shows how rescue crews, digging through debris-choked tunnels in Cumberland Railway and Coal Company's No. 2 mine at Springhill, N.S., rescued 19 miners trapped for days underground.

The men were trapped Oct. 23 when a sudden and violent shifting of rock strata—known to miners as a bump—shook the mine.

Of 174 men working underground, 81 walked or were carried to the surface. Another 74 were killed as the roof and floor of the mine came violently together in some spots and debris fell from the roof in others. The remaining 19 had to wait days for rescuers to reach them.

The bump occurred 4,260 feet underground, about 2½ miles along a sloping passage leading from the pithead. Many of the miners trapped or killed were cutting coal from the coal face between the 12,800 and 13,800-foot levels.

The levels are horizontal passages running off the main slope or shaft. Between each level is a huge block of coal. The miners cut the coal, working towards the shaft. Behind is the waste, debris left after the coal is extracted.



Rescuers dug and clawed their way through the debris-filled tunnels to reach the trapped men. Twelve were found alive near the 13,000-foot level on Oct. 29, almost six days after the bump.

On Nov. 1, the ninth day, rescuers found seven more men alive. One was in a coffin-sized opening between the 12,600 and 13,000-foot levels. Six fellow miners were found alive nearby. (CP Newsmap.)

Rescue crews leave the pithead of the Cumberland No. 2 coal mine at Springhill, N.S., after eight hours of digging through underground debris for bodies of mine-disaster victims. An upheaval in the depths of the mine October 23 killed 74 of the 174 men working underground at the time. Some who survived the accident were trapped in the mine for almost nine days before rescue.

This diagram of the Cumberland Railway and Coal Company's workings in Springhill, N.S., shows where 113 miners have lost their lives in two collier disasters in the last two years.

On Nov. 1, 1956, an explosion shook the company's No. 4 mine, killing 39 men. Fifty-eight men escaped, some after being trapped for almost four days underground in blast-sealed passages. No. 4 mine has been closed since the explosion.

Almost two years later — on Oct. 23 — the neighboring No. 2 mine was rocked by the sudden and violent shifting of rock strata that miners call a bump. Of 174 men working 4,250 feet underground, 81 walked or were carried to the surface leaving 93 trapped in the debris-filled passages between 12,600 and 13,800-foot levels. The levels run off the slope by which miners reach their working places from the surface.

On Oct. 29, six days after the bump, 12 miners were found alive and awaiting rescue.

The second miracle came on the ninth day, Nov. 1, when seven more men were found alive. But the bump had killed 74 others.

Company officials say they expect that No. 2 mine, like No. 4, will remain closed. (CP Newsmap.)

Jr., Int. Football Contenders Decided in East and West

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Canada's intermediate and junior football titles go on the block next weekend.

St. Francis Xavier University of Antigonish, N.S., goes against Fort William Redskins Saturday at the Lakehead city for the intermediate championship.

In the junior event Saskatoon Hilltops visit Montreal H.D.G. Maple Leafs Sunday.

The Nova Scotians took the eastern intermediate crown Saturday at Montreal by edging Montreal Lakeshore Alouette Flyers 27-26 in a thriller. Redskins toppled Victoria Oak Bay Drakes 19-7 at Victoria.

Both junior finalists won decisive victories in knocking off the last of the eastern and western opposition. Hilltops plowed under Edmonton Wildcats 36-0 Saturday at Saskatoon and Maple Leafs trimmed Toronto North York Knights 22-6 Sunday in Montreal.

EXCITING FINISH

Xavier won in the dying minutes when defensive end Hugh Husk stole the ball from Alouette quarter George Tassos and raced from the Alouette 25-yard line to score. The convert on a pass by quarter Ray Sommerville to end Dave Farrell was the winning point.

Xavier's Tom Delaney had two touchdowns and Ralph Hayes one. Ernie Foshay kicked two singles. Tassos and Hank Lapointe each scored two touchdowns for Montreal, with Tassos and Joe Pedicelli converting one each.

It was an old story at Victoria where Fort William eliminated Oak Bay from the title race for the fourth straight year.

Drakes, who went into the game a collection of cripples, had still hoped to end the jinx that has seen them finish also-runs to Fort William for four seasons. The game drew 500 spectators.

The home club struck first when Ken Higgs scored a touchdown and Pete Turko converted. Then Fort William took over and produced all the rest of the scoring. Bruno Grobelny and Larry Lychowyd had touchdowns and Eddie Krupka kicked two field goals on a convert.

Maple Leafs' crushing ground attack was too much for North York in a game marked by 15 fumbles, eight by Knights.

Vere Griffith, Bob Anderson and John Schaffer scored Leaf touchdowns. Anderson added two singles. Butch Montgomery kicked another and Bob Shink handled one convert.

The North York touchdowns was carried across by Jim Cockburn.

Saskatchewan had little trouble handling Edmonton's juniors before 1,000 admiring fans who braved 17-degree weather. Garnet McKee with two, George Wereszak and Bud Curtis were the touchdown men. Howard Kellough kicked a single and Jerry Duffus caught a pass for a convert.

Rochester Snaps Five-Game Losing Streak

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

There are all sorts of streaks going, ending and developing in the American Hockey League.

On the coattail side Rochester Americans snapped a five-game losing string Sunday night by beating Hershey Bears 5-1. Hershey has beaten Rochester 3-2 Saturday night in overtime.

Cleveland Barons won their first road game by knocking off Providence Reds 4-2 Sunday night. Barons started the weekend with a 3-1 victory over Buffalo Bisons.

The first-place Bisons lost fuel in a row for the first time this season when Springfield Indians took a 3-1 triumph Sunday night. Springfield had a weekend sweep with its 5-3 Saturday triumph over Providence.

AMERICAN'S BOLSTERED

Rochester, which had lost 10 of its last 11 games, was bolstered Sunday night by March Bonin from Montreal Canadiens and Gary Aldcorn from Toronto Maple Leafs of the National Hockey League. Aldcorn scored once and rookie Bill Carter picked up two goals for Rochester.

Defenceman Claude Labrosse and rookie Ted Gray scored the other Rochester goals. Larry Zeidel tallied for Hershey.

The Barons scored in every period in defeating Providence for their first road victory this season.

The Reds, dropping their fourth straight decision, took a 1-0 lead on defenceman Claude Gosselin's goal. But the Barons tied it when Don Ellgen clicked on a short at 14:48.

Defencemen George Robertson, Bob Barlow and Bob Bailey scored single goals for Barons. Larry Leach got the other Providence goal.

Ken Schinkel, the league's leading scorer, scored two goals and Jimmy Anderson accounted for the other goal for Indians. Bill Sweeney tallied for the Bisons.

Goalie Gamble Is Standout For Vancouver

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

One of the best gambles Vancouver Canucks took this year was on a goaltender — Bruce Gamble.

He came up with some great saves Sunday to help Canucks defeat New Westminster Royals 4-0 in a Western Hockey League game. It was the third shutout for Gamble.

The victory consolidated Canucks' hold on second place in the coast division.

The Royals defeated Spokane Flyers 7-5 Saturday night as Hugh Barlow scored four goals. Pat Hannigan had two goals for Royals. Flyers had a dismal weekend, following up their Saturday defeat with a 5-2 loss to Edmonton Flyers at home Sunday.

In other Saturday games Calgary Stampeders downed Victoria Cougars 5-1 and Seattle Totems trimmed Saskatoon Quakers 6-3.

By losing twice Spokane fell into last place in the coast division, one point behind New Westminster.

Second Game Of West Finals To Be Televised

TORONTO (CP) — The CBC says it will televise nationally next Wednesday's second game of the Western Interprovincial Football Union finals at Winnipeg between the Blue Bombers and the Edmonton Eskimos.

The telecast is scheduled to begin at 8 p.m. EST.

A CBC spokesman said if Winnipeg wins Wednesday to capture the best-of-three finals, next Saturday's Big Four final between the Ottawa Rough Riders and the Tiger-Cats at Hamilton will be televised coast to coast.

However, if Edmonton wins Wednesday, forcing a third game at Winnipeg Saturday, then the western section of the network will carry the WIFU game and the eastern section the Big Four final.

The Big Four telecast at Hamilton is to start at 12:56 p.m. EST.

If there is a third WIFU game, the CBC plans to carry nationally whatever remained of it after the eastern one was completed. The 41m.e difference between Hamilton and Winnipeg is one hour.

Teepees Moving To Wide Lead in Junior A Race

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

St. Catharines Teepees picked up another four points during the week to increase their record-widening Ontario Hockey Association Junior A lead, Toronto St. Michael's Majors kept fourth place Barrie Flyers 7-3 to grab fifth place.

Teepees are 11 points ahead of the pack and their record-setting Edwards are having a field day. The league's individual leader, Stan Mikita, picked up another goal in Saturday's 5-3 win over second-place Peterborough and team-mate Bob Maki, strong contender for the same honor, joined Ray Cullen to score two each in Sunday's 5-2 defeat of Toronto Marlboros.

Marlboros' loss dropped them into third place, one ahead of the last-place Hamilton Cubs. Peterborough stayed two-points ahead of third-place Oshawa.

Teepees started fast Saturday as Don Gross and Mikita scored against Peies early in the first period. Hugh McGonigle made it 3-1 in the final minutes of the period.

Fred Hills, playing his first game for Teepees after obtaining his release from Edmonton Oil Kings and Comso bumped St. Catharines to a 4-1 lead going into the third.

Vic Hadfield fired one for the hosts early in the third but the rest of the game belonged to Peies. Tom Clark and Bill Mahoney scored in seconds apart, but Teepees kept them out to take the game.

St. Catharines had a harder time Sunday but goaltender Dennis Dejordy blocked 23 Marlboro shots. Cullen scored two to take Teepes out in front in the second. Maki fired two more in the final while Jack Martin and Jim Marochie weres coring for Marlboros. Hills added the clincher.

Bruce Draper and Jack Costello had a leading hand in the St. Michael's victory, each with two goals and an assist. Dave Chambers, Darryl Sly and Gino Rebellato fired singles for the Majors. Wayne Haig, Gaetane Secours and Pierre Gagne answered for the Flyers.

Russians Come From Behind To Beat Kelowna Packers 4-3

MOSCOW (CP) — The visiting Kelowna Packers rested today before continuing their five-game exhibition hockey series in which a faster Russian team took a come-from-behind 4-3 victory in the opener Sunday.

The Russians had an early lead but the Canadians came back to lead the Central Sports Club of the Soviet defence industry 3-2. The Russians, many of them veterans of world and Olympic competition, scored the tying and winning goals in the final.

The second game will be played Tuesday.

The Canadians arrived here Friday after completing a three-game series in Sweden, where they also lost the first game but came back to win a pair.

A capacity crowd of 14,000 in Moscow's indoor sports palace saw Sunday's game.

RUSSIANS FASTER

Generally speaking the Russians were smaller but faster than the Canadians and outshot and outskated them.

Dave Gatherum, 25 - year - old Packers goalie held the Russians off until the ninth minute when Baulin scored on a snap pass from Pidorekov. Yuri Pastyukov scored for the Russias in the second period.

Then defenceman Yoon Sleczk of Carville, Alta., scored in the 11th minute and Moe Young of Regina tied the score two minutes later.

Russ Kowalchuk, a 200-pounder from Kelowna, put Canada in the lead 3-2 three minutes before the period ended.

ALEXANDROV NETS TWO

In the final minutes of the game Veniamin Alexandrov, youthful high-scorer for the Russians, came through with two straight goals to pull off the victory for Russia.

A Russian team toured Canada last year and in that series won five, lost two and tied one. Several members of the team here took part in that tour of Ontario and Quebec.
